COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1917 — 122nd of the General Assembly

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, JANUARY 2, 1917. No. 1.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, January 2, 1917, 12 O'Clock M.

This being the day and hour fixed by the Constitution for the meeting of the General Assembly, the members of the Senate, together with the Senators-elect chosen at the last general election held on November 7, 1916, assembled in the Senate chamber.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain) called the Senate to order at 12 o'clock noon.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, we recognize Thee as the Father of Lights in whom there is no variableness nor shadow of turning. We thank Thee for the long line of distinguished men who have served in this body and for the splendid laws that have been enacted. We pray Thy blessing upon those who are gathered here to deliberate with each other concerning matters that will affect the interest of the entire State of Pennsylvania. Grant that in sowing the seeds of legislation now, they may keep in mind at all times the reaping that is to come to this great Commonwealth. Be with the President of our Senate and with all its members and with the entire Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, we ask in our Saviour's name. Amen.

ADDRESS OF THE PRESIDENT.

The PRESIDENT. I express the sincere wish of my heart when I say, "May the New Year, upon which we are entering, have in store for each of you and yours abundant health, happiness and prosperity."

The General Assembly of Pennsylvania has again met, and it is undeniably a fact that a large element of our Commonwealth's citizenship, as a result of past experiences, look upon our meeting with more apprehension than satisfaction.

The United States Census reports tell us that during the past five years more than sixty thousand laws, other than appropriation measures, have been enacted by the Federal Congress and the Legislatures of the various States of the Union, and I make no exaggeration when I say that of this number Pennsylvania has contributed its full share.

In both Nation and State the surging tides of theoretical reform have fiercely beat about us. Along with the many useful laws promoting human rights and providing proper regulation of corporate power and corporate advantage, we have enacted a perfect horde of laws to regulate everybody and everything. We have had an overdose of the didactic, and to my mind the time has come to "throw in the reverse," particularly in application to laws and regulations discouraging industrial development and commercial expansions.

We should not be unmindful that the unparalleled prosperity which Pennsylvania at present is enjoying is abnormal, and must necessarily, in the natural course of events, be ephemeral. Burdens of taxation and regulation borne to-day with seeming ease will tax, perhaps over-tax, the bearer's ability to carry when normal conditions come about. Therefore, let us not make them heavier. Let us not do that which may ultimately "kill the goose that lays the golden egg;" instead let us inaugurate in this branch of the General Assembly, at least, "a closed season" for "business baiting." Let us keep in mind as well that we are met here as the servants of the people and not as the masters of the people. Partisan bigotry and factional bitterness should have no place in the performance of our duty. We should be Pennsylvanians, for Pennsylvania.

The founder of our Commonwealth, William Penn, tritely and wisely said "Governments depend upon men rather than men upon Governments. Let men be good and the Government cannot be bad. Though good laws do well, good men do better, for good laws may lack good men and be abolished or evaded by evil men, but good men will never lack good laws, nor suffer ill ones."

The people of Pennsylvania are suffering from "over-legislation" rather than from "too little legislation," and I can conceive of no more useful service that we can give at this session than to promptly, intelligently and effectively devote our energies to these enactments made necessary by increased urban population and changing conditions in municipal life, together with such enactments as are absolutely essential to social welfare, wage-earning and business opportunity. Having done these things it would seem to me to be the part of wisdom to repeal laws now on our statute books that have become obsolete and really are more honored in the breach than in the observance, and then amend the useful statutes enacted at recent sessions of the General Assembly in which experience has demonstrated errors and iniquities exist. After these achievements, which should not take long to accomplish, we can with propriety and good conscience "put up the shutters," turn the key in the lock, go back to our daily home occupations, and the people with heartfelt joy will say "Amen."

PRESENTATION OF RETURNS OF ELECTION OF SENATORS.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth being introduced, stated that pursuant to the provisions of the 87th section of the Act of July 2, 1839, entitled "An Act relative to elections in this Commonwealth," he presented to the Senate the returns of the election for Senators held on November 7, 1916.

FOR MR. WASBERS.

DeWitt,	Leiby,	Stewart,	Warner,
Hackett,	Sassaman,	Tompkins,	Beidleman,
Hindman,	Sones,

The PRESIDENT. The tellers agree in their tally. The Honorable Edward E. Beidleman, having received thirty-seven votes, and the Honorable Henry Wasbers ten votes, I therefore declare the Honorable Edward E. Beidleman, of Dauphin County, duly elected President pro tempore of the Senate for the session of 1917, and I appoint the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Sproul, and the Senator from York, Mr. Wasbers, to escort the newly elected President pro tempore to the bar of the Senate to take the oath of office.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, your committee has the honor to present the newly elected President pro tempore of the Senate, the Honorable Edward E. Beidleman, who is prepared to take the oath of office.

SWEARING IN THE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE.

The PRESIDENT. The oath of office will be administered to the newly elected President pro tempore by the Honorable George Kunkel, President Judge of the Twelfth Judicial District.

The oath of office was accordingly administered.

The PRESIDENT. It is the pleasure of the Chair to now present to you your newly elected President pro tempore for the session of 1917, the Honorable Edward E. Beidleman, of Dauphin County, and I bespeak for him that courtesy and consideration which have become a tradition of the Pennsylvania Senate.

ADDRESS OF THE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, and members of the Senate: I deeply appreciate this honor which you have conferred upon me and I thank you for the confidence which you have reposed in me. I do not feel that it is the duty of a President pro tempore of the Senate to in any way suggest the nature of legislation that should be introduced or passed in a general assembly. What I believe to be the sentiment and opinion of the people of the district which I have the honor to represent I shall express from my seat on the floor of the Senate. I feel it is the duty of the President pro tempore of the Senate, as the presiding officer, to be fair, impartial, and just to every member of the Senate. I ask from you your earnest and hearty cooperation in our work and pledge you a performance of my duty in a faithful and impartial manner to every member of the Senate. I again thank you.

AUTHORIZING APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEES.

The Private Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communications in writing from his Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which were laid on the table.

HOUSE MESSAGE.

INAUGURAL PARADE.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives, being introduced, presented extract from the journal of the House of Representatives, which was twice read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 2, 1917.

Whereas, The committee in charge of the Inaugural parade following the inauguration of the President of the United States, in Washington, D. C., on March fifth, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, have expressed a desire to have present a proper and fitting representation of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, to participate in said parade, Therefore,

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Governor of the Commonwealth be authorized to provide for participation in the Inaugural parade at Washington, D. C., by the Commander-in-Chief and Staff and not exceeding one brigade of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, and further,

Resolved, That the Adjutant General of Pennsylvania is authorized to pay from an appropriation to be made for the purpose, all expenses incident thereto, which shall include transportation, quarters, subsistence of troops at rate of one dollar per day for each officer and enlisted man for not exceeding two days, and such other incidental expenses as may be necessary; and for all such expenditures the Adjutant General be required to file specifically itemized vouchers.

Mr. SONES. Mr. President, I move that Rule 39, which requires concurrent resolutions to be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended, and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

Mr. HACKETT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

GOVERNOR'S BIENNIAL MESSAGE.

Almighty God, we thank Thee that Thou art the founder of governments and preserver of nations. Thou art the ruler of the State and the protector of its citizens. Thou art omnipotent in power and infinite in wisdom. Thou art God and beside Thee there is none other.

We, as representative men to-day plead with Thee for power and wisdom to administer the affairs of the State justly and to legislate wisely for the best interests of this Commonwealth.

And Thy great name shall have all the honor and the praise, we ask for Christ's sake. Amen.

THE SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH PRESENTS RETURNS OF ELECTION OF MEMBERS.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth being introduced stated that pursuant to the provisions of the eighty-eighth section of the Act of July 2, 1839, entitled "An Act relative to elections in this Commonwealth," he presented to the House of Representatives the returns of the election for members held on November 7, 1916, which were laid upon the table.

OPENING OF RETURNS.

Mr. WOODWARD offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

Resolved, That the returns of the election be now opened and read.

The said returns were opened and read as follows:

The CHIEF CLERK. Two hundred and four members having answered to their names, a quorum is present. The House is now ready to proceed to business.

JUDGE TO ADMINISTER OATH OF OFFICE.

Mr. SWARTZ, a member-elect, offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Hon. S. J. M. McCarrell, a Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County, learned in the law, be requested to administer the oath required to be taken by the members of the House of Representatives.

ADMINISTRATION OF OATH OF OFFICE TO MEMBERS ELECT.

The CHIEF CLERK. The members-elect will present themselves before the bar of the House, where the oath of office, as required by law, will be administered to them by the Hon. S. J. M. McCarrell, a Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County.

The oath of office was then administered to the members-elect present.

ELECTION OF SPEAKER.

Mr. MILES A. MILLIRON offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

Resolved, That in accordance with the provisions of Article II, Section 9, of the Constitution the House now proceed to the election of a Speaker, and that the clerks act as tellers.

NOMINATIONS FOR SPEAKER.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Clerk and Gentlemen of the House of Representatives: Three score and three years ago, in a modest home nestling among the trees of a Chester County farm, located on the banks of the historic Brandywine, a son was born. The chief asset of this birth was not the inheritance of houses and lands; nay, nor of silver or gold, but rather a parentage whose life was controlled by principles of integrity and sterling worth. As this young man grew to a school age, he attended school in the little red schoolhouse close by the farm, and circumstances denied him a college education. When he had completed his work in the nearby academy, founded by his worthy ancestry, his school days, so far as an organized school was concerned, were ended. But this was the kind of a young man to whom life was a school, and as he left the threshold of that academy and went out into the world his great soul feeling the vibration of the activities about him, he yearned for larger learning and larger qualifications so as to take his place and do the work of a man in his community and in his Commonwealth. Not only did he grow in stature, but as he grew in stature he grew in the esteem of those who knew him best and finally that esteem found expression in their having called him from private life to serve them in a public capacity. For twenty-two years he was repeatedly elected to public office, never having been defeated by his own people. Sixteen years of that period was spent in this Legislative Hall. Six years of that period was spent in the office of Recorder of Deeds in his own county.

Conspicuous in the magnificent picture that adorns the south wall of this splendid Hall is the Honorable Thaddeus Stevens, a man who made the county that I have the honor to represent, great. What was it in the life of Thaddeus Stevens that enabled him to reflect credit, not only upon himself but upon the county in which he lived? It was the fact that he was a man who had the courage of his convictions and was never afraid to do his duty as he saw it, and yet he was the kind of a man to whom reason could always appeal. It is that kind of a man that I have honor and pleasure in presenting to you to-day for the high honor of Speaker, to preside over the deliberations of this Legislative Body during the ensuing session.

It affords me pleasure, gentlemen, to present the name of Honorable Richard J. Baldwin, of Delaware County.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Clerk and members of the House. In rising at this time I do so for the purpose of exemplifying and manifesting to the members of this Body that in the western part of this great Commonwealth we, who sat in the caucus last night, and I, who was one of its minority, do heartily second the nomination, and it affords me great pleasure at this time to second the nomination to the most exalted position as Speaker of this Assembly. I therefore second the nomination of the Honorable Richard J. Baldwin, of Delaware County.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Clerk and members of the House: I have been delegated by the Democratic Caucus to place in nomination the gentleman selected unanimously by that body as their candidate for Speaker of the House. I am glad to hear so many kind words spoken of my friend and colleague, Mr. Baldwin. I had heard so many reports about him to the contrary during the past few weeks that I had begun to doubt his virtue. Now, all the good that has been said about him can be said about our candidate also and in addition to that we may add that he is a Democrat. I will nominate the Honorable Wilson G. Sarig, of Berks County.

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. Mr. Clerk and members of the House. I rise to second the nomination that you have just heard made by the gentleman from Elk, the Honorable Wilson G. Sarig for Speaker of the House.

The CHIEF CLERK. Are there any other nominations?

Mr. McARDLE. Mr. Clerk, I move that nominations do now close.

Mr. LAFFFERTY. Mr. Clerk, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The CHIEF CLERK. The clerks will call the roll. The candidates are Richard J. Baldwin and Wilson G. Sarig. The members will respond by stating the name of the candidate they desire to be recorded for, and rise in voting. The clerks will act as tellers.

The vote was then taken as follows:

The CHIEF CLERK. The tellers agree in their count, and the vote cast by the members is as follows: Honorable Richard J. Baldwin received 167 votes; Honorable W. G. Sarig received 37 votes.

Honorable Richard J. Baldwin having received the majority of all the votes cast is declared Speaker of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania for the session of 1917.

The CHIEF CLERK. I will appoint the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Cox, and the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Sarig, as a committee to escort the newly elected Speaker to the chair.

Whereupon,

Mr. Baldwin was escorted to the bar of the House by Messrs. Cox and Sarig.

The CHIEF CLERK. Gentlemen of the House, I have the honor of presenting to you the Honorable Richard J. Baldwin, Speaker-elect of the House of Representatives. (Applause.)

The oath of office will now be administered to the Speaker-elect.

SWEARING IN THE SPEAKER.

The oath of office was then administered to Honorable Richard J. Baldwin, Speaker-elect of the House of Representatives by the Hon. S. J. M. McCarrell, additional law judge of the Twelfth Judicial District.

ADDRESS OF THE SPEAKER.

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives:

No man could be insensible of the great honor of being chosen to preside over the larger branch of the law-making body of this great Commonwealth. I appreciate thoroughly the high distinction shown to the county which I represent and the personal confidence reposed in me. That my election should come after a rare contest makes me prize it all the more, for it indicates a healthy appreciation by the membership of the House of the importance and responsibility of the place with which you have trusted me. I will not burden you with a long declaration of principles and purposes, but I will say that I realize, as we all must, that we have a sacred duty to perform, and that we must all join together for the greatest good to the eight millions of people whom we represent in this great empire of a State. For myself I will pledge fairness, courtesy and full attention to my duty, and I hope to receive the same from by colleagues in the House. We will now get down to business with "economy and efficiency" as our watchword, and with the guidance of Almighty God, make this session memorable for its good works for the people of the State.

NOTIFICATION OF THE SENATE.

Mr. WHITAKER offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to wait upon the Senate and inform that body that the House of Representatives is now organized and ready to proceed to business.

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints Messrs. Ramsey, Dunn and Flynn as said committee.

SENATE MESSAGE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, as follows:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to act in conjunction with a similar committee on the part of the House of Representatives (if the House of Representatives shall appoint such committee) to wait upon His Excellency the Governor, and inform him that the General Assembly is organized and ready to receive any communications which he may be pleased to make and has appointed Messrs. Vare, Burke and Stewart as said committee on part of the Senate.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

Said resolution was twice read, considered and concurred in.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE.

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints Messrs. Cox, Stern and Rininger as said committee.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

ELECTION OF THE CHIEF CLERK AND THE RESIDENT CLERK.

Mr. WOODWARD offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to.

Resolved, That the House of Representatives do now go into the nomination and election of a Chief Clerk and a Resident Clerk of the House of Representatives for the session of 1917.

Mr. WOODWARD offered the following resolution and moved its adoption, which was read as follows:

Resolved, In order that the business of the House of Representatives may be conducted without delay that we now proceed to the election of a Chief Clerk, and a Resident Clerk, and that Thomas H. Garvin, of Sharon Hill, Delaware County, be elected Chief Clerk and W. S. Leib, of Pottsville, Schuylkill County, be elected Resident Clerk of the House of Representatives as provided for by law.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following as a substitute resolution and move its adoption.

The substitute resolution was read as follows:

For Chief Clerk, Fred W. Flohm, of Allentown, Lehigh County, Pennsylvania, and for Resident Clerk, A. F. Fix, of York, York County, Pa.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the substitute resolution?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the original resolution?

It was agreed to.

OATH OF OFFICE ADMINISTERED TO THE CHIEF CLERK AND RESIDENT CLERK.

The Chief Clerk and the Resident Clerk presented themselves before the bar of the House and the oath of office, as required by law, was administered to them by the Speaker.

APPOINTMENT OF ASSISTANT RESIDENT CLERK.

The Resident Clerk announced the appointment of I. Dale Meals as Assistant Resident Clerk.

OATH OF OFFICE ADMINISTERED TO ASSISTANT RESIDENT CLERK.

The Assistant Resident Clerk presented himself at the bar of the House and the oath of office, as required by law, was administered to him by the Speaker.

NOTIFICATION OF SENATE'S ORGANIZATION.

Messrs. Shantz, W. W. Smith and Hackett, a Committee from the Senate, being introduced, informed the House of Representatives that the Senate was duly organized and ready to proceed with business, and were extended the thanks of the House.

ADOPTION OF RULES OF HOUSE.

Mr. Rinninger offered a resolution, which was read as follows:

Resolved, That until otherwise ordered the rules of the House of Representatives of the session of one thousand nine hundred and fifteen be adopted for the government of the House during the present session.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. CANON. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following amendment to the resolution and move its adoption.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

"Resolved, That the rules of the last House with the following substitutions and amendments be adopted as the rules of this House:

That the sentence in Rule 5 of the last House, which reads as follows: "The Speaker shall appoint the members of Standing, Select and Conference Committees unless otherwise ordered by the House," be stricken out and that there be substituted therefor the following:

"The House shall elect the members of all Standing and Select Committees. The representation of each party on each committee shall be in the proportion which its membership bears to the total membership of the House. The said representation shall be selected by each party in such manner as it shall by its rules determine; said selection to be approved by the House. Each committee shall organize by electing its own officers. The Speaker shall immediately after his election announce the proportion of representation to which each party is entitled on each of said committees. The Conference Committee shall be appointed by the Speaker.

That Rule 63 of the last House which reads as follows: "A committee of five shall be appointed by the Chair, which together with the Speaker ex-officio, shall constitute a committee on rules, and shall report to the House from time to time, rules for the government thereof, and amendments to such rules; said committee shall be privileged to report at any time, and said report shall be adopted by a majority vote." be stricken out and the following substituted therefor:

"63. A committee of five shall be elected by the House in the manner herein before provided for the selection of Standing Committees. The Committee shall report to the House from time to time rules for the government thereof and amendments to such rules and said committee shall be privileged to report at any time, and said report shall be adopted by a majority vote.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say that every deliberate body should control its own deliberations. We as a minority party feel that we should be entitled to select our own representation on the committees. This is in line with the rules that have been adopted by the National House of Representatives at Washington some years ago. There was a great deal of objection all over the United States against what were known as the old Cannon Rules, and this substitute is in line with what has been adopted by the National Congress. We believe that as a minority party we should be entitled to select our own members on the various committees. We think that every element of a deliberate body should be entitled to control its own membership. I ask therefore to have them adopted. We believe that it is only a matter of fair play, and that it is something that is due to us. We believe we are justly entitled to it and we ask the fair consideration of the House on its adoption.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. Speaker, I move that these amendments be laid on the table.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

PROVIDING FOR REPRESENTATION OF NATIONAL GUARD IN PRESIDENTIAL INAUGURAL PARADE.

Mr. FLYNN asked and received unanimous consent to offer a resolution, which was read as follows:

Whereas, The Committee in charge of the Inaugural parade following the inauguration of the President of the United States in Washington, D. C., on March fifth, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, have expressed a desire to have present a proper and fitting representation of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, to participate in said parade, Therefore,

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Governor of the Commonwealth be authorized to provide for participation in the Inaugural parade at Washington, D. C., by the Commander-in-Chief and staff and not exceeding one Brigade of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, and further;

Resolved, That the Adjutant General of Pennsylvania is authorized to pay from an appropriation to be made for the purpose. All expenses incident thereto, which shall include transportation, quarters, subsistence of troops at rate of one dollar per day for each officer and enlisted man for not exceeding two days, and such other incidental expenses as may be necessary; and for all such expenditures the Adjutant General be required to file specifically itemized vouchers.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. FLYNN Mr. Speaker, this resolution is in line with the action of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania of four years ago to provide for the participation of the State of Pennsylvania, and her troops in the inauguration of the President of the United States, and inasmuch as a similar resolution was adopted at that time I offer it now early in the session, so that the proper state officials will have time to make such arrangements as they may desire to participate in the inauguration.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

RESOLUTION TO INVESTIGATE CHARGES.

Mr. SARIG offered the following resolution, which was twice read and laid over under the rules.

Whereas, Boies E. Penrose, Senior United States Senator of Pennsylvania, has publicly charged that certain attempts to influence members of the Legislature by promises of appointment of persons to office and by threats of dismissal of others from public office was intimidation, coercion and bribery warranting action by a Grand Inquest, and,

Whereas, The said Penrose has further been quoted by the press of the State as having said, "In my opinion the people of the State will be astonished when the extravagance, absenteeism, misappropriation of funds, political coercion and intimidation and other scandalous conditions are exposed" and

Whereas, The said Penrose has given out a statement which has been published throughout the State, as follows: "Mr. Brown has always been paid handsomely in a professional way for his services by contractors and corporations. He has received many thousands of dollars from the State of Pennsylvania through the channels of the Auditor General's office in the way of special employments, in a way that has threatened scandal and has been frequently resented by those who protested against his extravagant demands. These fees are not easily ascertained from an examination of the reports of the Auditor General, because they are covered up under the designation of attorney fees, but at an early opportunity, doubtless, the vouchers will be required and will show that several thousands of dollars have been paid Mr. Brown and his associates, often for nominal work. In the case of the Revenue Commission, to which reference has been made, his charge for professional services was some $50,000 more or less, which the Commission grudgingly was induced to pay him.

Mr. Brown has never participated in the councils of the Republican Party except as an attorney for some one, and his appearance before a Republican audience in a campaign would be greeted with derision all of which refers to one Francis Shunk Brown, Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and

Whereas, The said Penrose has in like manner publicly charged that the Public Service Commission has been and is using its powers and the functions and prerogatives and powers of its members for the purposes of political intimidation and corruption and has given out a statement which has been published throughout the State as follows: "The business interests all over the State of Pennsylvania are disturbed and irritated over the way the public service commission is being conducted. The law provides that no member of the commission shall be a candidate for office, and it was clearly the intention of the law that the commission keep out of politics. It is a judicial body almost as important in scope and power as any judicial body in the State.

"Notwithstanding the purpose of the law and the evident propriety that should be observed, many of the commission are giving more time to politics than to their official duties. The investigation will disclose that many disreputable persons are being carried on the roll of the commission and practically do no work at all. On account of the absenteeism of some of the commission, and for other reasons, consideration of applications before the commission is postponed to a scandalous degree.

"The business interests cannot even get a hearing in many cases, and important business enterprises are held up and delayed in consequence. Within my own knowledge applications have been held up as a means of political intimidation and coercion.

"It is a significant fact, capable of a number of interesting conclusions and surmisals, that more than 90 per cent. of all cases which have come before the commission have been represented by one, or at most by two, attorneys under the present administration. These attorneys were the subservient tools of the State administration and in close proximity to the office of the Attorney General. The suggestive activities of the firm of Simpson, Brown and Williams, who have developed a remarkable facility in appearing on all sides in litigation, will make interesting reading when the facts are fully disclosed, and compiled, as will soon occur.

"The situation has been so repugnant and flagrant that when disclosed in all its details it will appall the public and the legislature will, undoubtedly, demand a change in the constitution of the public service commission" and,

Whereas, Francis Shunk Brown, Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has publicly charged that bribery was resorted to in the recent speakership contest and has given out the following statement: "Cox is the candidate of the forces led by Governor Brumbaugh, which seek to lead Pennsylvania and her citizens to greater and better things. Baldwin is the candidate of the forces led by Jos. R. Grundy of which State Senator Wm. C. Sproul, T. Larry Eyre and Senator Penrose are the servitors and which seek to deliver the state back into the control of special privilege.

"The Grundy forces, working through Penrose and the other Grundy political servitors, are employing in this contest their usual methods of defamation and slander. Let me remind the men who have lived all their lives in political and other glass houses that now is no time to throw stones. The people of our state have been used for years by these men and their kind, all of them under the whip of a few money interests. For the honor of the State, such a condition should not be paraded, but for myself I do not intend to let pass unresented the scurrilous attacks upon the Administration by men who have not the civic spirit to create, but who are ever ready and willing for sake of political and financial advantage to destroy.

"If Senator Penrose wishes to investigate and enlighten our people I will help him, and the record of him and his allies, from my knowledge will raise such a stench that the people will have little nose for aught else. I have long kept silent upon the past of some of these men, who though guilty of all the crimes in the political calendar, are now quick to attack; but if the time should now be ripe, I can tell a real story.

"Let me say to the people of Pennsylvania that all of these insinuations about the Administration bribing members of the Legislature to vote for Mr. Cox are vicious falsehoods and known to be so by those who utter them, but I do know that there is no limit to the desperation of the methods employed by those who seek the defeat of Mr. Cox and who know that their fight is a losing one.

"No later than last Sunday one of these men who is now so loudly proclaiming against bribery by the Administration and who threatens an investigation was overheard telephoning from the Union League to 'get' a certain member of the House for Baldwin, 'no matter what the cost.'

"Let me emphasize the fact that Penrose, Sproul, Eyre and their like are but tools in this contest. The real leader of the elements that seek to place Baldwin in the Speaker's chair is Jos. R. Grundy, Chief Lobbyist against humanitarian legislation. Baldwin's election means control of the Legislature by Grundy and a certain attack upon the humane and social legislation passed two years ago. Penrose is for Baldwin because he has to be. Baldwin is the Grundy hand-picked candidate and Penrose must go where Grundy directs.

"It was common rumor about the Capitol during the last session of the Legislature that Grundy and his associates had raised a large sum of money to aid in the election of Penrose to the United States Senate and that the reward was to be the defeat of the Brumbaugh program of progressive legislation. Governor Brumbaugh was too strong for the Grundy forces and the legislation was enacted. Penrose was unable to make good to Grundy then Baldwin's election would furnish a vehicle by which he would try to make good at the coming session. "Everybody understands why T. Larry Eyre, Chester County leader is supporting the Baldwin candidacy. His railroad contracting relations have put him in the Baldwin camp. I have been informed that Mr. Eyre has guaranteed to deliver three votes for Baldwin from Chester County—Captain Samuel A. Whitaker, Maris M. Hollingsworth and Harry C. Graham, for myself I do not believe that he can do this any more than do the voters of Chester County so believe.

"Senator Sproul charges the administration with having caused financial chaos. This statement is not only pure wanton falsehood, but I am astounded that Senator Sproul, in view of his legislative record, had the hardihood to utter it. Senator Sproul was a member of two legislative commissions to define ways and means for increasing the revenue of the State. A report was made to the Legislature and Senator Sproul signed that report recommending that certain legislation be enacted. These bills were referred to the Senate Committee on Finance of which Sproul was chairman. In spite of this report, Sproul deliberately smothered these bills in his committee, even though one of them was intended to raise revenue for the building of good roads, of which Sproul had long been avowed champion in the open, and the work would have been done under an act which bore his name, "and

Whereas, The said Brown has made further and additional charges involving one William C. Sproul, for many years a member of the Senate of Pennsylvania, and Chairman of its Finance Committee, as follows: "I think my statement of Monday fairly well informed the public of the issue in this speakership contest, but as the only answers he makes to my charges of the baleful forces supporting Baldwin is to credit me as a lawyer with having received large fees from the State, I might add, as matter of further enlightenment, that these fees were charged for services covering four years of service for two legislative commissions for the revision of the revenue and corporation laws of this Commonwealth.

"Senator Sproul was a member of both commissions. It held sessions throughout the State and obtained the opinions and sentiment of our people respecting the State revenues and the proper subjects of taxation. I repaired two reports, both of which Senator Sproul approved, and which were printed and signed and distributed with much expense throughout the State, the recommended subjects for taxation, etc., etc., and I prepared proposed acts of Assembly to carry their recommendations into effect. I labored with two Legislatures to have them passed.

"Senator Sproul was Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee during all this time, and could, if he would, have aided some of these beneficial measures to adoption, but he refused, notwithstanding my repeated and urgent requests so to do. The reason was that he was financially interested in the subjects which in the reports he had recommended to be passed, and personal interests tied his hands and silenced his voice.

"During the last session he was a member of the steering committee of the Senate and House to confer from time to time with the Governor in aid of good legislation. He was the consistent opponent of all measures providing for additional revenue, even though part of it was to build roads which he had bound the State to construct and for which there was not only a public demand, but a public clamor" and,

Whereas, The said William C. Sproul has made grave and serious charges against the said Brown, which are, "Well, I have been expecting that the matter intrignant would find himself forced into the fray to support a weak kneed cause. There are one or two things he has mentioned which really deserve mention. The first is regarding Mr. Baldwin's attitude toward so-called humanitarian legislation. I will answer for that, for I know his views. Mr. Baldwin and his friends will resist any attempt to weaken these measures, and no thought of anything in that direction has ever entered the mind of any of those active in Mr. Baldwin's behalf. Mr. Baldwin, moreover, will resist any further attempts to divert the administration of these measures for partisan gain or personal profit.

"As for the Revenue Commission of which the arch-intrignant speaks, the principal record left by that commission will be found in the enormous expense bills paid to its counsel, no less an individual than the Hon. Francis Shunk himself. I think that an examination of the account as filed by him, will show that fully seventy-five per cent. of all the money appropriated by the Legislature to that Commission reached Francis Shunk in fees, which members of the commission thought were mighty steep but which the estute counsel asserted he had earned" and,

Whereas, William C. Vare, for many years a member of the State Senate of Pennsylvania, and prominent in the political life of the State in general and the City of Philadelphia in particular, has in like manner made certain serious and grave charges in part as follows: "In so far as the humanitarian legislation is concerned, namely the child labor law, workmen's compensation and other measures designed for the benefit of our working boys and girls, as well as adults, I repeat Mr. Grundy and a few other manufacturers, backed by Penrose, not only opposed it to the limit at the last session of the Legislature, but at every session in my time, and I went there in 1896.

"If Mr. Penrose wants an investigation, let him investigate what was common rumor around the State Senate two years ago—that the Penrose organization had received large sums of money from Grundy and his associates, with the distinct understanding that there would be no legislation in favor of the working classes, including women and children. Many of the Penrose Senators gave me that reason for their inability to support the child labor bill when I was canvassing for their votes.

"It is a late day for Mr. Penrose to complain about Attorney General Brown when it is well known that he was the close adviser of Penrose, Durham and McNichol for twenty-five years, and Mr. Brown withdrew of his own volition because of the underhand methods of Penrose," and

Whereas, These gentlemen have been closely and intimately connected with the affairs, matters and things of which they have assumed to speak, and doubtless base their assertions on matters within their personal knowledge and speaking truthfully and accurately, and

Whereas, The condition shown to exist by their disclosures is disgraceful to the Commonwealth, discreditable to her citizens, and demoralizing, corrupt, debauched and depraved, and,

Whereas, The disgrace, discredit and infamy of this condition can only be remedied, removed and obliterated by wiping out and destroying the conditions thus existing, and,

Whereas, it is necessary, to accomplish this end, that there shall be a full complete, comprehensive, free and impartial investigation of the said charges and conditions,

Therefore, Be it Resolved,

1st.—That a committee consisting of six members of this House be appointed to investigate all and singular the said charges and the implications and intendment thereof, and all matters, facts, circumstances and things directly or indirectly connected therewith,

2nd.—That all hearings conducted by the said committee shall be open to the public and that the said committee subpoena or otherwise cause to appear before it and to testify of and concerning the matters and things involved directly or indirectly in the said charges: The Hon. Boies Penrose, the Hon. Francis Shunk Brown, the Hon. Edwin S. Vare, The Hon. William C. Sproul, The Hon. Chas. A. Snyder and any and all other persons who may have or appear to have knowledge concerning the premises or to be able to furnish any information concerning them or any of them.

3rd.—That the said committee shall consist of six members of this House, shall be elected by the vote of this House, and shall consist of two members who supported Mr. Cox for Speaker, two members who supported Mr. Baldwin for Speaker and two Democratic members.

HOURS OF MEETING.

Mr. McCAIG offered the following resolution, which was twice read and agreed to:

Resolved, That until otherwise ordered the sessions of the House shall commence at ten o'clock ante meridian.

THANKING JUDGE McCARRELL FOR ADMINISTERING OATHS.

This in effect makes the receipts of that Fund to May 31, 1917, available for General purposes and amounts mentioned in this statement as belonging to the Motor Fund and set aside for a specific purpose include only the estimated receipts of that Fund from June 1st, 1917, to May 31st, 1919.

MESSAGE OF THE GOVERNOR.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, January 2, 1917.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In compliance with the law I beg to make report to you of the administration of the business of this Commonwealth and to suggest such matters for your consideration as experience and a study of the needs of our Commonwealth seem to require.

Since last you met, the business of this Commonwealth has been carefully, economically and conscientiously attended to. The several departments have been devoting their best efforts to serve in compliance with law the whole people. The funds you appropriated, less the amounts deducted by the Executive in order to keep the total appropriation within our revenues, have been devoted to the purposes you directed and the heads of the several departments have in general rendered a commendable service to our people. It may be safely stated that the business of the people has received most prompt and cabale attention. We have steadily held to the ideal that government should be an agency of service. We have given much time to the important matter of knowing at first hand the needs of our eight millions of people. These needs are multiform and exceedingly complex. Our people have developed so many and so varied fields of endeavor that the task of meeting in an effective way the needs of our great citizenry is an arduous one. To do this service many departments are by the Assembly set up in the administrative work of the Commonwealth and the task of co-ordinating and interrelating these departments is increasingly difficult.

This increase in the complexity of administrative service has been studied by our Economy and Efficiency Board, together with many groups of influential and thoughtful citizens who have the welfare of our people at heart, and many helpful and suggestive plans have been formulated to aid in making for a larger degree of effective service.

Our greatest asset is our people. That they may be kept in health, properly housed wisely educated, happily employed, morally safeguarded and spiritually free are essentials to every great enterprise that they may in the future undertake. Whatever laws or administrative agencies operate in Pennsylvania must secure the largest measure of social justice and give the loftiest humanitarian guidance and support to our people. The prosperity of our whole population is our holiest concern. We cannot be indifferent to the cry of the helpless infant, to the needs of the remotest child, to the rights of the humblest individual. The encircling concern of the government must embrace with impartial care all our people, and the ultimate aim should be the development of that finest fruit of government—the spirit of good will and of cordial co-operation in which each plans for all and all plan for each.

We guarantee in the most sacred covenant—our Constitution—"peace, safety and happiness," to all within our borders. I shall be happy to co-operate with you at all times in securing for our people such laws and no others as will make real in a definite way this sacred obligation to our people.

To achieve in a commanding way the greatest good for our citizens will require at your hands and mine lofty patriotism, enlightened vision of our possibilities and opportunities, and an unswerving devotion to the welfare of the people of Pennsylvania.

I wish again to record my opinion that we are over-lawed. We cannot cure our social, political and economic ills alone by statutes. We must address ourselves to the vastly more important duty of educating our people into an increasing love for liberty, respect for law, and devotion to our national spirit. The quality of our life is the assured measure of our strength and efficiency. We must never harm some for the advancement of others. We must sit in the councils of the State solely to secure righteous issues and to safeguard our common good against sordid or narrow-minded or selfish or banal influences and agencies whose secret purpose is to use the government for unworthy and unfair ends instead of serving the government for the welfare of the Commonwealth and the uplift and advancement of her citizens. We have outgrown many enactments. We are prone to enact many more that we shall speedily outgrow. The remedy is to repeal much that is no longer helpful and to enact only those that are so clearly humane and equitable and just as to ensure their permanency in the guidance of our people and in the unfolding of a steadily advancing Commonwealth. When laws check or cheat a people's legitimate advance they should be repealed and none like them enacted. I urge you, therefore, as the conservators of the people, to scrutinize all proposed legislation with care and enact only the few vitally necessary measures that will unquestionably promote the welfare of our great people.

From a careful study of our needs and a wide canvass of our people's wishes I am constrained to urge upon you certain matters of moment and to request that they be given the thoughtful consideration which their importance may to you seem proper and necessary.

NATURAL RESOURCES AND THEIR DEVELOPMENT.

Pennsylvania topographically is unique. Her great rivers pay no homage to her mighty mountains. They sweep unchecked and directly to the sea, carving a landscape so rich, so varied, so beautiful that it may be fairly said that ours is the scenic state of the Republic, and our people love it. The Divine Spirit wrought with beauty in his soul and happiness in his heart when he carved from the void this wonderful, this glorious land. Here he stored with bounteous blessings unmeasured good. Our natural resources are rich and varied beyond immagination of man. We must make all this contribute in the loftiest way to the well-being of the people now here and to those who in the endless procession of time shall walk our ways after us. Moreover, the prevailing winds and the proximity of mountain and sea give us annually copious railfall which ought to be husbanded and refined into all possible good. We have taken away the great forests, symbolic of our name. We have allowed this natural reservoir of our rains all too speedily to be replaced with fire-swept wastes that add to the menace of our people and our industries, and that leave arid what might otherwise be fertile reaches of great productiveness. Instead of a steady and dependable flow of water in our streams we have the destructive flood and famished land. The toll of life and property is increasily heavy and we have not applied "safety first" principles to our conservation problem.

I should like to see this Legislature take the initial steps in a great constructive service to our people:

(a) By providing for a topographical and geological survery of our State.

(b) By taking the initiative in impounding flood waters and securing a steady flow thoughout the season for the benefit of our people and of our industries.

(c) By securing at the source of our streams largely increased areas of water-sheds from which to obtain potable water for our increasing millions.

(d) By inquiring into the feasibility of irrigation and the supplying at minimum cost of water power at its source to the great utility and industrial agencies that would welcome this power and that would distribute it for the welfare of our people.

(e) By beginning now the construction of some of these great reservoirs such as the Pymatuning Dam and others in the Allegheny range.

(f) By considering freely and fairly the utilization of our waterways as the basis of great systems of water transportation such as prevail in many of the most advanced industrial communities of the world.

(g) By planting on our forest reserves seedlings that will in time give our people the protection and the revenue a forest will assuredly give.

(h) By organizing upon a scale commensurate with its importance the force that has to do with the prevention of forest fires, the protection of game and fish and the encouragement of our people to live a part of each year out under the sky, near to nature, upon lands made rich in welcome and beneficence to our people.

(i) By computing the decrease in our mineral resources and determining our obligation to posterity in the taxation wisely to be laid now upon this diminishing asset of our people.

(j) By co-operating with the national government and local municipalities to make our navigable streams heavy with the traffic from our mills and mines, our forges and factories, thus linking Pennsylvania industry directly with the world markets.

(k) By encouraging great industries to establish themselves in increasing numbers in Pennsylvania with the assurance that the Commonwealth will by its constructive service make this increasingly the greatest industrial commonwealth in the Union.

(l) By making liberal provision for our farmers and farm life to the end that it will be increasingly attractive and re-remunerative to till our soil, to grow our food, to make life in rural places as wholesomely attractive and educative as a wise people should.

(m) By increasingly liberal provision for education and equalizing its benefits to all our children.

(n) By safeguarding public health and decreasing the ravages of disease and the loss by premature death in this [illegible].

(o) By demanding that the cost of production shall include reasonable compensation for death or accident and such additional elements of relief as industry can support and as social justice may make manifest from time to time.

(p) And in general, by laying now deep and well the foundation for a realizable good to our people.

We cannot lay all this lightly aside with the unreflective thought that it is visionary and impracticable. It is really possible. It is within our attainment. It cannot, of course, all be done now. But it can be accepted as a goal to which step by step in successive sessions covering many years we can finally arrive. I ask only that the whole subject be thoroughly considered and such beginnings made as will prove an earnest of purpose. It is essential to the welfare and future growth of the Commonwealth. Every wise husbandman, every sane corporation plans for the future and works steadily for the realization of its purposes. Why should not the Commonwealth? We are its responsible agents to-day. Others will follows us. What we do will in a definite way influence those that succeed us. What we fail to do complicates the duties of our successors and harms the Commonwealth. Let there be an end to sporadic, tentative and unprogressive enactments, and let us turn to the great duty of safeguarding and advancing the welfare of our people and the prestige of our beloved State.

LOCAL OPTION.

I have steadily stood for the enactment of a County Local option Law, and hope you share with me the importance of giving to the people the right to decide for themselves whether or not they wish to have licenses for the sale of intoxicants granted in their several counties. No delegated body can so well administer the license laws of the State as can the people themselves. In this proposition is the essence of our democracy. Have we not already had ample evidence of the unwisdom of our judiciary having this unwelcome task imposed upon it? What to-day is in many counties the controlling influence in the election of judges? It is this extra-judicial function. This is working increasing harm to these officials upon whom we have rested the final legal determination of the sacred rights of our people.

It should not be a political issue. The sooner our politics are rid of the license question the better for Pennsylvania. Every consideration looking to the good of our people impels me to urge upon you the enactment of a law that will permit the people under proper regulation to settle for themselves this vexed question. It will remain a source of increasing aggravation until it is settled and settled right. In view of the lessons taught by our recent elections throughout the nation, I am more than ever convinced that this Legislature should heed the will of the people and give the legislative relief so widely prayed for.

HUMANE LAWS.

The Commonwealth should at all times seek to enact only such laws as will conserve equal rights and complete justice for all persons in all stations of life. The Commonwealth should guarantee the right of all to maintain themselves, thus securing that virility and independence of character so essential to an advancing democracy. Any enactment that violates this sacred right should be steadily opposed. We should favor a gradual and reasonable reduction of the hours of labor and plan to make the leisure of our people a means of healthful, happy recreation and of educative uplift. If in your wisdom you can evolve a means of lessening poverty you will add to the humanity of the Commonwealth and enlarge the whole field of industry and social justice. The laws promotive of social justice enacted by the Assembly in 1915 have been put into operation to the good of our workers and to the general acceptance of the thoughtful men connected officially with our great industries. Many of our largest industrial and transportation agencies have for years maintained some form of relief in case of accident or death. These have found the new laws a help and have cordially accepted the action of the State in making general and uniform the humane treatment of workers. The Compensation Law for workmen, the Child Labor Law, the restriction of the hours of labor for women, the increased safeguarding of workers from accident, the establishment of free employment agencies, the protection of our food supply, and the continued activity in adjusting the differences arising between employer and employe by arbitration and mediation have all been cordially commended. These enactments should have time to work themselves fully into our industrial life and no drastic or radical changes or additions should be now made. Let labor by co-operation and good will help make it possible for our great industries to grow and develop and thus provide further relief to toilers. Let us be certain to do only that which will attract others to this State and which will ensure to all profitable employment. Manufacturing employs fully forty per cent. of our people. To maintain stable and just relation in industry is of the greatest moment to the

HOUSING CODE.

We are properly concerned in [illegible] our people. We have organized [illegible] and efficient Department of Health. We [illegible] and do maintain many institutions to care [illegible] ing and impaired people. [illegible] large sums to cure the suffering or to care for [illegible] when it is in our power to prevent much of [illegible] have long entertained the wish to see Pennsylvania [illegible] the lead in enacting a Housing Code that would [illegible] in some degree the type of house in which our people who toil must live and in which children are born and women must work. Surely the duty of the Commonwealth [illegible] guarantee a decent habitation for its people. [illegible] intention to urge any drastic or burdensome code I do [illegible] earnestly urge you to give the people a house [illegible] to live that sanitarily and environmentally will [illegible] health and happiness and not breed disease and [illegible] We are not Americanizing our new-coming [illegible] we allow them to live in what is often [illegible] spots" where they fail to obtain that home [illegible] tial to the making of a true American citizen.

FINANCES.

We have kept the expenses of government well [illegible] the amount provided by the Assembly. This has [illegible] difficult task in view of the greatly increased cost of [illegible] every item of purchase by the Commonwealth. Your Executive was obliged to disallow many items of appropriation which were wholly worthy but which in the aggregate exceed the income of the State. If the predictable revenues based upon present revenue laws it will be incumbent upon you to provide necessary revenues to pay the sums you authorize. It ought not be necessary for the Executive [illegible] responsibility and censure of denying worthy [illegible] of State-aid the full sum the Legislature gives them. [illegible] f the opinion that, with no hardship upon any one [illegible] add substantially to the income of the State and urge you to give the matter of raising revenues the greatest care and attention. It is not my function to find money to maintain the people's business; but it is my duty to insist that you make adequate provision to meet the expenditures you authorize. The Tax Commission in 1911 and in 1913 made reports of importance, and it may be that you will find therein set forth an equitable and practical means of placing our finances upon a basis that will insure the prompt payment of our obligations.

PUBLIC EDUCATION.

Under the School Code Pennsylvania is rapidly realizing her true place in the educational work of the Nation. This great enactment has in the main proven to be an adequate agency in banishing ignorance, in increasing the average intelligence of our people, in laying the foundations for good citizenship. The school has yet more to do. It must not only train our youth to live co-operatively for the good of society, but also to live competitively in our great industries. Vocational education should be added to liberal training. Both are essential. It is a source of satisfaction and a sign of true progress to note the establishment of agricultural and other vocational schools throughout the Commonwealth. We have recently had a new emphasis placed upon our educational system. If we are to be prepared in any adequate way as a nation to maintain peace and command respect we must train all our children speedily and effectively into the real spirit of Americanism. To do this, and do it well in an increasingly complex population, is an arduous but necessary duty. Our appropriations to the schools have not kept pace with the increase and complex quality of our school problem. The burden is falling increasingly heavy upon the local school districts to maintain an adequate school system. I urge you in justice to the whole spirit of our progress to appropriate nine millions of dollars per year for our public schools.

The continuation schools established for the children under sixteen at work in Pennsylvania have done good work and liberal provision should be made to maintain these special schools. They are in effect hand-maidens of industry and speedily fit these young toilers to give a more valuable service to industry and at the same time acquire the fundamental training for good citizenship.

The institutions of higher learning, liberal and professional, receiving financial aid from the State ought in some effective and practical way give to the people larger measurers of service. This most important matter—that of enabling the humblest citizen to have the help of the skilled professor, bringing the great gifts of research to the home of the citizen,—is one that should receive careful and considerate treatment.

The State Board of Education is following the unfolding of our educational system with care and will, as by law directed, submit to you suggestions of moment in advancing the welfare of our teachers, the improvement of our schools, and the progressive development of an educational policy worthy our great people.

HIGHWAYS.

The last Legislature appropriated three millions of dollars per year for maintenance and construction of State highways. It did not give in addition to this sum the fees obtained from the sale of automobile licenses. The license fees, almost equal in amount to the total sum given for highways, were included in and made part of the three million fund. These license fees have gone into the public treasury. They should have gone exclusively and promptly into maintenance of highways. That is the purpose of the license fee. It is what the people expect shall be done with the moneys thus received. I ask you to set aside the income from license fees as a separate fund to be used exclusively for maintenance upon the 10,200 miles of State highways. I also urge you in addition to this to appropriate six millions of dollars per year for new construction. The demand for better higways is State-wide and insistent. The people want good roads. They are willing to pay for them. Fully two years will elapse before a loan—if approved—can be negotiated and funds made available. We cannot wait two years to begin the serious work of building many miles of hard surfaced, dustless roads. The Highway Department is fully organized to enter upon the needed work and awaits only your favorable action upon the matter. The money will be economically and carefully applied to the erection of permanent roads throughout the State. I cannot too earnestly urge this reasonable demand of our people.

Toll roads no longer are a credit to Pennsylvania. We have taken over as speedily as possible those that could be purchased at a fair price and within the sum appropriated therefor I trust you will see your way to make a liberal appropriation for the removal of these antiquated and unsatisfactory burdens upon our people.

The State-aid highways should be developed as rapidly as the several counties will join in this work. There should be ample funds available to carry on co-operative work. It would be no credit to the State if local initiative were to exceed State provision for this work. There are evidences in many counties of a resolute purpose to impose heavy obligations to join with the State in building durable roads and surely the State is able and I hope willing to do its full share in this valuable service.

The township roads remain the large mileage of transportation for our people. They are in many places well maintained. In others they are not well maintained. The money paid by direct tax for roads in the several townships and boroughs is manifestly used for temporary repairs and each year the work must be repeated. Such a policy has no justification. The whole matter of local road supervision and construction requires radical treatment. A county unit plan may be the solution. At all events the vast sum paid to local supervisors and the money given by the State to aid in this work upon local roads ought to yield a larger return in good, serviceable, permanent highways. We ought to take note of the enterprise of our people in promoting good roads and in making contributions for those roads. Such genuinely helpful activity ought to be sufficient warrant to make the largest possible appropriation to the highway development in the State. The patrol system has been tried and found most economic and practical. It needs to be extended rapidly to cover all improved sections of our highways. It is my earnest wish to make our highways so attractive that our many miles of scenic splendor may be reached and enjoyed by our own people and by thousands of tourists who would be attracted here to their delight and to our advantage were we to make accessible the beauty of our State. The definite and practical value of these roads, especially to our farm life, cannot too strongly be set forth.

In many cases a State highway passes through an incorporated borough and it has come to my notice that some of these boroughs are unable to make their part of the trunk line as satisfactory for travel as is the highway outside these boroughs. Some boroughs have asked us to expend State funds to carry the improved highway over the borough street. This we are by law prevented from doing. I suggest that you take under advisement the wisdom of such change in the law as will permit the State funds to be used in whole or in part to make these great trunk line highways through the boroughs as satisfactory and as complete as the other parts of these trunk lines. I believe these boroughs would welcome this assistance and the traveling public in general would be greatly benefited.

AGRICULTURE.

Under the Act of 1915, all the departments of the government having to do with the care and cultivation of the soil and the conservation of our great farm life were placed under one board of seven and a Commissioner whose function is to give effect to all agricultural enactments. On the whole, this has worked well. Time has greatly improved the quality and extent of this service. The Department has steadily in mind a more intensive form of specific service to farmers. We must double the output of the farms of Pennsylvania. Every movement to increase the scientific study of agriculture at our State College and the administrative service by the Department is well worth your favorable attention. The college and the Department are working together for the good of our farm life. Both these agencies, by co-operation and co-ordination of their several functions, each doing the service it can best do, and each of vital importance, will at all times serve our farm life in any way possible.

One feature of this service is now of pressing importance, namely, the method of preparing and forwarding farm products to the best markets. There is too much waste upon our farms. Our industrial and urban centers need all the food our farms can produce and the Department of Agriculture wisely senses the need of a division of markets, whose function will be to give practical and definite information to our farmers in all matters that have to do with the best means of marketing all the products of the farm. It is vital to our people that this be done and I urge you to give this matter your favorable attention.

We should also co-operate fully with the national government in all its efforts to improve the agricultural interests of the country. We have kept in close touch with this national service and will continue to support and supplement it at all times.

OUR CHARITIES.

Pennsylvania does more humane things for its dependents than does any other state. It can do more, and it should. In any program of social justice we must not only heed the need of our active workers but also the necessity of that great army of our people who by reason of age, disease, poverty or other untoward circumstances require at the hands of a generous people humane treatment. We need more State institutions to care for our dependents. We have, by your direction, secured a site for a new institution to care for our insane in southwestern Pennsylvania. We need now a site for a like institution in southeastern Pennsylvania, together with funds for the erection of proper buildings at both places. I am wholly convinced that we should erect no more wards in which to mass these unfortunates and further add to their distress. Medical treatment has not proven in the light of experience half so corrective as has vocational treatment. It is manifest that these new institutions should be developed on the Cottage System. This should also apply to additional provision for the feebleminded and in some cases to the criminal classes. I should also welcome a home for indigent inebriates managed upon modern lines and devoted to the cure of alcoholism, the cause of so large a part of the crimes of society. I cannot too strongly urge you to avoid needless limits upon the scope or quality of service these corrective institutions should give. The more general the provisions the wider freedom of development and the larger good at least expense will follow. Already the limits set by the Assembly upon the institutions at Farview, Laurelton and elsewhere is making maifest the difficulty and increased expense of management.

The funds appropriated two years ago to State-aided charities have, in the light of present economic conditions, proven inadequate. The same is true of our State institutions. The cost of maintenance has increased in large measure and you will be obliged to consider well the revenues of the State and the needs of these charities in making your appropriations. I am still convinced that the supervision of the State should follow absolutely its gifts. If this supervision can be increased, and it should be, I am certain that larger good and lessening expense will ensue.

I should like to see the land of the State attached to the State institutions made productive in the highest degree. Officials from the Department of Agriculture should have consulting rights in this matter. The amount of food grown upon State lands contiguous to these institutions should increase, not decrease. It would even be wise to make each of these tracts a model of careful intensive farming, and public demonstrations should be given that farmers may have at these points practical knowledge of good cultivation. The State ought to lead not follow private enterprise.

MUNICIPAL REGULATION.

The Commonwealth can well afford to grant larger local initiative to muncipalities. There can be no effective control of city administration at arm's length. The people may be entrusted with the duty and necessity of working out in each city a system of government best calculated to promote its welfare. There are problems of local taxation that concern these municipal units in a vital way. It does not appear that the State should limit the will of the people in deciding how these problems should be met.

In some cases it has become manifest that the boundaries of cities are not coterminous with territory having many matters in common. In the matters of water supply, sewage disposal, transportation agencies, lighting facilities, flood control and related interests groups of municipalities have but one common concern. It may well be that the provision for metropolitan districts, each district being a unit for action in specified cases, would greatly promote the welfare of the people.

Suggestions of importance affecting the government of our largest cities have come to my attention and I commend to your consideration the wisdom of granting to these great cities the largest degree of home rule consistent with the common rights of all the people of Pennsylvania. A smaller body of councils, a unicameral legislative agency, the trend to some form of managerial or other business form of government and a wider responsibility upon the individual citizen for the quality of government are all instances of movements of moment. It may be that a competent commission created by you could best analyze this situation and suggest such legislation as will prove most helpful to our great urban centers.

THE MINE CAVE PROBLEM.

In nine populous counties of this Commonwealth the mining of anthracite coal is conducted on a large scale. It is from this region that substantially all of this valuable fuel for the entire country is produced. In the aggregate it is a mighty industry and maintains a very considerable portion of our entire population. When title to these coal measures was acquired it carried with it the ownership of the surface. Later the owners of this coal land sold to others the surface rights and over these coal measures have sprung up great cities and other municipalities. In the removal of this coal the safety of life and of property on the surface is seriously menaced. Litigation has arisen. The courts have decreed that the right to remove the coal is inherent in the title to the coal lands. This, however, does not change the fact that the dwellers in these cities are increasingly in danger of loss of property and even of human life by reason of the settling of the surface as the coal is removed from beneath. It is a question of great importance. Property rights under law are directly at variance with surface safety. All the parties in interest sense the gravity of the situation. The Commonwealth may well take note of it and seek some fair and equitable adjustment of the difficulty having in mind the value of human life and its conservation as well as the rights of the owners of the coal. The State Armory in Scranton has already been seriously damaged. About sixty thousand dollars have been expended to underpin this structure and the work is not yet completed. By compulsory law children of a certain age must attend school. In some cases school houses are pronounced unsafe and several have been closed to avoid disaster. I urge you to give most considerate thought to this matter and if possible find a means of resolving the difficulty in a perfectly just manner.

CIVIL SERVICE.

There is need for an efficient and economic State civil service enactment. Until we have this means of securing dependable and continuous public service we shall not be able to conduct the public business as wisely as its importance requires. Too much of the time of the Executive is taken up with the claims and demands of office seekers. It were better to have this time for constructive service, leaving to some capable agency created by law to secure the best agents for the public service.

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT.

Two years ago I asked you to submit the question of an amendment to the Constitution permitting women to vote. You did so. The amendment was defeated. Since then a great national election has been held and women have more largely than ever exercised the franchise. They should be allowed another opportunity to lay their claims freely and fully before the people and I request that your action may be favorable in this matter.

HISTORIC SITES AND MARKERS.

In this Colony and Commonwealth have been enacted many of the most important parts of our national history. Our State is rich in sites made sacred by the deeds of heroic citizens. All these sites should speedily be marked to the end that the coming generation may know at what price our liberties have been won and at what sacrifice our ancestors here carved from savage life and dense forest a great Commonwealth. We shall thus increase the love and loyalty of our people for our great heritage and advance the day when all our people by enlightenment shall find in the story of Pennsylvania a source of sacred pride and gratitude.

CAPITOL PARK AND CAMP CURTIN.

The Commission appointed by my predecessor to acquire additional grounds about the State House have performed a most difficult service in a commendable way. About twenty-seven acres in the heart of the city have been acquired and competent authorities of nation-wide experience have been secured to develop this extension and the present park into a commanding setting for our State House. This work should be pushed with all possible dispatch. The City of Harrisburg is now developing a system of parks the equal of any in the country. It is our hope and desire to make this new State park consonant with the work done by the city and upon a scale worthy our great Commonwealth. Funds for the conduct of this important work should be provided and our capitol set in an environment of beauty, making it the pride of our people and a notable addition to the beautiful and useful park areas of the Capital City.

During the Civil War our Pennsylvania troops were all trained and mustered into the national service at Camp Curtin, a site now within the limits of Harrisburg and rapidly developing into an important residential district. A small area yet remains unimproved and for an unimportant sum this land may now be acquired, set aside as Camp Curtin Park, and made a memorial to the citizen soldiery of Pennsylvania. I earnestly urge your fovarobale consideration of this patriotic service.

CONCLUSION.

No other State has had to consider such complex problems as confront us in this State. Here we have welcomed all the peoples of the world. Since the days of the great Penn this has been the home and haven of all who choose to come. These are now a part of us. Their welfare is the State's welfare. Their education, their employment, their health, their happiness, their economic and social well-being are all subjects of the greatest moment. If ever a government needs to demonstrate its wisdom and humanity that government is ours. In the interests of all these people I have steadily labored. Their rights are sacred. Their destiny is ours. Every consideration makes their cause the cause of our people at large. They and those of us who have long lived for Pennsylvania alike demand clean, capable, and conscientious government. It is ours to provide it. Every enactment of the Assembly should have as its ultimate purpose equal justice to all and wise provision for the welfare and advancement of all. This ideal we shall steadily follow. Taking office from a free people is a sacred obligation. It can be discharged only in the most open, honest way.

Let us take thought of the future of Pennsylvania and plan now to make the present so helpful that it will greatly enlarge the loyalty and love of our people for our great Commonwealth, whose history, whost status, whose destiny are alike so really or prospectively splendid that we ought all devoutly to pray that our Heavenly Father may guide us in every endeavor to make Pennsylvania the cleanest, sweetest, holiest place in all the world.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary of the Governor being introduced, presented communications in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which were read as follows:

ACTS APPROVED AFTER ADJOURNMENT OF LEGISLATURE OF 1915.

Report of His Excellency, the Governor, of the Acts of Assembly passed during the session of 1915, and approved and signed by him within thirty days after the final adjournment of the Legislature on the 20th day of May, A. D. 1915.

(For acts see Appendix.)

REASONS FOR PARDONS AND COMMUTATIONS.

January 2, 1917.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Gentlemen: In conformity with law I have the honor herewith to prescribe the reasons for pardons granted by the Executive from January 1st, 1915, to January 1st, 1917.

Very respectfully,

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

(For reasons see Appendix.)

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to state at this time that he would like the members of the House to inform him, either by letter or by calling at his office, of their preferences for committee assignments. It is the desire of the Speaker that the members, in making their requests for assignments, place their choice in the order of their preference, namely, their first choice first.

The Chair also desires to say that no doubt he will have a great many more requests for different assignments than he will be able to comply with, but it is going to be the aim of the Chair to comply with the wishes of the members just as far as possible, and with the hope that you will all be satisfied. You realize that it is important to get this communication to me, in case you do not call at the Speaker's office to-day, just as soon as possible. It is a very difficult proposition, or at least a very onerous one, to work out these committee assignments.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF DEATH OF MEMBER-ELECT.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Palmer.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker, I regret to announce that on December 28th, 1916, there occurred the death of a newly elected member from Schuylkill County, Mr. B. Jefferson Yost. In passing I would like to remark, that he was an exemplary citizen, and had the greatest respect, not only of the district which he represented, but of the people of our county, and out of respect to his memory, I would ask the House to adjourn.

ADJOURNMENT.

The motion was agreed to and (at 3.30 P. M.) the House adjourned to meet Monday, January 22nd, 1917, at 9 o'clock P. M.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, JANUARY 22, 1917. No. 2.

SENATE.

MONDAY, January 22, 1917.

The Senate met at 9.00 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, our kind Heavenly Father, we have learned by experience, both our own experience and that of those who have preceeded us, that it is good for us to put our trust in Thee. We pray Thee that this distinguished body of men, with the visions of a larger Pennsylvania that come to them from day to day, may be privileged with still larger and more enticing and attractive visions, and may they address themselves with the depth and sincerity of purpose that should characterize such men of dignity to the great tasks that are presented to them in these larger ideals that are presented to them. We ask these favors in our Saviour's name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HOMSHER, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

ADMINISTRATION OF OATH OF OFFICE TO SENATOR-ELECT CATLIN.

The PRESIDENT. Inasmuch as the Senator from Luzerne, Mr. Catlin, was not present when the Senate organized on the first day of this session, he will appear before the bar of the Senate to be sworn in as a member of this body; the oath will be administered by the President Judge of the Twelfth Judicial District, Honorable George Kunkel.

The oath of office was then administered to Senator-elect Catlin.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate communications in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, filed with the Chief Clerk, during the interim, which were read as follows:

APPROVAL OF CONCURRENT RESOLUTION PROVIDING FOR PAYMENT OF POSTAGE ON LEGISLATIVE JOURNAL.

January 9, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved a resolution of the Senate and House of Representatives directing the Chief Clerks of the Senate and House of Representatives to make arrangements for the necessary postage for the mailing of the Legislative Journal in accordance with the requirements of the U. S. Post Office Department.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

REPORT AS TO ADVISABILITY OF MANUFACTURING BRICK AT WESTERN PENITENTIARY.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, January 18, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: In compliance with the Act of Assembly of 1915, Joint Resolution No. 65, I beg to advise that the Commission appointed by me under said Resolution has made an investigation into the practicability of manufacturing brick on an extensive scale at the Western Penitentiary in Centre County.

I beg also to advise you that I had an independent investigation made by the Warden of the penitentiary, and, this, together with the report of the Commission, I herewith submit with the suggestion that inasmuch as it appears that the quality of the soil owned by the Commonwealth at this particular place does not lend itself to the manufacture of brick on an extensive scale, I would recommend that no further action at this time be considered to give employment to the inmates of this institution in the manner suggested by Joint Resolution No. 65, Session of 1915.

Respectfully submitted,

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

JOHN E. HANIFEN, Chairman. COL. C. A. ROOK, Vice Chairman. JOHN D. DORRIS, Sec. and Treas.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania
PRISON LABOR COMMISSION
Real Estate Trust Building.

Philadelphia, December 18, 1916.

Excellency
The Honorable Martin Grove Brumbaugh,
Governor of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Pa.

My Dear Sir: The Commission appointed under Joint Resolution No. 65 to consider the practicability of establishing a brick manufacturing plant at the new penitentiary, respectfully reports that in accordance with the provisions of the Resolution they met and organized on July 24, 1916. The Commission also met subsequently on October 23. None of the members of the Commission had any expert knowledge on the subject of brick manufacturing and no appropriation was provided for the employment of experts to advise the Commission.

At the request of the Chairman of the Commission an investigation of the matter was made by the State Highway Department. The State Highway Commissioner made the following report of that investigation:

November 22, 1916.

Colonel C. A. Rook,
President Board of Inspectors,
Western Penitentiary,
Pittsburgh, N. S., Pa.

My dear Colonel: Accompanied by Mr. W. D. Uhler, our Chief Engineer, we went to the Penitentiary property on November Seventeenth and made a personal inspection of the same, with a view of establishing a brick plant for the manufacture of paving brick for State Highway purposes at this institution. We find no deposits of clay suitable for that purpose. The Penitentiary property is situated in a limestone country, which has a very thin covering of soil and no clay deposits that we could see. We therefore would think that it would be a waste of money even to try to test out the little bit of soil that is there for the purpose of brick making. If you will take the trouble to go on this property yourself you will find that the limestone is sticking out of the ground any place you look, and especially where there is some erosion exposing the same; it is known to be from one to two hundred feet thick through this valley. I do not believe that you could go more than a few feet on this property without striking the limestone.

I am still of the opinion, as expressed in my former letter, that this proposition is not a good one and it would only be a waste of money even to try an experimental plant, but still feel that there is an almost unlimited supply of good limestone, suitable for road building, which could be quarried and crushed to the proper sizes by inmates of the Penitentiary.

I think this is the only proposition there from which you could get any good results and, if you have the labor, it would be wise to have them quarry and prepare what stone they can for highway purposes.

Mr. Uhler has read this report and agrees with me in the same.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) F. B. BLACK,
State Highway Commissioner.

(Signed) JOHN E. HANIFEN,
WARREN C. GRAHAM,
JOHN D. DORRIS,
S. J. MILLER,
C. A. ROOK,
Chairman.

Office of

Superintendent of Construction
John Francies, Superintendent.

NEW WESTERN PENITENTIARY
OF PENNSYLVANIA,
as per Act of Assembly 1911
Bellefonte, Pa., December 27, 1916.

John Francies, Supt. of Const.,
New Western Penitentiary,
Pittsburgh, Penna.

Dear Sir: I have inquired from all sources I can think of to get some information concerning a possible brick clay deposit on this property, and the only location in which such a deposit might exist would be near the foot of the Nittany mountain, on the South end of the Zimmerman farm.

Have called the bankers in Bellefonte to see if anybody had ever thought of developments along this line in this vicinity and find that none of them have any knowledge of such. I also called Mr. Harry Zimmerman, former owner of the farm, and he informs me that a long time ago, a group of men, of whom Governor Beaver was a prominent member, investigated and inspected his farm with a view of starting a brick plant, and they passed an opinion at that time that there were a few acres at the South East corner of Mr. Zimmerman's farm having a clay deposit, heavy in iron ore, which resembles somewhat the clay vein existing at Mill Hill, from which the Mill Hill brick are made. Mr. Zimmerman also stated that he had no knowledge of this deposit existing below a depth of about two feet, but that in all events, the group of men who inspected the property, did not consider it worthy of development.

I have no one on the job who knows anything about brick clay, and would suggest that in case you desire to investigate this more thoroughly that some man be brought here having expert knowledge of brick clays and that we open up test pits near the foot of the mountain in order to determine if there is any deposits worthy of development.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) JAS. W. HERRON.
Assist. Supt. of Const.

WESTERN PENITENTIARY
OF PENNSYLVANIA
Pittsburgh, Pa.

JOHN FRANCIES,
Warden.

January 3, 1917.

Hon. Martin G. Brumbaugh,

Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Dear Sir: In accordance with our talk on December 12, 1916, with reference to the joint resolution providing for and regulating a Commission to consider the practicability of establishing a brick manufacturing plant at the new penitentiary, permit me to say I had Mr. Herron take the matter up, and go over it carefully, and I am enclosing his report.

I regret to say, after having gone into the matter, that the prospects are not good for establishing a brick manufacturing plant on the prison grounds. There is brick clay in the valley, both North and South of the Institution, but not in sufficient quantities to justify going into the manufacture of bricks on an extensive scale.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) JOHN FRANCIES,
Warden.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

By unanimous consent, a motion was made by Mr. VARE, that Rule 38, which requires nominations made by the Governor to be referred to proper committees, be dispensed with, and the Senate do now resolve itself into executive session, for the purpose of acting on the foregoing nominations,

Which was agreed to.

Whereupon,

A motion was made by Mr. VARE,

That the Senate do advise and consent to said nominations.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—48

Baldwin,	Graff, J. F.,	McConnell,	Smith, W. W.,
Beidleman,	Graff, W. P.,	McKee, W. S.,	Snyder, C. A.,

NAYS—0

Two-thirds of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

BILL INTRODUCED.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to read a bill in place, a joint resolution, at this time.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, is this a resolution to be referred to a committee or to be passed on at once?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair cannot answer that until he has the resolution before him.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I desire to state, in presenting this resolution, that I offer it in the full knowledge that, should it become a law, I can not accept a place upon the commission which it creates even though I should be tendered such a post. Other duties here and elsewhere will absolutely prevent my giving this matter the time and attention which it will require. I am asking for the passage of this resolution as a matter of duty to the people of the state, to this Legislature and to the party to which I belong, as well as with a desire to give anyone who has been unjustly accused or criticised an opportunity to set himself right.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. SPROUL read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 1, entitled:

A joint resolution, providing for the appointment of a committee to investigate alleged maladministration in public offices, and making an appropriation therefor.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations when appointed.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 9.20 o'clock P. M., until Tuesday morning, January 23, 1917, at 11 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, January 22, 1917.

The House met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. F. W. Staley, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we thank Thee for an all wise providence that has been over us, as a nation, as a State, as families and as individuals. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow us all the days of our lives. We thank Thee that Thy providence through this State has conferred upon us honors and obligations, and responsibilities. Help us to so honor the State that we may render efficient service to fulfill our obligations as we understand them, and to weigh our responsibilities as they rest upon us, and in all the services that we shall render unto Thee, and to the State, may we be guided by Thine infinite wisdom. We ask for Christ's sake. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of the proceedings of Tuesday, January 2nd, 1917.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Tuesday, January 2nd, 1917, when, on motion of Mr. Ramsey, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

SWEARING IN OF MEMBERS.

The SPEAKER. The Honorable Quintin O. Reitzel, of Lancaster County, and the Honorable Isaiah D. Musser, of Juniata County, will present themselves at the Bar of the House and have the oath of office administered to them.

Mr. Reitzel and Mr. Musser presented themselves at the Bar of the House and the oath of office prescribed by law was administered to them by Hon. S. J. M. McCarrell, Additional Law Judge of the Twelfth Judicial District.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER. Any members who have bills to present can pass them to the Resident Clerk as the Chief Clerk, who is at his home sick tonight, or he can leave them down in the Resident Clerk's Office or in the Chief Clerk's Office after the House adjourns. I presume members all know that the proper method of introducing bills is either to hand them to the Chief Clerk at the desk, or leave them in the Chief Clerk's Office.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE.

Mr. STEEDLE asked and obtanied leave of absence for Mr. Wagner on account of illness.

Mr. HOFFMAN asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Harry L. Rhoads.

Mr. NEARY asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Lafferty.

Mr. McCURDY asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Musser to go back to the hospital.

The SPEAKER asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. A. David Miller.

RESOLUTION.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, I desire at this time to call up House Resolution No. 1, File Folio No. 1.

The SPEAKER. The Resolution will be read by the Clerk.

The Resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

Whereas, Boies E. Penrose, Senior United States Senator of Pennsylvania, has publicly charged that certain attempts to influence members of the Legislature by promises of appointment of persons to office and by threats of dismissal of others from public office was intimidation, coercion and bribery warranting action by a Grand Inquest, and,

Whereas, The said Penrose has further been quoted by the press of the State as having said, "In my opinion the people of the State will be astonished when the extravagance, absenteeism, misappropriation of funds, political coercion and intimidation and other scandalous conditions are exposed" and

Whereas, The said Penrose has given out a statement which has been published throughout the State, as follows: "Mr. Brown has always been paid handsomely in a professional way for his services by contractors and corporations. He has received many thousands of dollars from the State of Pennsylvania through the channels of the Auditor General's office in the way of special employments, in a way that has threatened scandal and has been frequently resented by those who protested against his extravagant demands. These fees are not easily ascertained from an examination of the reports of the Auditor General, because they are covered up under the designation of attorney fees, but at an early opportunity, doubtless, the vouchers will be required and will show that several hundred thousands of dollars have been paid Mr. Brown and his associates, often for nominal work. In the case of the Revenue Commission to which reference has been made, his charge for professional service was some fifty thousand ($50,000) dollars, more or less, which the Commission grudgingly was induced to pay him.

"Mr. Brown has never participated in the councils of the Republican Party except as an attorney for some one, and his appearance before a Republican audience in a campaign would be greeted with derision," all of which refers to one Francis Shunk Brown, Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and

Whereas, The said Penrose has in like manner publicly charged that the Public Service Commission has been and is using its powers and the functions and prerogatives and powers of its members for the purposes of political intimidation and corruption and has given out a statement which has been published throughout the State as follows: "The business interests all over the State of Pennsylvania are disturbed and irritated over the way the public service commission is being conducted. The law provides that no member of the commission shall be a candidate for office, and it was clearly the intention of the law that the commission keep out of politics. It is a judicial body almost as important in scope and power as any judicial body in the State.

"Notwithstanding the purpose of the law and the evident propriety that should be observed, many of the commission are giving more time to politics than to their official duties. The investigation will disclose that many disreputable persons are being carried on the roll of the commission and practically do no work at all. On account of the absenteeism of some of the commission, and for other reasons, consideration of applications before the commission is postponed to a scandalous degree.

"The business interests cannot even get a hearing in many cases, and important business enterprises are held up and delayed in consequence. Within my own knowledge applications have been held up as a means of political intimidation and coercion.

"It is a significant fact, capable of a number of interesting conclusions and surmisals that more than ninety (90) per centum of all cases which have come before the commission have been represented by one, or at most by two, attorneys under the present administration. These attorneys were the subservient tools of the State administration and in close proximity to the office of the Attorney Genera. The suggestive activities of the firm of Simpson, Brown and Williams who have developed a remarkable facility in appearing on all sides in litigation, will make interesting reading when the facts are fully disclosed, and compiled, as will soon occur.

"The situation has been so repugnant and flagrant that when disclosed in all its details will appall the public and the legislature will, undoubtedly, demand a change in the constitution of the public service commission" and,

Whereas, Francis Shunk Brown, Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has publicly charged that bribery was resorted to in the recent speakership contest and has given out the following statement: "Cox is the candidate of the forces led by Governor Brumbaugh, which seek to lead Pennsylvania and her citizens to greater and better things. Baldwin is the candidate of the forces led by Jos. R. Grundy of which State Senator Wm. C. Sproul, T. Larry Eyre and Senator Penrose are the servitors and which seek to deliver the state back into the control of special privilege.

"The Grundy forces, working through Penrose and the other Grundy political servitors, are employing in this contest their usual methods of defamation and slander. Let me remind the men who have lived all their lives in political and other glass houses that now is no time to throw stones. The people of our State have been used for years by these men and their kind, all of them under the whip of a few money interests. For the honor of our State, such a condition should not be paraded, but for myself I do not intend to let pass unresented the scurrilous attacks upon the Administration by men who have not the civic spirit to create, but who are ever ready and willing for sake of political and financial advantage to destroy.

"If Senator Penrose wishes to investigate and enlighten our people I will help him, and the record of him and his allies, from my knowledge will raise such a stench that the people will have little nose for aught else. I have long kept silent upon the past of some of these men, who though guilty of all the crimes in the political calendar, are now quick to attack; but if the time should now be ripe, I can tell a real story.

"Let me say to the people of Pennsylvania that all of these insinuations about the Administration bribing members of the Legislature to vote for Mr. Cox are vicious falsehoods and known to be so by those who utter them, but I do know there is no limit to the desperation of the methods employed by those who seek the defeat of Mr. Cox and who know that their fight is a losing one.

"No later than last Sunday one of these men who is now so loudly proclaiming against bribery by the Administration and who threatens an investigation was overheard telephoning from the Union League to 'get' a certain member of the House for Baldwin, 'no matter what it cost.'

"Let me emphasize the fact that Penrose, Sproul, Eyre and their like are but tools in this contest. The real leader of the elements that seek to place Baldwin in the Speaker's chair is Jos. R. Grundy, Chief Lobbyist against humanitarian legislation. Baldwin's election means control of the Legislature by Grundy and a certain attack upon the humane and social legislation passed two years ago. Penrose is for Baldwin because he has to be. Baldwin is the Grundy hand-picked candidate and Penrose must go where Grundy directs.

"It was common rumor about the Capitol during the last session of the Legislature that Grundy and his associates had raised a large sum of money to aid in the election of Penrose to the United States Senate and that the reward was to be the defeat of the Brumbaugh program of progressive legislation. Governor Brumbaugh was too strong for the Grundy forces and the legislation was enacted. Penrose was unable to make good to Grundy then Baldwin's election would furnish a vehicle by which he would try to make good at the coming session. "Everybody understands why T. Larry Eyre, Chester County leader is supporting the Baldwin candidacy. His railroad contracting relations have put him in the Baldwin camp. I have been informed that Mr. Eyre has guaranteed to deliver three votes for Baldwin from Chester County Captain Samuel A. Whitaker, Maris M. Hollingsworth and Harry C. Graham, for myself I do not believe that he can do this any more than do the voters of Chester County so believe.

"Senator Sproul charges the administration with having caused financial chaos. This statement is not only pure wanton falsehood, but I am astounded that Senator Sproul, in view of his legislative record, had the hardihood to utter it. Senator Sproul was a member of two legislative commissions to define ways and means for increasing the revenues of the State. A report was made to the Legislature and Senator Sproul signed that report recommending that certain legislation be enacted. These bills were referred to the Senate Committee on Finance of which Sproul was chairman. In spite of this report, Sproul deliberately smothered these bills in his committee, even though one of them was intended to raise revenue for the building of good roads, of which Sproul had long been avowed champion in the open, and the work would have been done under an act which bore his name, "and

Whereas, The said Brown has made further and additional charges involving one William C. Sproul, for many years a member of the Senate of Pennsylvania, and Chairman of its Finance Committee, as follows: "I think my statement of Monday fairly well informed the public of the issue in this speakership contest, but as the only answers he makes to my charges of the baleful forces supporting Baldwin is to credit me as a lawyer with having received large fees from the State, I might add, as matter of further enlightenment, that these fees were charged for services covering four years of service for two legislative commissions for the revision of the revenue and corporation laws of this Commonwealth.

"Senator Sproul was a member of both commissions. It held sessions throughout the State and obtained the opinions and sentiment of our people respecting the State revenues and the proper subjects of taxation. I prepared two reports, both of which Senator Sproul approved, and which were printed and signed and distributed with much expense throughout the State, the recommended subjects for taxation, etc., etc., and I prepared proposed acts of Assembly to carry their recommendations into effect. I labored with two Legislatures to have them passed.

"Senator Sproul was Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee during all this time, and could, if he would, have aided some of these beneficial measures to adoption, but he refused, notwithstanding my repeated and urgent requests so to do. The reason was that he was financially interested in the subjects which in the reports he had recommended to be passed, and personal interests tied his hands and silenced his voice.

"During the last session he was a member of the steering committee of the Senate and House to confer from time to time with the Governor in aid of good legislation. He was the consistent opponent of all measures providing for additional revenue, even though part of it was to build roads which he had bound the State to construct and for which there was not only a public demand, but a public clamor" and,

Whereas, The said William C. Sproul has made grave and serious charges against the said Brown, which are, "Well, I have been expecting that the master intriguant would find himself forced into the fray to support a weak kneed cause. There are one or two things he has mentioned which really deserve mention. The first is regarding Mr. Baldwin's attitude toward so-called humanitarian legislation. I will answer for that, for I know his views. Mr. Baldwin and his friends will resist any attempt to weaken these measures, and no thought of anything in that direction has ever entered the mind of any of those active in Mr. Baldwin's behalf. Mr. Baldwin, moreover, will resist any further attempts to divert the administration of these measures for partisan gain or personal profit.

"As for the Revenue Commission of which the arch-intriguant speaks, the principal record left by that commission will be found in the enormous expense bills paid to its counsel, no less an individual than the Hon. Francis Shunk himself. I think that an examination of the account as filed by him, will show that fully seventy-five per cent. of all the money appropriated by the Legislature to that Commission reached Francis Shunk in fees, which members of the commission thought were mighty steep but which the astute counsel asserted he had earned" and,

Whereas, William C. Vare, for many years a member of the State Senate of Pennsylvania, and prominent in the political life of the State in general and the City of Philadelphia in particular, has in like manner made certain serious and grave charges in part as follows: "In so far as the humanitarian legislation is concerned, namely the child labor law, workmen's compensation and other measures designed for the benefit of our working boys and girls, as well as adults, I repeat Mr. Grundy and a few other manufacturers, backed by Penrose, not only opposed it to the limit at the last session of the Legislature, but at every session in my time, and I went there in 1896.

"If Mr. Penrose wants an investigation, let him investigate what was common rumor around the State Senate two years ago—that the Penrose organization had received large sums of money from Grundy and his associates, with the distinct understanding that there would be no legislation in favor of the working classes, including women and children. Many of the Penrose Senators gave me that reason for their inability to support the child labor bill when I was canvassing for their votes.

"It is a late day for Mr. Penrose to complain about Attorney General Brown when it is well known that he was the close adviser of Penrose, Durham and McNichol for twenty-five years, and Mr. Brown withdrew of his own volition because of the underhand methods of Penrose," and

Whereas, These gentlemen have been closely and intimately connected with the affairs, matters and things of which they have assumed to speak, and doubtless base their assertions on matters within their personal knowledge and speaking truthfully and accurately, and

Whereas, The condition shown to exist by their disclosures is disgraceful to the Commonwealth, discreditable to her citizens, and demoralizing, corrupt, debauched and depraved, and

Whereas, The disgrace, discredit and infamy of this condition can only be remedied, removed and obliterated by wiping out and destroying the conditions thus existing, and,

Whereas, It is necessary, to accomplish this end, that there shall be a full complete, comprehensive, free and impartial investigation of the said charges and conditions,

Therefore, Be it Resolved.

1st.—That a committee consisting of six members of this House be appointed to investigate all and singular the said charges and the implications and intendment thereof, and all matters, facts, circumstances and things directly or indirectly connected therewith.

2nd.—That all hearings conducted by the said committee shall be open to the public and that the said committee subpoena or otherwise cause to appear before it and to testify of and concerning the matters and things involved directly or indirectly in the said charges: The Hon. Boies Penrose, the Hon. Francis Shunk Brown, the Hon. Edwin S. Vare, the Hon. William C. Sproul, the Hon. Chas. A. Snyder and any and all other persons who may have or appear to have knowledge concerning the premises or to be able to furnish any information concerning them or any of them.

3rd.—That the said committee shall consist of six members of this House, shall be elected by the vote of this House, and shall consist of two members who supported Mr. Cox for Speaker, two members who supported Mr. Baldwin for Speaker, and two Democratic members.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Berks, Mr. Sarig.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, this resolution embodies the leading charges that have been made by the leaders of both factions of the majority party during the last three or four weeks, previous to the organization of this House.

In view of the seriousness of these charges, the minority party feels that it has a great responsibility and a serious duty that devolves upon it to see that proper light is given to these charges. There are three parties involved in these charges. One faction consists of Senator Penrose and his friends; the other consists of the Administration and its friends and the other party, the people of the State of Pennsylvania. Now, inasmuch as both factions of the majority party are involved in this controversy, we feel that it devolves upon us, as the minority, the thirty-seven Democratic members and also the one Socialist member, to bring before this House this question so that proper light may be turned upon it and that the people of Pennsylvania may know the truth and the whole truth. For my own part I wish to make no charges against either faction. In fact, I am free to say that the members of the minority party believe both of them. We believe both have spoken the truth and we are not here to challenge the veracity of either faction in this matter. Now, so far as the method of investigation is concerned, we believe that the method put forth in this resolution is sufficient and we believe that it is fair to both factions. We believe that no fair and impartial investigation can be conducted by either faction involved in this controversy, because both parties will be interested parties, and there can be no fair and impartial investigation conducted by one side or the other. Now, I ask that the gentlemen of this House give this resolution fair consideration so that the people of Pennsylvania may know the truth and may know the whole truth. It is true, perhaps, that if the truth that might be brought out by a one-sided investigation would be better than no truth at all, but still we believe it our duty and we believe it to be the duty of the members of this House to support this resolution so that the people back home all over the State of Pennsylvania may know what is going on. The fair name and the honor of Pennsylvania is involved in this matter. There are, naturally, two propositions that confront us, as we consider it. In the first place, if these charges are true, then the people of Pennsylvania ought to know the facts. They ought to know what is the truth and what is the whole truth and the men who have been guilty, if any such there be, should be brought to justice. If, on the other hand, these charges are false, are not true, then somebody has slandered the fair name of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and those slanderers should be brought to justice. In either case, be they true or be they false, it is to the honor of the great name of Pennsylvania that the facts should be brought out and that light be turned upon these charges so that the people of this Commonwealth may know the real facts. The people are entitled to know what their servants are doing here on Capitol Hill and what they are doing all over this Commonwealth.

I believe, therefore, that this investigation herein provided is a fair one; that it is impartial and that we take sides with neither faction. As I have said, we believe both of them; we believe both have spoken the truth and we are willing to put this question before this House and before the people of the Commonwealth so that the truth shall come out. On the seal of this House you will find the inscription: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Let us bear out that inscription; let us turn on the full light of day and let the people of the old Commonwealth of Pennsylvania know what is true and what is not true and turn aside the curtain and let the people have a fair look into the affairs of their Government. That is all this resolution provides for. It makes no charges against any party. It simply asks that the light shall be turned on and that the people of this State be given a chance to look into the affairs of their own Government.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Sarig.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Sarig, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. BEYER. What is the immediate purpose of your resolution?

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, the immediate purpose of my resolution is to bring out how many of these charges are true and how many of these charges are false.

Mr. BEYER. Having done that and having satisfied yourself that there may be truth in the charges that you make in your resolution, then what is your purpose?

Mr. SARIG. Well, the resolution expresses no purpose beyond that and asks for that light, then, thereafter, such action can be taken, if this House has the facts disclosed as will warrant.

Mr. BEYER. Is this resolution in aid of any contemplated legislation on your part or any pending legislation?

Mr. SARIG. It has not. It is simply for the purpose of showing up the real facts in the case and to know whether or not this Government of Pennsylvania is in the hands of corruptionists and grafters or whether it is in the hands of true and honest servants of the people.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has answered my questions and I desire to thank him for the information. Now, Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, I take it for granted that anything worth doing ought to be done well. I take it for granted that the members of this House entirely apart from their political allegiance to any party and entirely outside of any factional allegiance that they may give any one party or the other are equally desirous of upholding the good name of this Commonwealth in which we live and are equally anxious to do justice where justice needs to be done. It is, unfortunately, true that in the midst of great factional struggles things are said sometimes on either side which ought not to be said. It is equally true that men sometimes talk loosely and make charges in a general manner against those in public office that at times have not the slightest right to do so. If any man thus transgresses he is, under the laws of our State, answerable to the proper courts for the injury that he has done any such person wrongfully assailed. I take no immediate issue with my distinguished friend from Berks in his remarks in taking advantage of whatever difference may exist on this side of the House. He is probably within his rights as a member of a political party adversely connected with that which I have the honor to represent. As a member of this House he has a perfect right to offer the resolution which is now before you, but when it comes to an investigation, and the purpose of that investigation can serve no other aim than to inflame the public mind and to create capital for any one political party to the disadvantage of the other, then I ask you what is the meaning of a resolution such as this; what are we, as representatives of the people of this Commonwealth, here for? Are we here to play politics or are we here to legislate for the people of Pennsylvania? Our duty is to ferret out corruption, if we know of any corruption to exist, or where there lies some reasonable suspicion of corruption which cries for investigation. Our policy, as members of a legislative body, is to enact laws for the benefit of the people and likewise to call to task those who may be remiss in their performance of public duty and bring them to the Bar of public opinion. That is done by impeachment proceedings, where you have the evidence or where you have a reasonable suspicion of it which justifies an investigation. It may be that some things charged against one side of the House or one faction on one side of the House are only too sadly true, but there is an orderly way to proceed and the courts have time and time again said what that method should be. Not by a single resolution attacking character, embodying everyone in a State Government and people outside of the State Government of this dishonesty of purpose, but a resolution with some single aim and purpose and with authority behind it that carries it successfully into execution.

The resolution now before the House is not a concurrent resolution. It does not ask the concurrence of the Senate as a co-ordinate branch of this State Legislature to authorize an investigation into the policies and honesty of our officials in this State. It is a resolution which emanates from the floor of this House and does not seek to go beyond it. It probably answers its purpose when it opens the ears of the newspaper press of this great State to make campaign material for the other side of the House. When it answers that purpose it answers all that is reasonably expected on the other side.

Now let us be fair on both sides of this House. If there is a resolution presented here of a concurrent nature asking the concurrence of the Senate, and making it a legislative measure, and placing it in the hands of the Governor, as the executive of the Commonwealth, for his approval, I am for that character of a resolution and I believe that every other man, regardless of all talk about factions in one party or the other, is equally in favor of such a resolution, because it is in plain and simple justice to the men accused in this resolution and who have been accused in the last few months that they should have their day, but it must be done in a perfectly lawful manner. You must observe that you are but one arm of the State legislature, a co-ordinate branch; that while you have authority to investigate the conduct of your own members and any bribery that may be committed on the floor of this House or outside of it affecting your general business, you have no power or standing by yourselves to investigate public officials and especially on absolutely unmeaningless charges such as appear in the resolution now before you.

I ask your attention, gentlemen, just for a few moments to some of the glaring charges which are made here, evidently based entirely on hearsay, based entirely upon readings in the press without any foundation to sustain them and absolutely unworthy of the consideration of a legislative body. The first section has reference to certain statements that were made by a United States Senator who says—where it is taken from I do not know, but the charge is made that this United States Senator says that certain attempts were made to influence members of the legislature by promises of appointment to office and by threats of dismissal of others from public office by intimidation, coercion and bribery warranting action by a Grand Inquest.

If any man in this chamber or outside of it has any evidence of any member of this House having been solicited by means of bribery or other foul means to do anything other than his plain duty as a member of the State Legislature, then let him produce the facts and let those facts be laid before a proper committee with power to act, with power to summon witnesses and compel obedience to its mandates, and then we will have something worth listening to and not a lot of ragtime talk which we hear on the outside.

The next proposition says that the same Senator "has been further quoted by the press"—don't even mention by what part of the press or in what part of the State—but "by the press of the State as having said 'in my opinion the people of this State will be astonished when the extravagance, absenteeism, misappropriation of funds, political coercion and intimidation and other scandalous conditions are exposed.'" By whom, may I ask? If you have charges to prefer which ought to be investigated, give the committee you ask to be appointed some light to guide them to tell in what portion to start their investigation.

The next proposition is that the same Senator "has given out a statement which has been published throughout the State as follows 'Mr. Brown has always been paid handsomely in a professional way for his services by contractors and corporations.'" In the name of Justice, tell me, gentlemen of the House, what criminal charges to lay at this man's door if that resolution stops at the point where I have just read. It is not a crime for a lawyer to charge fees and even handsome fees at that, but it may be a crime to take even a small fee, if not entitled to it, out of the public treasury; but that general charge or intimation don't even rise to the dignity of fair suspicion. "He has received many thousands of dollars from the State of Pennsylvania through the channels of the Auditor General's office in the way of special employments in a way that has threatened scandal and has been frequently resented by those who protested against his extravagant demand. These fees are not easily ascertained from an examination of the reports of the Auditor General because they are covered up under the designation of attorneys fees, but at an early opportunity doubtless the vouchers will be required and will show that several hundred thousands of dollars have been paid Mr. Brown and his associates for nominal work." If that is true why not wait until the time that you set forth in this resolution for these vouchers to be asked for and produced and then turn on the light.

Another part of the resolution that is highly objectionable and meaningless is that "Mr. Brown has never participated in the councils of the Republican Party except as an attorney for some one and his appearance before a Republican audience in a campaign would be greeted with derision." What have we got to do with that in the State Legislature? It may be of some interest to Mr. Brown to know whether he ought to go to a political gathering of the Republican Party but surely it does not affect the morals of this great State nor interest any legislative body in any course to be pursued whether he is acceptable in one convention or one meeting in preference to another. It shows upon its face no purpose other than to make for a political party in this State campaign material in a gubenatorial contest coming some time later, and nothing else.

Then there follows a long dissertation on the Public Service Commission; not only to investigate Mr. Brown in this omnibus resolution but it takes in everything conceivable and imaginable and it would take in the Public Service Commission; and you are told that some of these men have been active in politics. Perhaps they have. If they have the power to correct them for any abuses that they may have been guilty of lies in the hands of those where they work in the department and where they are employed; and if it does not exist there what have we to find fault with it. We may legislate for the future if we see fit to restrain such things and prevent that political activity; but until you have before this House some contemplated legislation in aid of which you want to investigate these various outbursts to show that your legislation is needed, it is outside the purport and province of the State Legislature to complain.

Then there is the other statements given by prominent political leaders one one side of a faction or the other, spoken in the heat of political campaign and probably requiring action; but let us have action which will be based upon our respect for the State Constitution and our province as a State Legislature.

My distinguished friend almost immediately before taking his seat made the significant remark that these men should be brought to justice. It sounds a good deal like drawing a bill of indictment charging men for the violation of the criminal code of this Commonwealth. If my friend knows of anything to justify an indictment, let him lay the facts in the hands of the proper authorities in order that indictments may be found, that the culprits may be brought to immediate trial, but until you have the facts or some reasonable suspicion, based upon reasonable facts, what right have we as members of a State Legislature to go upon a fishing expedition in the hope that we may find something wrong somewhere after we start the machinery in action. Such is not the purpose of the State Legislature. The Courts have repeatedly held that the Constitution contemplates that the power of a legislature shall be exercised by the concurrence of two houses—the Senate and the House of Representatives. To make legislation legally operative there should be the concurrence of both houses; in order words, gentlemen, this should be a joint resolution, and the subject to be investigated must be within the proper field of legislative action.

I am going to read to you just for a moment from a case that was decided in New York, the case of McDonald vs. Keeler in 99 New York Reports, page 463, in which the Court used this significant language, equally as applicable here as it was there. "An investigation instituted for the mere sake of investigating, or for political purposes, not connected with intended legislation, or with any of the matters upon which the house could act, but merely intended to subject the body or party investigated to animadversion or to vindicate him or it from unjust oppression, where the legislature had no right, to put him or it on trial for mere supposed offences, and no legislation was contemplated, the proceedings must necessarily end with the investigation and would not in the judgment of the court be a legislative proceeding."

In other words, if you have a concurrent resolution there will be a joint committee. That joint committee can be authorized in the concurrent resolution to issue its subpoena, upon the subjects which are properly brought to its attention and at the time the committee is appointed, and with that authority to act, if any man fails to respond and answer to the subpoena which is issued and served upon him there can then be application made under an Act of Assembly to the Courts asking that an attachment be issued to bring the man before the bar of the House, to see that he is brought before the committee to give his testimony, or stand in contempt. But that resolution provides nothing of the sort. If you investigate under this resolution that investigation ends in this house, and it never goes any further. Now if you really want an investigation you will find others equally ready to join you in an honest effort to get the truth, which after all is the thing that the whole State is seeking for to-day. The people of Pennsylvania are not interested in the personal differences or the factional strife of the party which I represent, any more than they are in any factional differences on the other side of the house; but they are vitally interested in ascertaining the truth. If charges have been made let them be substantiated in a manner that lies in conformity with the letter and spirit of your state constitution. Let there be a concurrent resolution—a resolution which will be acted upon by both the Senate and this House, and then allow that resolution to go before the Executive of this Commonwealth and let him say whether he stands favorable to this investigation, and whether he does not himself believe that as an Executive he wants to purge himself of anything that may have been said against him, and which lies within the proper sphere of legislative inquiry. For this reason Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I shall vote "No" upon the resolution now before us.

Mr. SARIG. In view of the fact that my friend from Philadelphia has seen fit to belittle these charges made in this resolution, I wish to call the attention of the members of this House to the fact that the men who have made these charges are men of high standing in the government of Pennsylvania, and that these are men who are well seasoned in the arts of political life in Pennsylvania. These are not the statements of amateurs, and they are not the statements that were rashly made in the heat of a campaign. You will remember that these charges were hurled back and forth from day to day through the press of this State. They were dictated slowly and deliberately to the stenographer in some private office, and were carefully considered and scrutinized before they were handed out to the newspapers to be published throughout Pennsylvania.

I contend, and I am sincere in the belief, that these statements are deliberate statements, carefully studied and carefully considered by men who are thoroughly versed in the politics of Pennsylvania. These men who have made these charges understand all the devious ways by which legislation is enacted, or is hampered in this Commonwealth. They know all the dark and underground channels that often interfere with and impede legislation in this State, and when they made these charges they knew what they were talking about. They understood thoroughly from Alpha to Omega the subjects that they were discussing, and I am here to say that these charges should not be belittled, but that these charges coming from the high sources which they do, should be given due and fair consideration, and I claim that there is ample and just ground to proceed with an investigation without any further charges being added to them.

My friend, the gentleman from Philadelphia says, "Let us first prove these charges and then hold an investigation." Why, my friends, what is an investigation for? This investigation is to be for the purpose of throwing light on these charges, and to see what is true and what is not true, in other words, to diagnose the disease that now seems to affect the political life of this Commonwealth. It is idle for us at this time to prescribe what the remedy shall be. It has been charged that my resolution prescribes no remedy. I have no remedy to prescribe. I want to know first what the disease is. I want to know where the truth is, and after the truth has been ascertained, after the disease has been located and diagnosed, I claim that there is ample and sufficient time, and this House will then have sufficient authority to proceed to bring to the bar of justice such offenders as may have been found or deemed guilty in the investigation. I do not see that it is necessary to have any concurrent resolution. I believe that this movement of a concurrent resolution is only a movement of one faction to investigate the other faction, and I claim that that is unfair and partial. I claim that my resolution is fair to both factions, and it is fair to the people of the State of Pennsylvania, and I ask you gentlemen as servants of the people of Pennsylvania to uphold this resolution and to turn on the light, no matter where it hits, and to give a fair and impartial investigation to free the fair name of your Commonwealth from the stain that has been placed upon its honor.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, may I say just a word in reply.

I do not believe that my good friend from Berks really expects this resolution to be adopted by this House in the shape in which it appears at the present time. To begin with, men are referred to in the resolution as holding certain political offices, who to my knowledge, at least, do not hold the offices which they are charged with now holding. Surely it would be a matter of jest and ridicule all over Philadelphia, at least, where the eminent gentleman of whom I now shall speak, is known, to have him as Congressman from one of the principal districts of Philadelphia, referred to in this resolution, and even then not quite accurately, as William C. Vare, for many years a member of the State Senate of Pennsylvania. Surely so much of the resolution at least would invite a smile, as it already appears to have done in this House, and would be met with the same sort of jest on the outside. We are not as members of this legislative body, to go out before our constituents and the people at large in this State as a pack of fools, not knowing what we are to do, and calling the people to account who do not hold the offices which they are charged with holding in the indictment that is being made against them.

Then again I take issue with the gentleman's statements; any honest man, or men especially in a political campaign, have a perfect right to differ with each other. In politics we all understand that quite frequently charges are indulged in; charges made against men whom you never met in your life, and you are simply talking parrot fashion from what you heard the other fellow say, and by the time the last man has had his say the charges are a good deal worse than they appeared to have been when they were first made. You know that, and with the same telling effect certain men of the factional side of the party that I speak for undertook to make charges against the honored gentleman who is now the Speaker of this House, and they said that he was the toy, and tool and lick-spittle of a man named Grundy, whom I at least have never met, and upon whose solicitation I at least did not form the high opinion that I entertained of the Speaker of this House. And yet with that same freedom men talk about Grundy and Grundyism, as if it were some sort of disease that required their houses to be placarded with a sign to avoid it, because a member of the party happens to know men whom I do not even know.

I assure you in all fairness the day is coming in Pennsylvania when men must be men and be guided by the truth in political campaigns, with as much eagerness and justice as the preacher is charged with his duty in the pulpit. If you want men to hold public office give them at least the benefit of your honest judgment based upon honest facts, and not upon charges which are loosely thrown out in the midst of a political campaign. And such a sad case as this has come to pass in our State that the average man no longer believes what he reads in quotations in the daily press as coming from the lips of any man politically interested on the other side of the House. Let us if we must differ upon political questions, as we have a right to do, and as the founders of our nation and of this State intended that we should, but let us be just, let us be fair, let us do the right thing, let us be guided by the light of truth, and whether we be members of one party or the other, let us be honest with each other, and we will deal justly with the State whose fortunes we are asked to safeguard in this legislative assembly.

I am against this resolution because it means absolutely nothing but political buncombe from the beginning to the end; because it makes no specific charges against any man or set of men, but loosely talks of the freedom with which some men make charges one against the other. If there is anything to be investigated let us investigate it. But to show you with what shrewdness, with what cleverness, and with what scheming political design this resolution is drawn, the very last paragraph of it shows the sinister purpose of the hand that wrote it, for it says this: that the said committee shall consist of six members of this House, who shall be elected by the vote of this House. Think of it! Elected by the vote of this House. Now you are to vote on it, but notwithstanding the fact that you are to vote on it, you are told in the resolution how to vote, and it shall consist of two members who supported Mr. Cox for Speaker and two members who supported Mr. Baldwin for Speaker and two Democratic members. In the name of justice, what does this House know about the men who voted for or against the present Speaker of this Chamber? What right has this House as a legislative body, to know anything about the Republican Caucus? What right has the Republican side of this House to know anything about the Democratic Caucus? When we come here and the nominations are made, they are made from the floor of this Chamber by the respective parties and the men voting for or against one or the other are recorded on the Journal of this House and they appear here not as Democrats or Republicans but as members of this Legislative Body. We at least do not rehash and repeat here that which we are not supposed to have of any legislative knowledge outside of a legislative body. It shows the folly of the effort that is made to make capital out of a family quarrel on our side of the House. Let me say to you, my friends, you may have a few brooms you want to use, but there is a good many brooms left yet on the Republican side of the House which can be put to immediate use when we find it is time to clean out our stables.

Mr. CHESTNUT. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Fulton, Mr. Chestnut.

Mr. CHESTNUT. Mr. Speaker, I wish to tell a story. An Irishman was being tried for stealing a cow. He had no friends or money. I don't know who had the cow. The judge appointed the poorest young lawyer that there was there and the Irishman looked at him askance as though dubious of the result. The judge said, "Never fear, you will get justice." The Irishman replied, "By jabers, yer honor, that is what I am afraid of."

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Milliron.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I want to call the attention of this House to the fact that this resolution is not workable. On page 10, it provides, "First, That a committee consisting of six members of this House be appointed to investigate all and singular the said charges and the implications, etc." Then further down, "Third. That the said committee shall consist of six members of this House, shall be elected by the vote of this House, etc." Under this resolution we have absolute provision for two separate committees: One to be appointed by the Chair, the other to be elected by the House, and from the fact that this resolution is not workable I move you, Mr. Speaker, that further action on this resolution be postponed indefinitely.

Mr. GANS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Sarig and Mr. Canon, and were as follows:

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary of the Governor being introduced, presented communications in writing from His Excellency, the Governor, which were read as follows:

APPROVAL OF RESOLUTION.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, January 9, 1917.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylania.

Gentlemen: I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved a resolution of the Senate and House of Representatives providing for the participation in the parade following the inauguration of the President of the United States at Washington, D. C., March fifth, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, by the Commander-in-Chief and staff, and not exceeding one Brigade of the National Guard of Pennsylvania.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Also:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, January 22, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: In compliance with the Act of Assembly of 1915, Joint Resolution No. 65, I beg to advise that the Commission appointed by me under said Resolution has made an investigation into the practicability of manufacturing brick on an extensie scale at the Western Penitentiary in Centre County.

I beg also to advise you that I had an independent investigation made by the Warden of the Penitentiary and this, together with the report of the Commission, I herewith submit with the suggestion that inasmuch as it appears that the quality of the soil owned by the Commonwealth at this particular place does not lend itself to the manufacture of brick on an extensive scale, I would recommend that no further action at this time be considered to give employment to the inmates of this institution in the manner suggested by Joint Resolution No. 65, Session of 1915.

Respectfully submitted,

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

JOHN E. HANIFEN, Chairman. COL. C. A. ROOK, Vice Chairman. JOHN D. DORRIS, Sec. and Treas.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.
PRISON LABOR COMMISSION.
Real Estate Trust Building.
Philadelphia, Pa., December 18, 1916.

Excellency, The Honorable Martin Grove Brumbaugh, Governor of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.

My Dear Sir: The Commission appointed under Joint Resolution No. 65, to consider the practicability of establishing a brick manufacturing plant at the new penitentiary, respectfully reports that in accordance with the provisions of the Resolution they met and organized on July 24th, 1916. The Commission also met subsequently on October 23rd. None of the members of the Commission had any expert knowledge on the subject of brick manufacturing and no appropriation was provided for the employment of experts to advise the Commission.

At the request of the Chairman of the Commission an investigation of the matter was made by the State Highway Department. The State Highway Commissioner made the following report of that investigation:

"November 22, 1916.

Colonel C. A. Rook, President Board of Inspectors, Western Penitentiary, Pittsburgh, N. S., Pa.

My Dear Colonel: Accompanied by Mr. W. D. Uhler, our Chief Engineer, we went to the Penitentiary property on November seventeenth and made a personal inspection of the same, with a view of establishing a brick plant for the manufacture of paving brick for State Highway purposes at this institution. We find no deposits of clay suitable for that purpose. The Penitentiary property is situated in a limestone country which has a very thin covering of soil and no clay deposits that we could see. We therefore would think that it would be a waste of money even to try to test out the little bit of soil that is there for the purpose of brick making. If you will take the trouble to go on this property yourself you will find that the limestone is sticking out of the ground any place you look, and especially where there is some erosion exposing the same, it is known to be from one to two hundred feet thick through this valley. I do not believe that you could go more than a few feet on this property without striking the limestone.

I am still of the opinion, as expressed in my former letter, that this proposition is not a good one and it would only be a waste of money even to try an experimental plant, but still feel that there is an almost unlimited supply of good limestone, suitable for road building, which could be quarried and crushed to the proper sizes by inmates of the Penitentiary.

I think this is the only proposition there from which you could get any good results and, if you have the labor, it would be wise to have them quarry and prepare what stone they can for highway purposes.

Mr. Uhler has read this report and agrees with me in the same.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) F. B. BLACK,
State Highway Commissioner."

The Commission begs leave to submit that report as its own.

JOHN FRANCIES,
Warden.

WESTERN PENITENTIARY OF PENNSYLVANIA.
Pittsburgh, Pa., January 3rd, 1917.

Hon. Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Dear Sir: In accordance with our talk on December 12th, 1916, with reference to the Joint Resolution providing for and regulating a Commission to consider the practicability of establishing a brick manufacturing plant at the new penitentiary, permit me to say I had Mr. Herron take the matter up, and go over it carefully, and I am enclosing his report.

I regret to say, after having gone into the matter, that the prospects are not good for establishing a brick manufacturing plant on the prison grounds. There is brick clay in the valley, both North and South of the Institution, but not in sufficient quantities to justify going into the manufacture of brick on an extensive scale.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) JOHN FRANCIES,
Warden.

Enclosure.

JOHN FRANCIES,
Superintendent.

NEW WESTERN PENITENTIARY OF PENNSYLVANIA.
Bellefonte, Pa., December 27th, 1916.

John Francies, Supt. of Const., New Western Penitentiary, Pittsburgh, Penna.

Dear Sir: I have inquired from all sources I can think of to get some information concerning a possible brick clay deposit on this property, and the only location in which such a deposit might exist would be near the foot of the Nittany mountain, on the South end of the Zimmerman farm.

Have called the bankers in Bellefonte to see if anybody had ever thought of developments along this line in this vicinity, and find that none of them have any knowledge of such. I also called Mr. Harry Zimmerman, former owner of this farm, and he informe me that along time ago a group of men, of whom Governor Beaver was a prominent member, investigated and inspected his farm with view of starting a brick plant, and they passed an opinion at that time that there were a few acres at the South East corner of Mr. Zimmerman's farm having a clay deposit, heavy in iron ore, which resembles somewhat the clay vein existing at Mill Hall, from which Mill Hall brick are made. Mr. Zimmerman also stated that he had no knowledge of this deposit existing below a depth of about two feet, but that in all events, the group of men who inspected the property, did not consider it worthy of development.

I have no one on the job who knows anything about brick clay, and would suggest that in case you desire to investigate this more thoroughly, that some man be brought here, having expert knowledge of brick clays, and that we open up test pits near the foot of the mountain, in order to determine if there is any deposits worthy of development.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) JAS. W. HERRON.
Assist. Supt. of Const.

WRIT FOR SPECIAL ELECTION ISSUED.

The SPEAKER. The Chair presents to the House a writ to provide for an election to fill a vacancy in the Third Legislative District of Schuylkill County.

The writ is as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, ss.

To Charles Ditchey, Sheriff of the County of Schuylkill:

Greeting: Whereas, A vacancy exists in the office of Representative of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the Third Legislative District of the County of Schuylkill, composed of the townships of Union, North Union, East Union, Blythe, West Brunswick, East Brunswick, West Penn, Schuylkill, Kline, Rush, Ryan, Rahn and Walker, and the boroughs of Port Clinton, Tamaqua, New Philadelphia, Middleport, New Ringgold, Coaldale, Ringtown and McAdoo, caused by the reason of the death of B. Jefferson Yost, the Representative from said District, on the twenty-ninth day of December, one thousand nine hundred and sixteen.

Now, therefore, I, R. J. Baldwin, Speaker of the House of Representatives, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania, and by the Act of Assembly in such case made and provided, do hereby command you: That you cause an election to be held in the said Third Legislative District of the County of Schuylkill on the eighth day of February, A. D. one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, to choose a person to represent said Third Legislative District in the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania for the remainder of the term expiring December first, one thousand nine hundred and eighteen, and that you give due and public notice of said election throughout said Third Legislative District and to at least one of the inspectors of each election district therein, in the form and manner directed by law.

Given under my hand and seal at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, this 10th day of January, A. D. one thousand nine hundred and seventeen.

R. J. BALDWIN, (Seal)

Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania
County of Schuylkill ss.

Before me the subscriber, James R. Walton, Prothonotary, personally appeared Oscar Baird, sergeant-at-arms of the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, who being duly sworn according to law, doth depose and say that he served the within writ of election on Charles Ditchey, sheriff of the County of Schuylkill, by handing him a true and correct copy thereof and by making known to him the contents thereof.

Sworn and subscribed to before me this 15th day of January, A. D. 1917.

JAMES R. WALTON,
Prothonotary.

Commission expires first Monday in January, 1920.

OSCAR BAIRD,

Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE ON RULES.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires at this time to announce the Committee on Rules as follows: Messrs. Ramsey, of Delaware; Whitaker, of Chester; Heffernan, of Philadelphia; McCraig, of Allegheny, and Flynn, of Elk.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to and (at 10.25 P. M.) the House adjourned to meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1917 — 122nd of the General Assembly

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, JANUARY 23, 1917. No. 3.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, January 23, 1917.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the preservation of our lives and for this beautiful and inspiring day. We pray that we may put the proper estimate upon the opportunities that are constantly coming to us, to make for ourselves a larger and better life by helping in every way we possibly can our great State. We pray that it may become a pleasure for us to make it hard for people to do that which is wrong and injurious to themselves and to others, and easy to do that which is right. Guide us by Thy spirit so that we may live to Thy glory and to the best good of our fellows. We ask in our Saviour's name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. Kline, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

RECESS.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess until 11.45 o'clock this morning.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS.

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING.

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. McCONNELL offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, January 23, 1917.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Legislature adjourns to-day, it be to meet on Monday evening, January twenty-ninth, at nine o'clock.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

SENATE PROCEEDS TO HOUSE TO COUNT VOTE FOR STATE OFFICERS.

The hour of twelve o'clock having arrived,

Messrs. Rininger, Sinclair and Wynne, a committee from the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House of Representatives was ready for the reception of the President and members of the Senate for the purpose of witnessing the opening, counting and publishing of the official returns of the vote cast on the first Tuesday of November, A. D. 1916, for Auditor General and State Treasurer.

Whereupon,

The President and members of the Senate proceeded to the hall of the House of Representatives.

SENATE RETURNS FROM HOUSE.

After some time the President and Senators returned to the Senate Chamber.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain) in the Chair.

TELLER'S REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS OF JOINT SESSION OF SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES FOR THE OPENING, COUNTING AND PUBLISHING OF VOTES FOR AUDITOR GENERAL AND STATE TREASURER.

Mr. ENDSLEY, teller on the part of the Senate, made a report which was read as follows:

That the President and members of the Senate and the Speaker and members of the House of Representatives, met in the hall of the House of Representatives at 12.00 o'clock this day, and the Honorable Frank B. McClain, President of the Senate, in pursuance of the constitution and laws of the Commonwealth, did then and there proceed to open and count and publish the official returns of the election for Auditor General and State Treasurer, held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November last, being the seventh day of November, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and sixteen, in the City of Philadelphia, and the several counties of the Commonwealth, as follows:

UNVEILING OF MURAL PAINTINGS.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, January 23, 1917.

Hon. Frank B. McClain, President, State Senate, Harrisburg, Pa.

My dear Sir:—

I beg to advise you that in fulfillment of her contract with the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings, Miss Violet Oakley has completed and hung on the walls of the Senate Chamber five important paintings bearing upon the history of the Province and Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

These paintings have by our direction been draped, and the Board of Grounds and Buildings respectfully suggest that in the unveiling of them your body take such action as to you may seem wise.

With sincere regards, I am,

Very truly yours,

M. G. BRUMBAUGH,
Chairman.

The PRESIDENT. Inasmuch as the paintings by Miss Oakley hung in this chamber portray great epochal events in the history of this Commonwealth, it would seem that their unveiling should be attended with some formal and dignified ceremony.

Mr. W. W. SMITH. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. W. W. SMITH offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Lieutenant-Governor, President pro tempore of the Senate, and Senate Committee, of Public Grounds and Buildings, be and hereby are constituted a Committee to arrange for a formal unveiling of the paintings by Miss Violet Oakley, recently hung in this Senate Chamber.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, January 23, 1917.

The House met at 10.00 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. F. W. Staley, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we thank Thee that Thou art the creator of our bodies and the preserver of our lives. We thank Thee that Thou art our Father and that Thy Fatherhood hast been revealed to us through the person of Thine only Begotten Son who has taught us when we pray, "Our Father who art in Heaven, hallowed be Thy name; Thy kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven."

We thank Thee that Thou art a prayer hearing and prayer answering Father; and Thou hast said, ask and I will give thee the heathen for thine inheritance and the uttermost parts of the Earth for thy possessions; ask and it shall be given; seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be open unto you.

We ask Thy blessing upon this assemblage of men. We ask Thy benediction upon the Speaker of this House. May he so preside that he may have the approval of his own conscience and the approbation of his fellow men. Bless each member of the House and each employe; and may we so render our account that we may hear the words: "Well done, good and faithful servant. Thou hast been faithful over a few things. I will make thee ruler over many things. Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord; and unto the Father, Son and Holy Ghost we will ascribe everlasting praise in that world without end, Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when, on motion of Mr. Gransback the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF STANDING COMMITTEES.

The SPEAKER. Under the authority of the rules of the House, the Chair announces the following Standing Committees for this session. The Clerk will read the list.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE TO ESCORT SENATE.

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints the following Committee to notify the Senate that the House is ready to meet in joint session to compute the vote for the election of an Auditor General and State Treasurer at 12 o'clock noon: Messrs. Rininger, Sinclair and Wynne. The committee will notify the Senate that the House will be ready to meet them at 12 o'clock noon, and escort the Senate to the Hall of the House.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to announce for the benefit of the new members that on Monday they will find on their desks what is called the pink calendar. This calendar will give you notice of where all the bills introduced during the session are, and to what committees they have been referred, so that it is not so important to know exactly where the chair is referring them, or what the title and contents of the bills are. I merely say this for the benefit of the new members because I think they would like to know what the titles are. They will soon learn that these immediately appear on their desks, when they can examine them at their leisure. The Chair would like to say to the Chairmen of the various committees that it is important that you give careful consideration to the bills that you have in your committees while in committee. If there are any amendments to be made, in your judgment, to the bills, it is considered a courtesy to the member who introduced it to notify him to come before you and explain what his desires are, or what his aim is in the bill. The Chair feels that it is really of more importance to see that the legislation that passes through the House is carefully considered, and does not duplicate legislation that is already on the statutes. The Chair himself feels that it is not the great volume of bills that passes through the House that indicates that the House has been working and doing its duty; rather that the care be given to the bills, because if the bills are carefully considered in committee, it relieves the conditions on the floor of the House. If the bills come from the committee carefully prepared, and the Chairman, or some other member of the committee, or the author of the bill can clearly, in a few words, explain to the House the purpose and the nature of the bill, you will find that the time of the House will be very much economized. Therefore I do hope that the Chairmen of the various committees will be very careful to thoroughly understand the nature of the bills that they report to the House and that some one will be able to explain them, and that the Chairmen will be able to say when called upon that they have found that they are not duplications of the present law.

SENATE RECEIVED BY HOUSE TO COUNT VOTES FOR STATE OFFICES.

The Sergeant-at-Arms announced the return to the Hall of the Committee appointed on the part of the House to escort the Senate to the Hall of the House.

JOINT SESSION.

The SPEAKER. The time having arrived for the joint session of the Senate and House, members of the Senate will be seated, and Lieutenant Governor Frank B. McClain and President Pro Tempore E. E. Beidleman will come to the chair.

Lieutenant Governor Frank B. McClain presided.

TELLERS' REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS OF JOINT SESSION OF SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES FOR THE OPENING, COUNTING AND PUBLISHING OF VOTE FOR TREASURER AND AUDITOR GENERAL.

Mr. Edgar R. Smith, Teller on the part of the House, and Mr. Endsley, Teller on the part of the Senate, made a report, which was read as follows:

The President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House, having taken the chair, and Mr. Endsley, the Teller on the part of the Senate, and Mr. Edgar R. Smith, Teller on the part of the House, having taken their respective places, the Hon. Frank B. McClain, President of the Senate, addressed the Joint Session as follows:

"By the provisions of the Constitution it becomes the duty of the President of the Senate to open and publish in the presence of the members of both Houses, the official returns for the election of State Treasurer and Auditor General, held on Tuesday next following the first Monday being the seventh day of November, 1916, in the City of Philadelphia and the several counties of the Commonwealth.

"I will now proceed to perform that duty. The election returns will be read by the clerks and the results recorded by the tellers."

The said returns were accordingly opened and read by the clerks of the respective houses as follows:

(For tables showing returns, see to-day's Senate proceedings.)

Whereupon the President of the Senate announced that Harmon M. Kephart having received the highest number of votes was duly elected State Treasurer for the term of four years from the first Tuesday in May Anno Domini nineteen hundred and seventeen; and that Charles A. Snyder having received the highest number of votes was duly elected Auditor General for the term of four years from the first Tuesday in May Anno Domini nineteen hundred and seventeen.

Four certificates were signed in each case as follows, viz:

We, the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do certify that the President of the Senate did, on the twenty-third day of January, A. D. 1917, in the hall of the House of Representatives, at the State Capitol, open the returns of the election for State Treasurer of this Commonwealth, and publish the same in the presence of both Houses of the Legislature, conformably to the provisions of the Constitution and laws of said Commonwealth, and upon counting the votes by a teller appointed by each House, it appears that Harmon M. Kephart had the highest number of votes.

Whereupon,

The said Harmon M. Kephart was declared duly elected State Treasurer. In testimony whereof we have hereunto set our hands and seals the day and year above mentioned.

(Signed) FRANK B. McCLAIN,
President of the Senate.

RICHARD J. BALDWIN,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

JAMES W. ENDSLEY,
Teller on the Part of the Senate.

EDGAR R. SMITH,
Teller on the Part of the House of Representatives.

We, the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do certify that the President of the Senate did, on the twenty-third day of January, A. D. nineteen hundred and seventeen, in the hall of the House of Representatives, at the State Capitol, open the returns of election for Auditor General of this Commonwealth and publish the same in the presence of both Houses of the Legislature conformably to the provisions of the Constitution and laws of said Commonwealth, and upon counting the votes by a teller appointed by each House it appears that Charles A. Snyder had the highest number of votes.

Whereupon,

The said Charles A. Snyder was declared duly elected Auditor General. In testimony whereof we have hereunto set our hands and seals the day and year above mentioned.

(Signed) FRANK B. McCLAIN,
President of the Senate.

RICHARD J. BALDWIN,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

JAMES W. ENDSLEY,
Teller on the Part of the Senate.

EDGAR R. SMITH,
Teller on the Part of the House of Representatives.

The PRESIDENT. Having no further business the Chair declares that this Joint Session of the Senate and the House adjourn and the Senators will return to their Chamber.

THE HOUSE RECONVENES.

The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

Legislative Journal.

Session 1917 — 122nd of the General Assembly

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, JANUARY 29, 1917. NO. 4.

SENATE.

MONDAY, January 29, 1917.

The Senate met at 9.00 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. E. E. Beidleman) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, our kind Heavenly Father, we pray Thee to help us to listen to that voice which is always calling us to the higher ideals and the larger visions that have confronted us from time to time. Whatever lives we are living to-day we will have to carry with us later on and they will go through life with us as long as we live. We pray Thee to so guide us that we may find it our greatest pleasure to live and let live and help our fellow-men whenever we can. We ask in our Saviour's name, Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. SALUS, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

L. 58), entitled "An Act supplementary to an act, entitled 'An Act for the protection of the public health, by prohibiting the sale, offering for sale, exposing for sale, or having in possession with intent to sell, of eggs unfit for feed, as therein defined, and prohibiting the use of such eggs in the preparation of food products; providing penalties for the violation thereof, and providing for the enforcement thereof, approved the eleventh day of March, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nine; providing for the denaturing by kerosene of all eggs unfit for food, within the meaning of said act; and providing penalties for the violation thereof," providing for the licensing by the Dairy and Food Commissioner of persons, copartnerships, associations and corporations engaged in the business of separating good from bad eggs by the candling process, or of breaking eggs and using the content thereof; authorizing the Dairy and Food Commissioner and his agents and assistants to take samples of eggs for the purposes of analysis; and providing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation.

Mr. WILBUR P. GRAFF read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 63, entitled

An Act amending section one of an act approved the seventeenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (P. L. 507), entitled "An Act to provide revenue for State and county purposes, and, in cities co-extensive with counties, for city and county purposes; imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property; providing for the assessment and collection of the same; providing for the duties and compensation of prothonotaries and recorders in connection therewith; and modifying existing legislation which provided for raising revenue for State purposes.

Which was committed to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. NASON read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 64, entitled

An Act making it unlawful to obtain money, merchandise, property, credit, or anything of value by means of a check, draft or order for the payment of money where the maker or drawer has not sufficient funds in or credit with the bank, depository, person, copartnership, association or corporation for the payment of the same.

Which was committed to the Committee on Banks and Building and Loan Associations.

Also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 65, entitled

An Act relating to desertion and non-support, and directing imprisonment at hard labor in certain cases; providing for the payment of certain sums of money by either the institution wherein the dependent is confined or the respective county for the support of dependents; providing for the appointment of desertion probation officers and for their salaries and for the disbursement of moneys collected on forfeitures of bail bonds, bonds, or recognizances; and providing for the payment by the county of the salaries and expenses incident to the carrying out of the provisions of this act.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. LEIBY read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 66, entitled

Joint Resolution requiring semi-state and private charitable institutions to furnish to the Legislature a detailed statement showing how all moneys received by such institutions during the years one thousand nine hundred fifteen and one thousand nine hundred sixteen were expended, and denying aid to institutions failing to comply with this resolution.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. McNICHOL, for Mr. Beidleman, read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 67, entitled

An Act authorizing the Governor to appoint a Commission to purchase for public park purposes the site occupied by Camp Curtin during the Civil War; providing for the purchase and erection of a suitable monument or memorial; conferring certain powers on the Commission, and making an appropriation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appripriations.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. BUCKMAN from the Committee on Appropriations reported as committed Senate Bill No. 18, entitled

A supplement to an act, entitled "An Act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive, Judicial and Legislative Departments of the Commonwealth, interest on the public debt and the support of the public schools for the two fiscal years beginning June 1, 1915, and for payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May 31, 1915," and approved the 16th day of June, A. D., 1915, providing for deficiencies in certain appropriations made to the Judicial Departments by the act to which this is a supplement.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION FOR INFORMATION FROM ECONOMY AND EFFICIENCY COMMISSION.

Mr. DAIX offered the following resolution which was twice read, and referred to the Committee on appropriations:

In the Senate, January 29th, 1917.

Whereas, The General Appropriation Bill enacted by the General Assembly of 1915 provided money in accordance with Section fifteen of Article three of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, for the ordinary expenses of the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, The appropriation period covered by the General Appropriation Bill of 1915 will expire on May 31, 1917;

Therefore, Be it Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Economy and Efficiency Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be and is hereby directed to furnish not later than March 1, 1917, the following information:

First: Items appropriated to the Departments, Commissions and Boards of the Executive Branch of the Government for the two years beginning June 1, 1915, and ending May 31, 1917.

Second: The amount expended from each appropriation between June 1, 1915, and December 31, 1916.

Third: The estimated needs of each Department, Commission and Board of the Executive Branch of the Government for the two years beginning June 1, 1915, and ending May 31, 1917.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR IN RELATION TO SENATE BILL NO. 1.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, We have just received a communication from the Governor. Would it not be well before we commence to-night and fair to open that communication in the order of good business, and read it over, and if it pertains to any bill or resolution that we are considering to-night, then lay it before the Senate for its consideration. If it does not pertain to any resolution that we are considering tonight, then, of course, it does not make any difference when we hear from it.

Mr. PRESIDENT. I move that the Governor's message be considered at this time.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The communication from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, was then read as follows and laid upon the table:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, January 29, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: My attention has been directed to the Joint Resolution, known as Number 1, Senate File, Session of 1917, introduced by Senator Sproul, in place, January 22, 1917, and now before your honorable body for consideration.

I have no intention or desire to encroach in any way upon the prerogatives and services of the General Assembly or upon either branch thereof. On the contrary, I recognize these prerogatives and respect them. But I assume that in due time this Joint Resolution may reach me for my official action, and in order to save time and to accomplish as speedily as possible a proper investigation of any and all activities and acts of the Executive Department of the State government, I beg to invite now your considerate attention to some matters which I submit are of consequence in accomplishing the good that any investigation should have at heart.

I court and invite the widest and fullest investigation of my official acts and of those of all associated with me in public service. I wish only that this investigation be so free, so fair, so impartial and so thorough as to establish definitely the truth or untruth of any charges that may be made.

The Constitution and the laws contemplate a full, free, fair investigation if any be authorized by the General Assembly. We unhesitatingly invite such investigation. The Resolution referred to is vague, indefinite and opens the way to investigate endlessly all state officers and all city, county, borough and township officials, together with such individuals as the contemplated committee may elect to consider or investigate. The Resolution ought in simple fairness to be so phrased as to indicate in some definite manner what departments and what specific functions should be investigated. I beg further to submit that such investigation should follow only in cases where some credible authority makes charges or indicates that such investigation is necessary. This should be clearly set forth. Nor does this Resolution hold any evidence to the people of Pennsylvania that this is other than a factional contest from which no essential good can flow to the people of this Commonwealth.

Final report of this Commission should in justice to all be made at this session of the Assembly, that proper action may be taken by the Assembly and the Executive to safeguard the general welfare.

If in your wisdom you so desire I shall at any time confer with the President of your body, the Speaker of the House or any committee you may designate to consider what constitutes a fair, a free, a frank and an impartial procedure.

Yours very respectfully,

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

BILL ON SECOND READING.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1, entitled

A Joint Resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to investigate alleged mal-administration in public office and making an appropriation therefor.

The resolution was read as follows:

Be it Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That a joint committee consisting of three (3) members of the Senate, one of whom shall be of a minority political party to be appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate and four (4) members of the House, one of whom shall be a minority political party, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, be created for the purpose of making a full, free, unobstructed, comprehensive and impartial investigation of all and singular the aforesaid matters and charges, and

Be it Further Resolved, That said joint committee is hereby directed to organize forthwith after the approval of this joint resolution by the Governor to hold such and as many hearings as it may deem necessary, to summon witnesses to further the purposes of this investigation, to issue subpoenas, administer oaths and compel the attendance of such witnesses, and the production of all such books, bills, checks, checkbooks, papers, minutes, records, vouchers, agreements and all each and every other form of written or documentary evidence as may be pertinent or germain to the inquiry, and

Be it Further Resolved, That the said joint committee shall be vested with the fullest and most complete powers which the General Assembly by virtue of the Constitution and all Acts of Assembly can confer upon such committee for the accomplishment of its purposes, and

Be it Further Resolved, That the said joint committee shall be authorized to employ auditors, accountants, counsel learned in the law, stenographers, clerks, messengers, investigators and all such other clerical or skilled assistance as may be necessary for the proper discharge of the duties hereby imposed upon said committee and to further the inquiry by them to be made, the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate is hereby directed to attend said joint committee, to serve all subpoenas issued by it and generally to enforce all the orders which said joint committee is hereby authorized to make, and

Be it Further Resolved, That said joint committee shall from time to time report its findings to the General Assembly with such recommendations as the members deem expedient, to the end that proper legislation may be enacted to remedy and prevent such abuse as may be found to exist and that said joint committee shall also be empowered to certify to the prosecuting officer or officers of the proper jurisdiction the proceedings of the committee, setting forth any violation or violations of law committed within their respective jurisdiction for such action as the law provides, and

Be it Further Resolved, That it is the sense of the General Assembly that it is contrary to public policy and to the interests of good order that any person giving evidence before said joint committee tending to show that he or she has been in any manner implicated in the corrupt practices above mentioned should be indicated and prosecuted for the offense disclosed by such evidence or admission so given or made by him or her, and

Be it Further Resolved, That the sum of twenty-five thousand ($25,000.00) dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically provided to defray the expenses necessarily incurred by said joint committee in the discharge of the duties imposed upon it, and that payment shall be made on order of the Chairman of said joint committee and on warrant of the Auditor General in the manner now prescribed by law.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, in view of the communication just received from the Governor, I move that the question, together with the further consideration of this resolution be postponed until to-morrow.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, if I am in order, I would like to give my reasons at this time. There can be no harm in postponing this resolution until to-morrow. The Senate will probably meet to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock, and by that time, the parties in interest may get together and agree that the message of the Governor is after all the proper and real solution of this question. I hold no brief for any man. I ask for the forgiveness of no man. If any wrong has been committed in this Commonwealth, it is your duty and mine to see that that wrong is corrected, and that right should be done, not only to those who are charged, but to the entire citizenship of this Commonwealth. Every man, woman and child, all the eight million of them, are entitled to know whether we here assembled to-night are playing fair with ourselves and with our constituents. If we are playing fair with those who are holding office, and if after that investigation, if it be fair and impartial, and any man is found to hold a public office in this Commonwealth, who has done wrong, this present General Assembly ought to know it and such action taken as is fitting to the crime that may have been committed, or the wrong that may have been done. When you have such an open, frank, manly statement made, as the one just made by your chief executive officer, that he invites an investigation, so long as you play fair with those who you are going to investigate, how else can any fair minded man vote except to at least be given a fair opportunity to see what is intended by this resolution. As I look at this resolution it seems to me as it now stands, that this thing is tainted with political leprosy, that it is not an honest, that it is not a fair, that it is not a righteous measure, and is not anything that the citizenship of this Commonwealth can be benefitted by. It is presented in this form by a man—I don't know just how to express it—by a man whom I regard as one of Pennsylvania's noblest citizens; by a man who, I feel, would do injustice to no man, and would play fair with every movement and everything that might be done under a resolution, if he believed it was honest and fair, and reading what he said when he presented this resolution, I believe that he believes that it is not an honest resolution, and I want to read it to you."

"Mr. Sproul. Mr. President, I desire to state, in presenting this resolution, as I offer it in the full knowledge that, should it become a law, I cannot accept a place upon the Commission which it creates even though I should be tendered such a post. Other duties here and elsewhere will absolutely prevent my giving this matter the time and attention which it will require. I am asking for the passage of this resolution as a matter of duty to the people of the State, to this Legislature and to the party to which I belong, as well as with the desire to give any one who has been unjustly accused or criticised an opportunity to set himself right."

Mr. President, I do not feel that that is a full statement, because there is no man in Pennsylvania more so than the Senator who offered this resolution who would sacrifice his time, his own business interests, his own welfare, more readily than the man who presented that resolution, and I believe down in the inner recesses of his heart, he feels as I feel, that it is not playing fair, it is not an open, frank resolution, and it does not say what it really wants to do. What is this resolution? What does it say as it now stands, and whom does it intend to investigate? Who knows? Nobody knows by reading it. If it is going to be used to investigate the brewers, who are now under indictment, if it is going to be used for that, we are all for it. Is it going to be used to investigate the powerful railroads of Pennsylvania, who are now the dominating power in this Commonwealth, if it is going to be used to investigate these people, well and good, but let them say so. Is it going to be used to investigate the sixty-one members of the House of Representatives who a certain manufacturer openly and broadly stated that he financed their campaigns—if it is going to be used for that purpose, well and good, we are all for it; and why, as we stand here, were those sixty-one members elected? Were they elected by this one man for the purpose of taking from our statute books any laws passed at the last session of this legislature which were unfair and unjust, and a detriment to the citizenship of this Commonwealth? If they are, all right, let them investigate and let us take those laws from the statute books. Or were they elected for the purpose of taking from our statute books the Child Labor Law, that has done so much good for the people of this Commonwealth and placed this Commonwealth where it stands? Are they going to try to repeal the Workmen's Compensation Law passed by the last session of the Legislature, because it is not a fit law to be on the statute books? If it is let us investigate. Or is this resolution one that is going to be used to blackjack into submission those of us who will not stand up and be dictated to by the powers that now control this Commonwealth? I want to say to you members that the regime of the late Matthew Stanley Quay and of his cohorts is slowly, slowly passing, not only from this Commonwealth, but from every Commonwealth in these great United States, and the political game from now on will have to be played along new lines. You will have to if you want to remain in the game, play it with the people, the rule and the reign of the people is on you, and those of you who do not heed the warning are going to go back to your homes never to be heard of again. The individual workman and the farmer and the individual citizen must rule this Commonwealth as they rule the other Commonwealths. Gentlemen, unless this Commission is fair, unless this investigation is right, every man that touches it one way or the other will be sorry for the moment that he does it. You can take your minds back to the old Catlin Commission, if you will, and I hate to talk about it, but I want to bring warning to the new men that if you do not want to pay the penalty to your constituents, heed the warning tonight. The Catlin Commission went back to their people at the election and were repudiated. Time heals many things, and time healed for some of them, whether for the new Commission time will heal for you if you do not heed the warning I do not know, but one thing I do say to you, do not be a part and party to a political blackjacking game, but play it fair, play it honest and let us not have a Commission and go; but let us have one that must perform its duty and answer here to us at this session not one that will be raising abuses and slandering people and accomplishing nothing. If it is going to be a commission that is honest, if that is the purpose, let us have one that will make every man that has committed a wrong pay and pay now, not two years from now, pay now and here his price, for all he has done. I for one am not going to try to forgive any man who has done an injustice to the people of this Commonwealth, and I ask you to allow this measure to go over until to-morrow in order that we might find out whether or not this body in all its grandeur, the lawmaking and the powerful body that it is, may give the citizenship of Pennsylvania once and all an investigating committee that will do its work, and do it now and bring any wrongdoer to justice.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, if I am in order, in replying to my friend, the Senator from Philadelphia, on the question of the postponing of the consideration of this bill, I would like to say that I dislike very much to disillusionize my good friend from Philadelphia. I appreciate the friendship shown in his remarks and the friendship shown by long association, and I only wish that I had the power of eloquence which he possesses, that I might explain how thoroughly in earnest I am in this matter and how thoroughly necessary for the welfare of the State I believe the adoption of this resolution is, just exactly as it stands. To set the Senator aright in another matter, if I were a lawyer like he is and were accustomed to procedure such as is necessary in the transaction of this business, nothing would please me better than to be Chairman of this Commission, because neither in my time nor at any other time, so far as I am aware, in the history of the State, has such a Commission been so necessary. Talk about political blackjacking; talk about blackjacking, indeed! Has anybody in the history of Pennsylvania ever seen such a condition as prevailed prior to the election of the Speaker of the House of Representatives only four short weeks ago? Has anybody seen such bullyragging and dragooning and prostitution of the Departments of the State government and such an invasion of the powers and rights and privileges of the members of this Legislature as was shown then? Has anybody ever before seen the officers of this State, the officials who are paid by the people of Pennsylvania to come here and do their duty, sent around on miserable errands of intimidation to say the least, to bring about votes for a certain faction? I want to say to you Philadelphia Senators and to every one else in Philadelphia right now, that this factional row in Philadelphia is not the business of the people of Pennsylvania, and I for one, although I live in an adjoining county, am sick and tired of it, and I believe the people of this State are heartily tired of having their politics submerged in this factional row in Philadelphia. I do not care whose fight it is, or anything about it, and I want to say for the county I represent that our people even the commuters, who go to Philadelphia every day, drop their city politics when they cross the county line and I may say that Philadelphia factional politics does not get over that county line by half an inch. The man who lives in the first house in my county, takes an interest in his own county politics and forgets the Philadelphia fusses the minute he leaves the city.

This investigation is brought about by the bringing of the state government into the Philadelphia factional politics, and nothing else. The unfortunate man—and I say it in sorrow—who sits at the other end of this building in his official capacity, has been brought into his present condition of mind and reputation in this state simply because he has allowed himself to be drawn into this mess and has become the tool and creature of Philadelphia factional politics. Talk about factional politics being played fairly! Was there ever such a condition?

Now about the purposes of this resolution, I think they are clearly stated, and I do not consider that the Governor of this Commonwealth—and in my time it has not happened before—is playing his part of the duties of managing this great state when he offers a gratuitous affront, almost, to the presiding officers and the membership of this body by insinuating that the President pro tem. of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives cannot appoint a fair commission. Why the bill itself provides that the minority party shall be represented and if the presiding officers, who have been chosen by the members of these bodies, by overwhelming majority in one case, and unanimously almost in the other—if they have not the justice in them, and the judgment, to appoint the right kind of a commission, it is a pity that any of us have been elected here to sit in this Senate. So far as the investigation is concerned, I want to see it fair, square, honorable and honest, and want to say I believe it will be; and if it is necessary to investigate the brewers or the great railroads, or the Bell Telephone Company, or the paving trust, or the electric combination, or any other combination which is playing politics in Pennsylvania, I am willing to plow to the end of the furrow with it.

I do not think anything will be gained by postponing this bill to-night. It is not on final passage, it cannot be passed in this house until to-morrow, and then it has to go to the House of Representatives, and run its course there. If there are any amendments that ought to be made, there is plenty of time to do that after to-night, and the bill might just as well take its course. There is a very good reason why it should, so that we can proceed with our other business in orderly fashion, that the excitement which is interfering with the regular course of business of the Senate and House of Representatives may pass away and that we may go on and attend to the business of the State, for which we are here.

Mr. CHARLES A. SNYDER. "To-morrow and to-morrow and to-morrow creeps in this petty pace from day to day until the last syllable of recorded time." What else is the purpose of this motion to lay over this resolution until to-morrow morning, except that some petty pace may creep in and be delayed to-morrow and to-morrow. The purpose of the motion was, as I understood, not to discuss its merits, but to lay it over for what, the reason wherefore? When I was a prosecuting officer and a defendant was under indictment or a prosecutor desired more time in order to compromise or to get more testimony, the usual experience offered me was that some one would come and say, "Let it go over until to-morrow so we can get together." Now I take it from the speech of the Senator from Philadelphia that there is a purpose in his motion to lay over this resolution until to-morrow, and that purpose is compromise, something that will go to affect the great dignity of this state. I have nothing to do with the purpose of this resolution at this time and I am not going to speak about that, but I do wish to say, Mr. President and Members of the Senate, that I think it is a gratuitous action upon the part of the Executive of this Commonwealth to present, if you please, an argument or reason to the Senate of Pennsylvania why it should not act upon a resolution before the body for its consideration at this time. Let me say to you, I think that is more serious than the laying over of this resolution. I think it is more pertinent to the members of this Senate whether or not before an action is taken by this Senate the Chief Executive of the Commonwealth should protrude himself and his reasons. It matters not what the proposition before the Senate is. I think it is unconventional. I think it is exercising a perogative that the Senate of Pennsylvania should resent and I for one will not subscribe or transfer my rights as a Senator of Pennsylvania, whether I am for or against this resolution, or for or against any other bill that may come before this Senate to any other power except the power that sent me here. That has been the objection, if you please, that has been the plea of the people of this Commonwealth, that the legislative power should be left without trammel, without molestation, without menace, if you please; it should be left to the proper body to act upon matters that come before it without any interference from any superior power, and that, I think, should be resented this evening. Now then as to the argument of the Senator as to the purpose of the resolution. Let me say, if any good could be obtained by putting it over until to-morrow, except that of delay, I would consent. But to-morrow comes, the bill would be on second reading, the bill will then perhaps be amended; something may be stricken out, even a typographical error; it goes over until Wednesday for further reading; it will be acted upon on third reading next Monday night. The Senate and House may adjourn for two weeks or three even, some interference of Providence or some other matter; and then the resolution goes over and "To-morrow and to-morrow and to-morrow creeps in this petty pace."

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I would like to make some explanation, first I would like to answer the Senator from Schuylkill, Mr. Snyder, by saying that if there were any ulterior purpose in the motion to postpone this resolution for one day, one objection on the night when the resolution was offered would have sent it over for one day. The last day we met here all hands agreed to let the resolution go, but one objection would have sent it over for one day, so I do not think there is much in that argument by my friend from Schuylkill. I want to say also that I have had some little experience with investigating business, and I probably know as much about it as any other Senator sitting in this room, and maybe a little more, I am sorry to say. On August 6, 1896, a committee was sent first to Pittsburgh, and they heard one witness, and then got what they wanted and came on to Philadelphia. The newspapers had a boundary line between the United States and Canada with my friend Senator Martin climbing over the United States line into Canada. Well, now, just what happened? The committee organized in Philadelphia, and was about ready to send out subpoenas when the Honorable David Martin, sitting here, walked in and said, "I read in the newspapers that I was going to be subpoenaed here. I am here without a subpoena, and I want to be heard." They said, "You have not been subpoenaed. We are not ready for you." He went back the second day and the third day and finally was heard, and after he was heard and two or three more of his friends, the last scene of that committee was headed by Senator Andrews running as fast as he could run for Crawford County, and nobody made any report of any of their actions. The next nommittee was appointed to make a general investigation, the same as this resolution calls for. It was the Catlin Commission. It was originally appointed for another purpose, as all the old members in this Senate well know, but when the mayoralty contest in Philadelphia came on it was brought down there to Philadelphia—for no other purpose than to change the sentiment in Philadelphia, and it did change sentiment in Philadelphia,so that it elected an independent mayor, with the result that so far as the commission was concerned one of them never sat at all, the Democrat stood up two days after and said he was disgusted with the whole business, two of the members were defeated for a return to this chamber, and my friend here on the right had his majority reduced from some twenty odd thousand down to twenty-five hundred.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Vare.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Vare, what Senator Catlin's vote was this last time, whether he did not have the endendorsement of all parties in his district.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, Mr. Salus has already answered that, he said he lived it down. Gentleman, no friend of this administration fears a legislative investigation. I have not heard of a single person who cares anything about it, if it is fair. I do not believe anybody else has heard it. First, I want to show what reputable men and newspapers are demanding.

A certain paper charged the Governor with asking for $30,000 to be used at his discretion in the maintenance of his official family and for travel, etc. The truth is, the Governor never asked for one cent for such purposes. When he was inaugurated on January 19, 1915, the contingent fund of his predecessor made to cover the two fiscal years ending in June, 1917, was all exhausted, and was so exhausted on December 7, 1914. The Assembly thereupon in the deficiency bill appropriated the Governor $5,000 for the remainder of the fiscal year which sum he cut to $4,000 and lived within this income absolutely. That means that the Legislature appropriated for former Governor Tenor $17,500 for his personal expenses to cover the expenses of the Commonwealth, and it was intended to last until the end of the fiscal year. On December 7, just seventeen months later instead of two years, the money was all expended and some bills were owing at the mansion when Governor Brumbaugh took office.

The Act of Assembly appropriating to the Executive the contingent fund now available made the fund expendable at the discretion of the Governor. He was not obliged to file any account whatever with the Auditor General. He determined to file an account that all who cared to do so could ascertain how this fund was expended. He did not include in this account any items for his personal use, not even for his food at the mansion, nor the food for the nine employes at the mansion, who are placed there by Acts of Assembly and had been there when he went there.

On May 13, 1915, the Auditor General unsolicited in any way by the Governor wrote as follows:

"It has come to my attention through your vouching your contingent fund that you have not included any expenses for maintenance of the table, etc., of the Executive Mansion. I am assuming that you have, therefore, been maintaining the table and some other incidental expenses of the household of the Mansion, out of your private purse. I do not believe that this was either within the intention of the Legislature or is in keeping with the dignity of the Commonwealth. The Legislature specifically said that the appropriation in question should be spent in your discretion, and really requires the filing of no vouchers on your part, but since you have adopted the system of vouching it the same as all other appropriations, I feel that I have a right to make a suggestion.

"It is the duty of the Auditor General to see that money is properly spent as well as that none should be spent improperly. I would therefore respectfully suggest that you have a right to include among your vouchers those incurred for the necessary maintenance of the table and other incidental expenses of the household of the Mansion which is substantially the guest house of the Commonwealth in the occupancy of yourself as Chief Executive.

"If I have intruded or made any improper suggestion, please be frank to say so, but I felt it my duty for the reasons above stated."

Following the views of the Auditor General that the Mansion is "substantially the guest house of the Commonwealth," and that the Governor should not maintain "the table and some other incidental expenses of the household out of his private purse," the account was filed in full, giving the items in detail.

Under these facts there is no ground of any sort for censoring the Executive. He has acted in open honesty. He has done all that the law requires and has done more. Is he to be persecuted because he is absolutely right and frank in the fullest way?

I challenge anyone to name one single act of his that is in any way dishonest or illegal. His whole life is an open denial of all such insinuations and in due time the people will speak on this matter. To them and to them alone is the Assembly responsible for making this appropriation, and the Governor for its use, as by law he was directed to do.

The Public Ledger for January 23, 1917, says:

"September 27, 1916. One hundred and seventy dinners at Juniata College." The intimation is made that this was given to the students of the college.

The facts are, Mr. President, that the Governor was taking a party over the roads through the agricultural districts in this Commonwealth at their own individual expense, and it was just as little as this Commonwealth could do through its Governor to give that party one dinner. That ought not to be considered for a minute. I am just giving you a few of these items so you can see how unreasonable and unfair some of the newspapers are.

"May 28, 1915. Fred S. Lack, tailor, pressing clothes, $7.65."

The truth is—This was a debt authorized by the Mansion housekeeper and the clothes were the clothes of the butler, not the Governor.

Same date. "Peerless Laundry, doing shirts and collars, $6.43."

The truth is—This was an account incurred by the butler and other servants, and not by the Governor.

"August 9, 1915. To William H. Rau, one Commonwealth group photograph sent to Winston Churchill, Windsor, Vt., $1.50."

The truth is—That Winston Churchill was the guest of Pennsylvania's Fourth of July Commission at Philadelphia and Valley Forge. A photograph was taken and the Governor's secretary, Mr. Hiatt, sent the photo. The Governor had nothing to do with it and is now censured for sending his own photo to Mr. Churchill, which is absolutely untrue.

"August 9, 1915. Check for $21, to cover price of six meal tickets at Menger's restaurant, Harrisburg, for Mrs. and Miss Stephens from July 8 to July 24."

The truth is—The Mansion was then undergoing repairs. All the attendants were laid off, save the laundress and the housekeeper, both needed at the Mansion. They could not provide food at the Mansion. They went out to the restaurant. Money was saved, not wasted, by this necessary transaction.

The Governor is reputed to have attended a dinner to his friend, Colonel Louis J. Kolb, and that the cost of the dinner was charged to the State.

The truth is—The Governor was not at the dinner. He was unable to go, owing to public business.

Mrs. Brumbaugh is reported in the Ledger of January 24 as purchasing for herself certain buttons, lace, etc., from Bowman and Company at Harrisburg.

The truth is—The buttons were for the servants in the Mansion and the lace was used to cover some pin cushions in the Mansion. The housekeeper had reported that new pin cushions were needed. The lace was put on the old ones and will be in the Mansion long after Mrs. Brumbaugh has left and yet this lady is censored because she is an economic and capable manager.

Mrs. Brumbaugh went to New York upon invitation of the campaign committee and attended a breakfast to Mrs. Hughes the day the women's train went West. This is her only trip to New York.

The Governor never smoked a cigarette. The cigars and cigarettes were purchased for State dinners and other entertainments which almost daily fall upon the Executive in his official capacity.

Not one cent was ever spent by the Governor for liquors of any sort.

He has been the target of abuse solely because he was frankly honest in itemizing all the sources of expense. He is a poor man. He cannot save any of his salary and is in no sense extravagant, as anyone knows who is at all acquainted with him.

The thing he needs as a citizen he pays for as a citizen. The things he officially needs, he officially must purchase, as Governor he charges, as he is by law authorized to do, to the contingent fund given him by the Assembly for that purpose.

Now, gentlemen, you can go on with twenty-five or thirty more of these items, and show how unfair and ridiculous the newspapers are. When you present a resolution and ask a body of sane men to pass it on newspaper articles, such as these, a lot of busy men and doing business in different parts of the State and country, what justification have they to pass any such resolution without first having a complaint from some reputable citizen and some reputable newspaper? So far as I have been able to learn, I have not found any complaint from any reputable citizen except one.

Now, insofar as investigating expenses is concerned, you can take it from me, and I know what I am talking about when I say to you, that in the election of Governor Brumbaugh every dollar that was given to that committee was expended and accounted for. I stand here before all this great crowd in this chamber to-night and look you right in the eye, Mr. President, every dollar was accounted for and will come out in due time, and there will not be any question about it; nobody need worry about that.

In reference to not making returns for elections, just let us see how these election returns are made. I am familiar with some little of it. This is what Mr. Grundy says to a meeting of the manufacturers, part of the manufacturers, in Philadelphia: "Your President has been accused of activity in connection with the election of Richard J. Baldwin as Speaker of the House. To this charge he cheerfully pleads guilty. The management of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers association has not been idle during the last twelve months, fully cognizant of the importance of the speakership contest and intentions of the administration to renew the tactics of 1915.

Now, gentlemen, they were busy, but there are no returns in the expense account as to what they did. Some people around this state know a little something about what was done and how it was done. I am not one of those fellows that stand up here and complains about what others do, but we ought to be fair about this. If it is going to be an investigation that amounts to anything, let it be fair. Let it all be investigated and the quicker they investigate, the further the investigation goes, if it is fair and under fair conditions, the better we all like it.

I do not know that there is much else that I can say in connection with this matter, except that I want to say for the Governor and those connected with him, I do not care how quickly the investigation starts; do not care how far the investigation goes, as long as it is fair, and we certainly ought to be big enough, sane enough, and sound enough to see that the investigation is fair if one is started, and I want to conclude by saying that I want to dispel from the minds of all the members of the Senate here any intention on the part of any of the Governor's friends to postpone this for the purpose of delay.

Senator Sproul well knows all we needed to do was object the other day and the bill would be on first reading now instead of second. The responsibility for any mistake in reference to this resolution does not rest on any of my friends nor myself, so it is not our worry as to who brings about a condition whereby a party may be hurt. I am not going to put it in that shape. I am not going to lean on the party. I am talking about a square deal for a man who was always honest with the people, whom I know to be honest and is believed to be honest by all the people in the state and the answer is, gentlemen, that the last time he ran before the people of this state he polled more votes than any other state or national officer for a delegate to the National Convention notwithstanding that they had gotten a dummy by the name of "Bumbaugh," that took ninety thousand votes additional from him, so it does not seem that the voters of the Commonwealth think that this Governor has not done the fair and right thing, and I hope the gentlemen of the Senate will look at this condition exactly as it is. This is a resolution for political purposes, no more, no less.

And he question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SALUS and Mr. VARE, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—20

Burke,	Jenkins,	McKee,	Smith, R. E.,
Craig,	Jones,	Patton,	Smith, W. W.,
Graff, J. F.,	Lynch,	Phipps,	Snyder, P. W.,
Haldeman,	Magee,	Salus,	Stewart,
Homsher,	Martin,	Semmens,	Vare,

NAYS—24

Baldwin,	Graff, W. P.,	Sassaman,	Wasbers,
Buckman,	Hackett,	Schantz,	Weaver,
Catlin,	Leiby,	Snyder, C. A.,	Beidleman,
Croft,	McConnell,	Sones,	Pres. pro tem
Crow,	McNichol,	Sproul,
Daix,	Miller,	Tompkins,
Eyre,	Nason,	Warner,

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, when this bill was reported from the Appropriation Committee there were two words, typographical errors, corrected in that bill. In the reprint these words have not been corrected. I therefore move to amend this bill by striking out in line 14, of page 4, the word "indicated" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "indicted;" also in line 19, page 4, by striking out the word "provided" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "appropriated."

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution as amended?

It was agreed to.

The preamble of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

Whereas, Statements have been made by reputable citizens and the responsible press of this Commonwealth alleging mal-administration on the part of public officers by their gross extravagance, by their mis-use of public funds, by their continued absence from their respective offices, by their failure to properly discharge duties imposed upon them by statute, by their wilful malicious and unnecessary delay in the transaction of public business, by their intimidation and coercion of employes and business interests by their mis-use of appointive administrative and regulative authority, by their alleged bribery in bargaining and selling as rewards for votes of Members of the General Assembly offices and positions created by the public and supported by the public for the transaction of public business, by perjury on the part of certain officials in accepting public offices from which they have knowingly disqualified themselves by violating the Corrupt Practices Act of this Commonwealth, by repugnant and flagrant political activity on the part of semi-judicial officers, by the encroachment of the Executive upon the Legislative Branch of the Government, and

Whereas, Such officers debauch, defame and disgrace the fair name of this Commonwealth, demoralize the public service by their malfeasance and hold up to ridicule its citizenship, and

Whereas, The above-named charges and allegations concerning the conduct of public business by its recognized officials and subordinates have so aroused public sentiment concerning the administration of the affairs of this Commonwealth as to demand a full, free, unobstructed comprehensive and impartial investigation of the public business; Now, therefore

The title of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

A Joint Resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to investigate alleged mal-administration in public office and making an appropriation therefor.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. PLYMOUTH W. SNYDER. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the Senate agreed to the title.

Mr. W. W. SMITH. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, January 29, 1917.

The House met at 9.00 o'clock P. M.
The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. S. G. Zerfass, of Ephrata, Lancaster County, offered the following prayer:

Gracious God, Creator and Preserver of the Universe. We pause at the opening of the session to-night to place ourselves in harmony with Thy great plans. We realize that it is unwise and sinful to hinder Thy purposes. Bless us with a humility and knowledge to appeal for Divine wisdom and a spiritual recognition of Thy messages. Incline all of us to stop and pray, watch and act with pure motives. Give us broader views of our duty to Thy spiritual direction and grant us that peace of mind that fills the submissive soul. Make known Thy law and Thy love to all Thy people in all lands. May we gather inspiration from the most gracious and devout life and character of the lamented President McKinley whose birthday we to-day commemorate, and in full obedience to Thy will, not ours, may we draw ever nearer to Thee, dear Lord, beseeching Thee to vouchsafe peace, prosperity and happiness to all. We ask these blessings in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, Thy Son and our Redeemer. Amen.

RESOLUTION REQUESTING INFORMATION FROM COMMISSIONER OF FISHERIES.

Mr. SPANGELR offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the House of Representatives, January 29, 1917.

"Whereas, By joint resolutioin of the Pennsylvania Legislature, approved the 22nd day of April, 1913, P. L. 112, the Pennsylvania Water and Water Power Company was directed to install an adequate fishway on or before November 1st, 1913, through its dam erected across the Susquehanna river at Holtwood, and spanning the river between the Lancaster and York County shores; and

Whereas, In the event of failure on the part of the Company to so construct said fishway on or before November 1st, 1913, the Commissioner of Fisheries was authorized to construct a fishway at said dam at the cost of said Pennsylvania Water and Power Company, and in the event the work is to be done by the said Fish Commissioner, he is authorized to collect, in the name of the Commonwealth, the cost thereof, with a penalty of fifty per cent. additional; and

Whereas, The said joint resolution provides that if the said Company shall not begin said work as aforesaid, the Fish Commissioner shall lay the matter before the Attorney General, who shall forthwith by quo warranto proceed to have the powers and privileges heretofore vested in said Company revoked; and

Whereas, It appears an adequate fishway has not been constructed at said dam by the Pennsylvania Water and Power Company nor by the Commissioner of Fisheries, nor has the delinquency of said Company been laid before the Attorney General for action, as commended by said joint resolution, ,

Now, be it resolved, That the Commissioner of Fisheries be requested to furnish the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania with the following information on or before the third Monday of February, 1917:

First: The reason for the neglect of the Pennsylvania Water and Power Company in disobeying the mandate of the Legislature of Pennsylvania requiring the construction of an adequate fishway.

Second: The reason for the neglect of the Commissioner of Fisheries to construct said fishway in compliance with the aforesaid joint resolution.

Third: The reason why the delinquency of said Company in its failure to construct an adequate fishway was not laid before the Attorney General of the State, with a request to him to proceed by quo warranto proceedings against said Company."

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will certify the same to the proper official.

COMMUNICATION RELATIVE TO THE DELAWARE RIVER BRIDGE.

The SPEAKER. The Speaker also received the following communication which the Clerk will read.

The Clerk read the communication as follows:

"Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, January 15, 1917.
To the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the President of the Senate of the State of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.

Gentlemen: At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, held on January 11th, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, the Joint Committee on the Delaware River Bridge find that New Jersey has appointed a Commission, with power to make preliminary surveys and report on the proper time and position of such a bridge, and on approval of this report by the various County Officers to accept bids, issue bonds and to build and operate the bridge, therefore this Committee recommends that the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce urge upon Councils of Philadelphia, and the Pennsylvania Legislature to appoint a Commission of the City of Philadelphia, or State of Pennsylvania with like powers and an equal appropriation."

Will you kindly see that this resolution is presented to your respective bodies and advise the result of any action that may be taken by them.

Respectfully yours,
N. B. KELLY,
General Secretary."

(For report, see Appendix.)

COMMUNICATION FROM PHILADELPHIA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE RELATIVE TO DELAWARE RIVER BRIDGE.

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate communication from the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, which was read as follows, and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

PHILADELPHIA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

N. B. Kelly, General Secretary.

January 15, 1917.

To the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the President of the Senate of the State of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.

Gentlemen: At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, held on January 11th, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, the Joint Committee on the Delaware River Bridge find that New Jersey has appointed a Commission, with power to make preliminary surveys and report on the proper time and position of such a bridge, and on approval of this report by the various proper County Officers to accept bids, issue bonds and to build and operate the bridge, therefore this Committee recommends that the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce urge upon Councils of Philadelphia, and the Pennsylvania Legislature to appoint a Commission of the City of Philadelphia, or State of Pennsylvania with like powers and an equal appropriation."

Will you kindly see that this resolution is presented to your respective bodies and advise the result of any action that may be taken by them.

Respectfully yours,

N. B. KELLY,
General Secretary.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from Committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. EYRE, from the Committee on Public Roads and Highways, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 10, entitled:

An Act permitting counties of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to appropriate and expend moneys for the improvement and maintenance of State Highways and State Aid Highways in any county of the Commonwealth.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. BUCKMAN, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported, as committed, the following resolution:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION FOR INFORMATION FROM ECONOMY AND EFFICIENCY COMMISSION.

In the Senate, January 29, 1917.

Whereas, the General Appropriation Bill enacted by the General Assembly of 1915 provided money in accordance with section fifteen, of Article three, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, for the ordinary expenses of the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, the Appropriation period covered by the General Appropriation Bill of 1915, will expire on May 31, 1917:

Therefore, Be it Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), that the Economy and Efficiency Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be and is hereby directed to furnish, not later than March 1, 1917, the following information;

First: Items appropriated to the Departments, Commissions and Boards of the Executive Branch of the Government for two years beginning June 1, 1915, and ending May 31, 1917.

Second: The amount expended from each appropriation between June 1, 1915, and December 31, 1916.

Third: The estimated needs of each Department, Commission and Board of the Executive Branch of the Government, for the two years commencing June 1, 1917, and ending May 31, 1919.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions to lie over for one day, be suspended, and that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just reported from Committee.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL OVER IN ORDER.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 1, on third reading, entitled:

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. S. G. Zerfass, offered the following prayer:

Kind Father in Heaven we recognize Thy supreme providence and Thy protecting care over us during the silent shades of another night without any visible mark of Thy displeasure. We thank Thee for the beautiful sunlight of this day; may it be emblematical of the light of Thy countenance shed abroad in our hearts. Grant that we may appreciate the greatness of the natural world and thereby lay fast hold of Thy spirit which enlightens our minds, broadens our sphere of action and illuminates our souls. We praise Thy most Holy Name. May it ever be hallowed so that we may glorify Thy greatness and perform our mission on earth by serving God and man as was the import of the law given on Mount Sinaii. May the coming of Thy Kingdom in our hearts be hastened whilst we build our characters on Jesus Christ as the cornerstones with God's plan and materials from the fountain of truth and a workmanship that needeth not be ashamed. Amen.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like each member of the House to carefully examine in his Smull's handbook page 1057, Rule 39, not just at the present time, but I want to call the attention of the House to this Rule. My thought is that we will adjourn to meet this evening at five o'clock, if it is the wish of the House. The purpose of calling your attention to this Rule is that it refers to the Speaker's keeping proper order in the House, and also refers to the question of who shall be permitted the privilege of the floor of the House. The Speaker's thought is that we could keep much better order in the House if that Rule were enforced. It is one of the Rules that in the past has seldom been enforced. Your present Speaker does not desire to be harsh in the enforcement of the Rules of the House, but if it is the wish of the House that this Rule be enforced your Speaker stands ready to enforce it. My own personal judgment is that if this rule were enforced it would tend to expedite the business of the House, and it would give to our body a dignity that I think we owe the State. However, I want the members to think it over carefully, and this evening I would like to have an expression of the House on this particular Rule. The meeting for this evening of course, is for the purpose of referring bills that may be presented to-day.

I would suggest to the Chairmen of the various committees that they this afternoon organize and agree upon their procedure within their own respective committees. I again want to urge upon the members of Committees the importance of carefully considering and thoroughly understanding every bill that comes on the floor of the House. I am sure that you will all agree with me that if the Committees do their work carefully, it will expedite business on the floor of the House.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 11.55 A. M.) the House adjourned until this afternoon at 5.00 o'clock.

SENATE MESSAGE.

REQUESTING INFORMATION FROM THE ECONOMY AND EFFICIENCY COMMISSION.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate:

In the Senate, January 29, 1917.

Whereas, The General Appropriation Bill enacted by the General Assembly of 1915 provided money in accordance with Section fifteen of Article three of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, for the ordinary expenses of the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, The Appropriation period covered by the General Appropriation Bill of 1915 will expire on May 31, 1917;

Therefore, Be it Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Economy and Efficiency Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be and is hereby directed to furnish, not later than March 1, 1917, the following information:

First: Items appropriated to the Departments, Commissions and Boards of the Executive Branch of the government for two years beginning June 1, 1915, and ending May 31, 1917.

Second: The amount expended from each appropriation between June 1, 1915, and December 31, 1916.

Third: The estimated needs of each Department, Commission and Board of the Executive Branch of the Government for the two years commencing June 1, 1917, and ending May 31, 1919.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

SENATE MESSAGE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows, viz:

TIME OF NEXT MEETING.

In the Senate, January 30, 1917.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns to-day it be to meet on Monday evening, February fifth, at nine o'clock; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it be to meet on Monday evening, February fifth, at nine o'clock.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,
Will the House concur in the resolution?
It was concurred in.
Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to say to the House with reference to Rule No. 39, called to your attention in the morning session, that the Chair is of the opinion that it would be wise to put that matter over until some time next week so that the members will have time to think it over.

There is another matter that I would like the members to think over and that is that if we have short sessions the members who have to travel a long distance are unable to go home in the interim. The thought has occurred to the Chair that it might be practical and we could get along with our work just as fast if we would work four or five days for two weeks and then take a recess for a week, it would then give the distant members a chance to go home such as the nearby members have. I would like the members of the House to discuss the matter among themselves, and I would be glad at any time to entertain a resolution along that line so that it can be discussed and passed upon.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I move this House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 5.20 o'clock P. M.) the House adjourned until Monday, February 5, 1917, at 9.00 o'clock P. M.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1917 — 122nd of the General Assembly

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1917. No. 6.

SENATE.

MONDAY, February 5, 1917.

The Senate met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, the Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God we have arrived at a momentous crisis in our National life. The solution of one of the world's most crucial problems is testing the genius of American statesmanship. We believe that we voice the feelings and thoughts of all sincere and loyal American citizens when we pray that Divine wisdom and supernatural self-control be given to the President of these United States and his advisers in this great crisis. May the very atmosphere of our great Nation be charged with the spirit of fairness and justice to all the nations involved in this terrible war and may the priceless and inalienable rights of Humanity be the uppermost thought in the minds of our distinguished American statesmen. These blessings we ask in our Saviour's name, Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HOMSHER, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION CONVEYING TO THE PRESIDENT AND FEDERAL GOVERNMENT ASSURANCES OF LOYAL SUPPORT IN THE PRESENT NATIONAL CRISIS AND CALLING UPON CITIZENS OF PENNSYLVANIA TO GIVE TO THE PRESIDENT AND FEDERAL GOVERNMENT PATRIOTIC SUPPORT AND ASSISTANCE.

Mr. SPROUL offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Whereas, The President of the United States has informed the Congress that a very grave crisis exists in the international relations of the country which in his opinion may lead to the necessity of defending our national rights, dignity and honor by force of arms; all other reasonable and honorable means having failed after patient and forbearing negotiations, now, therefor be it

Resolved (if the House concur), that the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, sitting in General Assembly at Harrisburg, do send to the President and government of the United States assurances of the loyal support and full co-operation of Pennsylvania in every national undertaking which in their wisdom may be necessary to meet the situation and to protect and vindicate American rights, dignity and honor, wherever or by whom they may be endangered, and be it further

Resolved, That the General Assembly calls upon the people of Pennsylvania to give to the President and the Federal Government in all ways their patriotic support and assistance in whatever plans or measures may be required in the present emergency, as they have done in the past in every crisis in the nation's history; and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the Commonwealth be and he is hereby requested to forward copies of these resolutions to the President of the United States and to the presiding officers of both of the Houses of Congress.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions to be referred to the proper committee, be suspended, in order that the resolution may be considered at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,
Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,
The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 1, as follows:

A Joint Resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to investigate alleged mal-administration in public office and making an appropriation therefor.

Whereas, Statements have been made by reputable citizens and the responsible press of this Commonwealth alleging mal-administration on the part of public officers by their gross extravagance, by their misuse of public funds, by their continued absence from their respective offices, by their failure to properly discharge duties imposed upon them by statute, by their wilful, malicious and unnecessary delay in the transaction of public business, by their intimidation and coercion of employes and business interests by their misuse of appointive, administrative and regulative authority, by their alleged bribery in bargaining and selling as rewards for votes of members of the General Assembly offices and positions created by the public and supported by the public for the transaction of public business, by perjury on the part of certain officials in accepting public offices from which they have knowingly disqualified themselves by violating the Corrupt Practices Act of this Commonwealth, by repugnant and flagrant political activity on the part of semi-judicial officers, by the encroachment of the Executive upon the Legislative Branch of the Government, and

Whereas, Such officers debauch, defame and disgrace the fair name of this Commonwealth, demoralize the public service by their malfeasance and hold up to ridicule its citizenship, and

Whereas, The above-named charges and allegations concerning the conduct of public business by its recognized officials and subordinates have so aroused public sentiment concerning the administration of the affairs of this Commonwealth as to demand a full, free, unobstructed, comprehensive and impartial investigation of the public business; now, therefore.

Be it Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That a joint committee consisting of three (3) members of the Senate, one of whom shall be of a minority political party to be appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate and four (4) members of the House, one of whom shall be a minority political party, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, be created for the purpose of making a full, free, unobstructed, comprehensive and impartial investigation of all and singular the aforesaid matters and charges, and

Be it Further Resolved, That said joint committee is hereby directed to organize forthwith after the approval of this joint resolution by the Governor to hold such and as many hearings as it may deem necessary, to summon witnesses to further the purposes of this investigation, to issue subpoenas, administer oaths and compel the attendance of such witnesses, and the production of all such books, bills, checks, checkbooks, papers, minutes, records, vouchers, agreements and all each and every other form of written or documentary evidence as may be pertinent or germain to the inquiry, and

Be it Further Resolved, That the said joint committee shall be vested with the fullest and most complete powers which the General Assembly by virtue of the Constitution and all Acts of Assembly can confer upon such committee for the accomplishment of its purposes, and

Be it Further Resolved, That the said joint committee shall be authorized to employ auditors, accountants, counsel learned in the law, stenographers, clerks, messengers, investigators and all such other clerical or skilled assistance as may be necessary for the proper discharge of the duties hereby imposed upon said committee and to further the inquiry by them to be made, the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate is hereby directed to attend said joint committee, to serve all subponeas issued by it and generally to enforce all the orders which said joint committee is hereby authorized to make, and

Be it Further Resolved, That said joint committee shall from time to time report its findings to the General Assembly with such recommendations as the members deem expedient, to the end that proper legislation may be enacted to remedy and prevent such abuse as may be found to exist and that said joint committee shall also be empowered to certify to the prosecuting officer or officers of the proper jurisdiction the proceedings of the committee, setting forth any violation or violations of law committed within their respective jurisdiction for such action as the law provides, and

Be it Further Resolved, That it is the sense of the General Assembly that it is contrary to public policy and to the interests of good order that any person giving evidence before said joint committee tending to show that he or she has been in any manner implicated in the corrupt practices above mentioned should be indicted and prosecuted for the offense disclosed by such evidence or admission so given or made by him or her, and

Be it Further Resolved, That the sum of twenty-five thousand ($25,000.00) dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to defray the expenses necessarily incurred by said joint committee in the discharge of the duties imposed upon it, and that payment shall be made on order of the Chairman of said joint committee and on warrant of the Auditor General in the manner now prescribed by law.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,
On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend the bill on page 4, in line 11, by inserting after the word "and" the following: "That the said investigating committee shall make its final report to the General Assembly not later than June 1, 1917, and"

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The amendment was agreed to.

On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

Mr. WASBERS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend the bill on page 2, line 8, by inserting after the word "and" the following: "Whereas the honesty and integrity of certain members of the General Assembly of this Commonwealth and the senior United States Senator from this Commonwealth have been attacked by persons prominent in the public service and by the public press, it having been charged that these legislative representatives of the people have been and in fact are the representatives and servitors of special interests seeking legislation to promote their selfish purposes rather than the public good,

"Whereas, This General Assembly cannot permit to go unchallenged the libeler and slanderer, or unpunished the public official who, if the charges be true, has so basely and wantonly betrayed the people of the Commonwealth, and." Also line 18, by inserting after the word "business" the following: "And whereas, such investigation should be conducted by men of whose fairness there can be no possible suspicion, whose eminence, worth and integrity as men and citizens are a guarantee of the fairness, impartiality and thoroughness of such investigation." Also line 22, by striking out all after the word "met" down to and including the word "and" on page 4, line 19, inserting in lieu thereof the following: "1.—That the Honorable John Stewart, of Franklin County; the Honorable Edwin S. Stuart, of Philadelphia; the Honorable Mayor Sulzberger, of Philadelphia; the Honorable William A. Glasgow and General Albert J. Logan, be, and they are hereby constituted a Commission to make a full, free, thorough, comprehensive and impartial investigation of all and singular the aforesaid matters and charges, and the implications and intendments thereof, and all matters, facts, circumstances and things, directly or indirectly connected therewith. 2.—That the said Commission be and it hereby is directed to organize forthwith after the approval of this joint resolution by the Governor, to hold such and as many hearings as may be necessary, to summon witnesses to further the purposes of this investigation; to issue subpoenaes, administer oaths, and compel the attendance of such witnesses, and the production of all such books, bills, papers, minutes, records, vouchers, agreements, and of each and every other form of written or documentary evidence as may be pertinent and germane to the inquiry. 3.—That the said Commission be, and it hereby is vested with the fullest and most complete powers which the General Assembly by virtue of the Constitution and all Acts of Assembly can confer on such Commissions for the accomplishment of its purposes. 4.—That the said Commission be, and it hereby is authorized to employ auditors, accountants, counsel learned in law, stenographers, clerks, messengers, investigators, and all such other clerical or skilled assistance as may be necessary for the proper discharge of the duties hereby imposed upon it, and to further the inquiry by it to be made. The Commission is hereby authorized to appoint a marshal or marshals to attend it, to serve subpoenaes issued by it, and generally to enforce all the orders which it is hereby authorized to make. 5.—Said Commission shall, on or before May 1, 1917, report its findings to the General Assembly with such recommendations as it deems expedient, to the end that proper legislation may be enacted, to remedy and prevent such abuses as may be found to exist, and said Commission is hereby empowered to certify to the prosecuting officer or officers of the proper jurisdiction its proceedings, setting forth any violation or violations of law committed within their respective jurisdictions for such action as may be provided by law. 6.—That it is the sense of the General Assembly that it is contrary to public policy and to the interests of good order that any person giving evidence before said Commission tending to show that he or she has been in any manner implicated in the corrupt and unlawful practices referred to in the said charges, should be indicted and prosecuted for the offense or offenses disclosed by such evidence or admissions so given by him or her, and that all such persons should be immune from prosecution for any offense or offenses concerning which they are compelled to testify before the said Commission, but this shall not be deemed or taken to exempt any person or persons from prosecution for perjury in giving such testimony. 7.—That any and all vacancies in the membership of the Commission hereby created, whether by death, resignation or declination to serve, shall be filled by the remaining members of said Commission, and any person so selected shall have the same power and authority as though he or she had been originally appointed and designated by name in this resolution."

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Delaware, Mr. Sproul, will state his point of order.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, the Legislature cannot, I believe, under the Constitution, delegate its powers to any outside body, and this amendment would create a commission to which such powers were delegated. I raise this point, Mr. President, with great regret, for I would like an investigation of conditions here by just such a commission.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Delaware, Mr. Sproul, objects to the amendment.

Mr. WASBERS. Mr. President, owing to the fact of these accusations of both parties, it is to be presumed by a Democrat that there is reason for investigation, and in presenting those amendments, I concluded that was a remedy for a fair and impartial investigation, and if the law is inadequate I am very sorry.

The PRESIDENT. For the information of the Senator from York the Chair would quote Section 1 of Article II of the Constitution, which reads: "The legislative power of this Commonwealth shall be vested in a General Assembly, which shall consist of a Senate and a House of Representatives." And all interpreters of the Constitution agree that the General Assembly cannot exercise any powers that have not been invested in it by constitutional mandate, neither can the General Assembly delegate any of the powers committed to it to any other body or any other person. A perusal of the authorities on the Constitution will convince the Senator that they unanimously agree on that point.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

SPECIAL ORDER.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, in view of the fact that this resolution, Senate Bill No. 1, has been tossed around this Senate since January 22nd of this year, I move that a special order be set for its consideration on final passage for to-morrow at four o'clock, so that all the members may know of it and be present in their seats to pass upon it.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Mr. P. W. SNYDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 11.30 o'clock P. M. until Tuesday morning, February 6, 1917, at 11 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, February 5, 1917.

The House met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. S. G. Zerfass, offered the following prayer:

Kind and Ever Blessed Father in Heaven, be with us now as we assemble in this evening hour, and bless us in our several capacities as Thou seeth that we stand in need of. Thou knowest our every shortcoming. O may we continue to delight in Thy law and ponder over it by day and by night.

We pray Thee that we may be like trees planted by the rivers of water that bring forth their fruit in due season, and that our leaves shall not wither, but that whatsoever we do may prosper and bear fruit an hundred fold.

Grant that we may be rooted and grounded in truth and render protection as the shade of a stately tree gives protection to man and beast.

Gracious God, cause us to have noble ideals, to attain lofty aspirations, and imbue most holy inspirations.

Give ear to our entreaties; consider our meditations: rebuke us not in Thine anger; chasten us not with Thy displeasure; cause us ever to put our trust in Thee.

Surely Thy blessing will be with us all. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of the proceedings of Tuesday, January 30, 1917.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the proceedings of Tuesday, January 30, 1917, when, on the motion of Mr. Bovee, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

RESOLUTIONS ENDORSING ACTION OF PRESIDENT WILSON.

Mr. Goodwin asked and received unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

RESOLUTION.

In the House of Representatives, February 5, 1917.

Whereas, the President of the United States has deemed it necessary for the honor of the United States, for the protection of its citizens, and for the welfare of humanity, to sever relations with the German Empire, therefore

Be it Resolved, That we, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, do hereby endorse the action of the President of the United States in severing relations with the German Empire, and pledge our full and hearty support to him in any difficulty that may arise through such action.

Resolved further, That this Resolution be spread upon the Journal and that a certified copy thereof be forwarded to the President of the United States by the Chief Clerk of this House.

RESOLUTION.

Mr. LAUCKS offered the following resolution which was twice read, and laid over under the rules:

Whereas, The President of these United States has felt it necessary to the maintenance of the honor and dignity of our country that the diplomatic relations between this Republic and the Imperial German Government be severed, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That we solemnly recognize the gravity of the situation which has interrupted the friendly relations heretofore existing between our Government and the German people, but fully realize that the action of the President of the United States was necessary to the preservation of the honor of the Nation and the dignity of our Government, and we, therefore, heartily commend him for the fearless devotion to the country's welfare and pledge to him the loyal support of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

RESOLUTION.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Phillips.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to read the following resolution:

Whereas, A crisis has arisen in the affairs of the nation and grave dangers may confront the Government of our Republic, and

Whereas, It is the duty of Pennsylvania, the State in which the Union was born, and which has never faltered in its loyalty to our Republic, to support the National Administration and the American Congress in its stand for American rights on the high seas, and

Whereas, It is highly essential that Pennsylvania should be represented in the United States Senate during the present crisis, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Honorable Boies Penrose is hereby requested to remain in Washington during this great emergency and to give sober consideration to the office which he assumes to represent, and for the time being at least permit the Pennsylvania Legislature to conduct its own business, and be it further

Resolved, That this resolution be disseminated and widely published throughout this Commonwealth by the newspapers of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania so that all counties, cities, boroughs, townships, boards of education, school boards, public and private institutions throughout this Commonwealth, and private citizens, be informed of the adoption of this resolution by the General Assembly.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the resolution be read the second time.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the second reading of the resolution?

It was not agreed to.

RESOLUTION.

Mr. DRAKE offered the following resolution, which was twice read and laid over under the rules:

RESOLUTION ENDORSING ACTION OF PRESIDENT WILSON.

Resolved, That whereas diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany have been severed; and whereas, the people of the United States is confronted with a crises that calls for definite decision; and whereas, the General Assembly are confident that the President of the United States will not permit himself to be swerved from the path of manifest duty by evil advisors, realizing in this situation there is no partisanship, no thought of party, and whereas, the House of Representatives and the Senate of Pennsylvania are sincere in their belief that President Wilson's decision can be no other than for the good of keeping the Nation's faith—that such a decision will be a decision for right and not wrong, and waiting it with confidence and with calmness. For every sacrifice that keeping the faith of the Nation and maintaining its honor may entail, the General Assembly and the American people will be ready and the only sacrifice they are not now ready to make, nor ever will be, is the sacrifice of this Nation's soul; and whereas, until American citizens have been killed by German submarines there is no sufficient ground for a declaration of war, and all the invectives heaped upon the President because he does not ask Congress to declare war immediately is as ignorant as it is unpatriotic; and whereas, it is an affront to the President of the United States and to the common sense of the country to give counsel of calmness, to urge resistance to public clamor of which there is none. Knowing that the President will find a way of conciliation if any way be open and if it does not lead to dishonor. Believing in entering upon transactions of this magnitude and this seriousness, the American people see not one side alone, they have in full view the possible consequences of a breach of friendly relationship with Germany. They know where it will lead. But against them we weigh with a sense no less just what would befall us if we supinely put up with the injuries Germany threatens to inflict if we bore without resistance the wrongs she will commit against our rights, our dignity as a Nation, our property, and against the security of the very lives of our citizens.

Therefore be it resolved (if the Senate concur), That the House of Representatives and the Senate of this Great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pledge our support and the support of our people to President Wilson in the great crisis existing between our Government and Germany, and to stand behind the President and the Federal Government in his course toward Germany in preserving the honor and integrity of this great Nation, expressing the hope that peace may still be continued with honor. Be it further resolved, That Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor of this great Commonwealth, be instructed to inform President Wilson that the State stands firm behind him with all resources at its command in this present inter-national crisis.

RESOLUTION.

Mr. WALLACE offered the following resolution, which was twice read and laid over under the rules:

Resolved, That the Chairman of the Slate Committee of the House of Representatives is instructed to report to this body not later than Tuesday, February 13, 1917, the name, home address, salary and occupation of every employe of the pay-roll of the House of Representatives for the session of 1917, together with the name or names of the person or persons who recommended such employes for appointment, and set forth whether or not the person appointed is actually rendering the service for which he was appointed.

Be it Further Resolved, That a statement of the current expenditures of all persons employed by the House of Representatives for telephoning, traveling, and any other items of expense which have been charged to the State since the beginning of the session to and including February 7, 1917, be included in the report to be made under the direction of this resolution.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. This is a resclution submitted to this House for unanimous consent.

The SPEAKER. I would remind the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Cox, that there are only certain resolutions that can come up for immediate consideration. All others lie over under the rules.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, this is a question of inquiry for information.

The SPEAKER. The Chair does not so understand the resolution. It is not a department that the inquiry applies to. I would remind the gentleman from Philadelphia that it applies to an individual. The gentleman has a right to appeal from the Chair's decision.

BILL ON FIRST READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 95, entitled

An Act to amend an act entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An Act to provide for the erection of a house of employment and support of the poor in the County of York'" approved the first day of April, one thousand eight hundred and five (Pamphlet Laws 203), to enlarge the powers and duties of the directors of the poor and of the house of employment for the County of York; to authorize the said directors to purchase lands and erect buildings thereon for the employment and support of the poor in the County of York and to sell the site and buildings of the present almshouse; to authorize the county commissioners of the County of York to procure a loan to purchase said lands, erect said buildings, furnish the same and prepare said plans and specifications and to use certain funds now on deposit and belonging to the poor district and such sums as may be realized from the sale of the present almshouse; and to levy and collect the taxes necessary to redeem said loan; and authorizing the court to appoint viewers to examine the work done and report upon the completion of the contract and fixing the pay of said viewers.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER. I think most of the members of the House will agree with me that this is a very good time to work inside. The weather conditions are such that I do not think any of the farmer members will want to work on the outside, at least this week. Therefore, I would suggest that if the Committees will get together we can do considerable work. I hope that the Chairmen of the various Committees will do what they can to get out, after careful consideration, whatever bills they may have in their hands.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. RININGER. Mr. Speaker, I move this House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 9.25 o'clock P. M.) the House adjourned until to-morrow morning at 10.00 o'clock.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1917 — 122nd of the General Assembly

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1917. No. 7.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, February 6, 1917.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. E. E. Beidleman) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer

Almighty God, in this great national crisis, through which we are passing, Thou hast given to us a President who has proven himself to be the man of the hour. In every crucial period of American history we have been similarly favored. The State of Pennsylvania unanimously endorses the action taken by this Senate in committing its citizens to the enthusiastic support of the President in his purpose to defend and protect all American rights. So guide us we pray Thee that our great leaders may be calm and considerate, just and deliberate, in all their decisions and in all of their acts. We pray these blessings in our Saviour's name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HOMSHER, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary to the Governor being introduced presented communications in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which were laid upon the table.

RESOLUTION CALLING FOR INFORMATION AS TO SENATE EMPLOYES.

Mr. A. E. SMITH offered the following resolution, which was twice read and referred to the Committee on Appropriations:

Resolved, That the Chairman of the Slate Committee of the Senate is hereby requested to report to the Senate not later than Tuesday, February 13, 1917, the names, home address, salary, and occupation of all employes on the payroll of the Senate for the session of 1917, together with the name of the person or persons who recommended such employes for appointment, and to set forth the fact whether or not the person appointed to each place is actually performing the duties for which he was appointed.

Be it further resolved, That a statement of the current expenditures of all persons employed by the State for telephoning, traveling and any other items of expense which have been charged to the State since the opening of the session, to and including February 7, 1917, be included in the report to be made under the direction of this resolution.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING.

Mr. CROW offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, February 7, 1917.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns on Wednesday, February seventh, it be to meet on Monday evening, February twelfth, at nine-thirty o'clock; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it be to meet on Monday evening, February twelfth, at nine o'clock.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

HOUSE MESSAGE.

HOUSE CONCURS IN RESOLUTION CONVEYING TO THE PRESIDENT AND FEDERAL GOVERNMENT ASSURANCES OF LOYAL SUPPORT IN THE PRESENT NATIONAL CRISIS AND CALLING UPON CITIZENS OF PENNSYLVANIA TO GIVE TO THE PRESIDENT AND FEDERAL GOVERNMENT PATRIOTIC SUPPORT AND ASSISTANCE.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented communication from the House of Representatives, informing the Senate that the House has concurred in Resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate, February 5, 1917.

Whereas, The President of the United States has informed the Congress that a very grave crisis exists in the international relations of the country which in his opinion may lead to the necessity of defending our national rights, dignity and honor by force of arms; all other reasonable and honorable means having failed after patient and forbearing negotiations, now therefor be it

Resolved (if the House concur), That the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, sitting in General Assembly at Harrisburg, do send to the President and Government of the United States assurances of the loyal support and full co-operation of Pennsylvania in every national undertaking which in their wisdom may be necessary to meet the situation and to protect and vindicate American rights, dignity and honor, wherever or by whom they may be endangered, and be it further

Resolved, That the General Assembly calls upon the people of Pennsylvania to give to the President and the Federal Government in all ways their patriotic support and assistance in whatever plans or measures may be required in the present emergency, as they have done in the past in every crisis in the nation's history; and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the Commonwealth be and he is hereby requested to forward copies of these resolutions to the President of the United States and to the presiding officers of both of the Houses of Congress.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

RECESS.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for ten minutes.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS.

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. CROW from the Committee on Executive Nominations reported with a favorable recommendation all the nominations received from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, at to-day's session.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

By unanimous consent,

A motion was made by Mr. SALUS,

That Rule 38, which requires nominations made by the Governor to lie on the table one day, be dispensed with, and the Senate do now resolve itself into Executive Session, for the purpose of acting upon all the nominations reported at to-day's session.

Which was agreed to.

Whereupon,

A motion was made by Mr. SALUS,

That the Senate do advise and consent to the nominations reported.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—48.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING THE CHIEF CLERK OF THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC PRINTING AND BINDING TO PERFORM ALL DUTIES AND TO EXERCISE ALL POWERS BY LAW IMPOSED ON THE SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC PRINTING AND BINDING UNTIL AN APPOINTMENT TO FILL SAID OFFICE IS CONFIRMED.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. CROW offered the following resolution, which was twice read as follows:

Whereas, Because of the resignation of the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding and because no appointment to fill the resulting vacancy has as yet been confirmed, there is no person authorized to perform the duties or to exercise the powers imposed and conferred by law upon the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding; and

Whereas, It is desirable and necessary for the proper administration of the Department of Public Printing and Binding that there be a person vested in the said powers and duties; therefore

Be it resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Chief Clerk of the Department of Public Printing and Binding is hereby authorized, until an appointment to the office of Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding is confirmed by the Senate, to perform all the duties and to exercise all the powers imposed and conferred by law upon the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding, with like effect as if the same had been done by the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding regularly appointed and confirmed.

The Chief Clerk shall receive and open all bids, and shall award contracts for executing the public printing and binding for term of four years from the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, as provided by the general law.

The Chief Clerk shall also sign and approve all pay rolls and all other orders and vouchers which the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding is by law authorized to sign and approve.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions to be referred to the proper committee, be suspended in order that the resolution may be considered at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 9, as follows:

An Act to provide for the change of object of the corporate existence and authorizing and providing a mode for the dissolution and surrender of charters of fire companies

Whereas In and by the establishment of paid fire departments voluntary fire companies are superceded and as such their services as firemen dispensed with

And whereas Many companies in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania have been incorporated either by the Legislature or by the courts under authority given by law

And whereas Some of the companies when such paid fire department is established may be desirous of continuing and maintaining their existence as corporations but for a different purpose than the object specified in their charter or act of incorporation whilst others are desirous of disbanding or dissolving and surrendering the powers vested in them by their charters or acts of incorporation and dividing amongst such of their members as may be entitled thereto whatever property or effects they may be seized possessed of or enjoy or the proceeds thereof

And whereas Doubts have arisen whether under any law usage or practice now in force or prevailing in this Commonwealth it is competent for any of the incorporated companies to disband or dissolve and divide amongst their members the property effects or proceeds thereof belonging to such corporation or to change the object for which they have been incorporated for the purpose therefore of providing a mode whereby any of the said companies may change the object for which they were or have been organized and incorporated or to disband dissolve and surrender the powers and authorities vested in them by virtue of their charter or acts of incorporation by whomsoever granted or allowed

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That any incorporated fire company (including therein engine hose or hook and ladder companies by whatever name called) upon the establishment of a paid fire department by the municipality the domicile of said incorporated fire company that may be desirous of continuing or maintaining their corporate existence for literary charitable benevolent or loan and trust purpose whatever or as a hall association or society for the mutual benefit of its members may by a vote of the majority of its members present (who by the laws of the particular company are or may be entitled to vote) at a stated meeting after at least one month's notice has been given declare the purpose and object for which they desire to continue as aforesaid Such company shall within three months thereafter present their petition to the court of common pleas of said municipality and county praying that the purpose or object for which they may desire to continue their corporate existence as aforesaid may be approved by said court whereupon said petition shall be filed and if the object or purpose therein expressed and stated shall appear to the judges of the said court to be lawful and not injurious to the community and if no sufficient objection thereto be shown by any person or persons interested therein the said court shall on the first day of the next succeeding term not less than four weeks after the filing of the said petition enter their decree approving of the object or purpose for which such corporation shall thereafter continue a certified copy of which decree shall be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of said county and thereupon such object or purpose shall supersede the object or purpose named or expressed in the charter or act of incorporation of said company and shall be as valid and binding as if the same had been the original object or purpose for which such company had been incorporated And such company may also issue shares of stock not exceeding in amount the value of their property and effects and distribute the same to and amongst the members thereof entitled thereto said shares to be assignable and transferable in the usual manner the holder or holders of any share or shares to be entitled to one vote for each and every share held by him her or them such company may also by and with the assent and approval of the said court change the name of such corporation and provide for its management by such officers and board of directors or managers not exceeding seven in number exclusive of president and treasurer as to them may seem just and expedient

Section 2 That if any of the companies named in the first section of this act shall be desirous of disbanding dissolving and surrendering their corporate existence it shall and may be lawful for them so to do and the property and effects or the proceeds thereof may be distributed and divided to and among the members entitled thereto under the following conditions to-wit

First Such company shall give at least six months' notice of their intention to dissolve and surrender their corporate existence by advertisement in at least one daily newspaper published in said county to be designated by the court of common pleas upon application by the proper company, said advertisement to be published at least once a week for four weeks or continuously for one week

Second Such company shall through its secretary or by a committee appointed for that purpose make a roll of all such members who are entitled to participate in the distribution of its property or the proceeds thereof who may apply to him or to them personally or otherwise said roll shall be kept open during the whole of the said aforesaid six months and it shall be the duty of such secretary or committee to enter upon such roll the name or names of any and all members who may apply as aforesaid who are known to him or them or if unknown who shall produce satisfactory evidence that he or they is or are entitled to have his or their name or names placed on said roll and said roll shall at the expiration of said six months be verified by the oath or affirmation of said secretary or committee.

Third Such company shall immediately after the expiration of said six months appoint a committee of not less than three members which committee in conjunction with the president and treasurer of said company shall make out and sign a schedule of the description amount and value of all the property and effects of such company the names of all persons who are included within the provisions of clause second of this section and the description amount and value of the property effects or moneys allotted to each of such persons respectively and which shall be as nearly equal as may be and which schedule shall be verified by oath or affirmation of a majority of such committee one of whom shall be the president or treasurer and said schedule shall be submitted to a stated meeting of said company and if approved by a vote of the majority or such members present as are included in the second clause hereof shall be final and conclusive

Fourth As soon as all steps and proceedings provided for in this section shall have been completed a certified copy thereof shall be made out attested by the signatures of the officers of such company and by the seal of the corporation and shall be duly acknowledged as in the case of a deed made by a corporation and recorded in the office for recording deeds at cetera for said municipality and county and thereafter such corporation shall be dissolved and cease to exist and all the powers and authorities thereto belonging shall become and be null and void and of no effect except such as are necessary to carry this act into effect the distribution of the property and effects of such company shall be made as soon after the approval of the schedule mentioned in clause third as may be convenient Provided That nothing herein contained shall be construed as to prevent any person who may deem himself aggrieved by the action of any company in his case applying to the proper court for redress by bill in equity or upon or for a mandamus upon his giving such security as the court may determine to pay all damages that may be incurred and all costs that may accrue if the decree of the court upon final hearing shall be against him and a part of such costs shall be a reasonable counsel fee to be allowed by the court in the particular case and fixed by the decree

Section 3 That in the event of any of the companies included within the provision of this act, changing by virtue of the provision hereof into stock companies, the shares into which the capital stock of such corporation may be divided, shall be issued to such of the members of said company as were required to perform active services as a condition of membership or who may have been transferred from the active roll to the roll of honorary members as a reward or token of recognition for previous active services and to those only who may have signed the constitution or by-laws of such company and in case of a total dissolution of such company under the provision of the second section of this act those members only who are designated in this section shall be entiled to a distributive share of the proceeds of the property of such company.

Section 4 If in any case any number of the active and honorary members either or both of any company not less than ten in number may desire to perpetuate the corporate existence of any company either for social purposes or for any of the purposes mentioned in the first section of this act and a majority of such company may desire to dissolve as aforesaid it shall and may be lawful for such members by signing and presenting to such company an agreement in writing to perpetuate the existence of such corporation to take unto themselves the liabilities and responsibilities imposed and to enjoy the privileges granted in and by the charter of such company and in such case the proceedings directed in and by the second section of this act shall be pursued except as to the division of their property and the recording the proceedings in lieu of which after the amount of dividend shall have been ascertained and approved as aforesaid the receipt of such dividend by any member shall be construed to be a resignation and shall be so entered upon the books of such company and the members so receiving a dividend shall thenceforth cease to be a member of such corporation or company Provided That it shall and may be lawful for any company to purchase the right of any member and upon the payment of the agreed price the membership of such person shall thereupon terminate.

Section 5 That the sales by any company included in the first section of this act hereafter made shall be deemed and taken to have been made pursuant to the provisions of this act and are hereby declared to be valid and to vest the title to such property in the purchasers of such property

Section 6 It shall and may be lawful for any of the companies mentioned in the first section of this act to accept the provisions of this act as a supplement to the charter or act of incorporation of such company by the vote of a majority of the members entitled to vote who may be present at any stated meeting of such company and if so accepted the provisions hereof shall be deemed and taken to be a part of the charter or act of incorporation of such accepting company except where a particular number have a right to continue Provided That nothing contained in this act shall be held to affect the right of any member or companies as the same have been heretofore adjudicated by any court and the same are hereby confirmed

Provided That this act shall not repeal or affect the provisions of any special law relating to the same subject in any county township borough or city in this Commonwealth

SPECIAL ORDER ON FINAL PASSAGE, AT 4 O'CLOCK, P. M.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 1, as follows:

A Joint Resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to investigate alleged mal-administration in public office and making an appropriation therefor

Whereas Statements have been made by reputable citizens and the responsible press of this Commonwealth alleging mal-administration on the part of public officers by their gross extravagance by their mis-use of public funds by their continued absence from their respective offices by their failure to properly discharge duties imposed upon them by statute by their wilful malicious and unnecessary delay in the transaction of public business by their intimidation and coercion of employes and business interests by their mis-use of appointive administrative and regulative authority by their alleged bribery in bargaining and selling as rewards for votes of Members of the General Assembly offices and positions created by the public and supported by the public for the transaction of public business by perjury on the part of certain officials in accepting public offices from which they have knowingly disqualified themselves by violating the Corrupt Practices Act of this Commonwealth by repugnant and flagrant political activity on the part of semi-judicial officers by the encroachment of the Executive upon the Legislative Branch of the Government and

Whereas Such officers debauch defame and disgrace the fair name of this Commonwealth demoralize the public service by their malfeasance and hold up to ridicule its citizenship and

Whereas The above-named charges and allegations concerning the conduct of public business by its recognized officials and subordinates have so aroused public sentiment concerning the administration of the affairs of this Commonwealth as to demand a full free unobstructed comprehensive and impartial investigation of the public business Now therefore

Be it Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met That a joint committee consisting of three (3) Members of the Senate one of whom shall be of a minority political party to be appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate and four (4) Members of the House one of whom shall be a minority political party to be appointed by the Speaker of the House be created for the purpose of making a full free unobstructed comprehensive and impartial investigation of all and singular the aforesaid matters and charges and

Be it Further Resolved That said joint committee is hereby directed to organize forthwith after the approval of this joint resolution by the Governor to hold such and as many hearings as it may deem necessary to summon witnesses to further the purposes of this investigation to issue subpoenaes administer oaths and compel the attendance of such witnesses and the production of all such books bills checks checkbooks papers minutes records vouchers agreements and all each and every other form of written or documentary evidence as may be pertinent or germain to the inquiry and

Be it Further Resolved That the said joint committee shall be vested with the fullest and most complete powers which the General Assembly by Virtue of the Constitution and all Acts of Assembly can confer upon such committee for the accomplishment of its purposes and

Be it Further Resolved That the said joint committee shall be authorized to employ auditors accountants counsel learned in the law stenographers clerks messengers investigators and all such other clerical or skilled assistance as may be necessary for the proper discharge of the duties hereby imposed upon said committee and to further the inquiry by them to be made The Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate is hereby directed to attend said joint committee to serve all subpoenaes issued by it and generally to enforce all the orders which said joint committee is hereby authorized to make and

Be it Further Resolved That said joint committee shall from time to time report its findings to the General Assembly with such recommendations as the Members deem expedient to the end that proper legislation may be enacted to remedy and prevent such abuse as may be found to exist and that said joint committee shall also be empowered to certify to the prosecuting officer or officers of the proper jurisdiction the proceedings of the committee setting forth any violation or violations of law committed within their respective jurisdiction for such action as the law provides and that the said Investigating Committee shall make its final report to the General Assembly not later than June first one thousand nine hundred and seventeen and

Be it Further Resolved That it is the sense of the General Assembly that it is contrary to public policy and to the interests of good order that any person giving evidence before said joint committee tending to show that he or she has been in any manner implicated in the corrupt practices above-mentioned should be indicted and prosecuted for the offense disclosed by such evidence or admission so given or made by him or her and

Be it Further Resolved That the sum of twenty-five thousand ($25.000.00) dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to defray the expenses necessarily incurred by said joint committee in the discharge of the duties imposed upon it and that payment shall be made on order of the chairman of said joint committee and on warrant of the Auditor General in the manner now prescribed by law

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BURKE. Mr. President, I am not opposed to any investigation where an investigation is necessary to right wrong and where wrong has been done, but I am opposed to the passage of the joint resolution before this body, and I am going to give you my reasons.

First, I want to ask each and every one of you, if you were to be tried in Court, and you knew in advance that the Judge had a hatred against you and that the jury was a packed one, would you be willing to be tried in that Court? Could you receive justice?

Gentlemen, just think of it! The bill simply means a hand picked committee appointed from the enemy side, carrying with it an appropriation of twenty-five thousand dollars of the taxpayer's money to hold star chamber sessions. And for what purpose? For the purpose of persecution.

The investigation called for in this bill has been conceived in petty spite, born in petty animosity and reared in blind prejudice. It has for its aim and its end, not the honor and welfare of our State, but the unworthy, selfish motive of seeking tighter political control, greater political power. The bill is here in the hidden form of an assassinator of character and a destroyer of justice, and it is up to the members of this Senate who believe in "fair play" and the principal of a "square deal" to register their vote against the bill.

So far as Governor Brumbaugh is concerned, he needs no defense of his public acts. They speak for themselves. Pennsylvania at the hands of the man who is now being hounded, has received more progressive and humane legislation than ever before in its history. On our Statute books to-day, monuments to his independence and his worth, are the Child Labor Law, Workmen's Compensation Law and the Full Crew Law.

Had Governor Brumbaugh turned a deaf ear to the merciful plea for the welfare of the children of the State; had he not given Pennsylvania a Child Labor Law, would there be an investigation called for?

Had Governor Brumbaugh surrendered to the influence of "Special Privilege" and kept Pennsylvania longer without a Workmen's Compensation Law, would there be an investigation called for?

Had Governor Brumbaugh proclaimed the value of the dollar above the value of human life and passed the repeal of the Full Crew Law, would there be an investigation called for? Would there be a charge of mal-administration?

If Governor Brumbaugh had failed to carry out his pre-election pledges to the people, and through his influence the Child Labor Bill had been smothered in the committee; if the Workmen's Compensation Bill had met the same fate it did two years prior and he had signed the repeal of the Full Crew Law; if he had permitted the politicians of the State to control the State Departments and fill every vacancy; if Governor Brumbaugh had been content to be a "Rubber Stamp" Governor and the tool of "Special Privilege" instead of the actual Governor and the friend and protector of the common people of the Commonwealth, there would be no bill before this Senate tonight calling for an investigation. There would be no charges of mal-administration.

Mr. P. W. SNYDER. Mr. President, I am compelled to oppose the resolution before us because I feel that at this time we should have an act that was clearly and effectually non-partisan, non-factional, unbiased and fair.

Under ordinary conditions such a specific requirement might not be necessary; but conditions at present are not ordinary. The Republican party is in full control, but the Republican party is torn and threatened by a most bitter and fierce factional fight. One faction controls the Legislative branch of the State Government, the other the Executive branch. Our leaders are divided, irritable and embittered. Both sides pursued purely political methods in late party contests. As a result, in the opening words of the Joint Resolution, "statements have been made by reputable citizens and the responsible press of this Commonwealth alleging" that the proposed investigation was not intended to be fair and impartial, and the fiasco of a former Investigating Commission, has been recited to give color to such statements.

Party leaders even though they be the elect of the people are intensely human. It is not to be wondered at that many good people believe that some of them exhibit a disposition to get even or be revenged. The temptation to do this is very great; temptation begotten by disappointment, loss of patronage perhaps, or by nagging of certain of their following who have selfish interests to serve.

No thoughtful fair minded person wishes to oppose a fair and impartial investigation of public officials, or the departments under their management. To avoid the least appearance of unfairness a resolution should be so framed that it will give both parties, all factions and the great number of non-factionists, an equal opportunity to bring about a fair and impartial investigation.

One that would not prevent turning on the light, but makes it possible to turn on all of the light.

One that would not prevent laying the axe to the tree and letting the chips fall where they will, but that would prevent undue influence to drive the chips in one direction only.

The debate on last Monday night showed clearly how tense the situation is; but, there is a remedy. A resolution can be framed that will be fair, impartial and just. When a municipality is stirred by some great subject and they wish for aid, or redress for wrongs, real or fancied, they call a town meeting and invite all the people. Factions are forgotten, party lines are obliterated. All strive for the common welfare. Let us do something like that. Let us call a caucus of all the Senators, the whole fifty, with the sole object of naming a committee that will command the confidence of all. That will investigate certain officials and departments promptly and thoroughly. Full power can be given them and all necessary details can be arranged. The good name of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is paramount. Unity is the keyword. Let us get together. Let us try this plan. Let us have a well ordered investigation; one that will unmask the guilty and relieve those wrongfully accused. I sincerely trust that the resolution before us will be recommitted or defeated.

Mr. LEIBY. Mr. President, In view of the attacks that have been made by certain prominent men of our state during the past few months, I believe that the eyes of the decent citizenship of this state are upon this legislative assembly at this time. The people demand that we do something. Accusations have been made and they have been continually made for years and years, and a sub-consciousness that has slumbered and slept seems in some few men to have arisen to the surface, and wants expression in a partisanship in a biased resolution calling for investigation. At all times as citizens of this Commonwealth should we be ready and willing to vouchsafe a fair and honest and impartial investigation and much less should we try to foist upon this State an investigation that should be anything but fair. Last evening the minority members, or some of them, of this body attempted to have this resolution so amended that there could be no doubt that the investigation would be fair. and, Mr. President, I believe that many times in this state by the authority of the legislative body of this Commonwealth have commissions been appointed none of whose members was a member of this legislative body, because their duties were inquisatorial, and they were directed to report back to the legislative bodies of these halls, and many times have they done so. If we only refer to the enactments of the last legislature you will find that there upon the books of this legislature, or the one that preceded them, enacted such legislation that created and appointed such committees that made reports upon different subjects or different matters that were to be enacted into laws in this state, and we suggested for our consideration men that were not interested, men that were above reproach and men who had the full faith and confidence of the electors of this Commonwealth.

We are not here to serve a selfish purpose. We are not here to gratify any personal desires of hatred and malice, and because perchance some of us have not had an opportunity to dictate in the affairs of this Commonwealth in a manner that we should desire is no reason why we should want to desmirch or ruin the fair name of the head of the government of this Commonwealth, or its citizens.

Gentlemen, of the Senate, this is nothing new. The responsible press of Pennsylvania for years has cried against conduct such as has been to-day called to your attention. The condition of affairs is made possible because laws have been enacted without special care. These same men that cry for investigation to-day two years ago by the loose appropriation measures made it possible for the executive of this Commonwealth to have at his disposal $30,000. If each one of us would manage our own individual affairs and business with the same care and with the same business ability many of us would not be sitting here to-day, but would be under the care of the state and it requires strict vigilance on the part of every legislature of this Commonwealth. The same men that to-day are crying against other members of their own party in 1912 were side by side, fighting for the election of their candidates, and in 1914, these same men, shoulder to shoulder, championed the cause of that same man who is to-day the head of your Commonwealth, and in 1918 for no other purpose but for the purpose of self-preservation will band themselves together and thereby foist upon the people of this Commonwealth the man of their joint choice. This is nothing new to us. It is nothing of which you have never heard before, and I am sorry, Mr. President, and members of the Senate that this resolution could not be amended so that some of you would not be accused by the press of this state, by the press of this nation, of being biased and unfair, and I would ask that you make it possible, you who are the fathers and framers of this resolution, that we might have a full and fair resolution.

I shall vote for this resolution reluctantly. It answers a purpose and I hope it will be the means of bringing the electorate of this state to a full sense of their responsibility. While it will shed certain rays of light upon certain phases of this government I hope it may be the means, if it is passed, and becomes a law of this state, a resolution in force, that it will so arouse the electorate and so arouse the members of this body that they will want a free light, a full light, untrammeled and in no way obstructed, that we all may know the conduct and the acts of those in authority. There is nothing new alleged as I have said. I do not believe that our present chief executive is absent from his office any more than his predecessor, and if I am correct no attempt was made to investigate his continued absence from the capital and from the business of this state, but this is a new conscience that seems to have arisen, it seems to have gripped some men, because, not that the affairs of this state are not administered better, not because there is any charge, but because their divine guidance and constant approval is not sought in all matters in administrative circles.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I would like to take up a minute or two of the Senators' time for the purpose of a little further explanation of the facts that brought about this resolution; a little further than I went into last Monday night. In the first place, for the benefit of those Senators who were not in their seats last Monday night, I would just like to give them the previous commissions that have been appointed and what their result was.

Senator Andrews, in 1897, was appointed at the head of a commission to go to Pittsburgh and Philadelphia and make an investigation, and after a few sittings he ran off back to Crawford County, and was glad to get there, chased there by our friend Martin sitting over here on the right, and when the people of Crawford County shunned him and disowned him he went down to New Mexico and is still there. That is the history of the Andrews commission.

The Catlin commission was appointed for another purpose but when the mayoralty contest was on in Philadelphia in 1911, it was brought down there for the purpose of making sentiment, and it succeeded beautifully, so much to the success of the commission that we elected an anti-Republican ticket, with the after-result, however, that Senator Baldwin, who sits here, and Senator McConnell, who sits there, both being defeated for re-election. Senator McNichol was never sworn in nor served on the Committee. The one Democratic member, after two or three meetings, rose in his place in the commission, and said he would not be there any more, that he was disgusted with the whole business. And my friend here on the right, who always had 25,000 majority, had a little less than 2500, and was barely elected, and I was glad he got through.

So you see, there have been some other commissions since that time but their duties were so small that I think it hardly worth mentioning at this time.

However, last Monday night, my friend, Senator Snyder, criticised the Governor for sending over here a plain, sensible, every-day message, covering all the facts in this case, and advising what would be a sensible thing to do, creating an investigation and a thorough investigation, not only of himself but of every department under him. Now, gentlemen, could there be a more honorable message than that for the Senate to act on? My friend on the right said the Governor had no such right. Well, if I understand legislative bodies correctly their parent is down in Washington. That is what the President of the United States was doing at the very time the Governor was criticised for sending that message of plain common sense in every-day language. Wilson sees a chance for important bills, goes over the legislative situation with the members of the House and Senate in his room in the capitol building at Washington, which he has kept there for the purpose of visiting them and sending into the chambers to bring the United States Senators and members of Congress in and tell them what he will stand for and what he will not while we criticise in this state because the Governor sends a letter over here, a message in plain English language.

Now, gentlemen, Senator Sproul said this resolution originated from the Philadelphia contest. He was a friend of my deceased brother that sat in this chair before me for twelve years, and befriended my brother many times, and he has befriended me many times since I followed my deceased brother to this chair. I think there has never before been a time when I voted on one side and he voted on the other up to this time. Nothing would give me more pleasure than to vote for this resolution if there was anything fair in its makeup. I consider Senator Sproul one of the finest men and one of the best friends I have in this Senate, but that would not justify me in standing for a resolution that is unfair from beginning to end.

It is simply a resolution that starts everywhere and stops nowhere. Now, the Philadelphia contest has not the first thing to do with this resolution; has not the first thing to do with the speakership fight; we, in Philadelphia, hold good, decent, clean elections. The laws are clean, and the elections are conducted in accordance with the law. We have lots of reform bodies down there, always ready to take up any little incidents that happen that are not in conformity with our election laws, but there has not been much doing with those bodies for several years past so that is the justification for my remarks. Senator Snyder also said the people are sick and tired of the acts of this Governor. Let us see how sick and tired they are. The last time the Governor ran for office in this Commonwealth, only May of last year, he polled 208,325 votes. The only fair comparison I can make with that vote would be Senator Penrose. Senator Penrose polled 198,444 votes. There was one other—Dallas Bumbaugh—put on the ticket to take votes away from the Governor, who polled 77,000 votes. Any fair-minded man in this state or any other state would concede that these Bumbaugh votes were meant for the governor, and, if that is true, he would have 285,411 as against 198,444 for Senator Penrose. Now that does not look very much as though the people are very sick and tired of his acts.

The Oliver check has been made a lot of by the newspapers of this state, and at the proper time and proper place that will be cleared up one hundred per cent. to the credit of the governor and one hundred per cent. discredit to our friend Oliver, whom I consider no more or no less than a "black hand."

Gentlemen, this Governor started in under unfortunate circumstances the minute he was elected Governor of this State. He had gone all over the State on a personal platform saying that he would help to enact into a law the child labor law, the finest working law for the benefit of our working boys and girls of any State in the Union; the workmen's compensation act is another one of the best laws of any State in this Union. These two, Mr. President, are only two of the many good acts that he helped to enact into laws two years ago. With these pledges, the minute the polls closed, with these pledges on his shoulders on the one hand and on the other hand a certain class of gentlemen that are high up in official power as well as political power in this state, who had agreed that there would be no such laws, which put the Governor in such a position that he would be damned if he did and be damned if he didn't. He saw fit in his wise judgment to go on and help keep his pledges to the people, necessarily disappointing those who had promised there would be no legislation unde rany circumstances after certain bargains were made. The legislation was enacted, and very largely with his help as you know, hen ecall this trouble about this Governor, the cleanest, fairest, most decent big Governor the state ever had in my time. Take this from me.

I want to take these conditions up as they come along in the preamble of this resolution. First, the public press. Well, I explained here last Monday and read a detail statement of some twenty-five items picked from the items that were in the newspapers, and which are probably part of this charge, showing that the Governor had absolutely nothing to do with it. In other words, one of the charges is that the Governor buys twenty-five-cent cigars. Well, gentlemen of the Senate, is there any Senator sitting in this room who would want the Governor to give a State dinner, say to the Supreme Court or any other State dinner, and wind up a heavy dinner with a five-cent cigar? For the benefit of the Senate I would like to say that the Governor smokes five-cent Cincos himself, and he cannot wind up a heavy dinner with a five-cent cigar and be consistent.

So far as the public funds are concerned, Senator Penrose said he was glad the Attorney General disgorged them. The Attorney General did not disgorge. What Senator Penrose had reference to, he paid a telephone bill that was brought about in this last contest, but while the contest was on he could not get a telephone bill from the company.

As soon as it was ended the Attorney-General requested the bill, got the bill, and paid the bill, and for the information of the Senate that is the fifth bill and the smallest of the five that the Attorney-General has paid since he came into that office. That is the answer to this reputable newspaper.

I might go on and talk for an hour and make this same explanation. Every word I am telling you myself is absolutely true, for I have gone thoroughly into it and made myself familiar with it, and I challenge any Senator here to interrogate me and I will give him the information as to where I got mine.

Delaying business. Would it not seem funny, gentlemen, for Senator Penrose, and I have no more feeling in this political contest against Senator Penrose or anybody else than I have against any one of my own children at home. Would it not seem funny, it certainly seems to me funny, to hear Senator Penrose criticising any State official for being absent from office. Would it not appear to be a joke on its face, if that is true. If that is a joke, gentlemen, why is not the whole resolution a joke. As a matter of fact I think that is what it is.

The corrupt practice. The corrupt practice act has been defeated—sidestepped, I guess, is the proper name. Would it not be equally as true of a charge from Senator Penrose, that the corrupt practice act has been sidestepped. Would it not appear just as funny as anything could be—in fact I think it would equal a three ring circus—for anybody by the name of Sproul, Crow, McNichol or Vare to question the corrupt practcie act. I do not mean to say, gentlemen, that any one of these men or myself avoid the act, but what some of us are liable to do is sit by and see it done, then it would seem to me under the law we would be an accessory after the fact.

But really, gentlemen, to be in earnest about this proposition, I have gone thoroughly into it from beginning to end, and on my honor, and on my honor as a State Senator—I do not think I have deceived one of these men since I have been sitting here with them—on my honor, gentlemen, I think there is no more truth in any of these charges than, Mr. President, could be handed up to you and charge you with the same thing if the same purpose was needed to go after you. I wish to conclude by saying we do not care how much they investigate or who they investigate but there ought to be some place to start and some place to stop, and specify who you are going to investigate, how many departments you are going to investigate. Go all over the State and investigate if you like, but your resolution ought to say so. So far as I am concerned I do not know a single person who cares anything about it.

My friend, Senator Snyder, told a friend of mine on the floor here last night that if I attempted to speak here on the floor, in defense of the Governor, he would ask me a question. I would like to get that question now.

The PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Schuylkill, Mr. Snyder, desire to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Vare?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President. No.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, from the information I had, I will answer him anyhow, the information I had was that he was going to ask me what excuse I had for the Governor drawing $1,500 out of that fund. This is the answer. He sat here and voted for that appropriation two years ago, and in that appropriation the language reads like this "To be used at the descretionary power of the Governor." That would be the answer on that fifteen hundred.

I do not think there is anything else I can say. I wish I was a lawyer, as Senator Sproul said the other night. I am not even a college graduate as he is. I wish, however, that I was able to speak as well as some lawyers in the Senate, or as well as Senator Sproul. The side I happen to be with this time—I am not always with the right side—the side I happen to be with this time is one hundred per cent. right and one hundred per cent. fair, and the other side is one hundred per cent. wrong and one hundred per cent. unfair. I thank you for your kind attention.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President. I confess to some trepidation in replying to the various addresses made by my colleagues, because whether I am responsible or not, the impression has gone forth that I was to make some sort of a reply or attack on some one during this hearing. I must admit that it was not my intention to make an attack on any one and hoped sincerely that there would be no occasion and none would arise which would require an address from any Senator, and for fear of being misunderstood and a wrong interpretation placed upon the attitude of those who may favor this resolution, I speak. I avow an absolute impersonality. I say sincerely I bear malice to no one who has spoken in this matter. I say further that I have absolute and unqualified confidence and belief in the integrity of every member of this Senate. If I were under a charge, whether for misdemeanor or felony or a grave crime committed against the state, I would submit my cause to any member of this Senate, believing that he would render, according to his oath, a just verdict. The charge is made that a resolution has been presented to the Senate of Pennsylvania which is unfair on its face and which bears malice against certain officials of this Commonwealth. I read that resolution carefully. I fail to see a line in that resolution which points the finger of guilt to any man that has not committed a dishonest act. I fail to see why there should be a particular interest by the particular adherents of a particular faction of the Republican party regarding the effect of that resolution upon any friend. If any friend of mine had been charged under that resolution with any series of mal-administration against the Commonwealth I do not think I would have arisen in the Senate and tried to defend those who I thought were charged in that indictment. I regret that this forum has been made a grand jury to hear what may be presented against any citizen of the Commonwealth, especially if he be the Chief Executive, the Attorney General, or, if you please, the Auditor General or State Treasurer of this state. I believe when this resolution was presented it was presented as much by a regard for the traditions and honor of the Republican party and for the integrity of this Commonwealth as for any any other reason. Levity has been injected into this discussion, and not without purpose, if you please. What the public press may say I care little about, so long as it does not affect my honor and so long as it is a black lie upon its face; and I believe that every public man will agree with me, because it has been spoken about since the time of Washington, when it was uttered by him, that the best answer to calumny and slander is silence; and for this reason I should not have said a word had any of my friends been under suspicion under this resolution; but as to the sayings of the public press, that is the crux of this resolution. No charge has been made against any individual; no person has been questioned whether or not he has been committing a series of misdemeanors, but the public press has made the charge and my friend to the left seems to place that within the category of the resolution. I think not.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Schuylkill.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Schuylkill, Mr. Snyder, permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, does not the preamble in that resolution say that because of the newspaper articles in the responsible public press, is not that one of the reasons why the resolution was presented?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, it is, but none of the charges or counts in the newspaper press were preferred in the article.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, that is true, I am talking about the preamble of the resolution. Were not the newspaper articles printed before that resolution was offered?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, it is true.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, is it not also true that when Senator Salus attempted to amend this resolution to make it perjury for liars appearing before the committee, that the Senator from Schuylkill, Mr. Snyder, spoke and voted against it.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, yes, and I will answer that. Now, Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate, when a serious resolution has been presented making an indictment against the officials of this Commonwealth, what do we find in the very first instance? And that in answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia. We find a communication from his Excellency, the Governor of this Commonwealth, to this body. On what? A matter before this body? Concerning whom, if you please? The motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia to have the message read at that time, I submit, is an answer, because no member of the Senate was supposed to know what was borne by that message, and what do we find when the message is read? We find before the message is presented into this Senate Chamber a studied argument, logical, if you please, having good, choice language, if you please, a plea, if you please, that the resolution then about to be presented, or having already been presented, was unfair; that he had no objection, the Chief Executive of this Commonwealth, to a fair investigation being made. I ask any member of this Senate whether there is a line of that resolution charging the Executive of this Commonwealth with any misdemeanor. Then why cast upon this Senate the influence of the Chief Executive to be careful concerning that which is before it, especially when you read between the lines an attempt to interpret it as referring to the gentleman or to the officer who wrote that communication. Let me say to you, and I believe every Senator will agree with me, that the communication at that time was unconventional, was inopportune, and was a tactless communication. I am sorry, because I want to say now that for the office of the Governorship of this State I have a high regard. I honor those who occupy it. I, for one, pay tribute to the personage who occupies that chair now because I believe that he was inspired with high purposes in many things that he has submitted to this legislature. but I am not unmindful of the fact that history and story and tradition is full, and the record and pages of the world are full of men who have committed high crimes and yet have been a great benefit under certain conditions and in crises. The story of Jean Valjean in Les Miserables, is the story of a man who gave his life and his ability and his fortune for a people whom he loved. He made France the great manufacturing centre of the world, and yet he, for crimes committed in his youth when old age came, confessed his sins and received his punishment at the galleys and in prison, as we all know, and so that is no argument. But let me say to you, the charges made that this is a political and factional warfare, and the answer is made it is not due to Philadelphia politics. While much as we may have been the beneficiary of the great things in Philadelphia, and much as we disbelieve that the benefit that came from Philadelphia came by dishonest methods, yet we must confess, as good citizens of this Commonwealth and as Republicans from the interior of the state, that a great many, aye, most of the difficulties of the Republican party come because Eddie and Jimmie cannot agree. Now then whether or not this particular resolution springs from that purpose I am not going to argue, but I want to say to you that since the charge has been made that this is an unfair investigation, in answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, since the question has been put, "Had his Excellency the right to take this fifteen hundred dollars from the treasury of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and put his slip in the drawer and say, 'Cash, M. G. Brumbaugh' "? Had he, I am asking? Is his private purse and his conscience the only tribunal to which he has to answer for the handling of the treasury and of its contents? Oh no! When I voted for that resolution I was a little like Nathaniel, without guile, giving to the Governor of Pennsylvania so much money. I had forgotten at that time that the placing in the hands of even a man from the city of so much money, might be a temptation, and believing my friend to the left, who looked you straight in the eye and never told a lie, like our honored Father of our Country, and I believed him, I believed him then, and because the man upon whom we conferred that favor chose to violate the confidence we put in him is no reason why we should do it again, because our friend may still be blinded to the garishness of the Executive of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and I for one coming from the country, not as a simple maid, but simple perhaps in my belief of how things should be done, I think there should be a just accounting to the proper tribunal of how the moneys of this state are spent. Oh, ho! The Governor spent the money properly. In Virginia when his Excellency leaves the jurisdiction for a day the Lieutenant Governor is the Governor. In most commonwealths when his Excellency leaves for a week or ten days the Lieutenant Governor acts in his place, and yet this Commonwealth, in its plentitude gave to the Governor of Pennsylvania to live outside of its confines for almost three months, a never ending supply of money, automobiles, the association of good friends, all at the expense of the state, out of that fund that Bill Sproul, if you please, and Senator Crow and Charley Snyder voted for, because Eddie said it was all right. That does not make it right, and we do not believe that it is right, and the people of this Commonwealth do not believe it is right. Why sir, you remember those trips of his Excellency. There were many Roman triumphs throughout the state; the money was spent in a profligate manner, regardless of the great economies that my friend to the left has been preaching.

Now then what else? Down on the golf links of North Carolina his Excellency of the State spends its money for golf balls. Surely it is a wide discretion between entertaining Supreme Court Justices and knocking about golf balls down in North Carolina. Now I am not going to say anything which the statements that have been made on this floor will not justify a reply to, because I am impersonal in this, but I want to give a reason for the faith that is within us, and the faith that is within us is that we believe the laws of this Commonwealth should be upheld, and because forsooth they may be violated by another Chief Executive in Philadelphia, or somewhere else, that does not say that we of the Commonwealth should shut our eyes and hold in disdain the law and disrespect the authority and disown the traditions of this Commonwealth.

Now then aren't there some other departments that should be investigated? We read in the public press, since it has been brought in, that the Auditor General's office had expended large sums of money for its own personal benefit, or the occupant's own personal benefit. We also read that since this investigation has begun, or has been promised to be begun, moneys have been returned to the public treasury. When we read the history of conventions held, if you please, that the Commissioner of Fisheries of this State has imposed upon men his patent rights, in order that the streams cannot be defiled and so on. We hear that the Public Service Commsision has plastered its opposition with nepotism from beginning to end, has delayed the hearings of the people of this Commonwealth and has not made a decision which has been one way and upheld at any particular time since its beginning until today. At a large expense these men operate. We hear that the Public Printer has expended hundreds and thousands of dollars, printing what? The deficiency from the Employment Buerau, from the Labor and Industry Bureau, and from other departments, making a deficiency, which we are now called upon to pay, and yet this resolution, we are told, is directed only toward one man! Oh, no, I do not believe that. I tell you, Mr. President, that if we believe the press, and since it has been referred to, and that is the only way people have knowledge of the things that are committed in the State, that all the officers of this Commonwealth appointed by the Governor have been under question,—I mean the head officers.

Let me say to you, nobody will deny that the compensation laws were of good effect. Who was against them? We all voted for them. We all voted for the remedial legislation. We differed a little upon Child Labor, and you know how Child Labor was enacted? The Senator from Philadelphia and the other Senators from Philadelphia got together and promised the Governor it would pass, and it is the only bill upon the floor of the Senate, if you please, or in the House, that was opposed, and because of that one opposition the great interests of this Commonwealth are now concerned in investigating His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth! In reply to the Senator from Pittsburgh, we all voted for his bill, if you please, which threw the shackles off of the trainmen. We all voted for that bill. Now surely we are not the instruments of these vested interests to wreak our vengeance upon the Governor because he did that which we ourselves voted for. Oh, no; there is some reason and I will tell you what is the reason. Stated it has been, but not in the way I am going to state it. The factional politics, if you please. The Governor of this Commonwealth, and you shall not attack him, you shall not say anything about him, not unlike Richelieu, when somebody attacked the church, he replied: "Aye, is it so? Then wakes the power which in the age of iron burst forth to curb the great, and raise the low. Mark where she stands. Around her form I draw the awful circle of our solemn church. Set but a foot within that holy ground and on thy head, yea, though it wore a crown, I launch the curse of Rome." Oh, the Governor is not permitted to commit misdemeanors. Let me say to you he is not an accessory after the fact. In a misdemeanor he who acts with the man in committing that deed, he is simply a principal, not an accessory; he is a principal. When you aid and abet a man in committing a misdemeanor you are not an accessory, you are a principal, and I hope the Senators in this Senate Chamber will remember that. Now then what do we find upon the floors of this Senate? Anybody pussyfooting, as one of the public press has said, against this resolution, any representatives of the Auditor General's office? No. Any representative of the Fish Commissioner? No. Any representative of the Public Service Commission? No. We find upon the floor of the Senate since this resolution has been brought here—who? The immediate appointees of His Excellency, buttonholing, cajoling, if you please, pleading with members of the Senate, not to vote for this resolution. Why? Why, I would like to know. Now there is a reason for that, and the reason is that His Excellency, good as he may have been, high as his ideals may have been, has become the instrument to further the political factions of this State one above the other.

Let me say to you, in conclusion, if this is a factional proposition, then let us clean house to-day, and the reason I was opposed to the amendments of the gentlemen on the other side last night was that if there is any housecleaning to do in the Republican ranks let the Republicans do it, and let us, like Massachusetts, put our own iniquity into the sunshine. Now what ought we to do under this resolution? Under this resolution every man who is in favor of the honest administration of the finances of this state, every man who is in favor, any man who holds high position, should respect that position with a diligent, careful administration of his position and without suspicion on his honor or his honesty, should be for this resolution. Why? Because men of his own type, class and peers are to investigate those gentlemen, whether it be the Governor, the Auditor General, Public Service Commissioner, Fish Commissioner, Health Commissioner, or anybody else that this resolution may embrace, the Mayor of Philadelphia or the Mayor of Pittsburgh, as some say the purpose of this resolution is. Senator Penrose can be subpoenaed in this case, and Senator Penrose can be questioned, and if he has committed wrong he can be made a party and he can be prosecuted, and therefore this investigation does not mean one man, or two men, but every man who has committed wrong, and he has forfeited his right to the respect of this Senate until he is cleared of that accusation, be he the Governor of this state, or be he the man who wipes the marble on the outside.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President. In further answer to my friend on the right, the Senator from Schuylkill, the drawing of the $1500 for expense account, incidental expense account of the Governor, was just in line with what has been going on in this state for many, many years. He just succeeded Governor Tener and went on with these practices. In addition to that he got a letter from the Auditor General, who is a lawyer, and I suppose he knows how money is taken from the state treasury, advising him he need not make up a record of what he took. Notwithstanding that, he went on and made a record, showing how honest he was. My further answer to the assertion that Senator Penrose can be brought before this commission is that Senator Penrose is not a state officer, and it has been so decided time and time again.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—29.

Baldwin,	Endsley,	McNichol,	Tompkins,
Beidleman,	Eyre,	Miller,	Warner,

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 5.20 o'clock P. M. until Wednesday morning, February 7, 1917, at 10 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, February 6, 1917.

The House met at 10.00 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. S. G. Zerfass, offered the following prayer:

Great and Omniscent God, how excellent is Thy name in all the earth. The glory is above the heavens, when we consider the heavens, the sun, the moon and the stars which Thou hast ordained. Truly the heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament showeth his handiwork. What is man that Thou art mindful of him, or the son of man that Thou visiteth him. May we ever show forth Thy marvelous works and love righteousness, knowing that Thou, O Lord, lovest righteousness and that Thy countenance upholdeth the upright. Give us power to walk uprightly, strength to work righteousness and grace to speak the truth to Thee in our hearts and forever rest in the hope of eternal life. Show us Thy path of life, give us fullness of joy and heavenly pleasure for evermore. Grant that our prayers are not with feigned lips. Give us an insight of Thy loving kindness so that we shall behold Thy face in righteousness and be satisfied only when we awake with Thy likeness. Amen.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION PLEDGING SUPPORT TO PRESIDENT WILSON.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows, viz:

In the Senate, February 5, 1917.

Whereas, The President of the United States has informed the Congress that a very grave crisis exists in the international relations of the country which in his opinion may lead to the necessity of defending our national rights, dignity and honor by force of arms; all other reasonable and honorable means having failed after patient and forbearing negotiations, now, therefor be it

Resolved (if the House concur), that the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, sitting in General Assembly at Harrisburg, do send to the President and government of the United States assurances of the loyal support and full co-operation of Pennsylvania in every national undertaking which in their wisdom may be necessary to meet the situation and to protect and vindicate American rights, dignity and honor, wherever or by whom they may be endangered, and be it further

Resolved, That the General Assembly calls upon the people of Pennsylvania to give to the President and the Federal Government in all ways their patriotic support and assistance in whatever plans or measures may be required in the present emergency, as they have done in the past in every crisis in the nation's history; and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the Commonwealth be and he is hereby requested to forward copies of these resolutions to the President of the United States and to the presiding officers of both of the Houses of Congress.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the clerk notify the Senate accordingly.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER. As there is no other business on the desk at the present time, I would suggest that we have a session this afternoon at five or six o'clock so that the committees, who I presume will be busy to-day, will have an opportunity to report whatever bills they decide to pass out. By reporting them out this evening we practically gain a day. In other words, they will come on the calendar to-morrow for first reading.

RECESS.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will declare a recess until 5 o'clock this afternoon.

AFTER RECESS.

SENATE MESSAGE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows, viz:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Authorizing the Chief Clerk of the Department of Public Printing and Binding to perform all duties and to exercise all powers by law imposed on the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding until an appointment to fill said office is confirmed.

Whereas, Because of the resignation of the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding and because no appointment to fill the resulting vacancy has as yet been confirmed, there is no person authorized to perform the duties or to exercise the powers imposed and conferred by law upon the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding; and

Whereas, It is desirable and necessary for the proper administration of the Department of Public Printing and Binding that there be a person vested in the said powers and duties; therefore

Be it Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Chief Clerk of the Department of Public Printing and Binding is hereby authorized, until an appointment to the office of Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding is confirmed by the Senate, to perform all the duties and to exercise all the powers imposed and conferred by law upon the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding, with like effect as if the same had been done by the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding regularly appointed and confirmed.

The Chief Clerk shall receive and open all bids, and shall award contracts for executing the public printing and binding for term of four years from the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, as provided by the general law.

The Chief Clerk shall also sign and approve all pay rolls and all other orders and vouchers which the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding is by law authorized to sign and approve.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I move this House do now adjourn until to-morrow morning at 11.00 o'clock.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 5.25 P. M.) the House adjourned until to-morrow morning at 11.00 o'clock.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1917 — 122nd of the General Assembly

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1917. No. 8.

SENATE.

WEDNESDAY, February 7, 1917.

The Senate met at 10 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. E. E. Beidleman) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we thank Thee for all the opportunities coming to us in life to develop and make more efficient our individual lives. Never before in the history of the world and especially in the history of our American nation has there been a greater and more important opportunity offered to our people to be a blessing to the world. We pray Thee to so guide all the newspapers of the United States and all the leaders of men in every state of our Union that every expression we make and the spirit that we carry with us may help those who have the final words to offer, to decide in such a manner as to stamp us as a great, broad-minded, broad-gauged Christian nation. We ask in the Saviour's name, Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. SPROUL, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

HOUSE MESSAGES.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING.

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate communication from the House of Representatives, informing the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate, February 6, 1917.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns on Wednesday, February seventh, it be to meet on Monday evening, February twelfth, at nine-thirty o'clock; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it be to meet on Monday evening, February twelfth, at nine o'clock.

HOUSE CONCURS IN RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING THE CHIEF CLERK OF THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC PRINTING AND BINDING TO PERFORM ALL DUTIES AND TO EXERCISE ALL POWERS BY LAW IMPOSED ON THE SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC PRINTING AND BINDING UNTIL AN APPOINTMENT TO FILL SAID OFFICE IS CONFIRMED.

He also laid before the Senate communication from the House of Representatives, informing the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate as follows:

Whereas, Because of the resignation of the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding and because no appointment to fill the resulting vacancy has as yet been confirmed, there is no person authorized to perform the duties or to exercise the powers imposed and conferred by law upon the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding; and

Whereas, It is desirable and necessary for the proper administration of the Department of Public Printing and Binding that there be a person vested in the said powers and duties; therefore

Be it resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Chief Clerk of the Department of Public Printing and Binding is hereby authorized, until an appointment to the office of Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding is confirmed by the Senate, to perform all the duties and to exercise all the powers imposed and conferred by law upon the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding, with like effect as if the same had been done by the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding regularly appointed and confirmed.

The Chief Clerk shall receive and open all bids, and shall award contracts for executing the public printing and binding for term of four years from the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, as provided by the general law.

The Chief Clerk shall also sign and approve all pay rolls and all other orders and vouchers which the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding is by law authorized to sign and approve.

REPORT OF THE PHILADELPHIA SAVING FUND SOCIETY.

He also laid before the Senate report of The Philadelphia Saving Fund Society, in accordance with the provisions of the act approved May 15, 1824.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 11.27 o'clock A. M. until Monday evening, February 12, 1917, at 9.30 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, February 7, 1917.

The House met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. S. G. Zerfass, offered the following prayer:

Great God, ever gracious and omnipresent, we thank Thee for light of another day. Thou art indeed our strength, our rock, our fortress, and our deliverer. Continue to be our shepherd, causing us to lie down in green pastures, and restoring our souls. May goodness and mercy follow us all the days of our lives, so that we may dwell in the House of the Lord forever. Cause us to serve Thee with pure hearts and clean hands, so that our souls may not be lifted into vanity. Bless, we beseech Thee, all manner of mankind for whom it is our duty to pray. Hasten the day when the Universal Brotherhood of Man and the General Fatherhood of God shall be established and ordained throughout all the earth. We praise Thy most holy name and pray for toleration and forbearance so that Thou, O God, may be loved and glorified, according to Thy spiritual ideals. As the hart panteth after the water brooks, grant, O Lord, that my soul may pant after Thee. Keep back all Thy servants from presumptuous sins. Let them not have dominion over us. Let the words of my mouth and meditation of my heart be acceptable in Thy sight, O Lord, my strength and my Redeemer. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when, on motion of Mr. Scott, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. MARVIN asked and obtained leave of absence for his colleague, Mr. George W. Williams, for the balance of the week.

RESOLUTION.

Mr. PHILLIPS offered the following resolution which was twice read and laid over under the rules:

Whereas, Boise Penrose, Senior United States Senator from Pennsylvania, in a speech at a public banquet in Pittsburgh, declared that should the President of the United States again appear upon the floor of the Senate, and he, Penrose, was there, he would interrogate the President and drive him from the floor of the Senate and make it impossible for him to return, and

Whereas, The presence of the President in the Senate was required by the grave crisis which is confronting this Nation, and he was there to consult with the Senators concerning this crisis, and

Whereas, There may be a mistaken impression among a great many people that Senator Penrose in thus speaking of the President of the United States, voiced the sentiment of the people of Pennsylvania, who have ever stood loyally by the President in all times of crisis from the earliest history of the Nation, when, as a matter of fact, Senator Penrose in his utterances represented no one, but himself, and

Whereas, Both the Senate and House of Representatives have gone on record as endorsing the President in this crisis and pledging him the fullest support of this imperial Commonwealth.

Be it Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly met, representing the sentiment of the entire eight million people of this State, repudiate the denunciation and proposed intimidation of the President by Senator Penrose;

And be it Further Resolved, That Senator Penrose is hereby requested to repudiate his remarks at the Pittsburgh banquet and to officially represent the people of this State as they desire to be represented by standing loyally by the President in this crisis instead of assuming the attitude of a heckler;

And, be it Further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the President of the United States, the President of the Senate of the United States, the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, and to Senator Penrose.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on Third Reading of House Bill No. 95, as follows:

Section 2 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SPANGLER. This bill is an act special to York County, known as the Almshouse Act. As I have stated, it relates only to York County. The purpose of this bill is to empower the Poor Board of York County to purchase real estate and erect an almshouse that is absolutely an imperative necessity for the County of York.

At the present time the County of York has no mode of procedure whereby they can erect a badly needed almshouse, and in order to straighten out all the difficulties that have been encountered by the Poor Board and by the court, it was necessary that a special act be passed for York County in order that new buildings and a new site might be procured, and in order that conditions that are deplorable in York County as concerns the poor district might be corrected. I can see no reason why anybody should oppose this bill. It has been advertised as provided by law and is regular in its every provision. I therefore ask the House to give it their support.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from York, (Mr. Spangler).

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Spangler, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SPANGLER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman from York why the Commissioners of York County do not have the power to build this almshouse the same as they take care of other public institutions of the kind?

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I would say to the gentleman that under our Act of 1805 the Commissioners have no authority to build an almshouse in York County. The County Commissioners took it up before our courts in May of last year and the courts decided that the County, so far as administrative powers were concerned, was absolutely powerless to act.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman further.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York (Mr. Spangler) permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. SPANGLER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I would have him explain why the Poor Directors should be delegated this power and not the County Commissioners.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, in order that I may answer the gentleman I will just read a statement of what the County of York must have in the way of legislation in order to do the things that this bill provides.

"In the first place, it must be borne in mind that the County is about to sell the site and buildings of the old almshouse; second, that the county court now has deposited in its name $110,000 belonging to the Poor District of York County; third, a new site must be properly selected; fourth, buildings adequate and adapted to the needs of York County must be constructed; fifth, the construction of a new almshouse in York County is imperative and should be performed at once; sixth, a site and building should be constructed in a manner that will meet the special needs of York County and in a manner most economical to the tax payers of said county."

Now, Mr. Speaker, under the Act of 1879—I will read the provisions of that Act; It provides that "The commissioners of each county are authorized and empowered to select and purchase real estate within said district and erect thereon buildings." That is the provision of the Act of 1879. As I stated before, under the Act of 1879 the County of York, at the present time, cannot act; it has no power to act; the County Commissioners have no power to act; and, further, I will say to the gentleman that it is our desire—and we have so set forth in this bill, that every stage, every step in the proceedings for the procurement of land and for the erection of buildings is under the supervision and guidance of our Court of Quarter Sessions. There cannot be a single act performed; there cannot be a single foot of ground purchased; there cannot be a single stick put into the buildings of our almshouse until the Court of Quarter Sessions of York County shall have approved; and I believe that when the almshouse is to be constructed it should be constructed in such a way that it will preclude all graft, will preclude all extravagance and will give to the county that which is imperatively needed, an almshouse that is suitable to all the needs of the county at the least expense to the county and to the tax payers of the county.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has not answered my question.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, what is the gentleman's question?

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I asked the gentleman why the Poor Directors and not the Commissioners were given this power. If it is possible to legislate this power into the hands of the Poor Directors, why haven't the Commissioners been given this power; why does not this act provide they shall build this almshouse and why select the Poor Board?

Mr. SPANGLER. We intend the Poor Board shall build the almshouse because we have surrounded the proceeding, the purchase of land, and the erection of buildings with such restraints, with such barriers by reason of submitting the question for the approval of the court in a way that we cannot have the Commissioners do it under the Act of 1879. In further answer to the gentleman from York I wish to call his attention to this further fact; That is the question relating to the sale of our present properties. We have also the question relating to the appropriation and expenditure of $110,000 that is now in the hands of the court and which must be appropriated to the purchase of the new site and erection of new buildings. I will further say, in answer to the gentleman, that I have here considerable correspondence from the Department of Factory Inspection, from the Fire Marshal and from Mr. Bromley Wharton, General Agent for the Board of Public Charities, in which they have not only appealed to our courts but have appealed to the Attorney General for some relief whereby the hands of some administrative powers in York County could be untied in a way that would enable them to build our almshouse.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I insist that this power rightly belongs to the commissioners. They have built and do build another county building, a county institution. I understand there is a similar case in Lebanon County, where some years ago there was a particular act and that act was set aside. Now an almshouse was built there or some new building was built by the commissioners more or less parallel with this. I cannot understand why the gentleman has selected the Poor Board to put up this building. It seems to me inconsistent. It borders on the ridiculous. I cannot see why the County Commissioners should not put up this building which was given the power to do building and purchase ground, and who have built the Court House of the county and the York Jail and I cannot understand why they should have selected the Poor Board to erect this building. I am not interested; I don't care who builds this almshouse, but it is my opinion that the gentleman, my colleague, has drawn the bill wrongly. He should have given the power of building this almshouse to the commissioners. I believe that if the gentlemen will study the bill, and it only seems the right thing to me to do, they will understand very well that that is where the power belongs. Is it not silly to give the power to the Directors of the Poor to build this almshouse? Think it over. I think it is ridiculous. It seems to me the most peculiar act I have ever read. I was startled and amazed when it was presented in this House when I had it read to me, this thing of giving power to build an institution, an almshouse, in York County by the Poor Directors. It has never been done in the State and I most certainly will not vote for this bill. I am not interested in any factional spirit or quarrel, as I don't care who builds it, but I don't want to go back home to York and say that I voted for the bill, and I will refuse to vote for it, and I believe that the bill should be taken out of the hands of the Poor Board and placed into the hands of the Commissioners and I refuse to vote for the bill in order to give us an opportunity to place it in the hands of the Commissioners instead of the Poor Directors, as it could have just as easily been drawn, as an act, in that way, giving the County Commissioners the same authority.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I believe that if the gentleman were not blinded with the fact that the interests of York County are paramount to the interests of the Prothonotary's Office in York County, or if the gentleman had read this bill carefully and knew its purport, or if the gentleman were familiar with the Act of 1879, with respect to York County needs, he would not stand up here and criticise this measure, if he had any other purpose than the amelioration of a condition that has become intolerable in York County. The measure, as I have it here, has been submitted to the Courts of York County. It has been gone over most carefully by Judge Warner, and the Judge has suggested a number of amendments to the bill which have been added. In respect to why this authority has been given to the Poor Board instead of the County Commissioners, permit me to say that there are a number of counties where this has been done with York County—I might cite Berks County and Schuylkill County where the Poor Board is the administrative Board in relation to the county's poor affairs. They have charge of the administration, the Poor Board of York County, under this special act. We, in York County, have been operating under this special act known as the Poor Act, since 1805. The question came up in York County for the erection of an almshouse and it is a necessity, and to show you how imperative it is, I will read you a letter from Mr. Wilson, the Assistant Agent of the Charity Board, and this letter is a duplicate of a dozen other letters that I have in my possession here: "Conditions are worse than recorded in my previous reports. The roof of the main building is leaking badly, each succeeding rain makes habitation more miserable, a leaky steam boiler, previously reported, has been repaired. Mr. Quinn of the Labor and Industry Commission conferred with the Poor Directors relative to a new almshouse."

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Spangler, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I object to the gentleman's remarks on the ground that he is not coming anywheres near answering my question.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from York cannot ask permission to interrogate the gentleman and then make a speech.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I refuse to be further interrogated.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from York, Mr. Lanius, with the permission of the gentleman, may interrogate the gentleman.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, it is with great reluctance, gentlemen, that I detain the House with so full an explanation of the horrible conditions that exist in York County. I would not think of detaining the House for the discussion of this matter unless I felt that the passage of this bill was absolutely imperative. The Fire Marshal has threatened that in the event that something is not immediately done he would take the inmates out of the present building. Suppose we go back to the Act of 1879, the Poor Act of that date. Before we could construct a building and purchase real estate it would be necessary for us to submit the question either at a specia lelection to the people of York County or it would be necessary to submit it to the people at the next November election to vote and have the people determine whether or not they want a Poor House or whether they don't. All parties who have any interest in this situation demand and have demanded for the last three years that York County build an almshouse immediately. If we go back to the Act of 1879 we have no protection so far as the expenditure of this money is concerned, and if the gentleman who so glibly asks whether this is so and so or why the bill reads so and so, if he had studied that act he would find that we have no protection, no safeguards for the expenditure of our moneys nor would not be in a position to use up one hundred and ten thousand dollars which we have in bank, for the purpose to which it belongs. Further than that so far as by a saving of the Act of 1879, there would not be a saving to the County of York, if the County Commissioners were made the constructors, but the County Commissioners would be able to draw two salaries: one as a Poor Director and the other the regular salary of County Commissioner. There is every reason why this special act should be passed, giving to us the legislation that we so imperatively need and depart from the tangled condition that this general act would remedy. Therefore, I feel confident that you gentlemen will have full faith in what I say when I say that this bill is intended merely and only to ameliorate and remedy this intolerable condition and I hope that you will vote to have this bill passed in the name of the people of York County.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, am I entitled to a further interrogation?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Spangler, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, in this bill the gentleman asks that the County Commissioners be made responsible for the building of this almshouse inasmuch as they shall pay the taxes necessary to pay for this building. I ask him whether this would be just?

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will ask a categorial question, I will be glad to answer it. I will say to the gentleman that the County Commissioners are expected to supply the difference between the money realized for the present site and buildings and the one hundred and ten thousand dollars that is now deposited in the name of the County in bank, and whether it would take any additional sum whether the County Commissioners would have to raise any additional sum, the County Commissioners are protected under the Act of 1879 to put up this building in any way they see fit, which they cannot do unless we first repeal that special act and it may require five or six hundred thousand dollars additional.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman understand me to say that I oppose the building of this almshouse?

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman is actuated by political motives in opposing the method of the construction of this building. I believe this to be the case.

Mr. LANIUS. I thank the gentleman for his kindness.

Mr. COOK. Mr. Speaker, I want to say in behalf of York County that we not only want the almshouse, but we positively and absolutely need it. The old one has been condemned time and time again by the State authorities. It is one of those dingy buildings in which not any one can find clear sunlight, and what really should be there. I want to stand by and voice the sentiments of my colleague in favor of the act as presented.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to make a statement to the House at this time. A member in the rear in the room has notified the Chair that the noise in the rear of the hall of the House is such that it is annoying to the members in the back part of the room, or the hall of the House. The Chair is not conscious at this distance of a noise in the rear of the room, consequently the Chair again mentions this matter to the House that it may again consider my suggestion regarding Rule 39. If there is any gentleman who has any remarks to make on the Chair's suggestion, the Chair would be glad to hear from him.

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speaker, it strikes me that the Chair should call the Sergeant and his assistants to the bar of the House and further instruct them.

The SPEAKER. The Chair tried to impress the House with the fact that it does not at this distance have a knowledge of the noise in the rear of the House of a character that is disturbing to the members in the rear of the room. I might say for the benefit of the Sergeants-at-Arms, which I presume they already know, that it is their duty to keep order in every part of the Hall of the House. I would say to the Sergeants-at-Arms at this time that it is their duty to see that there is no conversation of any character carried on in the House by any other persons than members of the House, either on the side lines or in the rear of the hall of the House.

The Chair thinks that it would be wise for the House to adjourn until four or five P. M., whatever the wish of the House may be, so that the Committees can again report bills.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. JEFFERSON W. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I move this House do now adjourn until 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 12.05 P. M.) the House adjourned until this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, February 7, 1917.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The House met at 4 o'clock P. M.
The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES.

Mr. FLYNN, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed Senate Bill No. 18 (House Bill No. 279), entitled

A Supplement to an act entitled "An Act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the executive, judicial and legislative departments of the Commonwealth, interest on the public debt and the support of the public schools for the two fiscal years beginning June first, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-one, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen," as approved the sixteenth day of June, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and fifteen providing for deficiencies in certain appropriations made to the judicial departments by the act to which this is a supplement.

Mr. SCOTT, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed Senate Bill No. 1 (House Bill No. 326), entitled

A Joint Resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to investigate alleged mal-administration in public office and making an appropriation therefor.

Mr. WHITAKER in the Chair.

Mr. BALDWIN asked and received unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of a resolution, which was twice read as follows:

A CONCURRENT RESOLUTION CREATING A COMMITTEE TO SUGGEST WAYS AND MEANS OF SECURING REVENUE FOR THE STATE.

Whereas, There has been no comprehensive revenue legislation enacted in Pennsylvania in the last sixteen years, and the amounts available for the public schools and public roads of the Commonwealth have not been increased in proportion to the increase in the general State revenue or the growth of the State in population and wealth, and there is now a great public demand for better and more efficient schools and for the improvement and better maintenance of the highways.

Therefore be it Resolved, (if the Senate concur) That a joint committee of the Senate and House of Representatives, to be known as The Committee on Revenue, be and the same is hereby created. Said Committee to consist of the Chairmen of the standing Committees of Finance, Public Roads and Highways, Appropriations and Education, on the part of the Senate, and of the Chairmen of the standing Committees of Ways and Means, Public Roads and Highways, Appropriations and Education on the part of the House of Representatives, with the President Pro Tem of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives members ex-officio.

The duty and purpose of the said Committee shall be to obtain full information of the needs of revenue for the ensuing two years, and the sources wherefrom increased revenue may be secured by just and equitable taxation, and to submit to both branches of the General Assembly their findings and suggestions so that the demands of the people for better public schools and public highways may be realized.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the resolution?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to explain to the House why I think we need a Committee of this character. It is well known to all of you that the Constitution does not provide for the Senate to have any voice in revenue legislation until after it has originated in the House. The consequence is that in the past all revenue legislation has originated, as required by the Constitution, in the House, and as it will have to in the future. In the operation of this law we find that the feeling and sentiment and the voice of the Senate are entirely silent in originating revenue legislation. As a consequence, after the House has given a great deal of time to the consideration of this subject through the Ways and Means Committee, the measures passed by the House go over to the Senate and there we find another body which has no knowledge in any way and no one connected with the proposition to explain the careful investigations that have been made in the matter by the House. If a committee of this character be created both bodies can then have within their bodies members who are fully acquainted with the subject as it has been carefully threshed out in the House, when the proposition comes over to the Senate. I think that a resolution of this charatcer will bring about revenue legislation that will fill the wants that are so apparent from the voice of the people; therefore I would ask the passage of this resolution.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman when that committee is to report.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, that subject I considered very carefully and I felt that we could have entire confidence in the character of the men that would deal with this subject to report it as quickly as they could so that we could take the matter up and proceed by legislation to provide according to their suggestions. I have no objections whatever to fixing a date but I really think that the men who will deal with the subject will appreciate the importance of acting as quickly and promptly as possible, otherwise it would be of no value to the legislature.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman, as an ex-officio member of this committee, if it is their purpose to report their findings to this legislature?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, absolutely; that is the whole thought. I think the resolution makes that very plain.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman this: Does this resolution mean that all revenue measures introduced in the House shall be referred to this Joint Committee?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would say to the House that so far as legislation anticipated by bills introduced is concerned, this committee has no control whatever over it; they have no control over any legislation whatever. The resolution asks that this Committee make a careful investigation of the subject and submit that finding to the Ways and Means Committee of the House, out of which there will come to the floor of the House matters in which the House can have a full and careful consideration at their own disposal. It is not the intention in any way to ursurp any of the powers of the members of the Legislature. It would have no force whatever, but only have the power to suggest.

On the question recurring,
Will the House agree to the adoption of the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for its concurrence.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 4.35 o'clock P. M.) the House adjourned until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1917. No. 9.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, February 8, 1917.

The House met at 10:00 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. S. G. Zerfass, offered the following prayer:

Almighty and most merciful Father, we have erred and strayed from Thy ways like lost sheep; we have followed too much the devices and desires of our own hearts; we have offended against Thy holy laws; we have left undone those things which we ought to have done, and we have done those things which we ought not to have done; and there is no health in us; but Thou, O Lord, have mercy upon us miserable offenders. Spare Thou those, O God, who are willing to confess their faults and shortcomings; restore all of us to our penitence according to Thy promises declared unto mankind by Thy most holy Word. We beseech Thee to grant us true repentance and His Holy Spirit, that everything may please Thee which we now do, that the remainder of our lives hereafter may be pure and holy. Finally, we commend to Thy fatherly goodness all who may in any way be afflicted or distressed in mind, body or soul; relieve them, give them patience and a happy issue out of their afflictions; and this we beg for Thy dear sake. Great God. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when, on motion of Mr. Swartz, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

SENATE.

MONDAY, February 12, 1917.

The Senate met at 9.30 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, our kind Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the great history of the United States, for the great men and women who helped to make up our historic life. We are specially grateful for that life that was so benevolent; the mind that was so broad, the heart so great and the life that was so honest in all of its details that in his memory we would resolve here to-night to perpetuate in our own lives so far as we possibly can all the best qualities that we can find in the life of our great Emancipator and great American Patriot and that we will so live as to cherish his memory by trying to be as valuable to our country as he was. These blessings we ask in our Saviour's name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WASBERS, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

MOTION TO PRINT THE PROCEEDINGS INCIDENT TO THE DEDICATION AND UNVEILING OF THE OAKLEY MURAL PAINTINGS.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, this being the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, and out of respect to his beloved memory, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Mr. DeWITT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 10.10 o'clock P. M. until Tuesday morning, February 13, 1917, at 10 o'clock.

UNVEILING CEREMONIES

OF THE

VIOLET OAKLEY MURAL PAINTINGS.

Senate Chamber, February 12, 1917, 8 O'Clock P. M.

The LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR (Hon. Frank B. McClain) in the Chair.

INVOCATION.

The Chaplain of the Senate of Pennsylvania, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we are instructed to look unto Thee as the Author and Giver of every good and perfect gift. We are ready to acknowledge that all our talents come from Thee. It is a matter of pride with us that of the four most talented artists of this age three of them belong to the State of Pennsylvania. We are here this evening to feast our hungry eyes upon the creations of one of these most distinguished decorators. We thank Thee that by the inspired talent of our artist we have perpetuated for us historic characters and events with such realistic expression as to charm us into the deepest admiration, and we pray that upon our artist such a blessing may come that her hand with all its skill may never be able to overtake the vision of larger and better things that are yet to come. We ask in our Saviour's name, Amen.

The audience then united in the singing of "Pennsylvania" as follows:

"PENNSYLVANIA."

I.

Tho' we may go across the sea,
Far form Columbia's gates,
Our first allegiance is to thee,
Our own United States;
And while we name the land we love,
How gladly we shall tell,
The glory of the story of
The State we love so well.

Chorus:

Pennsylvania! Pennsylvania!
Pennsylvania, the Keystone State!
To thee we raise our song.
To thee our hearts belong.
Pennsylvania! Pennsylvania!
Pennsylvania, the Keystone State!

II.

'Twas by the silvery Delaware,
The Nation had its birth,
When North and South joined hands to dare
The strongest power of earth;
And loud from Independence Hall,
The Bell of Liberty
Proclaimed to all the world the fall,
Of foreign tyranny.

Chorus:

III.

The Union's safety on the sea,
Its wealth and power on land,
Oh, Pennsylvania, is of thee
Comes from thy lavish hand,
Along the Allegheny's tide
Thy heart of steel is won;
And from thy side the warships glide,
Thy coal shall drive them on.

Chorus:

IV.

From Valley Forge's ice and snow,
To Gettysburg's red field—
Tho' centuries may come and go,
And battle wounds are healed,—
None truer fought on land or sea,
None braver faced the guns,
To die for thee, Land of the Free,
Than Pennsylvania's Sons.

Chorus:

ADDRESS OF THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR McCLAIN: We are told that it was the custom of the Children of Israel to assemble on certain appointed days to sing their majestic National songs and recount the achievements of their great men. And for the same purpose have we assembled to-night, on this, the anniversary of the birth of the Great Emancipator. To express, in both oral word and pictorial presentation, the achievements of America's two greatest citizens, and of epochal events in the history of our Commonwealth.

Under the circumstances, it surely will not be inappropriate to say a word of that illustrious American,

"His life a benediction, falling like some 'Holy Psalm,' We know him now, as they did then, as Father Abraham.' "

With each succeeding year, among the American people, the birthday of Abraham Lincoln takes on a deeper significance. Calls forth a display of more intense appreciation. Truly was he a wonderful character. He thought straight. He talked straight. He fought straight. A man of the people. Ever the servant of the people. Never, even when clothed with tremendous power, did he essay the role of a Master. He appealed to the idealism of high and low alike. The aristocratic Lowell enthusiastically declared him "One of Plutarch's men." But measured by ethical standards, it was not Lincoln's great intellectual powers that made him resemble one of the heroic figures of Old.

The traits of his character that made for his greatness were his simplicity; his sincerity; his magnanimity for above the smallness of revenge; his justice; his patience; his rounded humanity; his inflexible integrity and his unqualified democracy.

The specific issues over which Lincoln strove have become history, but the ideals, by the light of which he wrought, yet remain and could well be applied to the present day and its needs.

Lincoln was a politician, in the broad interpretation of the term. He had a great ambition for a public career. He came to the leadership of his party by pursuing a course that was consistent with the rules of politics, without being inconsistent with the rules of right, and politicians of the present day could, if they would, study Lincoln's methods and learn that a man may be masterful in political planning without being base, without violating conscience, without even temporizing with wrong.

Lincoln could put more flesh on the skeleton of an idea, and use less words in doing it, than any public man in all our history. One of the greatest speeches ever made in the English language, excelled by none and equalled by few, if any, for brevity, simplicity and force, was the speech he made on the Battlefield of Gettysburg, portrayed by Miss Oakley's brush in the painting to my left, soon to be displayed, when his prophetic vision enabled him to predict that "This Nation under God should have a new birth of freedom, and government of the people, by the people, and for the people should not perish."

Misunderstood; misrepresented; sneered at; jeered at; reviled in life, the impartial Historian has come to rank him as one of the greatest men the world, in all its thousands of years of history, has produced. The children of those of the Southland who hated him, and the children of those of the North, who loved him, alike to-day revere his memory. And that race of our people who wear the burnished livery of the sun, worship his name in degree second only to that of the Saviour of Mankind.

Lincoln's example lives. Let us emulate it. The fruits of his noble deeds are ours. Let us gratefully enjoy them. The enduring brass may proclaim his worth. The faithful marble and the unfading canvas may preserve his image, but for all that, a united country is his monument. The equal rights of its citizens, his epitaph.

The people of Pennsylvania have a proud heritage in their Commonwealth's history. In Pennsylvania was first inspired that plan of national existence which the people of these United States so much cherish. The beauty and the force of Penn's character, had its influence in the other Colonies and attracted to his province their great-minded men, who in time improved upon Penn's Declaration of Equality, and amplified his rules of government into a constitution which secures to our hundred million of people to-day happiness and prosperity.

That Penn was a man of consummate ability is proved in all his public acts and speeches. Even his words in private conversation were so fitly spoken that they are "like apples of gold, set in pictures of silver."

Under the beneficent influence of Penn's institutions, the various races differing in religion, manners and language, were blended into one homogeneous mass.

With one consent, the wisest and most learned of all nations agree that, as a law giver, he was the greatest that ever founded a state in ancient or modern times.

Penn's "Holy Experiment" and Penn's Constitution of 1681 was two hundred twenty-five years ahead of the most advanced republics of to-day. Penn's plan of the union of the provinces then oparating under the English Crown, for mutual advantage, was the great germ which took root and blossomed in 1776, and ripened into full fruit in 1787, when the American Nation became a complete fact.

In Pennsylvania, more than in any other state of the Union, have originated principles, ideas and laws that have lifted us up and carried us forward as a nation. It was the arms of Pennsylvania's daughter, "Philadelphia," that cradled "the Infant of Livery." Pennsylvania was among the first to declare that no man should be denied the right to worship as his conscience dictated. It was Pennsylvania who first said that upon her soil there should be no favored classes; that no slaves' presence should dishonor labor. And that no man should be compelled to "doff" his cap to another, except through the courtesy of equals.

Pennsylvania made the Declaration of Independence possible and gave that immortal document nine of its signers. In the construction and adoption of the Federal Constitution, Pennsylvania was pre-eminent in its influence and in that Constitutional Convention, depicted in the painting to my right, which, in a few moments will to you be visualized, Pennsylvania had more seats than any other Colony and eight of Pennsylvania's sons answered to their names on its roll. I need not call to your attention, the battlefields of Brandywine and Germantown. The story of Paoli and its "red spot" is deeply impressed on your memory, and the tale of that winter at Valley Forge and the bloody footprints in its frozen fields, is familiar to every school child in the grammar grade.

Not only when Washington led the armies of the United Colonies, did Pennsylvania make sacrifices beyond any other Commonwealth. At no time in the history of our Nation has any sister Commonwealth exceeded Pennsylvania in the fullness of her contribution of men and money, to defend the principle of our government's integrity and history in this respect, will repeat itself, should the crisis now impending result in sanguinary strife.—"Lest We Forget."—in that internecine struggle which raged from '61 to '65, when tens of thousands of the very flower of America's manhood, perished in battle, it was on Pennsylvania's soil, its deciding contest was fought, when the wave of Rebellion surged at its highest and broke in bloody spray upon the granite rocks of Gettysburg, and Meade, Reynolds and Hancock, three Pennsylvania soldiers, made victory possible, and the disintegration of the Union impossible.

It is meet and proper that we should glorify alike our Country's deeds in war and its vocations in peace. We should preserve the memory of every great National event and every inspiring happening in our Commonwealth's history, with some monument or portrayal of enduring character, whether the same be of marble, of bronze, or with the painter's brush.

Twentieth century art with careful steps has pursued its way to a great development, yes, in some lines, to an illustrious triumph. To-day, mural decoration is no longer confined to cathedral, transept or basilica nave, but thrives and finds a place in our State and Municipal buildings; in our libraries, and under the roofs of private homes. But the Arts are worth nothing if they only please by Art. A picture is of no more value than a piece of furniture, if it only produces or procures satisfaction to the eye.

An historical picture to have intrinsic worth must not only have the likeness of the chief character in the scene depicted, but must have the environment in accurate detail. Historical painting inspires study of History; the spread of Historical knowledge and promotes patriotism. It stimulates in the hearts of the rising generation a desire for knowledge of the problems that confronted their forefathers. It inspires study of that courage and wisdom in council; that valor in war and that patriotism which resulted in the establishment of a Government, the like of which the world has never before seen.

No story of fiction will excite wonderment in our children's minds, more than that of Washington and his colleagues. In their deeds, in their lives, the youth of our Nation, will find that inspiration; that determination; that spirit, which these days is called, "AMERICA FIRST," which, after all, is only that "SPIRIT OF '76," which fought battles, developed the country, conquered seemingly insurmountable obstacles and made possible the blessings which we all to-day enjoy. Though the eloquent lips of Washington addressing the Constitutional Convention are hushed, and though the hand that traced the immortal instrument that resulted from the deliberations of that Assembly, is motionless, yet the lofty spirit that conceived and maintained it, lives on, and must by the coming generation be upheld and through it, transmitted to a later posterity.

Therefore I say let examples of heroism and civic virtues, such as are portrayed in the scenes which I am about to formally unveil, be brought before the eyes of both young and old, to arouse in their hearts the passion of Love of Country.

I now uncover and publish to the people of Pennsylvania and to all others, whose footsteps may lead to this Senate hall, these portrayals on enduring canvas and in unfading colors of events that have made luminous Pennsylvania's chapter in the story of our National progress.

AMERICA.

The audience then united in the singing of "America."

INTRODUCTION OF THE GOVERNOR.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR McCLAIN: He needs no introduction, he speaks for himself and to-night as well, he speaks for the Commonwealth in whose name he will accept the treasures of art here unveiled. The Governor of Pennsylvania, Martin G. Brumbaugh.

ADDRESS OF THE GOVERNOR.

GOVERNOR BRUMBAUGH: Lieutenant-Governor McClain, Members of the Senate and House of Representatives, Ladies and Gentlemen: We meet to-night under conditions that are inspiriting. We are participating in an exercise of unusual significance. A great artist has placed upon enduring canvas a lofty conception of the dominant ideal that nestled in the soul of the great Founder of this colony—William Penn. It is my pleasant duty to accept these masterpieces for the Commonwealth. This I gladly do, and I take this occasion to thank Miss Oakley on behalf of our eight millions of people for the splendid work wrought and here displayed. It is an especial satisfaction to note that these great paintings are the product of a modest, capable, splendid Pennsylvania woman. She has done her part worthily and well. The creater is greater than the created. So the splendor of this achievement is not alone in the paintings we so much prize but in the transcendent genius of the woman in whose skillful spirit was born this great ideal of unity, for, at her request, I am asked to state that the general theme of the five paintings before you is the creation of and preservation of the Union, Penn's principles of government, his prophecy of peace. There seemed to be no suitable place on the walls of the chamber to inscribe this general legend and so I have announced it for the interpretation of the works of art before you. Historically this occasion is unusually significant. The Lieutenant Governor has already given point and interpretation to a part of the historical significance of a day that is sacred and secure in the hearts of the people of America forever. It is historical for another reason.

There passed to his reward in Holland on February 16, 1677, a noted philosopher, to whom is often applied the phrase, "The God intoxicated man." His name was Spinoza. His enduring memorial is his philosophy. His central teaching is that there is but one essence or unity in all the universe. That essence is God. He is essential unity. All things are but attributes or expressions of Himself. This Unity as essence expresses itself in two great attributes—thought and extension. Thus mind and matter, the world of the spiritual and the world of the material things, unite in God.

In the year of Spinoza's death William Penn was in Holland and up the Rhine carrying the gospel of the inner light, the essential unity of the human race, to the people who later came to this colony and aided in its development. It is likewise a fact that Penn was familiar with the teachings of Spinoza. His conception of spiritual unity found expression in the great Frame of Government for this colony. It is in complete harmony with the philosophy of this compatriot of Penn's mother. Penn believed in the unity of the spirit and opened the doors of his love and colony to all peoples.

No more tolerant or gracious government ever was promulgated than the government of Pennsylvania. To express adequately the animating purpose thereof was the task set for the artist. Miss Oakley with unity in her soul and with fine feeling and commanding skill has here given expression to this great philosophic ideal of government. The waters of life fresh and free flow from the throne of God. They animate and enshrine the majestic figure of unity and flow to all the races of men. It is an ideal interpretation of the loftiest conception of human government. The thought that thrilled Spinoza, that carried William Penn to this great country—is here vividly and adequately portrayed.

In the acceptance of these masterpieces we have added to the already valuable and unique collection of art products belonging to the people of Pennsylvania. I cannot allow the occasion to pass without urging this Assembly to initiate a procedure that will ultimately make the capital city a great art center. My suggestion is that an Art Commission of three be provided and that annually they be given authority and funds to purchase such artistic products of Pennsylvania genius as will in the aggregate assemble here for the generations to be the finest gallery of art in America.

If in addition to the notable works now formally accepted we shall make provision for continued additions we shall have rendered on this auspicious occasion a notable service and provided an enduring inspiration for the generations of Pennsylvanians who, please God, may in endless procession pass this way.

INTRODUCTION OF MISS OAKLEY.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR McCLAIN: I now present to you the artist, young in years but nation-wide in fame, whose brush has been the instrument for that historical expression exemplified in the work on these walls, which work typifies the highest grade of mural decorations, Miss Violet Oakley.

ADDRESS OF MISS OAKLEY.

"By so many streams my mind
Is filled with gladness, it giveth
Itself joy that it can bear it and Yet not be rent!"

* * * * * * * *

"As cometh to the ear sweet harmony
From an organ cometh to my sight
The time that is in store for three."

—DANTE.

When at the beginning of the Balkan troubles in the Autumn of 1912 I was in London at work upon the Theme for the paintings in the Senate Chamber, a short distance from where we were staying at the very foot of the street—were gathered together—in St. James Palace the representatives of the nations—in their conference striving to avert by means of wisest diplomacy the threatened European conflagration. With striking force came to me the messages out of the past—which reached me as I searched: and lo! I came upon the "Ideal State" which was no vain dream but an actual historic, rock-like fact. That which so many say "can't be done" I found "hath already been."

I burned to build a great monument, not only as its memorial, but that it might live again—"For there is hope of a tree, if it be cut down—that it will sprout again and that the tender branch thereof will not cease.

Though the root thereof wax old in the earth, and the stock thereof die in the ground yet through the scent of water it will bud and bring forth boughs like a plant."

The result is now before you—though— as yet, not in its entirety. Unity is its theme—the unity of all life—and this one-ness of the law of life is love.

Its activity is manifest in "The Creation and Preservation of the Union." Just what is signified by the word "Union" is for each one to discover. It is here indicated that this active principle of unity culminates in the coming of the city of God upon the earth where it is so sorely needed, so earnestly longed for. "And the desire of all nations shall come." Before I had known that this work was to done, in a pause when a former work was nearing completion, came this message: "Write the things which thou hast seen, the things which are, and the things which shall be hereafter;" then came the thought of "The City of God," and then followed the call to do this work.

The work in the Senate Chamber, as you know, was not originally to have been mine to do, but it was to have been that great painter's who laid down his life in the devoted service of the State as the lofty and most noble spirit of the works in the high dome. and the colossal Apotheosis of Pennsylvania, and the other stately panels in the House of Representatives forever attest.

Perhaps the burden laid upon him proved heavier than he could bear, after the accomplishment of a quite superhuman portion of the task. As there was no trace left of what he would have done here, not even a written outline, it became my duty to search for even the first faint gleam of a right and true theme, and thus to begin at the very beginning; trusting that, in the end, I might not be found wholly unworthy of so great a trust, and that it might have won from his lips a generous, kindly and fraternal "Well done!"

When asked to give some brief account of the development of the theme of the compositions, in order to thus describe the working out of the problem, I decided to read to you fragments of the notes, from the original note-books, somewhat in the order in which they came to me.

A profound wonder overwhelmed me as I learned more and more of the great, positive constructive principle informing the founder of Pennsylvania's first government. It can never be adequately described. much less understood by any negative statements as to what these early friends did not do. Such as: "They did not believe in fighting," "did not carry weapons," "refused to kill under any and all circumstances," "were not worldly," etc., etc.

We know that to-day no one could live and be thus wholly negative. It would have been just as impossible then. I found, instead, some of the positive things they did. some of the truths concerning "the light that was in them." It will be when spiritual light again floods the hearts of men as dazzingly that the great ones will appear who are to reconstruct this battered globe. Perhaps it may be shining now! Listen for a moment to the voice of George Fox:

> "Ye must come out of your "knowledge" into the feeling of an inward principle of Life, if ever ye be restored to the true UNITY with GOD, and to the true enjoyment of Him again."

It was a miracle that happened here in the seventeenth century, no less, no more. And the age of miracles is not over—"Men of little minds" have never understood "miracles," never believed them, never beheld them.

"And I, Daniel, alone saw the vision; for the men that were with me saw not the vision; but a great quaking fell upon them so that they fled to hide themselves—Therefore I was left alone, and saw this great vision."

CLARKSON'S LIFE OF PENN.

EXTRACTS FROM ORIGINAL NOTE-BOOKS.

"He has exhibited to the world the singular spectacle, and has shown the possibility of a nation maintaining it own internal policies amidst a mixture of persons of different nations and different civil and religious opinions, and of maintaining its foreign relations also, without the aid of a soldier or man in arms. The constable's staff was the only instrument of authority in Pennsylvania for the greater part of a century, and always while the government was in the hands of his own decendants, the Quakers; and never was the government, as it related to the governed, maintained with less internal disturbance, or more decorum and order; and as it related to foreigners. with more harmony; for, though he was situated among barbarous nations, never, during his administration was there a quarrel or a war."

FROM GEORGE BANCROFT'S HISTORY.

"Thus did Penn perfect his Government:
An Executive dependent for its support on the people:
All subordinate elective officers elected by the people:
The Judiciary dependent for its existence on the people:
All Legislation originating exclusively with the people:
No Forts:
No Armed Force:
No Militia:
No Established Church:
No Difference of Rank.

And a harbour open for the reception of all mankind of every nation, of children of every language and every creed. Could it be that an invisible power of reason would be able to order and restrain, to punish crime and protect property?

FROM "A QUAKER EXPERIMENT IN GOVERNMENT"

ISAAC SHARPLESS.

"Perhaps at no other time or place in this defective world could the trial have been better made, and one has to admit that the noble dream even when worked out by a man so practical, so resourceful, so skilful in adapting means to ends, of such an imposing personality as William Penn, was incapable of full accomplishment under any conditions likely to be then realized. All the actors in it were not pure and consecrated themselves, and nothing else could save it.

And yet it was not a failure. The world will return to it when times are riper. There will be another trial of the principles of a pure Democracy, with perfect civil and religious liberty, perfect justice to neighbors. never attacking, and without need or provision for armed defence, which will be permanently successful.

The Leven is working, and one by one men are being convinced of the right and expediency of some or all of its features. Nations are adopting them, and with every advance there is an approximation to the experiment of Penn.

As long as exact Justice prevailed Peace existed—and this is the lesson of Pennsylvania.

FROM WILLIAM PENN'S PREFACE TO THE FRAME OF THE GOVERNMENT AT THE PROVINCE OF PENNSYLVANIA.

"THE DIVINE RIGHT OF GOVERNMENT."

Government seems to me a part of Religion itself, a thing sacred in its institution and end, for if it does not remove the cause, it crushes the effects of evil, and is as such, though lower, yet an emanation of the same Divine Power that is both author and object of pure religion; the difference lying here, that the one is more free and mental, the other more corporeal and compulsive in its operations.

The frame and laws of this Government, and the ends of all Government, viz:

To support power in reverence with the people; and to secure the people from the abuse of power.

Wherefore, be it known that the paintings on these walls in the Senate Chamber are entitled in the following manner:

"The Creation and Preservation of the Union."

"William Penn's Principles of Government and his Prophecy of Peace."

"Government is the means of Justice as Justice is the means of Peace."

After the recent re-reading and study of these notes, the plan of Penn for a Parliament of the Nations, the concrete achievement of the Constitutional Convention, the enlightening propaganda of Hamilton in the papers composing the volume of "The Federalist"—I listened with the greatest interest and closest attention to that most delightful advocate of absolute Federalism, our former President, Mr. Taft, at the banquet in Philadelphia last Tuesday evening. Oh, the sanity, balance, clearness and completeness of his unanswerable argument for intelligence and unity. It was said that evening that the arguments against the federation of the States had been stronger than all the arguments raised now against the idea of the deferation of the world.

Ah! how petty—how small—seem the men who Opposed the great idea then—compared with the Mental and Spiritual giants who gloriously stood for it and achieved true Victory.

LETTER TO CONGRESS.

In Convention, September 17th, 1787.

Sir: We have now the honor to submit to the consideration of the United States in Congress assembled, that Constitution which has appeared to us the most advisable.

* * * * * * *

It is obviously impracticable in the Federal Government of these States to secure all rights of Independent Sovereignty to each, and yet provide for the interest and safety of all. Individuals entering into society must give up a share of liberty to preserve the rest. It is at all times difficult to draw with precision the line between these rights which must be surrendered and those which may be reserved.

In all our deliberation on this subject we kept steadily in our view, that which appears to us the greatest interest of every true American, the consolidation of our Union, in which is involved our prosperity, felicity, safety, perhaps our national existence. This important consideration, seriously and deeply impressed on our minds, led each State in the Convention to be less rigid on points of inferior magnitude, than might have been otherwise expected; and thus the Constitution, which we now present, is the result of a spirit of amity, and of that mutual deference and concession which the peculiarity of our political situation rendered indispensable.

That it will meet the full and entire approbation of every State is not perhaps to be expected; but each will doubtless consider that had her interest alone been consulted, the consequences might have been particularly disagreeable or injurious to others; that it is liable to as few exceptions as could reasonably have been expected we hope and believe; that it may promote the lasting welfare of that country so dear to us all, and secure her freedom and happiness is our most ardent wish.

With great respect, we have the honor to be, Sir,
Your Excellency's most obedient and humble servants,

G. WASHINGTON, President.

By unanimous order of the Convention, His Excellecy, The President of Congress.

Is not the time almost ripe—the bleeding world almost ready for another "Holy Experiment"? a Trial of Unity?

I invoke the spirit of Penn—of Washington—of Hamilton—of Franklin—and of our "Father Abraham."

Of Alexander Hamilton it has been written:

FROM PENN'S PARLIAMENT.

"He prevailed upon his fellow country men to make a Trial of Union—and by the audacity of his procedure he filled a written charter with the spirit of life."

"They compassed the Camp of the Saints—and the Beloved City."

"But though Gog and Magog shall gather themselves together to lay waste the City of God—yet the Lord hath determined their destruction—and he will bring it to pass."—Wm. Penn.

Could one but compel the world to perceive not only the abstract desirability of Unity—but her great beauty! the eternally patient unhurried beauty of our lady of unity, our blue lady of the water of life—as she is in truth! Oh—if one only could! "The world would listen then as I am listening now."

She is the source—the fountain of all the blue in the universe. I want you to perceive the borders of her garments—the trailing of her veils whenever you look upon the sapphire of the sea; the azure of the open sky—by day or by night; to see her in drifting mists and in the clouds; when you hear the sound of rushing water she is there; her voice is in the murmuring of the ice-floe. She is the whiteness of dazzling snow; the showers upon the grass; the blue of all mountains and hills; she is in the cup of cold water; she washes humanity clean;—she is all purity and all life; "Her price is above rubies" for she is the wisdom of Love.

AN ESSAY TOWARDS THE PRESENT AND FUTURE PEACE OF EUROPE BY WM. PENN—FIRST PUBLISHED 1693-94.

To the Reader:

I have undertaken a subject that I am very sensible, requires one of more sufficiency than I am master of to treat it as in truth it deserves, and the groaning State of Europe calls for, but since bunglers may stumble upon the game, as well as Masters, though it belongs to the skillful to hunt and catch it. I hope this Essay will not be charged upon me for a fault, if it appear to be neither chimercial nor injurious, and may provoke abler pens to improve and perform the design with better judgment and success. I will say no more in excuse of myself for this undertaking but that it is the fruit of my solicatous thoughts for the Peace of Europe, and they must want Charity as much as the World needs quiet to be offended with me for so pacifick a proposal.

There is another manifest benefit—the Reputation of Christianity will in some degree be recovered in the Sight of Infidels; yet their Saviour has told them that he came to save and not to destroy the Lives of Men—To give and plant peace among men, and if in any sense he may be said to send war it is the Holy War indeed, for it is to send against the Devil and not the Persons of Men. Of all his titles this seems the most glorious as well as comfortable for us that he is the Prince of Peace. It is his Nation, his Office, his work and the end and excellent blessings of his coming, who is both the Maker and preserver of our Peace with God.

I heard the other night also a quotation from Victor Hugo. It was this:

"There is one thing stronger than Armies—and that is an Idea whose time has come."

INTRODUCTION OF MR. CLOTHIER.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR McCLAIN: Mine was the prologue of the evening. The epilogue will now be read by one of Pennsylvania's greatest philanthropists and most useful citizens, an enthusiastic, consistent, effective patron of art and of historic culture and historic celebration, Mr. Isaac H. Clothier.

ADDRESS OF MR. CLOTHIER.

Mr. CLOTHIER: Mr. Chairman, Miss Oakley, Your Excellency, and Senators:

It is with diffidence I rise to briefly address your honorable body, but I am impelled to do so for two reasons.

First—I am a member of the Society of Friends, the founders of our the State of Pennsylvania, of whom John Bright said many years ago: "I am a member of a small but somewhat remarkable religious organization, which has had an influence in the world quite disproportionate to its numbers."

Second—I am privileged, also, to be a member of a body larger than the Society of Friends, and including members of all religious denominations—the friends and admirers of our great Pennsylvania artist, Violet Oakley.

The Society of Friends has always been noted for its adherence to the principle of Peace. I am a believer—especially in these strenuous times—in "peace at any price" except the price of honor, which price, of course, we can never pay. I would paraphrase our President's words, and instead of "Peace without victory," I would inscribe on all our banners: "Peace with honor, but honor always."

Senators, this is a notable occasion. Your committee has been most happy in a choice of the day for the unveiling—the birthday of one of our two immortal Presidents.

It may not be generally known, but previous to their removal to Virginia, and afterward to Kentucky, the parents of Abraham Lincoln were residents of Pennsylvania, and members of the Society of Friends. The home of the Lincolns was at Oley, Berks County, one of the frontier meetings of Friends, and here the Lincolns intermarried with the Boones, the progenitors of the Kentucky pioneer, Daniel Boone.

The name of Abraham Lincoln may fitly be associated with that of William Penn and John Bright, as no more simple-minded man has lived, nor one more in sympathy with the simple testimonies of Friends.

I have been much interested of late in the two great reproductions of our sainted Lincoln—one in the painting we have now before us; the other the great bronze statue by George Grey Barnard, recently shown in New York previous to its removal to Cincinnati, its permanent home. I have not been able to make a proper comparison of the respective merits of these two great works of art in their respective lines, because, previous to this evening, I have seen the painting only in the contracted quarters of the studio, and, admiring both as I do, further examination and study are necessary before final judgment can be reached. The statue, which I understand occupied three years in the making, has the advantage of being a single piece of work, while this great painting of the Gettysburg Address is one of a series of historic reproductions. Except in the historic rendering I presume to the artist's eye there can be no proper comparison between the product of the painter's brush and that of the chisel of the sculptor.

I congratulate you, Gentlemen, on this notable unveiling to the eyes of the nation of these ornamental and historic mural decorations to your chamber, which are worthy of the great Capitol Building of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and I heartily congratulate the gifted artist who, after long study and strenuous labors, now exhibits to this favored company the most important portion of her great work, which, when completed, will have an educational and uplifting influence on all the people for generations to come.

STAR SPANGLED BANNER.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR McCLAIN: We will now ring down the curtain on this delightful drama of history and art by singing that national anthem that makes every American heart thrill, the Star Spangled Banner.

The audience then united in the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, February 12, 1917.

The House met at 9.00 o'clock P. M.
The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. S. G. Zerfass, offered the following prayer:

Dear Lord and God of Nations, assist Thy poor servants most mercifully in prayer. Have compassion over all our infirmities. May it please Thee to make us strong in our love for humanity as well as our care and kindness for dumb animals. Dispose the way of Thy servants to more abundant faith, confiding hope and triumphant love. As we to-day commemorate the birthday of the immortal Lincoln, the saviour of our country, may we more than ever realize that this government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth. Grant Thy blessings unto all Thy servants. May we more than ever live the beautiful sentiment, "with malice toward none and charity toward all." Hear our prayer and save us. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the proceedings of Thursday, February 8, 1917.

The Clerk proceeded to read the proceedings of Thursday, February 8, 1917, when, on motion of Mr. Swartz, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

RESOLUTION.

Mr. McNICHOL asked and received unanimous consent to offer the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

COMMEMORATING THE BIRTH OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Whereas, Our fellow-citizens throughout the United States are devoting to-day in commemoration of the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, who lived and died for the promotion of human rights and the perpetuation of a United Republic, and it is fitting that we of Pennsylvania should join in this general celebration.

Now therefore be it resolved, That the House of Representatives postpone all business until to-morrow, and devote this evening to the memory of the Martyred President.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 9.25 o'clock P. M.) the House adjourned until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1917 — 122nd of the General Assembly

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1917. No. 11.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, February 13, 1917.

The Senate met at 10 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we are indebted to Thee for all the blessings of life. Thy word is a lamp unto our feet and a light unto our pathway, and in addition to this we have that inner monitor given to us to guide all the affairs of our lives. We pray Thee that it may become a pleasure for us to listen to this voice and always to seek to find out what it means. Some of our body are not feeling just as well as they might, and we pray that Thy blessing may be with them so that they may be speedily restored to health and strength again. We ask along with that for Thy blessing upon this entire body, and all the members of our families. We ask these blessings in our Saviour's name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. SASSAMAN, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

In each instance the name of the officer or employe was suggested by the Senator from the district in which the officer or employe resides, with the exception of the Superintendent of Folding Room, Henry A. Campfield, of Meadville, Crawford County. This appointment was made upon the recommendation of the Republican County organiation of Crawford County and myself as Chairman of the Republican State Committee of Pennsylvania.

I am advised by the Chief Clerk of the Senate that the officers and employes are all performing their duties with but very few exceptions, in which cases temporary leaves-of-absence have been granted on account of sickness or unavoidable absence, and temporary employes have been attending to the duties of such officers or employes.

I have examined the Contingent fund expense accounts of the Secretary, Chief Clerk and Librarian of the Senate and I do not find that any amount has been paid to any officers or employes for traveling or any other items of personal expense.

I have also examined the telephone charge slips from December 21st to February 7th and it is impossible to ascertain whether any personal calls have been made by the officers and employes for the reason that, under instructions from the Chief Clerk, the principal officers have been authorized to approve long distance calls for Senators and the principal officers and the telephone charge slips simply bear the name of the person who approved of the call and the party to whom the call was made.

W. E. CROW,
Chairman Republican Slate Committee of Senate.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION DIRECTING INSURANCE COMMISSIONER AND WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION FUND TO FURNISH LIST OF INSURANCE COMPANIES TO WHOM STATE COMPENSATION FUND INSURANCE HAS BEEN UNDERWRITTEN, WITH AMOUNTS OF INSURANCE.

Mr. McNICHOL offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Whereas, Reports are in circulation that the Pennsylvania Workmen's Compensation Fund by and with the consent of the Insurance Commissioner of Pennsylvania is underwriting its compensation insurance with the London Lloyds; and

Whereas, The London Lloyds, by reason of its unwillingness to comply with the laws of the several States of the Union, is not licensed to do business in any of the Commonwealths; and

Whereas, Statements have been made that the London Lloyds is unwilling to comply with the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for which said reason it is not licensed to do business in the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, All the reputable casualty insurance companies doing business, or attempting to do business within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are duly registered; and

Whereas, The said London Lloyds, instead of being a duly incorporated insurance company is merely a mutual insurance company, whose membership consists of approximately four hundred and twenty (420) members, none of whom are either citizens of the United States or residents of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, It is the sense of the General Assembly that the rights of individuals intended to be protected by compensation insurance should be so protected by carrying the insurance with reputable insurance companies licensed to do business within this Commonwealth;

Therefore, be it Resolved, By the Senate (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Insurance Commissioner and the Workmen's Compensation Fund be and they are hereby directed to furnish to the General Assembly on or before the 19th day of February, 1917, a full and complete list of all the Insurance Companies to whom the State Compensation Fund Insurance has been underwritten, together with the amounts of insurance carried with each of the said Companies.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that rule 9, which requires resolutions to be referred to the proper committee, be suspended, in order that the resolution may be considered at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

REPORT OF COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE THE INCREASE IN THE COST OF ANTHRACITE COAL IN THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate the following communication from the Commission to investigate the increase in the cost of anthracite coal in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE THE INCREASE IN THE COST OF ANTHRACITE COAL IN THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Harrisburg, Pa., February 8, 1917.

Harmon M. Kephart, Chief Clerk, State Senate of Pennsylvania.

By dear Mr. Kephart: I am enclosing you herewith, for the purpose of filing the same formally in the Senate of the State of Pennsylvania, a copy of the Report of the Commission to Investigate the Increase in the Cost of Anthracite Coal in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, pursuant to a joint resolution of June 15th, 1915, by which it was directed that a report should be made to the Governor and Legislature at a time set forth therein.

I have sent this day, by Adams Express, to the Attorney General of Pennsylvania copies for distribution to the members of the Senate, which he assured me would be distributed on Monday evening of next week.

Kindly acknowledge receipt hereof in order that our records may be made to show that the report was made as provided by law.

Yours very truly,
Robert S. Gawthrop.

(For report see appendix.)

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION CREATING A COMMITTEE TO SUGGEST WAYS AND MEANS OF SECURING REVENUE FOR THE STATE.

He also laid before the Senate extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives which was twice read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 7, 1917.

Whereas, There has been no comprehensive revenue legislation enacted in Pennsylvania in the last sixteen years, and the amounts available for the public schools and public roads of the Commonwealth have not been increased in proportion to the increase in the general State revenue or the growth of the State in population and wealth, and there is now a great public demand for better and more efficient schools and for the improvement and better maintenance of the highways,

Therefore be it Resolved (If the Senate concur) That a joint committee of the Senate and House of Representatives, to be known as the Committee on Revenue, be and the same is hereby created. Said committee to consist of the Chairmen of the standing committees of Finance, Public Roads and Highways, Appropriations and Education, on the part of the Senate, and of the Chairmen of the standing committees of Ways and Means, Public Roads and Highways, Appropriations and Education on the part of the House of Representatives, with the President Pro Tem of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives members Ex-Officio.

The duty and purpose of the said committee shall be to obtain full information of the needs of revenue for the ensuing two years, and the sources wherefrom increased revenue may be secured by just and equitable taxation, and to submit to both branches of the General Assembly their findings and suggestions so that the demands of the people for better public schools and public highways may be realized.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that rule 39, which requires resolutions to be referred to the proper committee be suspended, in order that the resolution may be considered at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution,

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

RESOLUTION FROM THE LEGISLATURE OF CALIFORNIA RELATIVE TO ESTABLISHMENT OF DEFINITE LINES OF DIVISION BETWEEN FEDERAL AND STATE TAXES.

He also laid before the Senate communication from the Senate and Assembly of the State of California, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 3.

Adopted in Senate January 25, 1917.

CLIFTON E. BROOKES,
Secretary of the Senate.

Adopted in Assembly January 26, 1917.

L. O. BOOTHBY,
Chief Clerk of the Assembly.

This resolution was received by the Governor, this 26th day of January, A. D. 1917, at 11.45 o'clock A. M.

ALEXANDER McCABE,
Private Secretary of the Governor.

CHAPTER.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 3, relative to the establishment of definite lines of division between federal and State taxes, and calling of a congress of the States to consider conflicting jurisdictions of the Federal and State Governments.

Whereas, In the exercise of its taxing power the Federal Government is embracing the sources of revenue heretofore not availed of by that government and

Whereas, There exists a line which separates the taxable units that equitably and logically may be left solely to State taxation from the units logically belonging to the broader Federal jurisdiction; and

Whereas, The establishment of some reasonable line of division giving to the States sole taxing authority below such line, and to the Federal Government sole taxing authority above such line, would cure much of the trouble existing because of conflict of jurisdiction between states; would relieve the tension between Federal and State Governments; would result in great economy in the levying and collection of taxes, and would relieve the growing dissatisfaction on the part of the taxpayer resulting from irritating and expensive duplication of accounts and reports and double taxation; now, therefore be it

Resolved by the Senate and Assembly of the State of California, jointly, That we respectfully urge upon the Congress of the United States and the Legislature of the several States the need of holding a congress of the States to consider the subject of Federal and State sources of revenue, with the object of adopting and urging upon the Congress of the United States a definite policy in the segregation of State and Federal revenue; and we urge the Legislatures of other States to provide for attendance of representatives at such congress; and be it further

Resolved, That the President of the United States be invited to appoint a representative and that both houses of the Congress of the United States be invited to appoint representatives to attend such conference and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the State of California is hereby requested to urge the Governors of other States to recommend favorable action and to arrange for the time and place of such national meeting; and that the Governor of California be authorized to appoint delegates to represent the State of California at such conference; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forthwith transmitted to the Secretary of the Senate to the President of the Senate of the United States and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States; a copy hereof to each member of Congress from the State of California, and a copy to the President of the Senate and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of each of the State Legislatures in session at this time.

WM. D. STEPHENS,
President of the Senate.
C. C. YOUNG,
Speaker of the Assembly.

Attest:

FRANK C. JORDAN,
Secretary of State, by Frank H. Cory, Deputy.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 9, as follows:

An Act to provide for the change of object of the corporate existence and authorizing and providing a mode for the dissolution and surrender of charters of fire companies

Whereas In and by the establishment of paid fire departments voluntary fire companies are superceded and as such their services as firemen dispensed with

And whereas Many companies in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania have been incorporated either by the Legislature or by the courts under authority given by law

And whereas Some of the companies when such paid fire department is established may be desirous of continuing and maintaining their existence as corporations but for a different purpose than the object specified in their charter or act of incorporation whilst others are desirous of disbanding or dissolving and surrendering the powers vested in them by their charters or acts of incorporation and dividing amongst such of their members as may be entitled thereto whatever property or effects they may be seized possessed of or enjoy or the proceeds thereof

And whereas Doubts have arisen whether under any law usage or practice now in force or prevailing in this Commonwealth it is competent for any of the incorporated companies to disband or dissolve and divide amongst their members the property effects or proceeds thereof belonging to such corporation or to change the object for which they have been incorporated for the purpose therefore of providing a mode whereby any of the said companies may change the object for which they were or have been organized and incorporated or to disband dissolve and surrender the powers and authorities vested in them by virtue of their charter or acts of incorporation by whomsoever granted or allowed

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That any incorporated fire company (including therein engine hose or hook and ladder companies by whatever name called) upon the establishment of a paid fire department by the municipality the domicile of said incorporated fire company that may be desirous of continuing or maintaining their corporate existence for literary charitable benevolent or loan and trust purpose whatever or as a hall association or society for the mutual benefit of its members may by a vote of the majority of its members present (who by the laws of the particular company are or may be entitled to vote) at a stated meeting after at least one month's notice has been given declare the purpose and object for which they desire to continue as aforesaid Such company shall within three months thereafter present their petition to the court of common pleas of said municipality and county praying that the purpose or object for which they may desire to continue their corporate existence as aforesaid may be approved by said court whereupon said petition shall be filed and if the object or purpose therein expressed and stated shall appear to the judges of the said court to be lawful and not injurious to the community and if no sufficient objection thereto be shown by any person or persons interested therein the said court shall on the first day of the next succeeding term not less than four weeks after the filing of the said petition enter their decree approving of the object or purpose for which such corporation shall thereafter continue a certified copy of which decree shall be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of said county and thereupon such object or purpose shall supersede the object or purpose named or expressed in the charter or act of incorporation of said company and shall be as valid and binding as if the same had been the original object or purpose for which such company had been incorporated And such company may also issue shares of stock not exceeding in amount the value of their property and effects and distribute the same to and amongst the members thereof entitled thereto said shares to be assignable and transferable in the usual manner the holder or holders of any share or shares to be entitled to one vote for each and every share held by him her or them such company may also by and with the assent and approval of the said court change the name of such corporation and provide for its management by such officers and board of directors or managers not exceeding seven in number exclusive of president and treasurer as to them may seem just and expedient

Section 2 That if any of the companies named in the first section of this act shall be desirous of disbanding dissolving and surrendering their corporate existence it shall and may be lawful for them so to do and the property and effects or the proceeds thereof may be distributed and divided to and among the members entitled thereto under the following conditions to-wit

First Such company shall give at least six months' notice of their intention to dissolve and surrender their corporate existence by advertisement in at least one daily newspaper published in said county to be designated by the court of common pleas upon application by the proper company, said advertisement to be published at least once a week for four weeks or continuously for one week

Second Such company shall through its secretary or by a committee appointed for that purpose make a roll of all such members who are entitled to participate in the distribution of its property or the proceeds thereof who may apply to him or to them personally or otherwise said roll shall be kept open during the whole of the said aforesaid six months and it shall be the duty of such secretary or committee to enter upon such roll the name or names of any and all members who may apply as aforesaid who are known to him or them or if unknown who shall produce satisfactory evidence that he or they is or are entitled to have his or their name or names placed on said roll and said roll shall at the expiration of said six months be verified by the oath or affirmation of said secretary or committee.

Third Such company shall immediately after the expiration of said six months appoint a committee of not less than three members which committee in conjunction with the president and treasurer of said company shall make out and sign a schedule of the description amount and value of all the property and effects of such company the names of all persons who are included within the provisions of clause second of this section and the description amount and value of the property effects or moneys allotted to each of such persons respectively and which shall be as nearly equal as may be and which schedule shall be verified by oath or affirmation of a majority of such committee one of whom shall be the president or treasurer and said schedule shall be submitted to a stated meeting of said company and if approved by a vote of the majority of such members present as are included in the second clause hereof shall be final and conclusive

Fourth As soon as all steps and proceedings provided for in this section shall have been completed a certified copy thereof shall be made out attested by the signatures of the officers of such company and by the seal of the corporation and shall be duly acknowledged as in the case of a deed made by a corporation and recorded in the office for recording deeds at cetera for said municipality and county and thereafter such corporation shall be dissolved and cease to exist and all the powers and authorities thereto belonging shall become and be null and void and of no effect except such as are necessary to carry this act into effect the distribution of the property and effects of such company shall be made as soon after the approval of the schedule mentioned in clause third as may be convenient Provided That nothing herein contained shall be construed as to prevent any person who may deem himself aggrieved by the action of any company in his case applying to the proper court for redress by bill in equity or upon or for a mandamus upon his giving such security as the court may determine to pay all damages that may be incurred and all costs that may accrue if the decree of the court upon final hearing shall be against him and a part of such costs shall be a reasonable counsel fee to be allowed by the court in the particular case and fixed by the decree

Section 3 That in the event of any of the companies included within the provision of this act, changing by virtue of the provision hereof into stock companies, the shares into which the capital stock of such corporation may be divided, shall be issued to such of the members of said company as were required to perform active services as a condition of membership or who may have been transferred from the active roll to the roll of honorary members as a reward or token of recognition for previous active services and to those only who may have signed the constitution or by-laws of such company and in case of a total dissolution of such company under the provision of the second section of this act those members only who are designated in this section shall be entiled to a distributive share of the proceeds of the property of such company.

Section 4 If in any case any number of the active and honorary members either or both of any company not less than ten in number may desire to perpetuate the corporate existence of any company either for social purposes or for any of the purposes mentioned in the first section of this act and a majority of such company may desire to dissolve as aforesaid it shall and may be lawful for such members by signing and presenting to such company an agreement in writing to perpetuate the existence of such corporation to take unto themselves the liabilities and responsibilities imposed and to enjoy the privileges granted in and by the charter of such company and in such case the proceedings directed in and by the second section of this act shall be pursued except as to the division of their property and the recording the proceedings in lieu of which after the amount of dividend shall have been ascertained and approved as aforesaid the receipt of such dividend by any member shall be construed to be a resignation and shall be so entered upon the books of such company and the members so receiving a dividend shall thenceforth cease to be a member of such corporation or company Provided That it shall and may be lawful for any company to purchase the right of any member and upon the payment of the agreed price the membership of such person shall thereupon terminate.

Section 5 That the sales by any company included in the first section of this act hereafter made shall be deemed and taken to have been made pursuant to the provisions of this act and are hereby declared to be valid and to vest the title to such property in the purchasers of such property

Section 6 It shall and may be lawful for any of the companies mentioned in the first section of this act to accept the provisions of this act as a supplement to the charter or act of incorporation of such company by the vote of a majority of the members entitled to vote who may be present at any stated meeting of such company and if so accepted the provisions hereof shall be deemed and taken to be a part of the charter or act of incorporation of such accepting company except where a particular number have a right to continue Provided That nothing contained in this act shall be held to affect the right of any member or companies as the same have been heretofore adjudicated by any court and the same are hereby confirmed

Provided That this act shall not repeal or affect the provisions of any special law relating to the same subject in any county township borough or city in this Commonwealth

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 16, as follows:

An Act amending section twenty-one of an act approved the fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and one (P. L. 431), entitled "An Act defining the rights and liabilities of parties to and regulating the effect of contracts for work and labor to be done and labor or materials to be furnished to any building, bridge, wharf, dock, pier, bulkhead, vault, subway, tramway, toll-road, conduit, tunnel, mine, coal-breaker, flume, pump, screen, tank, derrick, pipeline, aqueduct, reservoir, viaduct, telegraph, telephone, railway or railroad line, canal, millrace, works for supplying water, heat, light, power, cold-air, or any other substance furnished to the public, well for the production of gas, oil or other volatile or mineral substance or other structure or improvement of whatsoever kind or character the same may be, providing remedies for the recovery of debts due by reason of such contracts and repealing, consolidating and extending existing laws in relation thereto" relating to service of notice of filing the claim.

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section twenty-one of an act approved the fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and one (Pamphlet Laws four hundred and thirty-one) entitled "An Act defining the rights and liabilities of parties to and regulating the effect of contracts for work and labor to be done and labor or materials to be furnished to any building bridge wharf dock pier bulkhead vault subway tramway toll-road conduit tunnel mine coal-breaker flume pump screen tank derrick pipe-line aqueduct reservoir viaduct telegraph telephone railway or railroad line canal mill-race works for supplying water heat light power cold air or any other substance furnished to the public well for the production of gas oil or other volatile or mineral substance or other structure or improvement of whatsoever kind or character the same may be providing remedies for the recovery of debts due by reason of such contracts and repealing consolidating and extending existing laws in relation thereto" which reads as follows

"Section 21 Within one month after the filing of the claim the claimant shall serve a notice upon the owner of the fact of the filing of the claim giving the court term and number and the date of filing thereof and shall file of record in said proceedings an affidavit setting forth the fact and manner of such service A failure to serve such notice and file an affidavit thereof within the time specified shall be sufficient ground for striking off the claim" be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 21 Within one month after the filing of the claim the claimant shall serve a notice upon the owner of the fact of the filing of the claim giving the court term and number and the date of filing thereof and shall file of record in said proceedings an affidavit setting forth the fact and manner of such service Service of the notice may be accepted by the owner's attorney or the claimant his agent or attorney may serve the notice upon the owner in any of the methods now provided for by law in the case of a summons or if for any cause service by any of the aforesaid methods cannot be had then by posting the notice upon the property described in the claim and by mailing a copy thereof to the owner at his last known residence A failure to serve such notice or post it or have service accepted as herein provided and to file an affidavit thereof within the time specified shall be sufficient ground for striking off the claim

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend section 1, page 2, line 15, by striking out "equeduct" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "aqueduct."

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The amendment was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 29, on third reading, entitled

An Act to amend "The Public Service Company Law," approved the twenty-sixth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, (Pamphlet Laws one thousand three hundred seventy-four), by creating the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the Department of Internal Affairs; fixing the number of Commissioners, and their terms; making the Secretary of Internal Affairs the Chairman of the Commission; and fixing a time when the terms of the present commissioners shall cease.

be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary Special for the purpose of a hearing.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 33, as follows:

An Act to amend article six of the act approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309), entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws, general, special or local, or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith," by adding thereto sections 635 to 640, both inclusive.

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That article six of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws three hundred and nine) entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" is hereby amended by adding thereto the following sections

Section 635 Boards of school directors in districts of the second and third class may establish and maintain for children and adult persons in school buildings and on the school grounds under the custody and management of such boards evening schools vacation schools reading rooms library stations debating clubs gymnasiums public playgrounds public baths and similar activities and accommodations to be determined by such boards without charge to the residents of such districts Such boards of school directors may also co-operate with commissioners or boards having the custody and management of public parks libraries museums and public buildings and grounds of whatever sort in the city borough town or township comprising such school district and make arrangements satisfactory to such boards or school directors and such commissioners or boards controlling other public buildings and grounds to provide the supervision instruction and oversight necessary to carry on public educational and recreational activities as described in this section in buildings and upon grounds in the custody and under the management of such commissioners or boards

Section 636 If any board of school directors neglects or refuses to proceed as authorized in section six hundred and thirty-five of this act the question of their action as herein authorized shall upon petition signed by not less than ten per cent of the qualified voters in such school district be submitted to the electors of the school district at the next regular election in the manner provided by the general election law If a majority of the votes cast upon such proposition are in favor thereof the board of school directors shall undertake and organize this work

Section 637 Boards of school directors in districts of the second and third class shall at or before their first regular meeting in August or September of each year estimate the amount of money required for the next fiscal year for the support of the afore-mentioned activities which have been previously determined upon by such boards of school directors They shall levy and collect a tax upon all the property subject to taxation in the district at the same time and in the same manner as other taxes are levied and collected Such tax shall be equal to the amount of money required for such purposes The tax so levied shall not in any one year exceed two-tenths mill on the dollar of assessed valuation Such tax shall not be used or appropriated directly or indirectly for any other purpose than that provided in section six hundred and thirty-five of this act

Section 638 All moneys received by or raised in such school district for the afore-mentioned purpose shall be paid over to the treasurer of the school district to be disbursed by him on orders of the board of school directors in the same manner as other funds at the disposal of the board in such district are disbursed by them The tax provided for in section six hundred and thirty-seven shall not be levied or collected until after the question of the levy and collection of such tax has been submitted to the qualified electors of such school district at some regular or special election and has been favorably voted upon by a majority of the electors voting upon such question at such election The question as to the levy and collection of such special tax shall be submitted to the voters in the manner provided by the general election law upon request of the board of school directors The question of the levy of such tax shall also be submitted upon a petition to that effect signed by not less than ten per centum of the number of qualified voters in the school district

Section 639 After the question of the levy and collection of such special tax has been submitted to and approved by the voters as provided in section six hundred and thirty-eight of this act the authority thus given to levy and collect such tax shall continue and such tax shall be levied and collected annually until such time as the voters of the school district of such city shall by majority vote order the discontinuance of the same The question of the discontinuance of the levy and collection of such tax shall be submitted to the voters in the same manner and under the same conditions as the proposition to authorize the levy and collection of the tax

Section 640 The board of school directors in any school district of the second or third class is also empowered to receive and expend for the purposes set forth in section six hundred and thirty-five of this act any sums of money appropriated and turned over to them by the city borough town or township forming such school district for such purposes

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I would like to say for the information of the Senate that this bill is a bill which gives permission in school districts of the second and third class for school houses and centres to become recreation places and lecture halls and places where the public may go for the purpose of the uplift of a community whenever the district so desires. It is not mandatory, it is entirely in charge of the people of the district; if they do not want it, they do not need to accept it; if they desire it and wish any improvements made for this purpose, they can present a petition to the court and have it submitted to the voters in order to have money provided, and to see that it is carried out. Therefore, in the interest of the public school system, and for the purpose of complying with some of the legislation that some of the reformers and idealists desire for the benefit of the public school system and in keeping with the advanced states of Oregon and some other states that have not as much population as a large city in this Commonwealth, I ask every Senator to give us the opportunity to have the same benefits that those uplift states have that my friend Vare and the rest talk about.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—45.

Baldwin,	Haldeman,	Miller,	Sproul,
Buckman,	Hindman,	Patton,	Stewart,

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER, from the Committee on Judiciary Special, reported as committed Senate Bill No. 194, entitled

An Act to provide for the discharge of the duties of any department of the State Government, when by absence or incapacity the head of such department is unable to discharge such duties, or during a vacancy in the office of the head of any such department.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 65, on third reading, entitled

Section 2 All appeals from orders and decrees of the Public Service Commission pending in the court of common pleas of Dauphin County entered before June third one thousand nine hundred and fifteen and undisposed of shall be heard and disposed of in the same manner and with like effect as appeals from orders and decrees of the Public Service Commission were heard and disposed of in said court of common pleas of Dauphin County prior to the third day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen Jurisdiction is hereby conferred on the court of common pleas of Dauphin County to hear and dispose of all such appeals subject to the appeal to the Superior Court as in other cases

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend section 2, line 5, by striking out after the word "decrees" the balance of said section and inserting in lieu thereof after the said word "decrees" the following: "by the Superior Court in the same manner and with like effect as though said appeals had been taken to the Superior Court in the first instance after the passage of the said amendment of June third, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen to the Public Service Company law. Jurisdiction is hereby conferred on the Superior Court to hear and dispose of all such appeals subject to an appeal to the Supreme Court as in other cases." Also by adding a new section to be known as Section 3, as follows:

"Section 3. Immediately upon the approval of this Act the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County, shall certify the records of said appeals pending before it to the Superior Court and the said Superior Court shall proceed to hear and determine the same." Also amend title by striking out on page 3, line 26, after the word "the" the words "court of common pleas of Dauphin County" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "Superior Court."

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I offer these amendments at the requests of many Senators. It seems to me to be the policy that every bill I present needs some amendment in the minds of some of the Senators. In order to oblige everybody, I put every amendment in that is requested, because that will make sure passage of the bill.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

Whereas, By a concurrent resolution adopted the seventeenth day of June one thousand nine hundred fifteen it was provided that the Governor of the Commonwealth should appoint a commission of five persons whose duty it should be to continue the work of the former commission and further investigate and examine the various laws now in effect in the several states relating to the recording of deeds mortgages and the transfer of lands the insurance of titles and the practical operation of such laws and to propose such changes in the Constitution and laws of this Commonwealth as to insure the best system of recording and make report and recommendations to the next General Assembly and

Whereas In said resolution it was provided that the sum of three thousand dollars or so much thereof as might be necessary should be provided in the next general appropriation bill and

Whereas Such commission in carrying out the duties imposed by said resolution has incurred expenses which according to said resolution were authorized to be incurred therefore

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the sum of three thousand dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to the commission to investigate the system of recording deeds mortgages and so forth in payment of the actual necessary expenses incurred by said commission

Section 2 The Auditor General is directed to draw his warrant upon the State Treasurer in favor of such commission upon the filing with the Auditor General of vouchers duly countersigned by the chairman of said commission

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

HOUSE MESSAGE.

HOUSE CONCURS IN RESOLUTION DIRECTING THE INSURANCE COMMISSIONER AND WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION FUND TO FURNISH LIST OF INSURANCE COMPANIES TO WHOM STATE COMPENSATION FUND INSURANCE HAS BEEN UNDERWRITTEN, WITH AMOUNT OF INSURANCE.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented communication from the House of Representatives informing the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate, February 13, 1917.

Whereas, Reports are in circulation that the Pennsylvania Workmen's Compensation Fund by and with the consent of the Insurance Commissioner of Pennsylvania is underwriting its compensation insurance with the London Lloyds; and

Whereas, The London Lloyds, by reason of its unwillingness to comply with the laws of the several States of the Union, is not licensed to do business in any of the Commonwealths; and

Whereas, Statements have been made that the London Lloyds is unwilling to comply with the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for which said reason it is not licensed to do business in the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, All the reputable casualty insurance companies doing business, or attempting to do business within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are duly registered; and

Whereas, The said London Lloyds, instead of being a duly incorporated insurance company is merely a mutual insurance company, whose membership consists of approximately four hundred and twenty (420) members, none of whom are either citizens of the United States or residents of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, It is the sense of the General Assembly that the rights of individuals intended to be protected by compensation insurance should be so protected by carrying the insurance with reputable insurance companies licensed to do business within this Commonwealth;

Therefore, be it Resolved, By the Senate (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Insurance Commissioner and the Workmen's Compensation Fund be and they are hereby directed to furnish to the General Assembly on or before the 19th day of February, 1917, a full and complete list of all the Insurance Companies to whom the State Compensation Fund Insurance has been underwritten, together with the amounts of insurance carried with each of the said Companies.

The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. S. G. Zerfass, offered the following prayer:

Great Father in Heaven, tormented with the infirmities of the body, Thy poor miserable servant would confess his absolute trust in Thee and hereby acknowledge the great benefit of life, liberty and opportunity. May we all appreciate the great blessing attending material life to do Thy will, to serve our fellowman and to have an enlarged vision of our usefulness.

We thank Thee for civil and religious liberty and all the great institutions of our state and nation.

Give us light to seize every opportunity, to promulgate virtue, liberty, and exercise our consciences unseared, void of offense to God and man. Bless us all as we are gathered here this morning. Make Thy Word a lantern unto our feet and a light unto our paths. Establish us according to Thy law. Make us to hate evil things and love Thy commandments. Save us and help us, we humbly beseech Thee, O Lord, Amen.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The preamble was read as follows:

Whereas The State Highway Department by an agreement wtih the county commissioners of Armstrong County and the supervisors of certain of the townships in such county agreed to build a part of the State Highway route numbered two hundred and three located as hereinafter described which State highway was to be constructed and improved in the method provided by existing law for the construction and improvement of State highways in the same manner as State-aid highways and

Whereas Subsequent to such agreement it was held in an opinion of the Attorney General that the construction and improvement of all State highways constructed and improved in the same manner as State-aid highways must be paid for from funds appropriated for the construction and improvement of State highways and

Whereas Under the above mentioned agreement it was the intention of the State Highway Department to construct and improve said road from funds appropriated for State-aid highway purposes and at that time available for State-aid highway purposes in the County of Armstrong and

Whereas Owing to the defect in the law and the inability of the State Highway Department to use said funds then available from Armstrong County for the construction and improvement of said particular State highway said agreement between the County of Armstrong and the township authorities and the State of Pennsylvania has never been consummated therefore

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, my question of personal privilege is this: I presented a bill to this House on January 23rd. and in the meantime, through trickery and treachery, that same bill has been deliberately stolen and is up before you to-day. I raise this point, gentlemen, not for myself particularly, but because your interests and the courtesy of this House to its members are at stake, and if we permit, as members of this body, to let legislation proceed as it is at the present time without any protest, God knows what will happen to all of us members before the ending of this session. This particular bill relates to an arsenal that is in my particular district. For thirty years I have lived within a hundred feet of this arsenal, and I have seen it grow from a few hundred people employed there until at the present time ——

The SPEAKER. I do not think that under a question of personal privilege the gentleman has a right to discuss the bill. If the gentleman desires to discuss the bill he can do so when the proper time arrives. So far as discussing the bill is concerned, I do not think it is in order at the present time.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, if that be your decision, I will bow to it; but I only want to explain to the members the reason why this thing has been done.

The SPEAKER. I desire to state to the House and to the gentleman from Philadelphia that he will have ample opportunity to discuss the bill and its merits, but I will have to rule that it is out of order to discuss the merits of a bill under a question of personal privilege.

Mr. DUNN. I will bow to your decision at the present time, Mr. Speaker, but the members of this House are going to know the full particulars in regard to this bill before they vote on it.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. PERRY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 1, page 3, line 9, by striking out "each" and inserting in lieu thereof East.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second section and title were separately read and agreed to, as follows:

Section 2 Exclusive jurisdiction over the lands so purchased is hereby ceded to the United States by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and said lands shall be exempt from the payment of all taxes State and local

Provided That the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall retain a concurrent jurisdiction with the United States over the lands so acquired by the United States for the purpose of serving all civil processes and Provided further That such criminal process as may issue under the authority of the Commonwealth against any person or persons charged with crimes committed without the area so acquired may be executed therein in the same manner as though this cession had not been granted

An Act giving the consent of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to the purchase by the United States of land contiguous to the Frankford Arsenal in Philadelphia County for arsenal purposes and ceding jurisdiction over said land.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to make a motion.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dunn, offers a motion which will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the motion as follows:

Moved that House Bill No. 265, File Folio 91 be recommitted to the Committee on Judiicary General for purposes of amendment.

Mr. GLASS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this bill that is before you to-day and which you are about to proceed to pass on second reading is one or a direct copy of one which your humble servant presented on January 23rd, from my district. This institution, these buildings, etc., are in my district. For thirty years I have lived there and I have seen that property grow from two hundred employes until up to the present time there are twenty-six hundred people working there. For years we have been trying to enlarge that arsenal because of congestion and because it has been used for the manufacture of explosives, and owing to the congestiveness of the works these twenty-six hundred people are at any moment liable to a disastrous explosion and likely to be blown into atoms. For years we have been appealing to Congress, a Republican Congress, I want to say to my Democratic friends, and I want them to know this: that we have been appealing to Republican Congresses of the Government to buy this land, so that improvements might be made and the buildings enlarged by this additional ground for this great manufacturing ammunitions plant. They gave a deaf ear to our bill until this time of preparedness came along. The great cry then was raised that this Government is not prepared for war and the Democratic Congress in the session at the close, on July 1st, 1916, made an appropriation of $125,000 to purchase this twenty-six acres of ground. That Democratic Congress also allowed $700,000 for buildings. That same Democratic Congress appropriated $10,000,000 for munitions, high explosives and small arms munitions. The Secretary of War then appealed to the Commandant at the Arsenal to get busy and as soon as the Legislature convened to have a bill passed ceding jurisdiction of the Government, which is required by the Constitution of our great country. Immediately the Commanding Officer of that Arsenal sent for me and showed me a draft which had been prepared by the United States District Attorney, Mr. Kane, and after consulting with him on that draft, I came over here from the City of Philadelphia and on the twenty-third day of January, after the reconvening of our wonderful recess of three weeks, I presented that bill with all honor and with all fairness and then after hearing of explosions almost daily in that arsenal and for humanity's sake we should have had the wishes of any man or any chairman of a committee of this House to rush that bill through so that the powers could be given to the United States Government to proceed. I was sick immediately after I presented that bill for a whole week. The next week I came up here and I found that the bill had been presented to the Committee on Judiciary Special. I went to the Chairman of the committee, a man whom I have always considered to be my friend, as I am from Philadelphia, and I didn't think it possible that any factional politics would enter into such a meritorious bill. I went to that gentleman and I said, "You have a certain bill in your committee; a very important bill for this Government, and I would ask you to see that that bill is reported out immediately because we know not what time or what day, through the congestion of that arsenal, with twenty-six hundred employes, they may be blown to atoms." He said, "There is no hurry for that bill." I told him again the condition there and he turned to me on the floor of this House and he said, "Jim, you have been a friend of mine, I have considered you a friend but I don't want to give you any false encouragement;" and he used terms to which I have not been accustomed in declaring that no bill would come out of that committee unless it has the O. K. of Jim McNichol, without honoring him with the name of Senator, to which he is entitled. I doubt whether Senator McNichol made any such remark to him, that any bill should not go through before he O. K.'ed it. He is too broad-minded, he is too honest, he is too fair, even to his political enemies, to make any statement like that. I walked away from the man because a man who is honored by this great Assembly as chairman of a committee, who would speak in that way to any humble member of this House, who is only asking for his rights, I thought, as I think now, was not worthy, in my mind, to be considered any longer a friend of mine in legislative duties. What happened? My friends in the committee, two or three of them, I judge, went into that committee last Tuesday a week and brought up this bill before that committee. Out of courtesy he could not turn the bill down because there was a resolution in the committee that it should be handed to a sub-committee and that sub-committee got that bill out and it came on the floor of this House. My friends came out here and said, "Mr. Dunn, we have your bill here. We see that it is a meritorious bill and we propose to go back into the general committee and recommend reporting it out with a favorable recommendation." Then they went around and got some of the members, as many as they could get, and secured their signatures—twelve out of thirty-five, to the following paper, dated February 6, 1917:

"To Chairman Isadore Stern:

"The Sub-committee of the Judiciary Special Comimttee having favorably considered House Bill No. 3, File Folio No. 7, we, the undersigned members of this committee on Judiciary Special, request you that the same be reported out as amended."

This was signed by twelve members.

Last Tuesday, in the morning, there was another bill presented here. In the afternoon, at the close of the session, that bill was referred to the Committee on Judiciary Special and immediately the Chairman of that committee calls that committee together. The report of the sub-committee goes in, and they say they have another bill bearing on the same thing, a substitute against the wishes of that sub-committee. They substituted a bill, identically the same. I don't want to place it at the door of my good friend from Philadelphia (Mr. Perry) who presented the bill. I have considered him a friend now in these sessions for two terms or more, and I don't think that he could be used to serve, as, what is commonly called "the goat", in order that it might be brought out in this disreputable manner, carrying a bill through a committee and bringing it out in his name. That bill is a copy of my bill, word for word, as it was taken over to the Reference Bureau. It is a copy of the pink bill of my bill, and I ask those in authority over there to bring it here and tell whether my good friend from Philadelphia brought it in. They said he did not. They said if that bill went out in that man's name that man must request us to make the copy of that bill.

My good friends, if he, a friend of mine, was so much interested in that bill would have come to me as a friend I would have cheerfully, willingly, said to my friend, that if you are anxious to report that bill out take it and report it out for humanity's sake but don't do it in a submarine way in order to pull it over one of your friends who has been a member of this House for three terms. Now, my friends, you have been brought to the position of almost passing the bill on second reading. When I went home during the week my thoughts rested on my good friend's mind, whether he would not see the light of day, whether he would not consider to me, as I would to him, such legislation that has been presented. I, as a member, would never have gone into his district to even put in an appropriation bill that might be presented to me, I care not from whom. The only order that I would take, my friends, is from you as the representatives of the people of this Commonwealth, and I would not go into that district. But what is on the records to-day? You are about to pass it on second reading and the bill as it stands to-day is defective. I hold from the United States District Attorney the deed for that property to show that I have been honest and fair, and I have taken that deed and the United States Government requested that the description in that deed must correspond to the description in the bill, and I have compared it, word for word, and there are at least three or four corrections that ought to be made in that bill, that will make it perfect and compare with the description of the grant; and it is going to place you, my friends, if you permit this bill to go to-day and pass as it is, it is going to place you, my Democratic friends, on the other side. I want to say to you, those who have been here in the session of 1913, those who have been here in the session of 1915, know that the only legislation that I put in this House was good, clean, honest legislation for the benefit and honor and help of some poor unfortunate. In the session of 1911 one of our members had only put in one bill, a little appropriation bill in his county, and he was unable to get it out of that Appropriation Committee and he came to me—a Democrat—I know no politics in that body; I came a servant of these people, and we should all be broad-minded men instead of getting down into petty politics, instead of trying to bring Philadelphia politics up here for the purpose of washing the dirty linen. My friends, you country members, ought to call a halt to-day and say such things should not be done. I went to the committee and said my friend on the Democratic side has a little appropriation bill in there; would you kindly put it out; the only bill that he presented; two weeks from now we will adjourn; he will go back to his people ashamed to face them because he was unable to get an appropriation bill out of that committee. I went to the chairman and the chairman told me, yes, and inside of five minutes I had my Democratic friend's bill out of the committee and in three days' time it had passed through the House, went over to the Senate and finally became a law. That shows I have no feeling, partisan feeling or factional feeling when legislation of merit is before this body, and if you vote on this bill to pass this down, my friends, in the defective way as it is—the sponsor of the bill don't know the corrections to be made and it places the United States Government down on the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania where they think the widest minded and best men and most careful men are selected to come here to this Legislature for the purpose of legislating in the interests of the common people ,the great Democratic government to-day. Let me tell you further, my friends, on this: For the past three years the government of the United States has been trying to find a way to take the arsenal away from the City of Philadelphia. They say it is too close to the seashore, too close to the coast. Those great guns that they are manufacturing in Europe to-day, throwing high explosive ammunition from ten to fifteen miles, can in a very short time destroy that entire plant, and they have been trying to take the plant away and place it in the western part of our country for protection. But we convinced them that it was necessary and they have given us this money, $10,000,000, to be spent in the interest of the working people of Philadelphia, and then through some petty politics—I know not why this thing should be done, but it must be some petty politics, underhand on this, which the members of this House should not tolerate. We stand here for the good of our country; we stand here for the good of our State. I think every man here is broad enough and is wide enough and is generous enough at this time to stop any high-handed proceeding if we are going to continue through the session of this body; and I ask you, my friends, at this time for myself, for my own district, for my own people in the district and for you, who it might strike sometime later if you don't put your stamp of disapproval on it now, I ask you now to support this motion so that we can get it in the right way and in the safe way in the name of this great Commonwealth. (applause)

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Dunn).

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Dunn) permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman whether there are any corrections of any serious consequence to be made in the bill as it now stands on second reading?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, there are.

Mr. BEYER. Then, Mr. Speaker, acting upon the statement of the honorable gentleman from Philadelphia and in justice to him, to the House and to the bill itself, I would ask that his motion to recommit be sustained by the House.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. At this time I would call the attention of the House to the fact that under the motion just carried this bill goes back to the committee from which it came. I don't want any misunderstanding about it.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to say a word about this bill.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is out of order. The bill has been recommitted and he cannot now speak on it. The gentleman has the right, however, to speak on a question of personal privilege if he so desires.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, my proposition is that if the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Dunn) who has preceded me is right and explosions are occurring daily and it is so important to the United States government that this bill be passed granting authority to it to buy land adjacent to the arsenal, that he is only delaying and fostering the evils that he speaks of in having this bill recommitted.

The SPEAKER. I would state to the House that both the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dunn and the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stern, under the question of personal privilege—they did not confine themselves to the question of personal privilege but entered into a discussion of the bill. The Chair did not like to interrupt the gentleman but the Chair will have to insist upon the rules of the House being rigidly adhered to hereafter. There can be no discussion of a bill had under a question of personal privilege.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows, viz:

In the Senate, February 13, 1917.

Whereas, Reports are in circulation that the Pennsylvania Workmen's Compensation Fund by and with the consent of the Insurance Commissioner of Pennsylvania is underwriting its compensation insurance with the London Lloyds; and

Whereas, The London Lloyds, by reason of its unwillingness to comply with the laws of the several States of the Union, is not licensed to do business in any of the Commonwealths; and

Whereas, Statements have been made that the London Lloyds is unwilling to comply wtih the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for which said reason it is not licensed to do business in the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, All the reputable casualty insurance companies doing business, or attempting to do business within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are duly registered; and

Whereas, The said London Lloyds, instead of being a duly incorporated insurance company is merely a mutual insurance company whose membership consists of approximately four hundred and twenty (420) members, none of whom are either citizens of the United States or residents of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, It is the sense of the General Assembly that the rights of individuals intended to be protected by compensation insurance should be so protected by carrying the insurance with reputable insurance companies licensed to do business within this Commonwealth;

Therefore, be it Resolved, By the Senate (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Insurance Commissioner and the Workmen's Compensation Fund be and they are hereby directed to furnish to the General Assembly on or before the 19th day of February, a full and complete list of all the Insurance Companies to whom the State Compensation Fund Insurance has been underwritten, together with the amounts of insurance carried with each of the said Companies.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk notify the Senate accordingly.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution of the House of Representatives as follows:

Whereas, There has been no comprehensive revenue legislation enacted in Pennsylvania in the last sixteen years, and the amounts available for the public schools and public roads of the Commonwealth have not been increased in proportion to the increase in the general State revenue or the growth of the State in population and wealth, and there is now a great public demand for better and more efficient schools and for the improvement and better maintenance of the highways.

Therefore be it Resolved, (if the Senate concur) That a joint committee of the Senate and House of Representatives, to be known as The Committee on Revenue, be and the same is hereby created. Said Committee to consist of the Chairmen of the standing Committees of Finance, Public Roads and Highways, Appropriations and Education, on the part of the Senate, and of the Chairmen of the standing Committees of Ways and Means, Public Roads and Highways, Appropriations and Education on the part of the House of Representatives, with the President Pro Tem of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives members ex-officio.

The duty and purpose of the said Committee shall be to obtain full information of the needs of revenue for the ensuing two years, and the sources wherefrom increased revenue may be secured by just and equitable taxation, and to submit to both branches of the General Assembly their findings and suggestions so that the demands of the people for better public schools and public highways may be realized.

SPECIAL ORDER.

The SPEAKER. The hour of 11.30 A. M. having arrived, the House will proceed to the consideration of House Bill No. 326 (Senate Bill No. 1), set for this hour.

BILL ON SECOND READING.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 326 (Senate Bill No. 1), entitled

A Joint Resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to investigate alleged mal-administration in public office and making an appropriation therefor.

The first section was read as follows:

A Joint Resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to investigate alleged mal-administration in public office and making an appropriation therefor.

Whereas, Statements have been made by reputable citizens and the responsible press of this Commonwealth alleging mal-administration on the part of public officers by their gross extravagance, by their misuse of public funds, by their continued absence from their respective offices, by their failure to properly discharge duties imposed upon them by statute, by their wilful, malicious and unnecessary delay in the transaction of public business, by their intimidation and coercion of employes and business interests by their misuse of appointive, administrative and regulative authority, by their alleged bribery in bargaining and selling as rewards for votes of members of the General Assembly offices and positions created by the public and supported by the public for the transaction of public business, by perjury on the part of certain officials in accepting public offices from which they have knowingly disqualified themselves by violating the Corrupt Practices Act of this Commonwealth, by repugnant and flagrant political activity on the part of semi-judicial officers, by the encroachment of the Executive upon the Legislative Branch of the Government, and

Whereas, Such officers debauch, defame and disgrace the fair name of this Commonwealth, demoralize the public service by their malfeasance and hold up to ridicule its citizenship, and

Whereas, The above-named charges and allegations concerning the conduct of public business by its recognized officials and subordinates have so aroused public sentiment concerning the administration of the affairs of this Commonwealth as to demand a full, free, unobstructed, comprehensive and impartial investigation of the public business; now, therefore,

Be it Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That a joint committee consisting of three (3) members of the Senate, one of whom shall be of a minority political party to be appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate and four (4) members of the House, one of whom shall be a minority political party, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, be created for the purpose of making a full, free, unobstructed, comprehensive and impartial investigation of all and singular the aforesaid matters and charges, and

Be it Further Resolved, That said joint committee is hereby directed to organize forthwith after the approval of this joint resolution by the Governor to hold such and as many hearings as it may deem necessary, to summon witnesses to further the purposes of this investigation, to issue subpoenas, administer oaths and compel the attendance of such witnesses, and the production of all such books, bills, checks, checkbooks, papers, minutes, records, vouchers, agreements and all each and every other form of written or documentary evidence as may be pertinent or germain to the inquiry, and

Be it Further Resolved, That the said joint committee shall be vested with the fullest and most complete powers which the General Assembly by virtue of the Constitution and all Acts of Assembly can confer upon such committee for the accomplishment of its purposes, and

Be it Further Resolved, That the said joint committee shall be authorized to employ auditors, accountants, counsel learned in the law, stenographers, clerks, messengers, investigators and all such other clerical or skilled assistance as may be necessary for the proper discharge of the duties hereby imposed upon said committee and to further the inquiry by them to be made, the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate is hereby directed to attend said joint committee, to serve all subponeas issued by it and generally to enforce all the orders which said joint committee is hereby authorized to make, and

Be it Further Resolved, That said joint committee shall from time to time report its findings to the General Assembly with such recommendations as the members deem expedient, to the end that proper legislation may be enacted to remedy and prevent such abuse as may be found to exist and that said joint committee shall also be empowered to certify to the prosecuting officer or officers of the proper jurisdiction the proceedings of the committee, setting forth any violation or violations of law committed within their respective jurisdiction for such action as the law provides, and

Be it Further Resolved, That it is the sense of the General Assembly that it is contrary to public policy and to the interests of good order that any person giving evidence before said joint committee tending to show that he or she has been in any manner implicated in the corrupt practices above mentioned should be indicted and prosecuted for the offense disclosed by such evidence or admission so given or made by him or her, and

Be it Further Resolved, That the sum of twenty-five thousand ($25,000.00) dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to defray the expenses necessarily incurred by said joint committee in the discharge of the duties imposed upon it, and that payment shall be made on order of the Chairman of said joint committee and on warrant of the Auditor General in the manner now prescribed by law.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

That Joint Resolution No. 1, file folio 121, be amended as follows:

By adding after the last word on the ninth line of page two the following words:

"Whereas, The honesty and integrity of certain members of the General Assembly of this Commonwealth and the Senior United States Senator from this Commonwealth have been attacked by persons prominent in the public service and by the public press, it having been charged that these legislative representatives of the people have been, and, in fact, are, the representatives and servitors of special interests seeking legislation to promote their selfish purposes rather than the public good, that some of these legislative representatives have been guilty of all the crimes in the political calendar, that a member of the State Senate was financially interested in the defeat of proposed legislation and that large sums of money were contributed by these special interests to secure the election of a United States Senator and members of the General Assembly in 1914 and 1916 as a consideration for the defeat of legislation to which these Special Interests were opposed, which contributions were not accounted for as is required by the corrupt practices acts of this Commonwealth, and

"Whereas, This General Assembly cannot permit to go unchalleneged the libeler and slanderer, or unpunished the public official who, if the charges be true, has so basely and wantonly betrayed the people of the Commonwealth, and"

And further, by adding after the word "business" on line 19 of page 2 the following:

"And whereas, Such investigation should be conducted by men of whose fairness there can be no possible suspicion, whose eminence, worth and integrity as men and citizens are a guarantee of the fairness, impartiality and thoroughness of such investigation."

And further, by striking out all after the word "met" in line 23 on page 2, down to and including the word "and" on line 22 on page 4, and substituting therefor the following:

"1. That the Honorable John Stewart, of Franklin County; the Honorable Edwin S. Stuart, of Philadelphia; the Honorable Mayer Sulzberger, of Philadelphia; the Honorable William A. Glasgow and General Albert J. Logan, be, and they are hereby constituted a Commission to make a full, free, thorough, comprehensive and impartial investigation of all and singular the aforesaid matters and charges, and the implications and intendments thereof, and all matters, facts, circumstances and things, directly or indirectly connected therewith.

2. That the said Commission be and it hereby is directed to organize forthwith after the approval of this joint resolution by the Governor, to hold such and as many hearings as may be necessary, to summon witnesses to further the purposes of this investigation; to issue subpoenas, administer oaths, and compel the attendance of such witnesses and the production of all such books, bills, papers, minutes, records, vouchers, agreements, and of each and every other form of written or documentary evidence as may be pertinent and germane to the inquiry.

3. That the said Commission be, and it hereby is vested with the fullest and most complete powers which the General Assembly by virtue of the Constitution and all Acts of Assembly can confer on such Commission for the accomplishment of its purposes.

4. That the said Commission be, and it hereby is authorized to employ auditors, accountants, counsel learned in the law, stenographers, clerks, messengers, investigators, and all such other clerical or skilled assistance as may be necessary for the proper discharge of the duties hereby imposed upon it, and to further the inquiry by it to be made. The Commission is hereby authorized to appoint a marshal or marshals to attend it, to serve subpoenas issued by it, and generally to enforce all the orders which it is hereby authorized to make.

5. Said Commission shall, on or before June 1, 1917, report its findings to the General Assembly with such recommendations as it deems expedient, to the end that proper legislation may be enacted, to remedy and prevent such abuses as may be found to exist, and said Commission is hereby empowered to certify to the prosecuting officer or officers of the proper jurisdiction its proceedings, setting forth any violation or violations of law committed within their respective jurisdictions for such action as may be provided by law.

6. That it is the sense of the General Assembly that it is contrary to public policy and to the interests of good order that any person giving evidence before said Commission tending to show that he or she has been in any manner implicated in the corrupt and unlawful practices referred to in the said charges, should be indicted and prosecuted for the offense or offenses disclosed by such evidence or admissions so given by him or her, that that all such persons shall be immune from prosecution for any offense or offenses concerning which they are compelled to testify before the said Commission, but this shall not be deemed or taken to exempt any person or persons from prosecution for perjury in giving such testimony.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, these amendments are in line with the purpose and aim of the original Democratic resolution which I introduced on the first day of this session, and which was indefinitely postponed in this House about three weeks ago. Since that time, however, the Governor of this Commonwealth has come out openly in a communication to the Senate and has said that he courts a full, free and impartial investigation, intimating thereby that this resolution which is now before the House is not such a resolution as will give him such a fair and impartial investigation. Since that time also Senator Penrose has come out and reiterated at least three or four times his desire that a full, fair and free investigation shall be had, and that the people shall know the truth and the whole truth, no matter where the chips shall fly or whom it may hit. The Democrats already have gone on record in favor of such an investigation. Now then, since both factions of the Republican party and the Democrats have all agreed to the same things, since we have all committed ourselves in favor of a full, fair and impartial investigation, it seems to me that the real question before this House at this time is what constitutes a full, fair and impartial investigation. Now the amendments which I have suggested to my mind—and it is the opinion not only of myself but of all the Democrats in general—will give to the people of Pennsylvania such a full and free and fair investigation as is possible for the human mind to conceive.

Mr. Speaker, I cannot think of any form that would give a fairer investigation than the one I have prepared. Now, I wish to say that I want to call the bluff here and now. There is a great deal of talk in the newspapers that this investigation is all a bluff and I want to call that bluff right here and now. If these two factions are in favor of an investigation, such as they claim to be, then let them come up and vote for these amendments. I believe that we have spent enough time on this investibation business. We are in session now about six weeks and very little has been done in the line of legislation. I believe we ought to get together, inasmuch as we are all agreed that we want this investigation; that we want it to be free and fair; we want it to be impartial, and I say then that now is the time to go on record to vouchsafe such an investigation that the men here are investigated and also that we may go to the people back home who are looking to us and want the real facts. I believe that petty politics which has been played here has run itself out and I believe that the time is here when the people of the State demand that some action, definite action, should be taken by this body. I want now to call this bluff right here to let the people know that it is a bluff. If it is not a bluff, if the Governor of the Commonwealth and the Senior Senator of the United States are honest and sincere when they say they want such an investigation, then let their friends and followers vote for this amendment and put themselves on record accordingly. The people all over this Commonwealth have their eyes turned on this body. They are anxiously waiting and watching to see that we are in action and what we are doing with the matter. I say, to-day, the Governor has practically served notice that he will not sign the resolution in the form in which it is, and I scarcely believe that any effort will be made to pass it over his veto. If we want a fair investigation then vote in these amendments and show to the people of Pennsylvania that we have not been fooling away ther time and that we have not been bluffing but that we have been trying to give them what they demand and that is a full, a fair and a free investigation.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. BEYER. Notwithstanding anything the Governor may wish to have done but in the full consciousness of our own responsibility as members of this chamber and without undertaking at this time to take issue with my distinguished friend from Berks in what he has so well said concerning the imperative need for investigation it nevertheless is true that the amendments offered to the pending resolution are entirely out of order and most undoubtedly unconstitutional because they seek to delegate legislative power and legislative responsibility upon a third person or persons who are in no manner answerable for their conduct to the people themselves, who have delegated by our state constitution whatever of legislative authority they ever intended to confer upon this legislature as its constitutional agent.

It is a well settled principle in the law of agency that a power conferred upon an agent because of his fitness and the confidence placed in him cannot be delegated by him to another, without the consent of the power which makes the original selection. A State Legislature stands in this position to the people whom they represent. They derive their authority from the state constitution, which makes them an agency in the general plan of government, and, unlike many other contracts of a private nature, there is no authorization to the agent or agents thus selected to deputize any other person or number of persons to act as agents or deputies for them, because the people who are the source of all governmental power have never given to their agents the power so to do.

All power is inherent in the people (says our state constitution) and all free governments are founded upon their authority, and instituted for their peace, their safety and happiness. For the advancement of these ends they have at all times an inalienable and indefensible right to alter, reform or abolish their government in such manner as they think proper. But until such time as the people themselves see fit to change our existing law the power of legislation will remain where the framers of our present state constitution placed it in 1874.

"The legislative power of this Commonwealth shall be vested in a General Assembly consisting of a Senate and a House of Representatives."

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, the point of order I take is that the gentleman is debating the point of order which he has raised, which ought to be out of order until the Chair has decided upon it.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I am only making my point of order.

The SPEAKER. The Chair does not sustain the point of order raised by the gentleman from Franklin. The gentleman has the right to give his reasons for raising the point of order and to refer to authorities.

Mr. BEYER. The constitution says that this legislative power shall be vested. It does not say may be vested, but distinctly confers this power where it belongs, on the responsible servants of the people. To have done otherwise would have led to confusion, disorder in government, divided responsibility and chaos. The people themselves powerful as they are cannot exercise this legislative function, except by first repealing the contract of government under which we live—and what they themselves cannot do, they certainly will not allow their agents to do.

Mr. Justice Bell in a well considered opinion in 1843 in the case of Parker vs. Commonwealth in reviewing the authorities on this subject uses this very logical and appropriate language:

"To exercise the power of making laws delegated to the General Assembly is not so much the privilege of that body as it is its duty. Wherever the good of the community calls for legislative action, there a legislative body must act. No man is bound under the constitution to accept the office of a legislator, but he who does so accept, cannot, rightfully, avoid the obligations it imposes, or evade the constitutional responsibilities incident to it. As has been well remarked, the constituent is entitled not only to the industry and fidelity of his representative, but to his judgment also in all that relates to the business of public legislation.

The election of a Speaker in the House of Representatives is the business of those who are members of the House, and not of any other department of state government. We cannot delegate this right to the Governor or to the courts because it belongs to us, and is part of our duties. The appointment of committees to aid in legislation belongs to the assembly and it cannot be delegated to any one else. Committees are composed of members, not of outsiders. Who would think of supporting any citizen not a member of this House on the Judiciary General Committee or the Law and Order Committee? If this is true of these committees it is equally true of all other committees. Committees are but a subdivision of the larger body such as the House or the Senate in order to divide the work and give to pending legislation sober and serious thought.

There would be a revolution in Pennsylvania if we undertook to delegate committee powers to outsiders. If we could do this we could with equal right and justice delegate all our powers. Again, the people want some one to hold responsible, some one who they can reach and remove from office, when dishonest or false in judgment.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I renew my Point of Order on the ground that the gentleman from Philadelphia is not confining himself to stating the authorities and reasons for the Point of Order as the Chair a moment ago ruled.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to state to the gentleman from Franklin that as the question now stands the proposition on which the Chair will have to express his opinion, as to whatever opinion is in the minds of the members, either pro or con on this subject, the Chair will rule that they have the right to express themselves. If the question was referred to the House rather than to the Chair it would be open to discussion among the members before they would decide. The Chair still insists that the gentleman is in order.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I have but one word more to say on the subject of my reasons.

The inquiry of a committee or legislative commission made up of outsiders may be perfectly honorable and even fair, but their knowledge derived by inquiry is not our own knowledge as legislators, it is hearsay, and their recommendations are not what the people demand or expect. they want every branch of legislation or legislative inquiry to remain where the constitution has placed it, and where they can reach it.

Mr. GOODWIN. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from Berks (Mr. Sarig) would have studied the Constitution a little more thoroughly I don't think he would have offered his amendment.

Our Constitution is the great framework upon which rests the principles of our State government. It creates the three great departments; the Legislative, the Executive and the Judicial; and they are all subject to its authority. It is superior to all laws, and all acts of the State government must conform to its authority else they are void.

But all auxiliary laws which are necessary to give effect to the principles of the Constitution must necessarily come from the Legislative branch.

The Constitution provides in Article II, Section 1, that "The legislative power of this Commonwealth shall be vested in a General Assembly consisting of a Senate and House of Representatives. Under this provision the Legislature has authority to enact any legislation not forbidden by the Constitution. This Constitutional provision may be expressed in words or it may be by necessary implication.

It is not expressly prohibited, but the Assembly could not do an Executive or Judicial act. By the same principle of "necessary implication" the Legislature can not enact any law contrary to any provision of the Constitution, although the provision is not expressed in words.

In Page versus Allen, 58 Penna. Supreme Court Reports, it was held that "The expression of one thing in the Constitution is necessarily the exclusion of things not expressed."

While on the one hand the Legislature can not exercise any power not authorized by the Constitution, on the other hand it can not divest itself of any of the powers committed to it by delegating them to any other bodies.

The people are divested of all Legislative authority by the clause placing that power in the hands of its representatives. By this clause they decided that the enactment of all laws shall be entrusted to the discretion of the men whom they elect to the General Assembly. They have determined by the Constitutional mandate that the enactment of all legislation shall be entrusted exclusively to the membership of this legislative body, and they have a right to demand that the discretion of this membership shall be exercised in the enactment of all legislation.

This investigation partakes of a penal character, and it is a well settled principle of criminal law that penal statutes must be strictly construed. Nothing is to be taken on presumption.

If the framers of the Constitution had intended that the power of investigating official misdemeanors and impeachments could be delegated to any other body they certainly would have said so.

It is a settled principle of Constitutional law that this Legislature can not delegate any of the powers conferred upon it by the Constitution. Where the people, through the Constitution has located authority there it must remain, until they change the Constitution themselves.

The auhority to where a certain discretion has been intrusted can not relieve itself of that responsibility by delegating another body upon whom the authority shall be vested.

This Legislature can not transfer the power of legislation to any other bodies.

The members of the Senate and House are the trustees of the people for the purpose of enacting legislation, and they have no right or authority to place that power in the hands of any others than their own.

Where the sovereign power of the State has placed this power there it must remain.

Lock on Civil Government says "The Legislature neither must nor can transfer the power of making laws to any body else, or place it any where but where the people have."

If the true spirit of the Constitution is obesrved it will be difficult to arrive at any other conclusion than that the representatives of the people should conduct the proposed investigation into the conduct of public officials.

It is a sort of a State inquest. Who can so properly be the inquisitors as those who have been elected to represent the people of the whole State.

If we do our duty as representatives we must be presumed to be watchful of the people's interests.

There is a wide difference between ordinary misdemeanors and official misdemeanors committed by public servants. For the latter class the law provides for investigation and impeachment; for the former class the remedy is the inquest by the grand jury, drawn from the county, and a trial before a court of criminal jurisdiction.

The proposed investigation is in the nature of a grand inquest for the State.

As the grand jury is the guardian of the peace of the county, so the representatives of the people should be the guardians of the welfare of the people of the State.

As the grand jury should bring to light, for examination, trial and punishment all violators of the criminal code; so should those elected to represent the people endeavor to bring to light all those who betray their trust by official misconduct.

Mr. LAUCKS. Mr. Speaker, the gentlemen who have preceded me have gone at length into what they have called authorities on the delegation of legislative power, but they have failed to point out that which is important and absolutely necessary, namely, in what manner. On this proposed commission and the exercise of legislative powers, the constitution says, "The legislative power of the Commonwelth shall be vested in the General Assembly, which shall consist of a Senate and a House of Representatives"; but it says nothing in regard to the delegation of any power which is merely inquisitorial.

One of the gentlemen referred to the law of agency, and said that an agent cannot delegate authority to another. That is true, but if he goes one step further he will find that that agent cannot delegate authority where discretion is involved. In this case there is no delegation. This proposed commission is merely to assist, it is merely to inquire, it is merely to collect evidence; and after that evidence has been collected to report that evidence to this legislative body and have this legislative body act upon it.

There is nothing that we can do at the present time better than to refer to specific authorities. The gentlemen as I take it have referred to authorities which do nothing more than becloud the issue. Let me refer to Lock's Appeal, 72 Pennsylvania 491, and read a portion of the opinion of Judge Agnew, in which he says: "The legislature cannot delegate the power to make a law, but it can make a law to delegate a power to determine some fact, or state of things upon which the law makes or intends to make its own action depend."

This proposed commission is to do nothing more than that, it is merely to inquire, to get the evidence and report. Other commissions have been created in many instances by this very legislature with powers as great and even greater than is proposed in this instance.

Let me refer to a commission that was appointed in 1911. This will be found in the 1911 Pamphlet Laws, page 26. In this instance, the Legislature authorized the Governor let me point out there that in the first instance the Legislature authorized the Governor and the Governor in turn was to appoint a commission, another step which this does not propose to introduce. In the first place, if this is unconstitutional, how could that be constitutional when the Governor was in the first place delegated to have this power and the Governor is a part of the executive and not a part of the legislative branch of this state government? In that instance the Legislature authorized the Governor to investigate and report upon the physical conditions and legal rights in the matter of surface support in the anthracite coal district. This was composed of nine competent citizens, four mining experts and five disinterested citizens, these to report to the Legislature. Also in 1911 the Governor was authoried to appoint a commission to perform the work of dredging the Erie Harbor. In the same year the Governor was authorized to appoint a commission to investigate the chestnut tree blight disease. Also in 1911 the Legislature, by joint resolution, created a commission to investigate and report to the General Assembly a plan for the segregation and care and treatment of the feeble-minded and epileptic persons within the Commonwealth. In this instance, the Legislature did not designate the personnel of the Commission by name, but by the official positions that the individuals occupied. These members were first the Commissioner of Health, the Director of Health and Charity in Philadelphia and members of the Lunacy Committee of the Board of Public Charities, these to report to the Legislature. Also in 1911, by joint resolution, a commission was appointed to arrange for the selection of the site and the building of a building for the making of a proper exhibit by Pennsylvania at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition.

Also the same year a commission was appointed to revise and codify the anthracite mining laws, and of these nine members three were to be selected from the coal operators and three from among the workers. The same year a commission was authorized and appointed by the Governor to investigate and report as to the safe construction of buildings and building materials. And so I could go on and name you perhaps hundreds of commissions that have been appointed from time to time with inquisitorial powers, the same thing as is proposed at the present time, and there was no question raised in regard to constitutionality. I will call your attention to two more commissions, one appointed in 1913 to investigate a combination of fire insurance companies. This commission included within its members two citizens of the Commonwealth who were not members of the Legislature of Pennsylvania. A similar commission was created in 1915 to investigate and report the cause of the increased price of anthracite coal. Now, gentlemen of this House, I think I have cited sufficient instances where commissions similar to this, with similar powers, have been created, and where the question of constitutionality was not raised. I think by this time it must be clear in your minds that this point of order on the proposed commission of investigation consisting of men whose public careers are above reproach, that this point of order is not what it should be, that is, that it is not to the point, but that it is merely an attempt to overthrow an honest attempt by the members of the minority party to make this investigation fair and impartial.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman's remarks are relative to the appointment of commissions with power to to investigate certain matters, in order that bills may be drawn and referred to the committees in this House. This commission is to report back to this legislative body after making this inquiry, giving its recommendations.

The SPEAKER. The Chair shall decide that the point of order that the resolution is out of order, by the gentleman from Philadelphia, is well taken. My reasons for this decision are found in Article II, Sections 1 and 15. The resolution directs that this commission shall have the power to subpoena witnesses and compel attendance. Section 15 designates just what summons will lie against a member of the House: "The members of the General Assembly shall in all cases except treason, felony, violation of their oath of office and breach or surety of the peace, be privileged from arrest." Should this commission issue a summons for a member of this House, he could disregard it, and that to my mind clearly indicates that the only body that would have power to issue summons with force would be members of these two bodies. I therefore sustain the point of order of the gentleman from Philadelphia and the resolution falls.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, I appeal from the decision of the Chair.

Mr. ERDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I second the appeal.

Mr. RAMSEY in the Chair.

The SPEAKER. The question before the House is shall the ruling of the Chair be sustained. A roll call has been asked for: All those who desire to sustain the decision of the Chair will vote "Aye"; those opposed will vote "No".

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call the Chair's attention to Rule 3 on the question of appeal and ask whether or not this is debatable?

The SPEAKER. It is the thought of the Chair that this matter, insofar as this appeal refers to it, has been so thoroughly discussed that no gentleman at this particular time can add more to it. I think as a matter of advancing the business of the House that every gentleman is thoroughly conversant with what the appeal has reference to and can vote according to his judgment.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, am I entitled to recognition for the purpose of making remarks at this time.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has ordered the roll call. There is nothing in order before the call of the roll.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Chestnut and Mr. Canon and were as follows:

Mr. BALDWIN in the Chair.

The SPEAKER. I desire to declare that the amendment offered by the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Sarig, follows under the vote on the ruling of the Chair.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Moved by Mr. Walter, of Franklin, seconded by Mr. Williams of Tioga, Resolved, That Joint Resolution No. 1, File Folio of the Senate No. 125, House Bill No. 326, be amended by striking out the word "June" in line 13, page 4, and inserting in place thereof the word "May."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, My purpose in offering this amendment is to shorten the session of this body. The report of such a committee as is likely to be appointed under this resolution, will naturally be considered by this body and by the Senate. If that report is not before the House until June 1st it will mean that this body will be in session until July 1st or longer. This resolution, I take it from its terms and by the arguments that have been offered in support of it, contemplates an increase in economy and efficiency of government. In my humble judgment, Mr. Speaker, the thing for this House to do and for this Legislature to do is to perform its duties and go back home as soon as is possible after attending to the urgent public business that comes before it. This investigation, if a commission be appointed under this resolution, can be conducted in several months and if there were urgent public necessity by reason of any disclosures made through it, the time might be extended, but I don't believe that it is a good thing for the Republican Party or a good thing for the people of Pennsylvania to drag out this session away into the summer months. I feel that I voice the sentiment of the upstate members in taking the position I do.

Mr. GEORGE W. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, the amendment suggested by the gentleman from Franklin is right and I endorse all that he has so well said in support of its adoption. The commission created by the Legislature of 1907 to investigate the charge of irregularities in the erection and furnishings of this Capitol Building was authorized by resolution calling for a repodt during the session of the Legislature. They called together to examine hundreds of witnesses and being unable to complete their work, when the Legislature adjourned on the 16th of May, they came before the Legislature and asked that the power of that commission be extended, which was done with an increased appropriation to carry the added expenses for further investigation. Should the Governor, in his judgment, approve of the resolution now under consideration, I assume that the members of this commission will be promptly appointed and they will get busy and will have two full months, if the amendment offered by the gentleman from Franklin, is adopted, in which to carry on their investigation and make their report, which should be ample time in which to complete the suggested investigation. If, however, they find as they proceed with their investigation that they will not be able to complete their work in that time they can ask for additional time as ws done by the commission in 1907, without necessitating the longer or further session of this Legislature beyond, I hope, the middle of May. Those who have assumed to shape the course of this Legislature, unfortunately, Mr. Speaker, have not taken the House as a whole into their confidence as regards their policy so that we are simply drifting toward an adjournment harbor of uncertain date. Mr. Speaker, you very properly said a week ago that the farmer members of this body could not attend to their outside home work at this time which should enable them to be attentive to their duties here from week to week and expedite legislation.

Two months hence when my friend, the Good Shepherd from Potter, and my neighbor from Bradford, the blue ribbon winner with his stock throughout the State, and the scientific agriculturist from the Sixteenth Philadelphia District, together with the rest of us who are engaged in agricultural pursuits will be so busily engaged with our planting and laying the foundation for crops with which to feed multitudes in the cities and possibly to feed—I hope not—the hundreds of thousands of our soldier and sailor boys who may in these trying times be called into active service. Mr. Speaker, this Legislature could do no one thing that would please its constituency as much as to pass the necessary appropriation bills, together with the corrective and remedial legislation that may be needed to cure defects in existing stautes and adjourn. I sincerely hope this amendment will be adopted.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I have no special interest in this matter whether we agree to ask the commitee to report back in May or in June; but I do feel that a task that is laid upon this legislative body of such immense importance, with so many various departments particularly referred to in the resolution offered by my good friend from Berks a few weeks ago, may require a little more time than that which will be allowed us by making a report in May instead of June. I am as anxious to save the time of the people of Pennsylvania as any other member in this House. I regret, however, that this occasion has been made use of in order to draw out a sort of inducement to men that by voting for this amendment they are likely to get home sooner than by not voting for it. It is injecting ing into this discussion here not a truthful representation of what may be important in the legislation of this body but what may concern us more personally. I take issue with the statement made so frequently and say that it is an injustice to the Legislature of Pennsylvania when men in this very chamber will rise in their seats and say that the people are waiting for this legislative body to adjourn. I say it would be better for the State of Pennsylvania if we would sit longer and consider legislation with the care and consideration that it deserves. It is not the amount of statutes that we pass but it may be equally as important to sit in committee and thresh out your bills and see that unworthy legislation does not come upon the statute books. If that means time, it is for the benefit of the whole State; and all this cry constantly made against this body that we are a set of idle servants here, neglecting our duties here without any excuse, is an insult to the intelligence of this chamber and an insult to the constituency that sends us here.

I shall vote against the proposed amendment because I do not believe that the time allowed in the amendment is sufficient for a proper investigation, especially when it is made by members of the Legislature and I almost endorse what was said by the gentleman from Berks when he intimated that we were making a joke out of this proposition. It begins to look like a joke when you are trying to close the doors on the proper sort of investigation by asking to cut down the time and make the efforts of your committee fruitless.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The Speaker declared the nays appeared to have it.

Whereupon, Messrs. Walter and George W. Williams called for the ayes and nays

The SPEAKER. The ayes and nays have been called for by the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Walter, and the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. George W. Williams. Now I hope the House will be in order and that the members will answer loudly to their names when they are called for by the Clerk. It is very important that the members answer loudly because it is impossible for the Clerk to keep a correct roll, and I do hope that there will be no controversy over the question of the roll, and I do not believe there will be if the members speak out loudly when their names are called.

The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Franklin. Those who are in favor of shortening the time for the report of the committee, as I understand it, as provided in the resolution, the first day of June or the last day of May to the first day of May.—those who are in favor of making the report on the first day of May will vote aye; those who are in favor of it remaining as now in the resolution, the thirty-first day of May, will vote no. The Clerk will call the roll.

The roll was called as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative, and the amendment falls.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the first section?

Mr. STITES. Mr. Speaker, I take it that in a deliberate body of this character clothed with the importance and the dignity that pertains to the Geenral Assembly of Pennsylvania, that any enactment or resolution is offered not through some haphazard purpose, but is the result of calm deliberation and in furtherance of some definite design. I take it for granted further that this resolution has been offered either for the purpose of advancing materially the economic and moral welfare of this Commonwealth, or else it has been offered for some purpose which is ignoble, mean and petty. Having considered this resolution from its preamble to its end, and having further regard to the surrounding circumstances, and the peculiarity of its birth, I have no hesitation in saying that I have reached the conclusion that this resolution if adopted would add to the fair name of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania disgrace rather than dignity, and shame rather than honor.

Now let us consider from purely patriotic motives, and from a desire to do that which is best for our State, whether this resolution should have support of the members of this body. I want to say right at this point that I come from a district which is not in any way interested in the factional fight which has developed within the Republican Party within the great City of Philadelphia, and any observation that I make upon this bill is made solely because I have at heart the inteerst and the good name of this State and have regard for her great traditions which we all hold dear.

Now let us consider the preamble of this resolution and see whether it is frank and candid and whether it is the kind of resolution that commends itself to us because of its unity of purpose. I want to ask every member of this House within the sound of my voice, if he intended to present charges against another man and wanted the action of this House in support thereof, what would he do? Why, in the first place you would make his purpose clear and specific, and in furtherance of that purpose, if it was an honest purpose, would lay before this House all the information he had which might bear upon the question. Why? Because for the very same reason that you would desire honestly to do right by the man who was charged, and I say to you that the members of this House will not act rightly and with due regard to their sworn oath in doing something that may effect the sacred honor and dignity and reputation of any other man, unless upon clear information properly supported by adequate proof. I am frank to say that so far as I am personally concerned before I take action which attempts to smear smoke, soot or black paint that you may place upon the integrity of another man, I want to know specifically what the charge against him is, whether the man who supports the charges is himself a man of integrity, and whether he acts from motives that are sincere and unbiased.

Now I know it will be said by the gentleman on the other side that on honest man need not fear an investigation; let the chips fall where they may; lay the axe to the root of the tree, and all that sort of thing. Well, gentlemen we are practical men. We know what happens when the reputation of another man is committed to the tender mercies of a partisan committee, to skillful and inquisitorial council, clever atorneys, and to newspapers who are always eager to print the unusual and the sensational. If you see in your paper the inference and the innuendo which goes with such things, that Mr. Smith is a liar and a thief, the fact that later on Mr. Smith proves that he was not a liar and a thief, but an honest man, you still have a doubt in your mind whether or not Mr. Smith might not have been subject to criticism because you saw it stated in scare headlines in your favorite newspaper.

Now Mr. Speaker, let us consider for a minute the circumstances behind the birth of this peculiar resolution. A factional contest was on in the City of Philadelphia and it spread out into the state, and just at this time there came on the contest for the Speakership. It seemed to be a matter of great importance to the two factions as to whether they were able, or might be able, to elect the particular candidate they favored for Speaker of this House, and the air was full of abuse and vituperation in the unseemly effort of those gentlemen who opposed the rule of the Senior Senator from this state and they were in high glee. They said that Mr. Penrose was a dead cock in the pit, that his day had come, that his friends were standing by pumping air into him, that on the first day of January on Capitol Hill in the City of Harrisburg his political end would occur, and that he would depart from this political life fanned on one side by the gentleman, the Senator from Delaware, and on the other side by the gentlemen from Chester. They had a political epitaph prepared for the Senior Senator, which red something like this: Here lies Boies. Restrain your tears. He threw the bull for twenty years. He passed away on New Year's Monday. Please send all flowers to Joseph Grundy. On the other side the gentlemen who were in favor of the Senior Senator were equally loud in predicting the end of the Chief Executive of this Commonwealth and those allied with the Senator from South Philadelphia. They said that on the first of January at the nomination and election of a Speaker that unholy alliance would be broken and those men would be counted out. And they had prepared a little epitaph to place above the political graves of those gentlemen and it went something like this: Let ingrates shiver; let traitors beware, we have put the kibosh on Martin and Vare. And so it ran. You gentlemen know what happened. The election was held and a man was chosen for Speaker of this House who has been here for many sessions. So far as I was personally concerned I yielded gracefully. Did the gentleman who had won the conflict with wise political acumen do what they ought to have done; let things die and go on about the state business? I do not think so. They began to sprinkle salt in the wounds of the gentlemen on the minority side and have kept up an unseemly contest, supported by this miserable resolution, until the people of the state are tired and sick of it. Now we have got to turn to this preamble for the particular charges because we have no other information. Nobody has appeared who has given us anything tangible as to why we should support this resolution. It is stated that statements have appeared in the newspaper press made by reputable citizens, but the statements we have are the statements made in the heat of a political conflict, statements to which you and I, under ordinary circumstances, would not give two minutes' consideration. Is this legislative body to sit here for weeks and weeks and appropriate $25,000 to find out whether the Attorney General of this Commonwealth is a political shyster?

Is this great deliberative body, with more than two hundred members, to concern itself with whether or not the Congressman from Philadelphia who had to do with the Vare campaign in the recent conflict, as was said by the Senior Senator, is a tenderloin statesman, and are we concerned, I mean in a dignified way, with the proposition that was advanced during this recent contest with proving whether or not, as was said, that the Senior Senator himself, with all his dignity and high office, was a political degenerate. I do not think so. I say to you that the people of this state have absolutely no interest in this contest and would like to see it wiped off the board. Let us look at this preamble, the very first provision of it, and I consider that it is of primary importance, related to questions of gross extravagance, and I presume following out what has appeared in the papers, and that has to do with the so-called extravagances of the Chief Executive. In all sincerity, is this deliberative body really concerned with whether or not Mr. Brumbaugh paid a dollar and a half or two dollars and a half or three dollars and a half to have his pants pressed. Now in all good conscience, since the Legislature of 1915 said that he should have so much for traveling expenses, are we concerned really with whether or not the Governor of the Commonwealth used one taxicab or two taxicabs or even three taxicabs, and had Mrs. Brumbaugh with him? I don't think so. This is a great inland empire that we represent of eight millions of people,—not a piker kingdom, not by any means; it is a Commonwealth that charms the admiration, that elicits the enthusiastic approval of men wherever the name of Pennsylvania is spoken. And I submit to you that it is undignified, not only undignified but unpatriotic, for this body to consider seriously charges of that character. What kind of a man is this Governor? What kind of an administration has this Chief Executive given? Now I stand here to protect no man guilty of crime. If Martin G. Brumbaugh, the Chief Executive of the State of Pennsylvania, and for our purposes a private citizen, has done wrong, take him into the courts of law and prove wherein he has done wrong, and the statutes of this state are amply sufficient to redress any wrong done. And if Francis Shunk Brown, a citizen of this Commonwealth, and temporarily occupying the high office of Attorney General, has not lived up to the sacred principles of his office, but has violated some principle not to be violated, let us cite him into a court of law on the question of malfeasance and have him properly punished. But in all sincerity and dignity, and realizing the fact that this is a dignified body why are we concerned with statements made when men's blood was at top heat, when they had lost that calm consideration which men ordinarily have, and when they spoke from motives that were not impartial and unpatriotic, but purely party. Now I understand, Mr. Speaker, I understand that very serious charges have been made against your Chief Executive of this Commonwealth. I understand, Sir, that in the City of Philadelphia, at a public function, it was charged that the Chief Executive of this Commonwealth was a Hessian Dutchman. Sir, I shiver when I think of that. In these strenuous times of international complications I consider it very unpopular for a man, for any man, to be a Dutchman, and I presume that it is far worse for a man to be a Hessian Dutchman. But suppose we go on for two or three months, and we prove that the Governor was a political ingrate, that he was a Hessian Dutchman, has the dignity of this Commonwealth been furthered, or has her fair name been elevated in the eyes of the public, or have we done anything to which we can later on point back with pride? Now with regard to the Attorney General, I understand, may it please the gentlemen of the House, that certain extravagances in that statement have been referred to by inuendo or by inference as belonging to the office of the Attorney General. You members have no information on this subject, but I have. I have some inside information. I understand that no later than last summer—and I can furnish you with the date if any gentleman desires it—I understand that last summer the Attorney General had not expected on the thirteenth of July, I think it was, to go home to dinner. Finding that he could get away from his office, he called up his devoted wife on the 'phone because he wanted her to wait dinner for him. Thetelephone charge was made against his office and the state, and for several weeks the Attorney General of this Commonwealth forgot to pay for that telephone charge, and it was charged against the state. That is part of the charge of malfeasance in office. Think of the gravity of that offense, gentlemen. It is true that later on he paid for it. But I think it is true that men will say, Why didn't the Attorney General immediately pay for that telephone call? The Senior Senator the other day said that Mr. Brown's conscience has been troubling him, because he paid back certain moneys into the treasury. It is the custom to make these charges, and they take them when the charges come in and separate those which are purely personal and which have nothing to do with the business of the state. Now, gentlemen, the resolution goes further and refers to continued absences. I presume we will all agree that has crept into this resolution through inadvertence, perhaps a mistake of the printer, and should not be in here, because I take it that this body has nothing to do with absences in the Senate of the United States or Congress. And in that connection the only statements we have are as to the absence of certain distinguished gentlemen from ther seats in the Congress of the United States, and I submit that that is unworthy of our consideration. Now the resolution resorts to bribery in connection with the solicitation of votes. I do not believe in the recent speakership contest that anybody bribed anybody else in case he should vote either for Mr. Cox or for our present distinguished Speaker. I want to say for myself that pressure was brought to bear on every man who would cast his vote. I know in my own individual case, if you will pardon me, that I began to think that my vote was out of all proportion to its value because of the demands made on me to vote this way or that way. Nobody bribed me. The solicitation was fair. Both the men supporting the present Speaker and the adherents of Mr. Cox were anxious to have either one or the other elected, but nobody was bribed. I do not believe that anybody within the sound of my voice would stand here and say that he was bribed to vote either for the present Speaker or his opponent. During the course of the contest a distinguished friend of mine who occupies a seat in the other side of this body, whose sunny smile has endeared him to everybody, was discussing the question with me, and wanted me to vote for Mr. Baldwin, and I told him I was going up to select my seat in the House.

In his jovial, jocular way he said, "Well, go ahead, if you want to, but if you happen to lose out, if you are on the losing side remember this, it would not be worth while for you to go up there to select a seat, because if you are on the losing side you will get put to the bottom and so far as a seat is concerned you will be lucky if you get inside of the House." Looking about me and considering the location of my seat, and looking over my committee assignments, I can truly say, "a Prophet has arisen in Israel." It has grieved me, beyond measure that I was separated from my distinguished colleagues from Montgomery County, and I have only one consolation and that is that I sit here among stalwarts—the real red blood of this House, and our Star of Hope still shines clearly because we know that political chickens, like other chickens, "always come home to roost."

Now the Resolution goes on to refer to flagrant political activities. Flagrant political activities, considering by whom these charges are made—that ought not to be put in the Legislative Journal; it ought to be featured in the front page of Puck or Judge. Flagrant activities, indeed. Did you ever see Mr. Penrose, or Mr. Vare, if you please, or Mr. McNichol, or Mr. Eyre, or Mr. Sproul or any of those distinguished gentlemen when they wanted to pull over an election talk of flagrant political activities. Why, we all know, as practical men, that they move heaven and earth and almost assail the legions of Hades itself in their efforts to accomplish their political purposes. The resolution goes on to say that all these allegations have so aroused public sentiment, presumably in favor of this resolution, that you would imagine from that that there was a riot in the market place; that men were congregating with righteous horror in their souls demanding that this resolution be put through. I say to you, gentlemen, that eight out of ten Republican voters in the State of Pennsylvania if you were to ask them their honest opinions would say to you, "For Heaven's sake, why don't you fellows cut loose from that thing and get down to business?" outraged public sentiment! I think if you were to take the lowest ward politician that you could get and you would say to him, "What do you think of that resolution?" He would say to you and to me that "Brumbaugh was a political ingrate" and would go on and add that that resolution is bunk and if they will keep on with it they will split the party wide open and nobody will profit by it except the Democrats. If I have not stated the facts in regard to that resolution you gentlemen of course will correct me. I say to you, gentlemen, that there is not in the State of Pennsylvania any crystallized sentiment of any responsible character, whatever, for any single item in this resolution. You get away from the sensational front page of any newspaper published in this Commonwealth and turn to the editorial column and I offer to bet that forty-eight out of every fifty editorial writers in this State are thoroughly against this resolution from start to finish. Why? Because it is offensive to every sentiment of public decency. It proposes no good for this great State and honest patriotic legislators ought to put it where it belongs —in the waste-basket.

I have considered this for a moment from purely patriotic consideration; for the good of the State. Let us have a Republican Caucus right here for a few minutes. I think it is proper on this side of the House to consider it from the other side. I am frank to say that I think it is a less worthy reason to say: "I have opposed the resolution because I believe that every man who comes into this hall ought to feel that he is a servant of the people and not of a party." But this has been introduced for the reason of purging the party and since it has, let us consider it. What do you think will happen when we get on with this resolution, fellow Republicans? Why, we will be in the same position that General Kuropatkin was in during the Russo-Japanese War. A message came from that land to a little town in Pennsylvania, which reads something like this: Kuropatkin is in statuo quo." The boys at the crossroads store, who got the message, didn't know what that meant—Kuropatkin is in statuo quo, so they took the message to the wise man of the town who knew everything and they said, "Uncle Sam,, look over this message and tell us what it means." The old man put on his glasses and looked over and read it, "Kuropatkin is in statuo quo." He thought a moment, as he didn't know any more about the meaning of that message than they did, but he was game and took a chance and he said, "Why fellows, this means that Kuropatkin is in a hell of a fix." I say to you, Mr. Speaker, and to you, fellow Republicans, that if we go on with this resolution and pursue it to its logical conclusion we will find ourselves, two years hence, in just that sort of a fix. The very best test that I know with regard to Republican sentiment in favor of this resolution was shown in the Senate the other night when it was put to a test vote and nineteen Republican Senators voted against it and eighteen voted for it and the majority had to rely upon a crystallized Democratic sentiment to put it over. The very best criticism I can make of the lack of wisdom from a party standpoint on this resolution is the fact that our Democratic friends are so enthusiastically in favor of it. Whenever I see a measure that the Democrats are thoroughly in favor of I conclude, Mr. Speaker, that it is bad medicine for a Republican to take. Mr. Speaker, I believe that the time has come to us that the eyes of the county are on the State of Pennsylvania. We are traveling in different times than those in which the great Quay lived. We have reached the time in the history of our Commonwealth and in the history of the country as a whole when men's minds are broader and on better things, due to the wonderful advancement in invention and in the furtherance of science. The whole earth, to-day, is merely a neighborhood; an operator sits in his office in Washington and with a twitch of his fingers he drops about the world in a single heart-beat sentiments of sorrow, sentiments of patriotism, sentiments perhaps of fear and we catch it out beyond the three mile limit or down through the cactus covered regions of Mexico.

The day has gone by when Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, is to be regarded as the West and our thoughts to-day as politicians, our thoughts to-day as men who have in our hearts impulses that lead to a better Pennsylvania turn toward that western country where everything is potential, inviting and full of life, and we hear those men, and they said it in November last, "we don't like the kind of politics you fellows have in the East and you want to clean house"; and they said it so loud that they put in the White House a man who, not because he kept us out of war but because those fellows in the West doubted whether or not our political leaders were acting on the level. I say to you that the time has come when man's thoughts ought to draw from ward politics to the broad consideration of the best good, to the good of the Commonwealth. I cannot find in this miserable resolution anything at all that commends itself to me from the standpoint of patriotism or from the standpoint of public expediency. I say a man cannot sit in this House and not feel as he looks about a certain thrill of patriotism. Just above your right, Mr. Speaker, is that wonderful painting of William Penn concluding his Treaty with the Indians. He was a man through whose veins ran the desire always to do the best, whose cause he regarded as a sacred trust. Just up there is the painting of the great father of his country speaking words of wisdom to an expectant people. Just below him I see I think that very old patriot Witherspoon, the only clergyman who signed the Declaration of Independence, and when somebody assailed him, claiming that he was a fool to risk so much on the outcome of a mere experiment he said, "Of property I have some, of reputation more; that property is pledged, that reputation is staked upon the issue in this contest. I had rather that these gray hairs descend under the curse of the hangman's axe than desert at this crisis the sacred cause of my country;" and I would desire that some of that spirit might descend on the floor of this House at this moment and animate the hearts and minds of patriotic citizens and good Republicans when they consider this resolution for I assure you, sir, that this great Commonwealth with its eight millions of toiling people, with its miles of smoking coke ovens and roaring furnaces, with its treasuries of coal and iron embowelled deep in the earth, with its waving fields of grain and its broad acres of tobacco, and with its splendid citizenship demands something better at our hands than this miserable resolution which has to commend it not one single feature that can recommend itself to the mind or heart of a patriotic, honest legislator. (Applause.)

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I could not help but think to myself while sitting here listening to the eloquent address of the gentleman who has just closed, of the words of him whose memory we celebrated yesterday and to take for my theme as a Republican and as a Pennsylvanian the beautiful sentiment expressed on the battlefield of Gettysburg: "With malice toward none and with charity to all;" and as we approach the consideration of this important resolution which now lies before us let us do so in a spirit of charity and with malice toward none; but let us remember, at the same time, what it is we are here for and why we are here at this moment to consider this resolution. It is not the fault of any member of this chamber on either side of the House, but in the midst of a campaign for the Speakership of this body a gentleman, respected by every one of you, even though you may not follow him politically, made known his desire to aspire to the high office he here occupies, as he had a perfect right under the inalienable laws of our nation to do; but the moment that he did the foul tongue of slander reached out from the Executive Chamber in Harrisburg throughout every county of Pennsylvania. They told that this honest man, who came to the front by sheer force of his own character and his own individuality, and whose love of country and whose love of State was as great as the eminent gentleman from Montgomery, was an unfit man for any decent man in Pennsylvania to have any associations with, because he, in his judgment and his careful deliberation upon the legislative matters in the sessions gone by, during which he has served as a member from Delaware County, had seen fit at times to differ in his judgment from that of the Governor, the people of Pennsylvania were immediately told that all that was good and sweet, too sweet to be kissed in Harrisburg, lay in the Executive Chamber and all that was wicked and wrong was in the personnel of the candidate who aspired to the office he now occupies.

When men in the heat of political strife forget themselves and make charges which are unfounded it is only reasonable to expect that the answer will come back and that those who recklessly make charges against faithful servants are bound to get the answer and bound to open themselves to criticism from those against whom they are contending. I have heard it said, heard it said repeatedly and you can see it right there in that motto, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." That should be our guide and light, but let me tell you, gentlemen, there is one other that might be added in this building and might well shine in the Executive Chamber here in this building and it was spoken by a man over three thousand years ago who had wisdom greater than any man before him. He said: "Accuse not a servant unto his master lest he curse thee and thou be found wanting." Unfortunately for those who entered upon the malicious campaign of destroying the personal character of this candidate for Speaker the light was turned upon them and now you find they are running away and every time this matter comes up for discussion, whether it be here or in the Senate chamber, all that we hear is the cry of party, come to the rescue of the party; you are going to destroy the grand old party of which you are a member. Let me tell you, my friends, on this side of the chamber, that honesty of purpose, honesty of effort never yet destroyed the party of which you and I have the honor to be members.

If, unfortunately, false charges are made here one side against the other and some charges which may or may not be well founded, yet nevertheless the great citizenship of this State has come here today, and in every town, in every village and in every hamlet, the farmers and the citizenship of this State are gathering together to discuss the iniquities of our State government, whether it be in the hands of the Executive or the Legislative department of the government. I say that it is in the interest of our party, it is in the interest of ourselves, that we give these men who have been thus charged an opportunity to clear themselves if they are innocent of all that has been said against them, and the public ever-ready with a charitable thought is ready to forgive them, they will not allow any one to remain under an unjust cloud if he comes forward like a man and meets his accusers and comes out clean and whole. The guilty flee when no man pursueth. You heard what my good friend said from Montgomery a moment ago, that the Attorney General became conscious-stricken because of the fact that he called his dear wife on the telephone and charged it to the great State of Pennsylvania. I do not recall what it was but I have some recollection, and I think the people of Pennsylvania have some recollection, that he stood by the cashier's desk and took a good deal more than the price of one single phone call for his dear wife. I do not care to magnify even a matter of that sort. But let us be just, let us be fair with ourselves, let us give the people of our State an opportunity to hear the truth, then if our party has been clean you will not need to be afraid of the other side of this chamber. But if our servants and our representatives in our party have been disloyal and unfair with the citizenship of this State then you cannot blame the other side of this chamber if they make an issue of it and carry it into the campaign. Suppose you do not investigate. What is the answer from the other side of the chamber? You heard it this morning from the lips of the gentleman from Berks; that you are afraid to be investigated that you have not the courage to be investigated. Shall we permit that sort of argument to be held against the grand old party of which you and I are members and which at all times was manly enough to face every issue in the State and the Nation and considered the welfare of all the people.

I speak for no man, I hold a brief for no man. I claim to be a loyal Republican as every man in this chamber has a right to claim to be. I regret the insinuations that were made on both sides of this question during this Speakership fight, which gave rise to the assertions which were made. So far as I am concerned I wish they had never been made, but now that they have been made, the charges are ringing in the ears of our people, we must have the courage to stand by, face them, and permit the light to be turned on that the people may see what all this talk has been about.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, much has been said as to the reasons prompting this investigation. I submit for the consideration of the membership of this House that it is for them to pass upon whether the investigation proposed in accordance with this resolution is one to benefit the people of this State or whether it is one for the benefit of certain individuals who wreak their vengeance upon the administration. My friend from Philadelphia said that this investigation had its inception as a result of the recent Speakership contest, when he knows if he would refresh his memory that this investigation had its inception as a result of legislation passed of a beneficient character in the 1915 session of which he was a member as well as myself. You gentlemen remember that the Executive of this Commonwealth went before the people on a personal platform promising the people of this State that in the event of his election he would lend his efforts towards placing on the statute books laws of humanity, laws of a beneficent character to the workmen and the child. If he has kept his promise, you know by reference to the statutes passed in that session certain gentlemen high in party politics, supreme in command, others high in the official life of this Commonwealth, took it upon themselves on the very night that the information came from this great State that Martin G. Brumbaugh had been elected, to keep promises that were made to the interests in opposition to the Governor, and because the Governor saw fit to keep the promises made to the people, then it was that in the minds of these gentlemen opposed to him this investigation was conceived.

Is this the first time that investigation committees have been appointed for the purpose of wreaking personal vengeance or spleen? No, Mr. Speaker. The first that I recall was in 1897. An investigation committee tried to destroy the leadership of a man in Philadelphia and as a result of the deliberations of that committee the gentleman who headed it is now in exile beyond the confines of the State of Pennsylvania, somewhere, I believe, in New Mexico.

Then again in 1911 a commission was formed for what purpose? For the benefit of the great State of Pennsylvania or the benefit of the people thereof? No. For the purpose of advancing the factional interest of those men who were desirous of attaining by legislative enactment that which they could not get from the people. What is the history of that commission. Did it do anything for the people of the state? I believe not, and no one on the floor of this House will contradict this statement.

Gentlemen, we know that charges have been made, not in the recent Speakership contest before referred to, but at a time when the people of the State of Pennsylvania were selecting national delegates. Were those charges then made for the benefit of the state, or for factional reasons? I say to you, gentlemen, that the remarks made by the gentleman from Pittsburgh affecting the integrity and honesty of the Chief Executive of this Commonwealth are well founded. There is no excuse for an investigating committee. There are standing laws upon our statute books that if he comes forward and substantiates his statements by an affidavit that the man can be brought before twelve of his peers and tried, and if found guilty, punished. As to the expenditure, we require no commission to spend twenty-five thousand dollars to find out whether or not any of the Executive's appointments have exceeded their right of expenditure. A joint committee of the appropriations could summon before them any head of a department and compel him to account to them for every dollar that he has spent. If there has been an abuse that committee could come here to the floor of the House and have a remedy, in the enactment of legislation that in the future would prevent such abuse. And, gentlemen, do you think that this investigating committee proposed is born of an honest purpose, or is one with the voice of the Master speaking to be produced within all sections of our great Commonwealth on the eve of a primary and to have its dried bones rattle, so say I to those of you here. If you don't think as I do, I will let loose bugaboo on you? And you know, as well said by the distinguished gentleman from Montgomery, if a man be accused of a crime, he will appear guilty in the eyes of the public. Do you propose to make yourselves parties—and I am now appealing, not basing my appeal to you altogether on party interests—but are you Republicans going to make yourself a party to the destruction of that party that honored you, or are you going to by your vote to-day that this resolution is not born in honesty, has not the disposition or desire in it to serve the people, or will you say that it is the emanation of petty and foolish politics, and to the man that proposes it, that you will save him from himself? Now, gentlemen, one word in conclusion. My friend said the farmers in every hamlet in the State of Pennsylvania were gathering together and discussing the iniquities of the state administration, but I believe that if we were to go to each one of the two hundred and six sitting members of the Houes and ask them where there is any sentiment among their people calling for this investigation or that would warrant the starting of it, that they would answer in the negative. Because the people recognize that if there were anything wrong, anything of a character that would proclaim anybody connected with the state administration guilty of malfeasance in office, they certainly would not put it in black and white. Everything that has been printed in the papers has been obtained from the Auditor General's Department, where everything is in black and white, and you all know if there is anything wrong or anything wrong done, he would not put it in black and white, in a way that he who runs may read. Gentlemen, this resolution is not born in honesty, this resolution is not for the purpose of bringing credit to this great Commonwealth, but it is a resolution conceived in the minds of men who, because they cannot boss, will destroy and tear down, and I ask you men of this House to look at it in an honest, calm and deliberate manner and vote it down.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Venango, Mr. Goodwin.

Mr. GOODWIN. Mr. Speaker, I will at this time yield to the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr.. Milliron.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Milliron.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, it is not my intention to go into a discussion of this resolution at any great length, but I take this opportunity of pointing out what I think the prime motive or the prime reason for the members of this session at this time to be concerned about this resolution, and secondly to state my reasons for supporting said resolution. It occurs to my mind that this cause, or the cause for this resolution, has not originated within the last three or four months. Those of you who were in the session of 1915 will remember that the same factional fight that exists to-day in the City of Philadelphia existed then. You will recall that we have in the City of Philadelphia two factions, each headed by a contractor. The heads of both of these factions are fine, reputable men, as far as I know, but after making a million or two by removing the garbage from the streets and collecting it in the City of Philadelphia, they were not satisfied, but they wanted to crop out and take hold of the contracts of this state. They would have us believe, gentlemen, that the old boundary lines of Pennsylvania that you and I were taught by the teacher in the little red school house, that Pennsylvania is bounded on the north by New York, on the east by New York and New Jersey, on the south by Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia, and on the west by West Virginia and Ohio, has been changed, and these two contracting powers, the heads of these factions, would have us believe, the citizens of this state believe, that the State of Pennsylvania is bounded on the north by Montgomery and Bucks Counties, on the east by the Delaware River, on the south by the Delaware River and on the west by Delaware and Montgomery Counties. Two years ago these factions brought to the members of this Legislature their dirty linen to be washed, and how effectively we did that work! We all agreed that it should be done, and we not only washed it, but we blued it and ironed it and sent it back to Philadelphia with instructions that these two factions get together and keep their linen unsoiled until we met here in 1917. When we met here for the organization of this House the same batch of dirty linen was in the clothes closet for our consideration, and I want to say to you, Mr. Speaker, and to my friend here, Mr. Cox, and to my friend, Mr. Williams, there could not have been said one word of truth against any one of you with regard to ability, honesty and integrity. With the assistance of the rural members, the members who represented the rural counties outside of the City of Philadelphia, they succeeded in organizing the House.

They wanted to demonstrate these two things and they did demonstrate them; first, that it matters little to the citzens of this State, outside of politicians, who collects the garbage as long as the actions of the garbage collectors don't become obnoxious to the taste of the decent citizens of this Commonwealth. The other thing that we demonstrated in the organization ofthis House for the session of 1917 was that we were not in the laundry business. It seems, from the arguments, that the impression has gone out that this resolution is aimed at the Governor of this Commonwealth. I want to say to you, frankly and candidly, that possibly I have known Governor Brumbaugh as long as most any member of this House. I knew him when in school work, not associated directly with him, but having him come to my institutes and by meeting him at educational meetings. I always had a high regard for him and I would be the last man to say anything disrespectful of him. I remember the campaign of 1914 when Dr. Brumbaugh was the candidate for the Governorship and I was a candidate for the Legislature and we had arrayed gainst us both, in Armstrong County, all the civic organizations of that county, and the ministers of the Gospel and the Anti-Saloon League and other civic and religious bodies were fighting both Dr. Brumbaugh and myself. I recall the same thing last fall, as in 1914, that I said to the people where I spoke that if you cannot support both of us, to vote for Brumbaugh because I know that he will make one of the best Governors this State has ever had and I have not lost faith in him up to this present moment. He has been good to me, he has returned that. I remember when I came down here in 1915, a big countryman that had never seen a legislative hall, when I was met with favor. I was met with the greatest kindness that could be bestowed on any man and before that session was over a man purporting to come from the Executive Chamber literally fell upon my neck and kissed me and said, "Is there any position within our gift here that we can give you so that you may dwell here in the tents of wickedness all the days of your life?" I remember in the campaign of 1916, last year, I was again permitted to go into an agreement with the Governor of this Commonwealth and his friends in our county to keep down any opposition and to support my candidacy and to give me no opposition and the nice part about this is that they kept it up until about two or three days or until the last day before filing nomination papers; then they brought out a minister of the gospel and because I feel that I want to be charitable I say that I felt that they thought I should have some man to give moral training and approval with me through the campaign. No man could have been given greater consideration than that. I read in the papers, and I don't like to quarrel with newspapers or the press, but I take it that the journalism of this State and the public press has a function to perform, if directed in the right channel and is a greater agency for building up decent citizenship than the educational system of this State, but I am sorry to say that there are two newspapers in this State, one published in the eastern end, and the other in the western end, that is forgetting that functional duty and that left that elevating position and they have tried a paralyzing proposition by printing those things that are not true and which they know are not true but print them simply because they can sell their papers to people who are fanatics and want to read that kind of yellow journalism. I say, I read in one of those papers an accusation against our good Governor, concerning his private expenses in the expenditure of money which was appropriated to him. I want to say so far as I am personally concerned that I never saw a piece of tommyrot that quite equalled that in the way of anything calling for an investigation. For example, it calls attention to the fact that the Governor had used sixty dollars worth of cigarettes. Great Scott, if the Governor would see fit to smoke cigarettes he ought to have them and the State ought to pay for them. It has been printed that there was paid sixty-eight dollars for twenty cent cigars. Is that any reason why a little legislator should investigate, because he smokes a five cent Tom Keene cigar. They speak of another item, that Mrs. Brumbaugh spent seventy dollars on a little Hallowe'en celebration in Philadelphia. You know that a person cannot have very much of a time in Philadelphia for less than seventy dollars. These things are so silly that they should not be given any consideration. They speak about heads of departments. I presume that there has been some extravagance. Among them are men who are at the heads of these departments whom I know and I know that they represent the best citizenship of this State. Certain men may not be filling the positions for which they are prepared or for which they are qualified. A man is at the head of the State Highway Department who has a thorough knowledge of agriculture and another one is at the head of the Agriculture Department who knows nothing of agriculture and has spent almost his whole time in building roads. We see that there might have been a little better arrangement in those affairs, but those things are liable to happen all the time. When a man who makes these statements listens to factional politics all these matters must be considered. I am for this resolution for this reason: That Governor Brumbaugh and the heads of these departments and anyone else, as the resolution says, who has been accused of any wrong doing, shall have a chance to have themselves vindicated. If I say to a member of this House that I will make a certain accusation against you and you feel hurt about it, and you can go in the courts of justice of this State and say, "Here they blame me for doing certain things; I want you to prove me either guilty or innocent." You cannot do that. This commission formed by the passage of this resolution will create such a condition that any man or woman who is accused of wrongdoing in connection with the State Government can go before that commission and have themselves vindicated and when they have served their term of office, it may be either by election or appointment; after they have been vindicated, they can go back to their own town or county in which they reside, and they can gather the little family around the old fireside and they can hear the admonition of people all over this State saying, "Well done, good and faithful servant." I make this prediction: That the men who support this resolution will give men a chance to go home with clean shirts where they will receive from the constituents who have supported them the approval due them in the districts in which they reside.

Mr. GLASS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I am not opposed to any investigation where an investigation is necessary to right a wrong, where a wrong has been committed; I am not here to defend any man who has committed a wrong, but as I read the Joint Resolution that is now before this body I can find nothing in it which accuses any man or set of men specifically. This is an insult to the intelligence of this body; it is an affront to the dignity and honor of this Commonwealth. What is this resolution? Look at the preamble, Mr. Speaker, and you will find that it says nothing; it means nothing. It is borne and conceived, as the gentleman from Philadelphia has well said, in spite and in malice. If an investigation is sought for, if they are honest in their purpose, let them make an investigation that would be fair, honest and just. We are not asking for charity. My friend from Philadelphia has quoted that great man when he says' "With malice toward none, with charity toward all." I am not here on the floor of this House asking charity for any man, but I stand here to-day, not as a Philadelphian but as a Pennsylvanian, in defence of the great name of Pennsylvania, asking common justice for the people and the citizens of Pennsylvania. I think that the citizens, that the public have been maligned; they have been defamed. Ah, the preamble read: "Whereas, statements have been made by reputable citizens and the responsible press of this Commonwealth." I ask the members of this House, who are these reputable citizens that are referred to in the resolution? Are they the reputable citizens who in the session of 1915 worked so strenuously and so assiduously to defeat the passage of the Workmen's Compensation Act? Are they the same reputable citizens who attempted to defeat the passage of the Child Labor Act? The same influences that were at work then, Mr. Speaker, are at work now. It is those very influences that we are here to contend with. If we are to have an investigation, as the gentlemen who are members of the bar well know, if we are to bring indictments against any one or any man or set of men I think we ought to say who the men are who are preferring the charges, what the charges are specifically, so that they may have an opportunity to answer. Is there any one specifically mentioned? By innuendo, the Executive of this Commonwealth has been mentioned. Now I take it, Mr. Speaker, that in all fairness and in all honesty, this resolution, if it is conceived in honesty of purpose, should state specifically what the accusations are and who are making them.

Now, I do not intend to take up the time of this House, Mr. Speaker, but there is no one who is running away from the truth as the gentleman from Philadelphia has said, If there has been any wrong-doing, if the men are called in the proper form and before the proper tribunal they can make answer to any charges that may be preferred against them, and I say in the name of common decency, in the name of honesty, I think we ought to be fair with ourselves, we ought to be fair to our constituency which sends us here, we ought to be fair to this Commonwealth and protect its fair name and vote down this resolution.

Mr. GOODWIN. Mr. Speaker we have heard a great deal upon the necessity of this resolution, about the necessity for this investigation. If ever an investigation was demanded within this Commonwealth it is imperatively demanded to-day. For weeks and months the public press has been full of charges and counter-charges and the eight millions of people throughout this Commonwealth are interested in seeing whether or not these charges be true; therefore public sentiment to-day imperatively demands this investigation.

In the debates on the other side we heard almost every other subject discussed but the real issue of the question. They talked about congressmen; they talked about a United States Senator; they talked about the resources of Pennsylvania, but the real question to-day is whether or not this investigation should be proceeded with. We have heard a great deal about a full and free and fair investigation. They seem to forget the dignity and the responsibility of the members of this House. We are here elected to represent eight million people but in their forgetfulness they talk about a free and fair investigation as though it were going to be a game of chance and as though it might be conducted as a game of cards. We are here called upon to do our sworn duty and the members of the proposed investigating committee, if it is proceeded with, will be sworn to do their duty and to obey the constitutional requirements, and I am at a loss to know what higher sanctity can be given to any member of the investigating committee than their oath that they will support the Constitution and do their duty.

This resolution has also been objected to on the ground that it was vague; that it did not mention specific departments, or any specific individuals. Well, gentlemen, are we required to put an index into this resolution? Are we required to point out specifically the charges that are to be investigated? No. Does our Federal Government send word ahead when it is going to send its bank examiners to a certain bank? No; they drop in in the most unexpected manner.

Now, in regard to the vagueness of this resolution I want to read to you from the resolution which investigated the building of this capitol building: "Whereas, statements have been made by certain public officials and others that the expenditures of moneys in connection with the construction and furnishing of the State Capitol have been grossly irregular, and also in excess of the amounts which could be lawfully expended for that purpose; and

Whereas, as a result of said statements, public sentiment imperatively demands that all the transactions connected with the erection, construction, and furnishing of the State Capitol should be fully investigated;"

That resolution was no more specific than the one before us to-day, but the investigation of that resulted in sending a number of those accused to the penitentiary and resulted, ultimately, in the recovery by this Commonwealth of hundreds of thousands of dollars. That resolution was no more specific than the one before us and it was not objected to on that account but it was proceeded with.

Another objection is that this investigating committee is not authorized or requested by any creditable authority. What creditable authority was there for that investigating committee that investigated this Capitol Building. There is no one creditable there set forth in that resolution.

I have been much amused at hearing the warnings about those who may happen to sit on the proposed investigating committee. We heard how members of other investigating committees have been defeated when they came up for reelection or how their majorities have been reduced. Reference has been made about the head of one investigating committee, that he was ostracised and had to go to New Mexico. Well, what fears the other gentlemen should have I do not know.

I do not know but during my experience as district attorney in my own county as long as I represented the Commonwealth I made it my duty to do my duty regardless of consequences. Now the question before us to-day is this: if this investigation is necessary to convict or charge an innocent man of a crime it would be a stain upon the public justice, a blot upon our statute books, but if any man who is connected with our State government be guilty of the charges set forth in this resolution he ought to be brought to justice. If the charges in this resolution are well founded let us clear the situation, and if any man be guilty let him be convicted and brought to justice but if he be innocent let him be vindicated, so I am in favor of going on with this investigation.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I reluctantly arise in my place to say a word or two on this resolution. Speaking about this subject the charge was made not very long ago that had I not been a candidate for Speaker of this House there would never have been any investigation. I want to apologize to my friends in this House for being a candidate. Had I known that such would be the case I do not believe I would have lent myself to be a candidate. Be that as it may, I am opposed to this resolution, in the first place, because it is absolutely narrow, unutterably small, unspeakably little and does not appeal to my sense of justice. I believe if we want to do anything we ought to do it in a calm, dignified manner, specifically presenting the charges against the person, naming him and quoting the authority, and bring it before the courts, and let us strike it out in an honorable gentlemanly way.

But let me warn the members of this House if this resolution is passed and should be signed, it will spell the death knell of the Republican organization in this State. It reminds me very much of the can of nitroglycerine that is placed upon the wagon with no springs. We are all on it, all the majority members are on the Republican wagon and one faction is attempting to blow the other faction up But let me remind you, that you will all be blown up, and an independent Governor, or a Democratic Governor will grace this State and rob the smaller men of the positions they are now enjoying, because we are bringing into this a factional fight that should not be here. We represent no particular party when we are upon this floor, and I challenge any man to claim that I represent any particular faction. I am working for the welfare of the State. True we worked for humanitarian legislation in the last session. If that has been the basic cause of this resolution I want to say "Amen" and I intend to fight against it, because I believe it is absolutely unfair that we should at this time support it. With that in view, Mr. Speaker, I would therefore move you that this resolution be dropped from the calendar.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, ———

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stern.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that there is a motion before the House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has recognized the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stern..,

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I made the motion before you had recognized the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. I do not like to state to the House why I recognized the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stern, but I feel ———

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker I withdraw my motion at this time.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I want to take a few minutes and I am going to state some facts that will probably gratify the curiosity of my friend from Montgomery County. I am going to make some specific charges for his benefit, and for the benefit of such others who are here and may want to know. In the first place in answer to my friend from Philadelphia, who stated that this contest arose and this resolution was brought into the House and is now before you, because of the last Speakership fight, let me say to you, and the past records of Pennsylvania's political history will bear me out, that the contest arose some time last spring when His Excellency had the audacity to become a candidate for the Presidency of the United State. He at that time came forward as the foremost citizen of this country and stepped out from the State capitol of Pennsylvania to become a figure in the national politics of the United States. Then we arose to fight him, and then, gentlemen of the House, I went from highway to highway, from hall and school, and every place where there was a platform in Philadelphia, and I then and there said, "gentlemen of this district, voters of Philadelphia, this man is not fit to be President of the United States, he is not even fit to be Governor of Pennsylvania. I will ask him some questions. I am a member of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania."

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stern, admit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STERN. When I am through, Mr. Speaker, I will answer anything the gentleman wants to know.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I will ask him all right.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it was stated in that campaign, when his Excellency was a candidate for the presidency, that a certain man in Pittsburgh, whose name is Oliver, and there is no secret about it, gave him a thousand dollars towards his campaign expenses. It was stated that he was on a railroad train when he received that money and he said to the man alongside of him: "Look at this. Isn't this the knd if men to have send your campaign expenses?" That was stated in every newspaper in Pennsylvania. He never answered that, he never even found the letter that accompanied the check. It was then stated further that another man in Philadelphia gave him five thousand dollars for campaign purposes. It was stated where that money was borrowed, it was stated who it was borrowed from, when and where it was borrowed, and how it was used. He never answered that. The only answer I have ever heard to any of those charges was one answer made by a certain gentleman who said, "I have confidence in the Governor and he never abused my confidence." And the Governor said, "I have confidence in this gentleman who loaned me the money." A couple of confidences.

And now, gentlemen, in the last session of the House, and I defy any man on any side of factional politics to deny what I am going to say, I was with Governor Brumbaugh on every legitimate proposition that he put forward and that he stood sponsor for. I voted for the child labor bill, I voted for the Workmen's Compensation. I believe I even talked for it on the floor of this House. The only thing in which I was against the Governor in 1915 was on the question of local option, and the reason I was against him on that I will tell you right now. I did not make a speech on the local option question. With me it was a question of the Governor's insincerity. He was a candidate on the ticket known as the Personal Liberty ticket. That ticket was composed of liquor dealers and liquor interests. I do not know any of them. I dare him to contradict that he was nominated on that Personal Liberty ticket and it was called to his attention that the liquor interests were behind that nomination by several reverend gentlemen in Pennsylvania. They told him about it and they said to him, "Doctor, you cannot run on this ticket. It is a liquor ticket." He said: "O well, we will see to that," and he did see to it. I will tell you what he did. He waited until it was a day too late and then he withdrew from that nomination. He then wrote a letter declining the nomination. That is what he did. After he got the votes and they were all counted for him. Everybody in this House knows that on that question he was insincere. There are other things that he could have gotten and could have passed his bills. everybody knows that, but he did not go far enough. He was not sincere enough.

But the Republican party—I believe I am as good a Republican as ever lived. I voted the straight Republican ticket every time I went to the polls and didn't care who was on the ticket. But let me tell you I am a Pennsylvanian before I am a Republican, and so far as I am concerned, if it is the last word I ever uttered, I would rather see a decent Democratic Governor in Pennsylvania than a rotten Republican Governor. That is the kind of a Pennsylvanian I believe I am. I believe the thing to do is to take this matter up and we will feel better for it. Let us take it up and get rid of it and purge Pennsylvania of all this unholiness or this so-called Godliness that goes stalking around under the guise and pretense of being really sincere and honest. I don't care what a man says or what pretense he makes as long as the man is honest and believes in what he says, as long as he has the courage of his convictions. But, Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, when we take a proposition of this kind, a man the metal this Governor is made of—he is a reverened minister of the gospel in the first place, holier than thou in the second place, and God Almighty of Pennsylvania in the third place—we expect something from a Governor of that kind. You don't expect him to be traveling around all over the United States and having the State of Pennsylvania paying his caddy fees, paying for the golf balls he uses, and the hotel bills for a thousand people or a hundred people, or whatever the number may be,—we do not expect him to be so cheap as to have his pants creased at the expense of the state. You expect him to be big, to be honest. But just one other word about the Governor of Pennsylvania,—and I would like you to bear in mind as I go through with this resolution that it does not attack the Governor of Pennsylvania. I am in favor of this resolution. It does not attack anybody, but for God's sake let us investigate and find out what is true.

The only reason I am speaking on the question ———

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman states that this resolution is not condemning the Governor, and I think the gentleman should talk on the resolution and not on the Governor.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will resume.

Mr. STERN. In response to the applause from the gallery, I will talk on the resolution. The resolution charges bribery and by the way perjury too. I do not know whether it is true or not, and would be the last man to condemn a person for it, and if he told me on his word of honor that it was not true, I would believe him. But let us have a commission to properly investigate it. It charges bribery in the last speakership fight. It does not mention the speakership fight, but it speaks of bribery and charges were made. I know of two jobs that two men got for their votes in the speakership fight. They did not get the jobs themselves, but in one case a man's brother got the ob and in another case the man's son got the job. Both of these men were known to be allied with one of the factions, but after the jobs showed up they were allied with the other faction. Further than that, both of these jobs are in the Insurance Commissioner's Department. Heads were lopped off. Men in the employ of the State for years and who rendered efficient services were suddenly found to be unfit and incompetent. The Banking Commissioner was discharged. A new insurance Commissioner was put in and a new Superintendent of Printing. Now, gentlemen of the House, I hope that you have found in the few words that I have tried to put before you something specific, some real reason, some honest cause, some idea, something that is big and real, why we should investigate. I want to say in closing that I hope it isn't true, but let us investigate and find out and purge the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia allow himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman, and I will read it, so as to get it correct: What was the answer of the Republican voters after you attacked the Governor of Pennsylvania while he was a candidate for President?

Mr. STERN. The Republicans re-elected me to the House of Representatives, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, to those of us who are referred to as being on the other side of the chamber, this has all been very interesting. I tell you frankly, Mr. Speaker and my colleagues in this House, that I was entirely undecided as to what my course on this resolution should be until this very morning. I have had read to me the statements of the public press of this State, and Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of this House, if there is any body of gentlemen for which I entertain the highest regard it is the newspaper men—those men who furnish the news. I have been connected with newspaper men in my life, and although they are called falsifiers by people throughout the country, I feel that in a case like this they would not make such statements unless they were able to back them up. Mr. Speaker, we offered here in the beginning of this session a resolution in which we asked for a sweeping investigation. That resolution was defeated. I have no fault to find, it is a dead issue. We believed that at that time the resolution should have been passed. This resolution came along, and we endeavored to have that resolution amended on the floor of this House, but we found to our surprise and consternation that the gentlemen opposing this resolution by their vote declared the amendments unconstitutional and swept away the last chance we had for a sweeping investigation. Mr. Speaker, if they had voted with us this morning there is no question that the resolution would have been jammed through this House in accordance with their own wishes and desires, which is the one we should have in the place of this one. I believe there is not a man in the House who would not be for an investigation, but if he feels as was suggested that it should be a two-sided investigation, in what way are we as Democrats to know where this investigation is going to lead.

There is nothing in this resolution—there is nothing on the statute books that forces us to remain silent if there is anything that they can bring out to reflect upon the investigators. And we have a right to investigate and are in favor of this resolution. What care I for this factional quarrel? What care I for this garbage question? What care we what faction dominates the Republican party in Pennsylvania? You never heard me referred to as a factionalist by any man or that I ever took the floor of the House and said anything that tinged of factionalism; there has never been any factionalism traced to me. I voted for the Governor's progressive measures, including his Local Option Bill. I am here because I am sincere in this amendment. We want an investigation and we Democrats cannot positively vote against this resolution without having it come back to us as a boomerang in the future. What excuse could I give back home by returning there and saying, "Oh, this is going to be a one-sided matter." The people at home know that there is no law that restrains those who are to be investigated from playing on the other side. We cannot say we tried to have an investigation; we made an honest effort. I charge the forces that are now controlling the administration as having balked that move and I sincerely trust that this resolution will pass. It matters not to me whether His Excellency signs this resolution when it is passed or not, I contend that it is my duty now and here at this moment to say that charges have been made and they ought to be investigated. Why, how can we explain to our constituents back home unless we ask and insist upon an investigation as a result of these charges. They asked me every day now, "Is it true that they do these things up there at Harrisburg?" I say, "I don't know whether it is or not. There are such charges; they have been made, such charges have been made and hinted at." Then they say, "Why don't you fellows get to the bottom of it and find out." There is no help for me or for any other man in this House who has an honest constituency, not to insist upon this investigation. I would be a mighty bad move for any of us to say there shall be no investigation. What have we to fear as Pennsylvanians? Why cannot we clean out or investigate these charges? We hear these charges and know that they are made and if the charges are not true then this investigation will give a stronger power, a more dominating influence to those men who are beng investigated. I desire to say this: That I have no knowledge of anything but what has been read to me of this resolution, or that any man has made charges to bring about this investigation and to urge this commission to investigate these charges. This is how I find it: How can any man draw up a resolution charging me or you or anybody else connected with this resolution with some offense unless he is positive that some offense has been committed? This man don't pretend to know everything; these charges don't pretend to be complete. They have never started out on that basis. We, as Democrats, dare not balk at that. We cannot stand in the light. They say these charges are biased; that they are one-sided and we say again there is nothing in the world, no matter what takes place, there is nothing to restrain the other side, if there are two sides, from going ahead voluntarily and giving the other side the story. What happens next, I would not like to say. We don't care who succeeds. We are not talking politics; we are talking Pennsylvania affairs. constituency, not to insist upon this investigation. It would Democrats on this side of the House will agree with me, that if there is an honest endeavor to investigate these charges that we would certainly stand in a very bad light and would be found wanting if we were to say now that these charges should not be placed into the hands of a commission. I ask, in conclusion, that all my colleagues will go along and support this resolution, that we may stand here, not only in our own party, but with the people of Pennsylvania as being sincere. Permit me to assure you that even in the Democratic strongholds of this state, they want this resolution and even down in my district they want this resolution and that is a district that has always stood for Governor Brumbaugh.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, now that we are intelligently informed about this resolution and are prepared to vote upon it, I move you, Sir, the previous question.

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. Speaker, I second the call.

The SPEAKER. The previous question has been called for.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1917 — 122nd of the General Assembly

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 14. 1917. No. 12.

SENATE.

WEDNESDAY, February 14, 1917.

The Senate met at 10 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. E. E. Beidleman) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

Rabbi Louis J. Haas, of Harrisburg, offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, Thou Who art the source of all good and blessing, the fountainhead of wisdom and knowledge, we invoke Thy blessings upon this day's proceedings of this legislative assembly. We invoke Thy blessing upon the men who have gathered here from the various sections of this State to deliverate on and consider matters of most vital concern and interest to its citizens. May these deliberations tend to the uplift and advancement, material, intellectual and spiritual, of the men, women and children who are abiding within the confines of our State, whether they dwell in the smallest hamlet or in the most populous city.

Impress upon the members of this body the extreme responsibility which rests upon their shoulders, the sacred and bounden duty and obligation which devolves upon them; cause them to realize that in their hands, to a considerable extent, lies the destiny, yea the future, as well as the present, welfare and development of this Commonwealth. Imbue them with Thy spirit, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of knowledge and truth, of counsel and true statesmanship, of fear and trust in Thee.

At this critical period, a period fraught with momentous consideration and consequence, verily a time that is trying men's minds, hearts and souls, we are especially in need of Thy guiding hand and assistance, Thy protection and guidance. Cause us to rise to the supreme need of the hour, to prove ourselves broad minded, clear visioned and noble hearted. It is a time for sane deliberation and not for hasty action. Teach us so to act that it will redound not only to the glory of the legislative districts which the members of this Senate Chamber represent, not alone to the elevation and uplift of the Keystone State, in which we are so happy and proud to dwell, but to the glory and edification of these United States of America, of which each citizen is an integral and essential factor.

Send down Thy blessings, oh Heavenly Father, upon the members of this Senate Chamber, upon their wives and families, and all those near and dear to them, the citizens of our State and citizens of our country; may their efforts, the efforts of the members of this Senate Chamber, lead to a bigger, nobler, greater and better Pennsylvania, now and forevermore. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. SONES, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to present a communication from His Excellency, the President of the United States.

The communication was read as follows:

The White House.

Washington, February 13, 1917.

My dear Mr. Garvin: The President asks me to make cordial acknowledgment of the copy of the resolution adopted by the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, which you were good enough to send him, and to assure you and everyone concerned that he genuinely appreciates this generous pledge of support.

With an expression of the President's grateful thanks, I am,

Sincerely yours,

W. TUMULTY,
Secretary to the President.

Hon. Thomas H. Garvin,
Chief Clerk, House of Representatives,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

SENATE BILL NO. 1 MADE SPECIAL ORDER.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I move you that House Bill No. 326 (Senate Bill No. 1) be made a special order of business for 11.30 A. M. to-day.

Mr. CONNOR. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

GRANTING THE USE OF THE HALL OF THE HOUSE.

Mr. RAMSEY asked and received unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to.

Resolved, That the use of the Hall of the House of Representatives be given to the Pennsylvania State Association of Boroughs for Wednesday evening, February 14th, at eight o'clock.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Mr. WHITAKER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask unanimous consent to consider a bill out of place at this time. The bill is on the third page of the calendar, House Bill No. 54. It is a joint resolution providing for the appropriation of $35,000 for the expenses of the National Guard at the Inauguration. The Adjutant General tells me that if this appropriation is to be available in time to send the National Guard to the Inauguration that the bill will have to be passed by the House to-day in order to get it through in time, and I ask unanimous consent to consider it now for that reason.

The SPEAKER. Is there any objection? The Chair hears none.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 54, entitled

A Joint Resolution to provide for the participation by the National Guard of Pennsylvania in the inaugural ceremonies incident to the inauguration of Woodrow Wilson President-elect of the United States to be held in the City of Washington District of Columbia March fifth one thousand nine hundred and seventeen and making an appropriation to pay the expenses of the Governor and Staff and of a provisional brigade selected for that purpose

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration or House Bill No. 69, entitled

An Act fixing the compensation of employes in the Department of Banking.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have some information on this bill from the sponsor thereof.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Shattuck, will probably give the gentleman from Philadelphia the information desired.

Mr. SHATTUCK. Mr. Speaker, I will be glad to give the information which the gentleman from Philadelphia asks. This bill is to increase the salary of the Chief Clerk of the Banking Department from $1800 to $2,000 a year; of four clerks who are receiving $1400 to $1600; of three stenographers from $1,000 to $1200 a year; and one messenger from $1200 to $1400; making a total addition to the salaries for the year of $1800. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, the salaries in this Department have not been advanced for at least ten or twelve years. The work that is thrown into their department at this time is more than five times what it was ten years ago. They have only added to that force one clerk and one stenographer, and all that is asked is an advance of two hundred dollars a year or sixteen dollars a month and, owing to the high cost of living, I believe they should have it.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1, as follows:

An Act making an appropriation to the State Highway Department and providing for the construction and improvement of part of a certain State highway located in the County of Armstrong

Whereas The State Highway Department by an agreement wtih the county commissioners of Armstrong County and the supervisors of certain of the townships in such county agreed to build a part of the State Highway route numbered two hundred and three located as hereinafter described which State highway was to be constructed and improved in the method provided by existing law for the construction and improvement of State highways in the same manner as State-aid highways and

Whereas Subsequent to such agreement it was held in an opinion of the Attorney General that the construction and improvement of all State highways constructed and improved in the same manner as State-aid highways must be paid for from funds appropriated for the construction and improvement of State highways and

Whereas Under the above mentioned agreement it was the intention of the State Highway Department to construct and improve said road from funds appropriated for State-aid highway purposes and at that time available for State-aid highway purposes in the County of Armstrong and

Whereas Owing to the defect in the law and the inability of the State Highway Department to use said funds then available from Armstrong County for the construction and improvement of said particular State highway said agreement between the County of Armstrong and the township authorities and the State of Pennsylvania has never been consummated therefore

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the sum of forty-five thousand nine hundred ninety-two dollars and ninety-one cents ($45,992,91) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to the State Highway Department for the purpose of constructing and improving that part of the State highway Route numbered two hundred and three located and running between the southern boundary of the borough of Kittanning and the northern boundary of Ford city in the County of Armstrong The amount hereinabove mentioned is appropriated from funds heretofore appropriated for State-aid highway purposes and now available for the purpose of constructing and improving State-aid highways in the County of Armstrong

Section 2 The State highway between the points designated in section one of this act shall be constructed and improved under existing laws in the same manner as a State-aid Highway Department and the County of Armstrong and the township or townships in which such road is located or by an agreement between the State Highway Department and the County of Armstrong as the case may be

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this bill possibly requires some little explanation to show to the members of this House that it is not appropriating any other money except the money due Armstrong County. We have a piece of state highway extending between the southern boundary of the county seat and the northern boundary of Ford City, a town of over five thousand inhabitants, a town in which is located the largest plate glass works in the world, and possibly one of the worst pieces of state highway in the State of Pennsylvania. For over ten years we have been promised by those in authority that this piece of road should be improved. Several times during those years the authorities have gone so far as to secure the rights of way, to draw the plans and get to the point of advertising for bids for the construction of the road. About a year ago, at the supervisors' convention of our county, when our deceased friend, Mr. Cunningham, the Highway Commissioner at that time, was asked what would be the best thing to say at that convention, the supervisors from all over the county informed him that if he could promise the construction of this road it would be the most satisfactory thing that he could say, and Mr. Cunningham gave us at that time a promise, and I believe in sincerity he intended to improve the road. The rights of way were secured, or nearly all of them, and where there was any trouble the Businessmen's Association of Armstrong County agreed to put up bond against any damages that might be incurred. The time of advertising the bids had arrived and the Attorney General of this State gave a decision that state-aid money could not be used for state highway purposes.

However, I find under the act of 1913, that the practice has been followed before throughout this state and I believe I am correctly informed that it has been since that decision has been made. The people of Armstrong County feel that they have been discriminated against in the construction of this road. The money that I ask here to be appropriated is state-aid money that is due Armstrong County which has accumulated in the last six or eight years. I have the information from the State Highway Department that they have kept this fund intact and it belongs to our county. My bill provides that it be transferred from the state-aid fund to the state highway fund for the purpose of constructing this particular piece of road. We are appropriating our own money for the purpose of constructing this much-needed road between Ford City and Kitanning. I want further to say that I believe seventy-five per cent. of the citizens of Armstrong County feel that the first piece of road that should be improved in our county is this particular road, Route No. 203, and until such time comes as we have that out of the way we cannot have any hope of building any other roads in our county.

To show that this is not a vain idea of my own, I wish to present to the members of this House a petition which was signed by the citizens who live in the immediate vicinity of this road. This petition was signed by the men whose names appear on it, thousand of them, in three days' time. Had we taken more time we could have secured more names, to show that this is not an idle fancy of mine, we could have obtained a petition that would have extended clear around the Capitol. Since that time I have received a number of additional petitions which I have in my desk. Gentlemen, of the House, I ask you kindly to support this measure.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—2.

Corbin, Snyder,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 162, entitled

An Act making an appropriation for the purpose of maintaining and preserving the public roads through the Cornplanter Indian Reservation in Elk Township Warren County Pennsylvania.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the bill pass finally?

Mr. CANON. Mr. Speaker, I should like a little information on this bill before I vote on it, as to why this money should be appropriated to a particular township or county.

Mr. SIGGINS. Mr. Speaker, this appropriation is asked for one of the few Indian Reservations that is left in Pennsylvania. This reservation lies along the river. The land contained in this reservation is not subject to taxation, and there is no revenue from it at all. It has been customary for years back for the legislature to appropriate, for the State to appropriate, to the Supervisors of Elk Township a sum of money, $200.00 per year, to be applied upon the care of these roads in this reservation, which is public land. This act which I have prepared here contains an additional provision to the previous legislation, an appropriation of $500.00 per year. This is included for this reason: That Corn Planter Run, which is a small run which runs through the reservation, overflows every year and destroys the work which the supervisors have perviously done on the road. That is the reason for the increased appropriation. The measure is simply the same appropriation that is made by this legislature every two years. If I have not made it entirely clear I will be glad to do so.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

SPECIAL ORDER.

The SPEAKER. The hour of 11.30 A. M. having arrived, the House will proceed to the special order of business set for that hour.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 326 (Senate Bill No. 1), entitled

A Joint Resolution providing for the appointment of a commtitee to investigate alleged mal-administration in public office and making an appropriation therefor.

And the said bill having been read at length three times on three separate days, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, last December while I was still teaching school two of my boys happened to get into a scrap on the way from school. My attention was called to the matter and the next morning, after the opening exercises, I called them up to the desk. The testimony ran something like this: The one boy said to the other boy, "You took my leadpencils." The other boy hurled back, "You are a liar." And the other boy returned with, "You lie when you call me a liar." I stopped the testimony then and there and sent them back to their seats with this admonition: I said, "Boys, take your seats, and study your lessons; you have a bright future before you because some day you will be the Republican leaders of the State of Pennsylvania."

After I listened to all this discussion and to all this mud-slinging here on the floor of this House yesterday afternoon, I concluded that I had been right with the boys and that I was a prophet without knowing it. Now, so far as the bill is concerned, inasmuch as I have made several efforts to get a different kind of investigation from what this joint resolution proposes, I deem it my duty at this time to explain my vote and the vote of a large number of the minority on this measure to-day. In the first place these charges began to be hurled back and forth about three or four weeks prior to the organization of this House. The newspapers were full of it. It was printed in every corner of the State and people read these charges and they studied over them and discussed them in every blacksmith shop and village store and every club and any other place where people congregate—this was one of the political subjects that was being discussed. and we felt, as members of the minority, that the people demanded and were entitled to know what the facts in the case were. In pursuance of that view the Democratic committee drew up a resolution which I introduced here on the first day of this session. After a few weeks' recess that was voted down by the House. Another resolution—this same resolution—was introduced that same night in the Senate. It finally, after a little delay over there, came over to this House. We tried to amend it so as to conform with our original idea of what we felt was the fair and honest and impartial invesigation.

I have tried to play this game impartially and fairly. I have tried to give to these people of Pennsylvania the best kind of an investigation that it was possible to give to them, according to my view and influence. Having failed in that, having both the amendment and the original resolution voted down by the joint vote of these factions, with some exceptions, I now deem that it is my duty to support this resolution as it is. I believe that we should give to the people all the light that we can possibly give them upon this question. I think that half an investigation is better than none at all. Now, this resolution, if passed, and if signed by the Governor will do two things: It will force the hand of Senator Penrose either to take one of two steps. Either he must give an honest or a fair investigation or he may not do it; I will not say that he will not do it. I am not charging him in advance of playing a farce, but I must confess that to me the whole thing looks as if he were playing a farce, but granting to him honest motives he will now have the opportunity after the resolution is passed. if signed by the Governor, to secure a fair and honest and an impartial investigation. Should he fail to do this the people of Pennsylvania will know where the responsibility rests and they will know where to administer punishment if a farce is enacted. That is our position in this matter. As I listened to the discussion yesterday afternoon, I thought to myself, who is responsible for all this mess?—after I heard the mud-slinging and the charges. I really felt that there was too much of the personal in this discussion. It is not my purpose to throw any mud at anybody, but God knows that you men on the other side have trouble enough; I don't intend to add to it. I want to say that in my opinion, it is not so much a matter of personal guilt perhaps as it has been painted on the floor of this House. I think rather that it is the system of politics that has been played in this State, not for two years and not for four years but for twenty or forty years past. We, of the minority, have repeatedly called your attention and the attention of the people of this State to this condition of affairs. We have repeatedly called the attention of the responsible press, and the responsible press of this State has frequently called the attention of the voters of Pennsylvania to the existing conditions and the kind of politics that have been played here in this State for years. Sometimes when I have seen how the State of Pennsylvania has been subsidized through the appointment of office I am astounded. Just think of it—The present Governor of Pennsylvania came down to the City of Reading, in my county, and he delivered an address down there. It was only about two weeks after his inauguration, and among some of the statements he made, this is one of them. He said, I am astounded at the power that has been so suddenly thrust upon me. Do you know, gentlemen, I hold five thousand four hundred jobs in the hollow of my hand." You men. when one faction wins, you twist and squirm and when this pressure is put upon you, this responsibility of placing so much power in the hands of one man, is it not Senator Penrose's fault as much as anybody's, as well as to others, a lot of them, who have been responsible for this condition of affairs; who have built up this machine in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, that is without a parallel on the American continent, and you gentlemen know that this is true, that that is a condition that you have here in Pennsylvania, a political condition which has no parallel on the American continent. Just think of all the appointing power and all the pressure that can be brought and then in addition to that look at the method of making appropriations every two years. You hand out between sixty and seventy million dollars of the people's cash and perhaps thirteen to fifteen million dollars goes to charitable institutions, to hospitals. All that is handed out. You all know that you have been told, when elected the first time, they tell you then. "whatever you do don't get in wrong with the powers that be; when you go up there you want to stand with the powers, right or wrong or else you will injure the chances of an appropriation for your hospital." I really believe, however, that this is exaggerated, because I think many members use that as a sort of screen in order to explain their votes back at home, but I do know there is some truth in it, from the fact that favoritism has been shown in granting hospital appropriations. When you begin to look at all of these things and see the favoritism in connection with appropriations, and look at the immense power that is back of such an administration by its appointive offices—when you look at it do you wonder that there are still thirty-seven Democrats sitting in this House? I am sometimes astounded that it is possible with all this power back of it, the strongest organization on the American continent, that there is a single Democrat left on this side of the House and I doubt whether there would be but for one thing and that is this thing where you are now. You are caught in your own trap and you know it. The thing that is working against you now is this immense amount of patronage that creates dissension in your own ranks, in your wards of Philadelphia, in Pittsburgh and in every county in the State. they say to your leaders, "The party is in power, we want an appointment." Every political boss at home wants you to bring something to him, to your district, and unless you do your seat here is threatened in the next two years, and you know that you must deliver the goods and hand out these plums and when you do hand them out you create dissension in your own party. Were it not for this dissension feature there would not be a Democrat left in Pennsylvania, an honest Democrat, with all the administration power, with all the pull that comes with the appointive power and with the fifteen or more millions of charity money—with all that, I doubt whether there would be a single minority member sitting on the floor of this House, if it were not for these factional dissensions. This condition has been brought about by the very men who are clamoring for investigation or for aid in bringing it about. I don't believe that Governor Brumbaugh is any worse than the men who have preceded him. In some respects he is better than some of the men who have preceded him. I don't think those men at the head of the department are very bad men, but they are victims of a system that has been in vogue. They were playing politics and have been playing politics in Pennsylvania for many years, not for two years but for many years back that has been the custom. Just think of the idea of a man belonging to one faction complaining that the Governor or somebody else is playing politics. You know that that same thing has been done for the last twenty years or more. Again you know that you come with a charge saying that these men are not attending to their public duties. Instead of being at their posts of duty they are out somewhere in the State gathering votes or doing other things and neglecting the public business. That same thing has been done for years and years. We have told you so; we have told the people of the State so, and now you are only confirming here what we have been telling you for twenty years. Yesterday afternoon, almost every charge that was made was simply a confirmation of the things we have been telling you for the last twenty years. You are simply confirming, you are simply saying, that we were right when we made those charges although you denied them at the time. Now then this is the condition of affairs: The thing that ought to go out, and the thing that it is hoped this investigation will lead to is to expose the present system rather than the personnel of the men who are accused with doing these things. I think it is the damnable system that was in vogue in the City of Philadelphia and gradually grew and grew and extended its influence until to-day it reaches out to every nook and corner of this Commonwealth; and once this system is exposed, when once the people of Pennsylvania see how much power is centered in one man, and when they see all the power back of these appropriation bills, when they see all the power that is back of the powers that be in this State government, they will rise and say the whole system is fundamentally wrong and it must be correct. These men are only the victims. I take a rather charitable view of the personal end of it. Personally I have troubles enough of my own and I don't care to accuse anybody or sling mud at anybody, but I do think and say in all sincerity that the very men who are clamoring and crying out to-day for the investigation on the other side are the men who helped by their vote and their influence and by their actions during the years that are past to make these very things possible. They are the very men who helped to build up this organization whose work we now condemn.

Where did Brumbaugh get his lessons in politics? He has not been in so long—but where did he get his lesson? Where did every man who is charged with playing politics and charged with neglecting his duties, where did he get his political lesson? Where did he go to school, where is the political school in which he trained? Think of that, gentlemen and then I feel that you will not be so severe in your personal condemnation of these men but that you will begin to regard the thing more in the light of the system and you will say to yourselves, as upright, patriotic citizens of this Commonwealth this thing must stop: we are going to have an investigation; we are going to have the people look in; we are going to draw the curtain aside to show up this system in all its hideousness.

Think of the idea of any politician or anybody standing behind the sick man in the hospital and saying to you or me, you must vote for this vicious bill or I will threaten the appropriation for your sick and dying members in that hospital, your sick and dying constituent back home. Just think of the idea. And that is exactly what it means when you come to me and say that you have got to vote for this bill of you must vote for that bill or else the powers that be will decree that you cannot bring anything home to the people of your district. Think of the idea of any member being compelled, being so humiliated that he has to come here and then go back to his constituents and say, I knew it was wrong; I don't approve of it, but I had to do it in order to save my dollars and my cents, in order to secure anything for the sick and dying in my hospital bed back home. That is the damnable system that you are crying out against. Now it is pinching you. It has been pinching us for twenty years. It is pinching you only for less than two years and now you are making more noise than we made in all those twenty years. This time you are caught in your own trap. You are getting the punishment from your own machine, the same machine that you have built up; and the very machine that you have originated and brought to its present position of power is now pinching you and you squeal and you squirm and you refuse to stand for it.

As I have said, everything that has been said on the floor of this House only confirms what we, as the minority, have been telling you for years and years and you have, as a rule, denied it. Now that is the position. I am rather reluctant to vote for this bill because it is not in the form I would like to see it. Yet I do not say that necessarily this investigation must be unfair. It can be made fair and it can be conducted in a fair manner and I hope it will be so conducted and I honestly believe that if one faction or the other tries to make for one moment a scandal out of it the people back home will be watching them and they will have to answer for it when they come back to the polls and they will get the punishment they deserve; and while we have tried to get an honest investigation, we have tried to take away the possibility of an unfair investigation, as it is, it is the best we can get and we will not now be placed in the position of holding down the lid and holding down the curtain when there is a chance for the people to have a look in and to confirm the very same things which we have been telling them for twenty years.

Mr. MILNER. This resolution has been forced down the throat of the men in this Legislature until we are about to gag, and it has been forced down the throats of the people of Pennsylvania until they are ready to gag also and now is the time to cast it from us as if it was a noxious repulsive thing. Now every man in this House knows down in his heart that this resolution seeks to accomplish no good thing; that it has only one object, and that is to further the political desires of a man who is not even a member of this House. Every man knows that back home his constituents know that this resolution bears no benefit for them and that the people of Pennsylvania do not desire it. I want to say to all the members of the House who are Republicans that if you vote for this resolution you will certainly rue the day because you will be held to a strict accounting by your constituents, and you will have to account before the bar of your own conscience because you will debase your own ideals and principles of justice. In this connection I want to tell you a story that was told by Maeterlinck. There was a great man in the middle ages who accomplished great things but only after the utmost difficulty. He seemed to achieve great things and to accomplish them but only after obstacles placed in his way by some unseen enemy, and he vowed at the end of his life that if he ever met his unseen enemy, his life long foe, he would certainly kill him; and one day he was walking along a country road and a stranger approached with a mask over his face, and the great man knew by that intuition that warns us of danger that his life long enemy drew near to him. When the man came near he said, draw your sword and defend yourself for I mean to kill you. The stranger drew his sword and said, I am at your service; but first see whom you would kill; and he drew the mask and lo the great man stood before himself. And I say to you, the Republican Party, that you stand before yourselves to-day as your own worst enemy.

Now my warning is borne home to you in the cry of triumph that rises from the gentleman from Berks County and you can see that reflected in the smile and glee that went over the faces of the Democratic members when the members of the Republican Party voted for this resolution yesterday. This resolution, gentlemen, violates every principal of Anglo Saxon justice. It violates every American principal. We know that for hundreds of years the ideas of how men should be tried and investigated have been crystallizing. The Anglo Saxon thought is very well crystallized upon how a man should be brought to justice.

We know in our own hearts what this practice was and we can best tell whether they are fair or whether they are not fair. This resolution is an indictment that names no one. Every Anglo Saxon indictment names the party; it specifies no dates, no places, it gives no specific crimes, but merely is a list of generic of crimes and offenses. It provides for a packed jury something that is repugnant to every Anglo Saxon's mind, where we are used to an impartial and a fair jury; it provides for a jury of the accusers. Now gentlemen the men whose names have been mentioned in the public press, the responsible public press, do not fear investigation, do not fear prosecution, if it is conducted according to the ideal of American justice, and Anglo Saxon justice, but they do not, and no man here would care to be tried by a packed jury, where a man can perjure himself without bringing him to the bar of justice, and bear false witness against his neighbor.

Now gentlemen we know that this man who is advocating this measure is guided by partisan motives, I want to refer to the remarks of gentleman my colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Beyer, who in the newspaper is heralded as the leader of the Penrose-McNichol party in this House. In this speech in the early part of this session on the resolution presented by the Democratic party which contained substantially the same charges as this resolution is based upon, made the following statement, I am reading from the Legislative House Journal, page 38. "It is equally true men sometimes talk loosely and make charges in a general manner against those in public office that at times have not the slightest right to do so. If any man thus transgresses he is, under the laws of our State, answerable to the proper courts for the injury that he has done to any such person wrongfully assailed." Does it not seem peculiar that his idea on that matter has now changed. Again he says on the same page, "Are we here to play politics, or are we here to legislate for the people of Pennsylvania?" We agree with him in his first statement, because first ideas, are the best ones, that we are here to legislate for the people of Pennsylvania. Again he says, "Our policy as members of a legislative body, is to enact laws for the benefit of the people and like wise to call to task those who may be remiss in their performance of public duty and bring them to the bar of public opinion. That is done by impeachment proceedings, where you have the evidence, where you have a reasonable suspicion of it, which justifies an investigation. We may well inquire now why he does not ask for the impeachment proceeding but asks for this resolution to be passed. Again he says on the same page. "I ask your attention, gentlemen, just for a few moments to some of the glaring charges which are made here, evidently based entirely on hearsay, based entirely upon reading in the public press without any foundation to substantiate them and absolutely unworthy of the consideration of a legislative body." And again. "If any man in this chamber or outside of it has any evidence of any member of this House having been solicited by means of bribery or other foul means to do anything other than his plain duty as a member of the State Legislature, then let him produce the facts and let those facts be laid before a proper committee with power to act, with power to summon witnesses, and compel obedience to its mandate, and then we will have something listening to and not a lot of ragtime talk which we hear on the outside." "If you have charges to prefer which ought to be investigated give the committee you ask to be appointed some light to guide them to tell in what portion to start their investigation." And so I might go on reading his speech, citing authorities—the case of McDonald vs. Keeler in 99 New York reports page 463, to sustain our position here that "An investigation instituted for the mere sake of investigating or for political purposes connected with intended legislation, or with any of the matters upon which the House could act, but merely intended to subject the body or party investigated to animadversion or to vindicate him or it from unjust oppression, where the legislature has no right to put him, or it on trial for mere supposed offenses, and no legislation was contemplated, the proceedings must necessarily end with the investigation and would not in the judgement of the courts be a legislative proceeding." We might go on and read this whole speech and make it a speech against this resolution. What has caused this change of mind, what has made this leader change about face? He has gotten his instructions from a political leader, and I want to say to you gentlemen, and Mr. Speaker, I do not propose to vote for this resolution because I do not think it is decent, because I do not think it is just, because it does not square itself with the ideas of American justice and Anglo Saxon principles, and because I know that it is actuated by insincere factional purposes because it will not do one bit of good for the people of this Commonwealth. I believe that we should have ideals, I believe this legislature is not above having ideals. True they may seem to be as Carl Schurz, says "Our ideals are like stars. You will not succeed in touching them with your hands but like the sea faring man on the desert waters, you choose them as your guide and following them you reach your destiny.

Now we men of the House of Representatives can choose the proper guides to guide us. We can choose the right principles and they should be principles which are dear to us. The heritage which the American people had left them by their Anglo-Saxon forefathers, they are a fair trial, fair play and a square deal. I for one do not intend to be a pawn for Senator Penrose to move about his checker-board and when it has served its purpose that that power shall be shoved back into the closet again. I am going to vote against this resolution, because I think it is entirely unfair to the men whose names have been charged with these offenses in the newspapers.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of House, I have always refused to take any part in any petty partisan politics. I have always refused to be drawn to these acrimonious controversies. But this action is extraordinary and this high handed iniquitous procedure challenges recognition. The fair name of one of Pennsylvania's, one of America's noblest and best citizens has been besmirched and blackened by corrupt politics. The State of Pennsylvania has been dragged down in disgrace and shame. Every man in this House will admit that this procedure is unfair. The learned gentleman from Luzerne specifically stated that, and I propose to support it. I feel therefore that under these circumstances it is the duty of every loyal patriotic citizen to speak out, and speak out frankly and fearlessly. I feel that under these circumstances silence would be akin to crime.

One day when I was a little boy I was hurrying along the highway. A pretty little animal jumped out before me and dashed out towards some rocks. It had a rich black lustrous fur, had a gorgeous yellow streak along its back. Immediately I gave chase, but in a moment when I got a whiff of its odor and the chase ceased. We are told by experts that when a dog is so unfortunate as to get some of that abominable affluvia upon its nose he will rub and rub until it has rubbed the skin off and its nose will bleed. We are told it will sicken people in a house with the windows tightly closed. A skunk is a skunk, and you can always tell it by its odor.

I know not, I have no means of knowing, what kind of people assembled at Atlantic City, but I do know this, that it has many of the differentiating characteristics. The atmosphere of the state has been so corrupted and so polluted by this horrible petard that it smells to high heaven, it has blackened the skies. It has sickened the people of the State of Pennsylvania. On this question now they tell us in their preamble that it has been brought here by or on account of the claims made by the reputable newspapers. They tell us this was on that account, and that solely; but an examination of the situation will prove clearly that that cannot be true. There was absolutely no demand made by the reputable enwspapers until after this disreputable meeting at Atlantic City, and then we had different interviews from different people who were there, and that started the demand, and that is the only demand we have, the only demand we have as yet. It was stated by the ingenious gentleman from Philadelphia yesterday that he had traveled back and forth in Philadelphia from schoolhouse to meetinghouse and that was the first he heard of it, but we in Western Pennsylvania never heard of that. The vote in Philadelphia seems to indicate that it was not believed in Philadelphia, and more than that, it is very probable that although he traveled back and forth he does not have one petition from one of his constituents asking him to advocate this particular thing. Where did it come from then? I think we have on examination conclusive evidence as to its origin. We had a few weeks ago gentlemen begging us to vote against a particular bill introduced by the Democrats. In that bill it provided that others beside the Governor should be investigated. They begged of us to vote against it, but, Thank God, I didn't do that, I voted for it because it was a fair investigation. He begged of us to vote against that until Penrose was eliminated, and now we hear that same gentleman asking us to vote for this bill. Then he said, "We don't mean these assertions"; now he says, "They are true. Vote for it." And as to their other assertion, it seems to me we have the scenery that is shown in the Merchant of Venice. They don't want this money returned, they don't want this situation rectified, but they want their pound of flesh and they want to cut it from near the heart of Governor Brumbaugh. They want his reputation, they want his life. Why, then, what is the motive for this bill? We have again another premise which I think we will all agree upon, and that is this: This bill would never have been presented had Governor Brumbaugh gone along with the gang. If he had obeyed the commands of the boss, would he now be persecuted and prosecuted? I believe that this bill as introduced is nothing more than a punishment, nothing more than spite and hate and revenge. Now then, I am opposed to this bill, first, because it is unfair. "Let us be fair" has been the slogan of this assembly from its very beginning, and yet the very first crack out of the box we get is the dirtiest, rottenest deal that could be pulled in this House in the seating of the members, and I say to you that must have received the smiling approval of the majority because there has been no effort whatever to rectify it. If then, Governor Brumbaugh is to be tried by those standards, God pity him. "Let us be fair" has been dinned in our ears all along the way. "Let us be fair" has been shouted from the housetop. "Let us be fair" has been advertised as our watchword in the newspapers, and yet you know and I know and every citizen of the State of Pennsylvania knows that a Penrose picked and a Penrose packed and a Penrose bossed committee will give him no more show than would a child have in a pack of hungry hyenas. Yea more, he would have no more show than did the Apostle Paul at Lystra, no more show than our Saviour had at the hands of the hungry mob at Jerusalem. As I heard the gentlemen argue yesterday, the picture came to my mind of that scene when the mob was given a chance to free Barabas or our Saviour, and they selected Barabas, and now when Barabas is eliminated, when Penrose is eliminated, they turn around to us and say, "Support this bill and let us have the investigation." It does seem to me that we ought to quit playing politics, quit this unfair business, and get down to work. Now then, in conclusion, what is the object to be attained here? If you want a man punished, you have the remedy of the courts, and it won't cost twenty-five thousand dollars. If they want to impeach Governor Brumbaugh, they don't have to do that. We know all the facts now; they have been recited here, and they seem to be a certain check and some expenditures, nothing more. We know those facts now, so what is the use of spending twenty-five thousand dollars. Nay more, what is the use of delaying and delaying here until day after day we are spending the money of the State? We are told it costs fourteen hundred dollars a day just for servants in this House. and yet we have done nothing, and we have been here six or seven weeks. Why delay? A proposition of this kind is costing the state at least a hundred thousand dollars in order to investigate something with reference to the purchase of a collar button and the pressing of the Governor's pants.

Why spend that amount of money when we have another remedy? But finally the thing that appeals to me very strongly is this: The United States Congress sets aside twenty-five thousand dollars for the President of the United States in the same way and he spends it in the same way and in the same manner. If Senator Penrose is so anxious for an investigation why has he voted each year for that particular expenditure. Nay, more: For years and years he had employed for him, but I believe it is changed now, he had employed for him a clerk in the same way. But let us come nearer home. The sponsor of this bill and his companions have received each year, in the same manner, and in the same form, stamps first, What else? A box containing brushes, a silver match safe, a cork screw, amounting up in value to from thirty to forty dollars. What else? A whole arm full of paper, and I say to you that if this was wrong for the Governor to spend that money as he spent it, it is just as criminal and just as wrong for these men to spend that money and to take those particular things that they have been taking. Nay more, there is a difference and that is this: By the action of his predecessors, by the rulings of the different Attorney Generals the Governor was led to believe that it was right and that he could lawfully and legally use that money, but here we have the sponsor of the bill and all his co-workers in that time and they knew it was wrong and illegal and now they come along and persecute and prosecute the Governor when they have been guilty of the same thing, knowing that it was wrong, knowing that it was illegal. Which one do you believe is the more guilty? Which one think you is the greater criminal? There is another difference too that might be mentioned here and that is this: It is true that the Governor got fifteen thousand dollars while these men only got a box worth thirty or forty dollars. It is only a manner of a man's price; they are cheaper. Now, Mr. Speaker, it does seem to me that everyone will agree that this bill is unfair and that it does not pretend to be fair. Gentlemen of the House, let us rise above this malice, this spite, this hate. Let us rise above playing petty partisan politics, and let us try to do something for the good of the State. Let us be men.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, I wish to assure you that I have not any delusions about being able, by anything I say, to change a single vote on this resolution. I was disabused of that delusion yesterday. I am not rising to debate this question because I expect to change any votes, but I rise to say what is in my mind—what I have been thinking about. Mr. Speaker, neither am I on the floor to resent the fact because I have a seat in the Cherokee Strip of this House; distance lends enchantment to the view. While I may have some trouble in recognizing you, Mr. Chairman, and you may have some trouble in recognizing me, we will, nevertheless, become acquainted after a while. Then it is quite convenient for my friends to come up from the rotunda and tap me on the shoulder and I take my feet off the railing and we proceed to do business. I am sincere, Mr. Speaker, when I said that anything that occurred in the fight for the Speakership of this House, did not cause one scintilla of resentment in me. I knew when I voted for Mr. Cox for Speaker in the Caucus that I would receive a back seat and I say to the Speaker and gentlemen of the House that I would prefer to have a back seat in the House and a front seat in Jefferson County.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is out of order; he is not discussing the resolution.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, it is not my purpose to discuss this resolution in a personal sense nor to reflect upon the sincerity of any member of this House, whether he is for or against it. This resolution or the substance of it has been discussed by the people of Pennsylvania and by the press of Pennsylvania and by the Senate, and this House on two other occasions, and I think I may fairly assume that every man here is familiar with it and whatever action is taken here to-day has been already molded. We are influenced by public opinion. Mr. Speaker, this resolution accuses certain public officials of malfeasance in office, which is a serious crime. I am unable to determine from the resolution who these public officials are. This resolution lacks all the elements as to certainty required in a presentment to a grand jury. I dare say, Mr. Speaker, if it were presented to a grand jury in any of the courts of Pennsylvania it would receive no consideration whatever. When a citizen of this Commonwealth is accused of crime, he is entitled to know who his accusers are and he is entitled to know the facts upon which the accusation is based. It makes no difference whether it is a misdemeanor or a felony; it makes no difference whether it is a charge of assault and battery of murder or whether the man accused is a citizen of high repute or a criminal of the lowest class; he is entitled to a fair trial and a just verdict. The jury must consist of twelve competent, disinterested impartial men and not of kin or dependence upon either parties and free from all bias or from any favor from either of the parties. In criminal cases the accused can either waive his right to a trial by jury—a jury of twelve competent, disinterested and unbiased men, nor can the Legislature of Pennsylvania, deprive him of that right. Mr. Speaker, in the selection of that jury to try him, he is given just as many challenges as the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. After that jury is selected every precaution is taken that the jury may not be influenced by the bias of anyone else and any attempt to influence that jury is a reason for setting the verdict aside, for a new trial and the jury is sworn and under guard. The jury is sworn and under guard; and anciently, Mr. Speaker, if the jury ate or drank, before or after they agreed on their verdict they were fined, with this difference: If they ate at their own charge the verdict stood, but if they ate at the charge of either of the parties then it was set aside; and this precaution, extreme as it may seem, is the law of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to-day. The jury is fed by the county, under the guard of a sworn officer of the court, and any attempt to influence them is cause for setting aside the veridct of a jury. Now, Mr. Speaker, even in road views in Pennsylvania, the road viewers appointed to view roads cannot, under the law of this Commonwealth, accept entertainment of anybody interested in the road to be viewed. The law is so jealous of the rights of men and their liberties and so convinced, Mr. Speaker, of the weakness of men, that it has taken every precaution to insure the accused and all parties a fair trial and a just verdict, so that no guilty man may escape and no innocent man be punished.

Mr. Speaker, this resolution violates every established precedent for the trial of men accused of crime. It alleges that certain public officials have violated the law. Who are these public officials? What are the facts upon which the accusation.—the Commission is to investigate? This is a violent piece of legislation and abuse of force, that force which is employed against common right, against the law and against public liberty. Abraham Lincoln said during his speech:

"Our reliance is in the love of liberty which God has planted in us. Our defense is in the spirit which prizes liberty as the heritage of all men, in all lands everywhere. Destroy this spirit and you have planted the seeds of despotism at your own doors. Familiarize yourselves with the chains of bondage, and you prepare your own limbs to wear them."

While this resolution, Mr. Speaker, names no offenders we are told that it refers to His Excellency, Governor Brumbaugh, and to the heads of his departments and their employes. Pennsylvania is a kingdom. Eight millions of people are proud to be numbered as its citizens and to be called Pennsylvanians. Some of those men, gentlemen of the House may have gone astray, and I am not here to defend them, but I wish to assure this House that I am not here to condemn them. There are too many good things to be said of Pennsylvania and its people to waste our energies in slandering the few who have violated our confidence. Who of us claim to be a righteous judge. Many centuries ago a woman was accused of being a sinner and a righteous judge came along and said "Let him that is without sin cast the first stone;" and there is no record, gentlemen of the House, of any stone being cast; and I venture to suggest that if the same righteous judge were to pass to-day and put us to the same test we would not be able to see a stone pile in ten years.

Why not sound the praises of your public servants and public officials. Would it not be creditable? Would it not be better to tell the people of Pennsylvania of the services rendered the State by its senior Senator from Pennsylvania rather than the things he has left undone.

Have we forgotten, gentlemen of this House, of his attack on the boss politician of Pennsylvania when as a young man he occupied a seat in this honorable body? Is he not now, gentleman of this House, in the year of our Lord 1917 preparing a program of reform for our consideration and approval that will cause the most radical of us to hesitate?

Martin G. Brumbaugh, as a candidate, made certain pledges to the people of Pennsylvania and the people elected him, and as their servant or the servant of the people he has tried to keep his pledges. He promised them a Compensation Bill and Pennsylvania, gentlemen of the House, has a good Compensation Law and one of the best managed Compensation Departments of any State in the Union. He promised the people of Pennsylvania a Child Labor Law and he has fulfilled that promise. The humanitarian laws passed within the first two years of his term has endeared him to the people of Pennsylvania and no amount of abuse or slander will shake their faith in his integrity and his desire to serve them faithfully as a Chief Executive.

Mr. Speaker, I may be a neophyte in politics, I may be a misfit as a partisan and a mighty poor prophet, but I am willing to stake my honor and the honor of every man whose reputation is assailed in this resolution or may be assailed that if this resolution passes this House as now drawn it will be a "Sampson and his Delilah," not only to its sponsors but every man who votes for it. We are attacking in this resolution the principles which support the administration of justice in this Commonwealth and the nation. We are holding in our hands a bomb with the fuse almost burned up, and the question for us to determine is whether we will be influenced by our prejudices and resentments in the action taken here, or whether we will be influenced by the principles of justice on which every good government must stand or fall. To be governed by our resentment and our prejudices is a most dangerous precedent to establish, for gentlemen of the House, prejudice winks when it looks and it lies when it talks.

For myself, Mr. Speaker, I am not concerned as to whether I am on the winning or losing side of any particular proposition brought before this House so long as I feel that I am on the right side, for I wish always to be recorded with the minority when right and against the majority when wrong.

This poor old resolution has had a stormy voyage. It has received more attention than the Kaiser himself. After many weeks it finally found its way across the rotunda, and for two days we have been trying to torpedo the pesky old thing with little or no success. Nobody loves it except the Democrats. It is scarcely a seaworthy craft any longer, gentlemen of the House, but I hope that it will be able to reach the end of its voyage, the Executive Chamber, and I fondly hope, gentlemen of House, that while His Excellency is inspecting its cargo he will remember that familiar old song, "Hail, Hail, the gang's all here," and so forth and so forth. It will be an inspiration for him while he writes out his veto.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I did not expect, nor did I intend to come here this morning to be entertained by any further speeches upon the resolution now before you, notwithstanding that I have fully recognized every member's right to arise in his place and be heard in a full and free statement of the reasons which prompt him to vote as he will upon this resolution. I would not even at this time lengthen the proceedings if it were not for the fact that some reference has been made to the statements made by me two weeks ago in opposition to the Democratic resolution.

I stand now where I stood then, in opposition to any investigation which means nothing. I do not call into question the good faith of my good friend from Berks. I concede to him every sincerity in all that he has said, and I may say that I fully agree with him in much that he has said, but when the members of this House are told as they were told a few moments ago by my good friend from Philadelphia that I must turn about face because of some mysterious orders that I am alleged to have received from the United States Senator, as his representative on the floor of this House, I have a right as a member at least to again define my position in order that you may know just where I stand. I may have some friendship with the Senior Senator of Pennsylvania, and I may have friendships with the other men against whom he is contending. I do not call into question the personnel of these men who are responsible for all that has been said in the last few weeks concerning one or the other of the several departments of the Commonwealth, but I fully realize that what was said by my good friend from Berks is absolutely true. What the resolution here now must do is to get by the light of truth certain facts which will enable us, as a legislative body, to frame legislation in this session which will be in aid of any movement to do away with the pernicious system that has been spoken of by the gentleman from Berks. But this is an undoubted truth that the guilty flees when no man pursueth, and all the adjectives that have been read by members of this House in their opposition to this resolution as an iniquitous measure, born in iniquity and clothed with iniquity throughout, proves the statement that I make that it looks as if they are afraid to have an honest investigation. I say that the party of which I am a member owes it to itself to get the truth, it owes it to itself to clean out its dirty stables if there are any, and not give my friends on the other side the opportunity to do it. I would be ashamed as a Republican to go back to my constituents and say to them that I did not have manhood enough to vote for this resolution because I was afraid that it might help some few Democrats or some man hereafter to make a fight for Governor in this Commonwealth. My opposition three weeks ago to the Democratic resolution was because it was a single chamber measure and because as a single chamber measure I realized as a lawyer that it could not go outside of this chamber, and it did not have the authority that it ought to have to examine witnesses and to make the kind of report desired. I said then that what was worth doing ought to be worth doing well, and I opposed it merely because of the legal objections I had to it. But since then there comes to us from the Senate a resolution almost identical with the Democratic resolution, except for the fact that it does not go into details concerning many statements of a political nature, that do not affect the legislative policy of this chamber; nor does it refer perhaps by name to conversations that were held, but it distinctly calls into question the things which need to be investigated.

If you will bear with me just a moment I will make reference to the little sub-heads of the bill which shows what we are striving to do by an honest investigation. To start with, the resolution talks about the absence from their respective offices of men in public office. If such a condition is true, isn't it fair to the people whom we represent that we should legislate, if we find it to be true, in a manner which will avoid hereafter unnecessary absence from office? Then again it talks about malicious and unnecessary delay in the transaction of public business. If that is true and the facts are found to be so, isn't it our duty as members of this legislative body to introduce proper bills on the recommendation of the investigating committee which will do away with any such indifference hereafter? Then it talks about the misuse of the appointive power. You must know, most of you gentlemen do know, that quite frequently you are sent for and asked to support certain measures, and asked to give your promise in return for something that is controlled by the Governor of this Commonwealth in the shape of some appointment. That to my mind is worse bribery than the bribery by the dollar, because it goes to the reduction of all power in a legislative body and destroys that independence of judgment which the people have a right to expect from every member in this chamber. Why prolong a discussion along these lines? The very fact that these people are crying so loudly against the investigation proves the charges, to my mind, against them. All this talk about back seats and all this talk about the lack of appointments on committees appears to me to be very much like "cry-baby talk," the case of the loser who cannot be charitable with the winner. What would you think of a man in politics, honorable though he may be, if he is going to take into his confidence in the formation of legislative business the men who are continually fighting him on the outside? Don't you want your friends? Is there anything dishonorable in that. And if the honorable gentleman has seen fit to place himself in that position, he has no one to blame but himself. But just in order that I may answer my good friend from Philadelphia, I am going to read five or six lines from an address delivered three of four weeks ago. I said this: "The resolution now before the House is not a concurrent resolution. It does not ask the consent of the Senate as a co-ordinate branch of this Legislature to authorize an investigation into the policies and honesty of our officials in this state." Then I went on and said this: "Now let us be fair on both sides of the House. If there is a resolution presented here of a concurrent nature, asking the concurrence of the Senate and making it a legislative measure and placing it in the hands of the Governor as the Executive of the Commonwealth for his approval, I am for that character of a resolution." The resolution now before us answers what I said then. It seems to me, gentlemen, when a man, given power and authority by the confidence of the people, misuses that power, and when they do what in this Commonwealth has been done time and time again, attempt to intimidate the legislative body and government, then it is high time to investigate and find some remedy for the acts complained of. Those of you who were here in the last session remember that the report was circulated that this man and that man was sent for by the Governor of this Commonwealth and asked to vote in support of a measure that was all-important at that time in this body, and made promises of positions and some of them got their positions for voting for a local option bill. If the Executive of a state is allowed to so far forget his constitutional restraints as to interfere with the deliberations of a legislative body, I say he comes close to treason in his efforts to destroy the fundamental principles represented here by us. You have your responsibilities to your own constituents at home, you have got to answer to the people for what you do here. The Governor is answerable to the entire state. You are answerable for what you do here and you ought to be allowed to act uncontrolled and undictated to by even the Governor of the Commonwealth. I say this, gentlemen, in no unkindly spirit. I supported the Governor when he was a candidate, and I placed in him the highest confidence that I could place in man. I knew his record as a member of the Educational Board in Philadelphia, and I know those men who championed him as a great man in that line of work, and I want to say to you that the honest thought of the city from which he came was behind him because they felt he had the manhood to give us a good, clean administration. All this talk about child labor bill and workmen's compensation bill is entirely out of the question because the members in this House voted just as usefully for these bills as the man who was constantly going to them about them. We went along with them because we thought the Governor was right, and no issue was made between us on those bills. But this much is true, that with all their laudatory remarks upon the floor of this House in defense of the Executive, it is a remarkable thing to hear the very men who give expression to this laudation tell you from time to time how little they think of the man they are eulogizing here to-day. I do not believe he has any more real friends on the side of the House to which he belongs than he has on the side of the House that is being constantly accused of attacking his integrity. I do not wish to call into attention the little things he may have been guilty of, indiscretions, but when it comes to the fundamental questions that affect the government of a state, I am going to vote for a resolution that will give to the people of this state the knowledge and information that my very good friend from Berks talked about to you to-day.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I only want to ask for a few moments for a consideration of the things that came to my notice from the arguments pro and con on this question. There has been some violation of the rules of this House in order that certain members might vent their spleen upon the Speaker of this House about being seated in the rear of this House. I want to call attention to the fact that two years ago when we people who occupied the rear seats came down here and we voted for the candidate giving the power of allotment to the other side. Yet where did we sit? Mr. Speaker, all of those men who sat in the rear of the House were sitting with their feet up on the rail. Did you ever hear a word from us? There was never a word of criticism because we felt that was the wish of the powers that be. And now, Mr. Speaker ———

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that the gentleman from Armstrong is not talking on the resolution.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Armstrong will confine himself to the resolution.

Mr. MILLIRON. I was just ready to start on it, Mr. Speaker. That is the reason, gentlemen, I had to hurry along a little fast because I knew I could not say that. It has been brought out here this morning that the Governor has been lauded for passing such bills as the Workmen's Compensation Bill, the Child Labor Bill, and all those humane pieces of legislation, but the men who stood for them and fought for them and voted for them, are they not to have at least some of the credit? I leave it to my friend from Berks, Mr. Maurer, if my record in the House in 1915 did not give me one hundred per cent. pure on the labor question and humane legislation. Give the members part of the credit; the Governor could not do it all by himself. I heard a good deal of talk this morning about and quotations from the Good Book. We have had the Nazarene, our Saviour, compared with the Governor of this State, and I suppose that the men who made those statemetns did it for the purpose of letting us know that either they were familiar with the Good Book or that they were sincere in making them. But what would they do if this investigation would proceed and it was determined that he was not like the Nazarene? Would they then admit it was a good resolution?

If it should be brought out in this investigation that in the recent Speakership fight, in a certain county of this State, men were brought here and this proposition was made: that is that if certain members of that county would change their votes on the Speakership a certain man of that county would be appointed to the vacancy on the Public Service Commission in return for those votes and the brother of a member would be appointed Register and Recorder of that county. Gentlemen, it is no wonder that some of the people are in favor of an investigation. I don't like to bring these things out, but I want to say to you that the man who has been tampered with; the man who has been tempted with a bribe during the last session or in this session has a right when he knows things to be true to vote in support of this resolution without being criticised. A man who does not know these things has equally the same right to argument against such resolutions and we must give this right to every member of this House and that if he, himself, has been tempted by and offered bribes he has the right to know within his conscience that there is ground for investigation. I believe that a large percentage of the members who are supporting this resolution know within themselves, from personal experience, as I hinted in my remarks yesterday, when they threw their arms around my neck and asked me to accept some position if I would go along on the Local Option proposition from Jefferson County and I told that man that if he wanted a man from Jefferson County who would sell his vote that I am not the man and that I would not go along on the Local Option question and that my motive is as pure as any other man's in this House, although I may not vote for this bill. I want to call attention to the fact that any man in this house who has been tempted or bribed or intimidated to vote in the Speakership contest ought not to be criticised if he votes for an investigation.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say that no one has fallen upon my neck and kissed me. My vote is not influenced either one way or the other by such little things, pleasant as they may be. I want to assure my friends, the Democrats, and the gentleman from Philadelphia that I don't intend to make a speech against this bill and then vote in favor of it. I want it distinctly understood that I am against this bill from start to finish. I am not going to eulogize my friends and then vote to hang them. I voted with my friends, the Democrats, whom I admire at this particular time for taking advantage of a very fortunate situation. I supported them yesterday in their move because I believe that they were right, but I feel after having done so that I can give them a little fatherly admonition of this subject. Gentlemen of the minority, don't you know that for the last twenty years or more every time this same Penrose organization got into a hole and needed somebody to help them out that you came to their rescue in sufficient numbers to do it. Over in the other branch of this body only a few nights ago the leaders of your organization got up and apologized after voting on that subject and stated that they did so reluctantly, yet they voted for the measure and helped these same people out of a rut. There were more Republican members in the Senate who voted against this resolution than for it. Without your assistance, my friends, it would have fallen. Now, you are here to-day to help these same people out of the rut. Gentlemen of the minority, don't you know that this is a two-edged sword. It has cut us and wounded us seriously, we of the Republican Party. We, gentlemen, have contributed to you all the campaign funds for your next campaign that we have got to give; you have got it all now. It has wounded us to give it to you, but gentlemen of the minority, you had better let loose, on the other side of that sword or it will cut you and wound you most seriously. I am a regular Republican and I support the nominees of my party, but at the same time, every man in this House, no matter what his politics may be, ought to be big enough and broad enough and patriotic enough to put his citizenship above his party and not talk against the thing and not use good arguments against the proposition and then turn around and vote for it, because it may help his party. Gentlemen, this resolution is a vicious thing. My friends from Philadelphia who argue in favor of this proposition have talked scandals; they have talked about rumors and rumors and vicious rumors, yet no one has had the bigness and the broadness and the patriotism to come into this General Assembly and take us into their confidence and make their charges over their own signatures in black and white and say to us of this General Assembly we have that evidence; here it is for your inspection. Let us investigate these wrongs; we have put them over our signature and our affidavit, perchance and now we have got some tangible thing against these men; let us investigate. No, they have not been broad enough or big enough to do this. They will tell their scandalous and scurrilous things about these men and they will say that they have, perchance, impeachment proceedings in their pockets, carrying them around for the benefit of the newspapers. Yes, they will say these things are true and I am going to divulge them to you; they don't tell us a thing. Gentlemen, they are lawyers and think of the ridiculous position of a lawyer going in before a court and saying, "If your Honor please, I have the law in my pocket and so and so is the case." But the Judge would say to these lawyers: "Produce your authority; produce your facts and then we will pass upon your case." What are we investigating? We are investigating rumors of charges. Those great men on the other side of the Chamber and elsewhere have gone to their favorite newspapers and they have said to those newspapers, "We want to be interviewed." But these politicians then members of this General Assembly liked their notoriety and the newspapers interviewed them and they spieled out their scandalous things to the newspapers and then these newspapers publish interviews and then these same men in a cowardly manner got behind the newspapers and said a responsible press of the Commonwealth says so and so. The responsible press publish these interviews in the heat of the campaign and there are your charges.

Yes; we are great men in this Legislature. We are saintly, pure, moral; we only want things that we are entitled to, but we take them nevertheless; and over on the other side of the House we have a unique situation at the present time. Those Senators have free telephone service, free shaves and it is even said, my friends that some of these great men save their bewhiskered countenances from the week end recess until the beginning of the next week so that they may enjoy the soft, calm services of the tonsorial artist at the expense of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; yet the Governor should not get his pants pressed and a lot of little collar buttons and things of that kind at the expense of the Commonwealth.

Gentlemen, this resolution is wrong. There is no comparison between the resolution offered at the beginning of this session by the Democrats and this resolution. This resolution is one-sided; it only provides for the investigation of a part of the persons against whom the newspaper interviews make charges. Gentlemen, it does not cover the ground thoroughly; it only applies to the certain few who have been picked out for condemnation, and in the second or third section of this bill it finds in plain language that if we pass this bill we will be finding by our verdict that these men are guilty and they defamed and debauched the fair name of this State. It does not say in this resolution that we will investigate and find out whether these things are true or not but if we pass this resolution as it stands we will be finding as a fact that these men defamed and debauched the fair name of this State.

Now, gentlemen, if you believe that this bill is unfair, then vote against it; if you believe your citizenship should stand above your party then vote against it. If you believe, and if you have in your possession anything definite, tangible, to make charges against any man in this Commonwealth, have the bigness, and the broadness, and the patriotism to come in before the House at the proper time and take this House into your confidence and produce the facts upon which you rely so that we may vote intelligently. I am against this resolution because it cannot be otherwise than at least subject to our careful attention. I am against it, gentlemen, because while I have faith in the presiding officers in this General Assembly, having known them for a long time and admired them, but judging from recent past experiences I know that this thing will be done in a highly artistic manner to say the least.

I am sorry that my friend from Armstrong should worry about where some of the members of this Assembly sit because in closing I want to say to you, Mr. Speaker, that this particular neighborhood where I have the honor to sit is the beauty spot of this House.. I am surrounded, Mr. Speaker, by the gentlemen from Beaver County, from Mercer County, from Allegheny County, and we are pleased, immensely pleased that we are at least satisfied in our own minds that we are not only the salt and the saviour of this General Assembly, but of the whole earth.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I have only a few words to say on this bill but I feel that I would not be doing my duty as a representative of this Commonwealth if I did not get upon my feet and assail this resolution because of the motives which prompted it. We are thoroughly familiar with its birth and how it came into existence.

Mr. Speaker, analyzing this resolution, I say there is no demand for an investigation as this resolution alleges. The only demand that I have been able to learn that exists is upon the part of a faction of my own party. It certainly does not exist with the Democrats. Of course, they would go along because it means campaign capital for them; but a real demand for the investigation does not exist and for that reason I am opposed to it.

Judging the future by the past, I could not favor the method of selecting the jury that is to hear this case. Mr. Speaker, I feel that if there is an investigation it will be an investigation of particular persons whom the majority of my party desire investigated, and so far as the other portion is concerned it will be a whitewash. Mr. Speaker, any man who will be investigated under this resolution will have no more chance to defend himself than a short tailed bull in fly time.

This resolution creates a great many positions, some political berths, if you please. I am opposed to it because of this fact. I am opposed to the resolution because it would tend to lengthen the session at least to sometime in June. I see no reason why we as a deliberate body of this State, should sit here for four or five or six months and legislate. West Virginia has a provision in its constitution that provides—

Mr. URICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. URICH. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not speaking on the subject of the resolution.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is not well taken.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I am reading from the resolution which provides that this report shall be made to this Assembly by the first of June, 1917 and I submit whether that is not germane as to what is to be said on this resolution. What is your ruling?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, in West Virginia the constitution provides that the Legislature shall not be in session more than forty-five days. Judging from what we have done in this session which convened seven weeks ago and up to this time we passed one bill and that was a local bill pertaining to York County, judging from what we have done so far I believe it would be a mighty good plan if we were to get rid of this resolution and pass an amendment to the constitution limiting the time that the Legislature would be in session and then adjourn.

Mr. Speaker, this resolution carries an appropriation of twenty-five thousand dollars. I feel that the spirit that prompts this resolution is unholy, is unpolitical, and all that will be accomplished by this resolution going into effect will be the spending of twenty-five thousand dollars. In my oninion there never has been any investigation of the conditions in this Commonwealth that has been of any real benefit to the State. I would prefer to spend this $25,000 where it would be of some good, such as in the building of roads, Mothers pension, or the public schools, some place where we will get full value and not some place where some fellows will go out on a junket and have a good time.

Mr. Speaker. we have heard that there have been some overt acts committed by officials in high office. I maintain that if there is any man here who has any iron in his blood, who has any patriotism, and who knows where some man has violated his oath of office, it is his duty to go to the courts and make information and redress will be forthcoming and not by a resolution of this character which starts no place and ends nowhere. This will simply result in making the breach in the Republican party wider than it is now. Mr. Speaker, I predict that if things go on as they have been. the Republican party will have to take care or something serious will happen to it. Gentlemen you can use your pillory and your stock methods in forcing men into certain things, and you can build up a machine but you cannot build up a party and without a party back of you your machine is impotent. Let us get together fellow Republicans and vote down this resolution. Let us bury it so deep that when the 1918 gubernatorial election comes along its ghost will rise to haunt us.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Beyer.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia. Mr. Beyer, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I will .

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I want to ask the gentleman this question. In the remarks made by Mr. Beyer about a week ago he said "this is the next proposition," speaking of the resolution—

The SPEAKER. I do not think the gentleman is interrogating.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I want to ask this question and I have to read that Mr. Speaker in order to ask the question. He says in his own remarks that. "The next proposition says that the same Senator has been further quoted by the press,"—don't even mention by what part of the press or in what part of the State—but. "by the press of the State as having said 'in my opinion the people of this State will be astonished when the extravagance, absenteeism, misappropriation of funds, political coercion, and intimidation and other scandalous—

The SPEAKER. The Chair will have to rule that the gentleman is not making an interrogation.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I just want to ask the question now. I want to ask, does this resolution before us now cover the same charges?

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I want to say that it does, but it does it in a more comprehensive way.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question

The SPEAKER. If there are no further remarks the Clerk will proceed to call the roll.

On the question recurring,

Shall the resolution pass finally?

The SPEAKER. I hope that order will be maintained and the members will vote loudly so that there can be no mistake made in the roll.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of information.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to know whether we are going to vote now on this resolution. or whether we are going to vote on the previous question.

The SPEAKER. The call for the previous question is not insisted upon. The question is on the resolution. Those who vote aye will vote in favor of the resolution, and those who vote no will vote against the resolution on final passage.

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be verified.

The roll was verified as follows:

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 85, entitled

An Act authorizing companies incorporated under the laws of any other State of the United States for the manufacture of cigars or tobacco or both cigars and tobacco or for buying selling or dealing in cigars or tobacco or both to erect and maintain buildings and manufacturing establishments and warehouses for storage of such articles and to take have and hold real estate necessary and proper for such purposes.

And said bill having been read at length three times on three separate days, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. REICHENBACKER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the sponsor of this bill explain what is the intent of the bill.

Mr. REYNOLDS. Mr. Speaker, under the act of 1855, which still remains on our statute books, it seems that foreign corporations, corporations that have been chartered in another state, cannot hold real estate in the State of Pennsylvania unless they have been granted that privilege by the House of Representatives, concurred in by the Senate. The reason of this act is for the purpose of allowing the holding of real estate in Pennsylvania by a corporation chartered outside of the state, but doing business in the state. Since the enactment of the law of 1855 we find some twenty-four cases where foreign corporations, doing business in the State of Pennsylvania, have had to come in and ask for the privilege of doing business here, and getting the consent of this House of Representatives, are continuing to do business in the state. The purposes or businesses have been varied, the iron business and other businesses. They are compelled to pay a foreign corporation tax, the tax of the state, and the tax on the real estate. This bill is simply to assist them in the transaction of their business.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 52, as follows:

An Act to enable city county poor ward school borough and township tax collectors their executors and administrators if they are deceased or either surety or sureties if the surety or sureties have paid the taxes to collect taxes for the payment of which they have become personally liable without having collected the same by the expiration of the authority of their respective bonds or by the expiration of the authority of their respective warrants or by the expiration of their terms of office and to extend the time for the collection of the same for a period of two years from the passage of this act

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That in all cases in which the period of two years the limitation of the warrants of the duplicates of the county State dog poor road city township ward school and borough tax collectors have expired and in case where the power and authority of said tax collectors have expired or shall expire during the year one thousand nine hundred and seventeen by virtue of the expiration of their terms of office and said tax collector or collectors have or shall become personally liable for the taxes contained in said duplicates and warrants or any part thereof by reason of the personal payment or otherwise by the said tax collector or collectors of the said taxes or any part thereof without having recovered or collected the same from the person or persons against whom they have been levied and assessed or without having recovered or collected the same from the person or persons owning the property against which the said taxes have been levied and assessed—the said duplicates and warrants and the powers and authority of the said tax collectors in all such cases are hereby revived and extended for another period of two years after the passage of this act and the said tax collector or collectors their executors or administrators if they are deceased or either surety or sureties if the said surety or sureties have paid the said taxes are hereby empowered to proceed and collect said taxes from all such persons who have not paid them residing in said district within which said taxes are assessed as well as from all persons who may remove or have removed from said city ward township or townships or boroughs and have neglected to pay the taxes as aforesaid assessed with the like effect as if said warrant or warrants had not expired by the limitation of the two years as aforesaid or the term of office of said tax collector had not expired Provided That the provisions of this act shall not apply to warrants issued prior to the year one thousand eight hundred ninety-four and that nothing in this act shall release any bondsman or security Provided That this act shall not apply to cities having special laws on this subject Provided also That no collector or the sureties thereof who take advantage of this act shall be permitted to plead the statute of limitations in any action brought to recover the amount of any duplicate or warrant so extended or renewed Provided further That no statute of limitations shall prevent the collection of any tax for which the warrants and powers and authorities of the said tax collectors have been so as aforesaid extended renewed and revived

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker. I would like to have the sponsor for this bill explain its provisions.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, this is a formal act that has been passed by every Legislature for many years. It is for the purpose of extending the time for the collection of the tax. It is for the benefit of the taxpayers as well as for the benefit of the tax collectors. For instance, if a tax collector fails to collect within the time, it would be a hardship on the taxpayer. It has been the custom of the Legislature of Pennsylvania to pass an act identically the same as this for many years.

Legislative Journal.

Session 1917 — 122nd of the General Assembly

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1917. No. 13.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, February 15, 1917.

The House met at 10 o'clock A. M.
The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Rev. M. D. Lichliter offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, in prayer and supplication, with praise and thanksgiving we come to Thee this morning realizing that all merit that may be within us comes from Thee in whom we live, move and have our being.

Direct in the work of this House. Bless each member thereof. May all that is done be done for Thy glory. Guide us by Thy counsel through life and in death save us through Christ. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when, on motion of Mr. Edgar R. Smith, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER. I would say that this clears the calendar. There does not appear to be any reason for the House to have further sessions this week, therefore a motion to adjourn means a motion to adjourn until Monday evening at 9 o'clock. I would like to say to the members of the House that the Chair would appreciate it if wherever there are a sufficient number of members here they would hold committee meetings and try to get out some of the many bills that they think they are ready to report out so that we will have work on the calendar for next week.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. GLASS. Mr. Speaker, I move this House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to and (at 10.30 A. M.) the House adjourned until Monday, February 19, 1917, at 9 o'clock P. M.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1917 — 122nd of the General Assembly

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1917. No. 14.

SENATE.

MONDAY, February 19, 1917.

The Senate met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we thank Thee for all the blessings of life, and for the assurance that we can have Thy guidance in every crisis that may come upon us. We pray, not only that we may be able to discover truth in all its relations, but that having discovered this truth we may assume the obligation that goes with it to fulfill the duties that are expected of us. We pray that Thy blessing may be upon this distinguished body so that in all of their deliberations they may legislate for the best interest of all the people of this great Commonwealth. We ask in our Saviour's name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HOMSHER, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PETITION.

Mr. VARE presented the petition of citizens of Philadelphia endorsing the Hess-Wells Bill to abolish capital punishment in Pennsylvania.

COMMUNICATION FROM INSURANCE COMMISSIONER IN COMPLIANCE WITH CONCURRENT RESOLUTION DIRECTING THE INSURANCE COMMISSIONER AND WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION FUND TO FURNISH LIST OF INSURANCE COMPANIES TO WHOM STATE COMPENSATION FUND INSURANCE HAS BEEN UNDERWRITTEN, WITH AMOUNTS OF INSURANCE.

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate communication in writing from the Insurance Commissioner of the State of Pennsylvania, which was read as follows:

Pennsylvania
Insurance Department

Harrisburg, February 19, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate and House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: Complying with the Concurrent Resolution directing the "Insurance Commissioner and Workmen's Compensation Fund to furnish list of insurance companies to whom State Compensation Fund Insurance has been underwritten, with amounts of insurance," I have the honor to report that there is absolutely no record in the Insurance Department showing any transactions of the State Insurance Fund.

The minutes of the State Workmen's Insurance Board show that the Assistant Manager of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund was authorized to secure insurance against the catastrophe hazard of the risks assumed by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund wherever it could be procured and the minutes of this Board further show that this insurance was secured from London Lloyd's to the amount of $165,000.00; Excess Insurance Company, Ltd., London, Eng., $20,000.00; and Consolidated Assurance Company, London, Eng., $15,000.00.

These transactions occurred previous to my appointment as Insurance Commissioner.

Respectfully submitted,
J. D. O'NEIL,
Insurance Commissioner.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE STATE WORKMEN'S INSURANCE FUND IN COMPLIANCE WITH CONCURRENT RESOLUTION DIRECTING THE INSURANCE COMMISSIONER AND WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION FUND TO FURNISH LIST OF INSURANCE COMPANIES TO WHOM STATE COMPENSATION FUND INSURANCE HAS BEEN UNDERWRITTEN, WITH AMOUNTS OF INSURANCE.

He also laid before the Senate communication in writing from the State Workmen's Insurance Fund of the State of Pennsylvania, which was read as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
State Workmen's Insurance Fund.

Harrisburg, February 19, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate and House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania.

In response to the Concurrent Resolution, directing the "Insurance Commissioner and Workmen's Compensation Fund to furnish list of Insurance Companies to whom State Compensation Fund Insurance has been underwritten with amounts of Insurance," the State Workmen's Insurance Board submits a full and complete list of all the Insurance Companies by whom the risks of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund have been underwritten, together with the amounts of insurance carried with each of said companies, as follows:

London Lloyd's	$165,000.00
Excess Insurance Co., Ltd., London	20,000.00
Consolidated Assurance Co., Ltd., London	15.000,00

Act 340 of the Compensation laws of 1915, Section XIV, reads as follows:

"The said Board shall have the power to reinsure any risk which they may deem necessary."

Efforts were made by the Board to place re-insurance of catastrophe hazard with a company or companies licensed to do this class of insurance in Pennsylvania. Not succeeding in this undertaking re-insurance was placed as above stated, after the Board had satisfied itself as to the validity of these carriers. The Board has at all times been willing to re-insure its catastrophe hazard in reputable insurance companies licensed to do this class of business in Pennsylvania and still stands ready so to do, upon as favorable terms as those on which it is now being obtained.

State Workmen's Insurance Board.
ROBERT KENNEDY YOUNG,
Chairman.

RESOLUTION FROM THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK RELATING TO THE PROTECTION OF MIGRATORY BIRDS.

He also laid before the Senate communication in writing from the Secretary of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows and referred to the Committee on Game and Fisheries:

Pennsylvania.
Office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth,
Harrisburg, Pa., February 17, 1917.

To the Senate of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.,

Gentlemen: In accordance with the request of the Legislature of the State of New York, I have the honor to enclose herewith copy of a concurrent resolution of the General Assembly of the State of New York, relating to the protection of migratory birds.

Respectfully yours,
CYRUS E. WOODS,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Enclosure.

State of New York.
In Senate, Albany, January 31, 1917.

By Mr. Walton:

Concurrent Resolution of the Senate and Assembly.

Section 1. Whereas, the convention between the United States and Great Britain for the protection of the migratory birds was ratified on the seventh day of December, one thousand nine hundred and sixteen; and

Whereas, In order to give effect to such convention there has been introduced in the Senate of United States a bill, S. No. 7858 and in the House of Representatives a bill, H. R. No. 20080 for the purpose of giving effect to such a convention; and

Whereas, There is a very general sentiment in this State in favor of, and an urgent request for, the enactment of a law to give effect to such convention;

Now, therefore be it resolved, If the Assembly concur, that Congress be and hereby is requested to enact a law giving effect to such convention, and

Be it further resolved, that Legislatures of all states of the United States now in session be, and they are respectfully requested to join in this request by the adoption of this or any equivalent resolution; and

Be it further resolved, That Congress be and hereby is requested to make adequate appropriation for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions contained in the bills, S. No. 7858 and H. R. No. 20080.

Be it further resolved, that the Secretary of State be and he hereby is directed to transmit copies of this resolution to the United States Senate and to the House of Representatives and to the several members of such bodies representing this State therein; and to transmit copies hereof to the legislatures of all the other States of the Union.

By order of the Senate,
ERNEST A. FAY,
Clerk.

In Assembly, January 31, 1917, concurred in without amendment.

By order of the Assembly,
FRED W. HAMMOND, Clerk.

Filed February 1, 1917.
Francis M. Hugo,
Secretary of State.

State of New York, Office of the Secretary of State.

I have compared the preceding copy of resolution of the Senate and Assembly with the original resolution on file in this office, and do hereby certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom and of the whole thereof.

Given under my hand and seal of the office of the Secretary of State, at the City of Albany, this 2nd day of February, in the year one thousand nine hundred and seventeen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
Secretary of State.

RESOLUTION FROM THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA RELATING TO THE PRACTICE OF POLYGAMY.

He also laid before the Senate communication in writing from the Secretary of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows and referred to the Committee on Judiciary General:

Pennsylvania.
Office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth,
Harrisburg, Pa., February 17, 1917.

To the Senate of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.,

Gentlemen: I have the honor to enclose herewith copy of a concurrent resolution passed by the legislature of the State of South Carolina, relating to the practice of polygamy.

Respectfully yours,
CYRUS E. WOODS,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

State of South Carolina,
Executive Department.
By the Secretary of State.

Under and pursuant to the provisions of a Concurrent Resolution of the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina, passed at the regular session of 1915, the appended Resolution being a true and correct copy of the original, I have the honor, agreeable to its provisions, to transmit the same.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the State, at Columbia, this the twenty-eighth day of January, A. D. 1916.

R. M. McCOWN,
Secretary of State.

(Seal)

S. 208. H. 664.

A CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Whereas, It appears from investigation recently made by the Senate of the United States, and otherwise, that polygamy still exists in certain places in the United States, notwithstanding prohibitory statutes enacted by the several states thereof; and

Whereas, The practice of polygamy is generally condemned by the people of the United States, and there is a demand for the more effectual prohibition thereof by placing the subject under Federal jurisdiction and control, at the same time reserving to each State the right to make and enforce its own laws relating to marriage and divorce; now, therefore,

Be it resolved by the Senate the House concurring:

1st. That the application be made and hereby is made, to Congress under the provisions of Article Five of the Constitution of the United States for the calling of a convention to propose an amendment to the Constitution of the United States whereby polygamy and polygamous cohabitation shall be prohibited, and Congress shall be given power to enforce such prohibition by appropriate legislation.

2nd. That the Legislatures of all other states of the United States, now in session or when next convened, be, and they hereby are, respectfully requested to join in this application by the adoption of this or an equivalent resolution.

3rd. That the Secretary of State be, and he hereby is, directed to transmit copies of this application to the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States and to the several members of said bodies representing this State therein; also to transmit copies hereof to the Legislatures of all other States of the United States.

In the Senate, Columbia, S. C., February 12, 1915.

The Senate agrees to the resolution and orders that it be sent to the House for concurrence.

By order of the Senate.
M. M. MANN,
Clerk of the Senate.

In the House, Columbia, S. C., February 15, 1915.

The House agrees to the resolution and orders that it be returned to the Senate with concurrence.

By order of the House.
J. WILSON GIBBES,
Clerk of the House.

RESOLUTION FROM THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF UTAH RELATING TO THE DESTRUCTION OF CERTAIN WILD ANIMALS.

He also laid before the Senate communications in writing from the Secretary of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

Pennsylvania
Office of the
Secretary of the Commonwealth.
Harrisburg, February 17, 1917.

To the Senate of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Gentlemen: I have the honor to transmit herewith the following certified copies of Memorials passed by the Legislature of the State of Utah:

Senate Joint Memorial Number Five—relating to the destruction of certain wild animals.

Senate Joint Memorial Number One—
A petition for the enactment by the Congress of the United States of House Resolution No. 15,859, introduced by Mr. Foster.

Respectfully yours,
CYRUS E. WOODS,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

SENATE JOINT MEMORIAL NUMBER FIVE, RELATING TO THE DESTRUCTION OF CERTAIN WILD ANIMALS.

Senate Joint Memorial No. 5 was read as follows and referred to the Committee on Game and Fisheries.

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States.

Your memorialists, the Governor and the Legislature of the State of Utah, respectfully represent that

Whereas, In the Western States, known as the public land States, the losses of livestock and poultry due to the attacks of coyotes, wolves, wild cats, cougars and bears amounts to not less than $15,000,000.00 annually, and

Whereas, In these western public land States the State, county and stockmen do now and have for years paid large bounties and used other means to bring about the eradication of these carnivorous wild animals, and

Whereas, In these western public land States, there is now withdrawn from settlement in some form or other approximately 225,000,000 acres of Federal land, which land constitutes the principal breeding ground and refuge of these carnivorous wild animals and enables them to increase their numbers in spite of the efforts made by State, county and stockmen to exterminate them.

Now, Therefore, Be it Resolved, That the Legislature of the State of Utah does hereby most respectfully urge and requests that Congress immediately appropriate the sum of $300,000.00 to be used by the United States Department of Agriculture for the destruction of coyotes, wolves, wildcats, cougars and bears in these western public land States in order that the meat supply of the nation may be increased and the proper development of the West encouraged.

Approved March 1, 1915.

State of Utah.
Secretary of State's Office.

I, David Mattson, Secretary of State, of the State of Utah, do hereby certify:

That the foregoing Memorial is a full, true and complete copy of the original thereof, which was filed in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Utah on the 1st day of March A. D. 1915.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the Great Seal of the State of Utah, this twenty-first day of June, A. D. 1915.

(The Great Seal of the State of Utah, 1896.)

DAVID MATTSON,
Secretary of State.

RESOLUTION FROM THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF UTAH PRAYING FOR THE ENACTMENT BY THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES OF HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 15869.

Senate Joint Memorial No. 1 was read as follows and referred to the Committee on Mines and Mining:

SENATE JOINT MEMORIAL NUMBER ONE—A PETITION FOR THE ENACTMENT BY THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES OF HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 15869, INTRODUCED BY MR. FOSTER.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress Assembled.

Your memorialists, the Governor and the Legislature of the State of Utah, respectfully represent that—

Whereas, There is now pending in Congress H. R. 15,869, introduced by Mr. Foster, entitled "A bill to provide for the establishment and maintenance of mining experiment and mine safety stations for making investigations and disseminating information among employes in mining, quarrying, metallurgical and other mineral industries, and for other purposes;" and

Whereas, The purpose of this bill is "to improve conditions in the mining, quarrying, metallurgical and other mineral industries, safeguarding life among employes, preventing unnecessary waste of resources, and otherwise contributing to the advancement of these industries;" and

Whereas, This proposed legislation will be of very great importance to Utah and to all other mining States, by reason of advancing mine safety education and mine rescue work, and also by reason of making commercially valuable large bodies of low-grade ore, which cannot now be worked for want of suitable processes; and

Whereas, The mining industry has hitherto not received from the Federal government the recognition and aid that its importance deserves, and has therefore been deprived of the encouragement which has proved so wise and beneficial in the case of agricultural; and

Whereas, This bill will broaden the scope to the United States Bureau of Mines, and will enable it to undertake much needed work in the behalf of the metalliferous mining instead of being practically restricted to coal mining as heretofore; and

Whereas, These enlarged activities of the Bureau of Mines are confidently expected to result in incalculable public benefit, not only to the mining states, but to the entire nation;

Therefore, we, the Governor and Legislature of the State of Utah, respectfully memorialize and urge the Congress of the United States to enact the pending Foster Bill into law.

Approved March 6, 1915.

State of Utah.
Secretary of State's Office.

I, David Mattson, Secretary of State of the State of Utah, do hereby certify:

That the foregoing Memorial is a full, true and complete copy of the original thereof, which was filed in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Utah, on the 6th day of March, 1915.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the Great Seal of the State of Utah, this twenty-first day of June, A. D. 1915.

(The Great Seal of the State of Utah.)

DAVID MATTSON,
Secretary of State.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

By unanimous consent,

A motion was made by Mr. SPROUL,

That Rule 38, which requires nominations made by the Governor to be referred to proper committees, be dispensed with, and the Senate do now resolve itself into executive session, for the purpose of acting on the foregoing nominations, except the nomination of E. T. McGaw, of Reynoldsville, Jefferson County, to be a Notary Public.

Which was agreed to,

Whereupon,

A motion was made by Mr. SPROUL,

That the Senate do advise and consent to said nominations.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—40.

Baldwin,	Graff, W. P.,	McKee,	Snyder, P. W.,
Beidleman,	Haldeman,	Miller,	Sones,
Buckman,	Hindman,	Nason,	Sproul,
Burke,	Homsher,	Patton,	Stewart,
Catlin,	Jenkins,	Phipps,	Tompkins,
Craig,	Jones,	Salus,	Vare,
Daix,	Leiby,	Sassaman,	Warner,
DeWitt,	Lynch,	Schantz,	Washers,
Endsley,	Magee,	Smith, R. E.,	Weaver,
Eyre,	Martin,	Snyder, C. A.,	Whitten,

NAYS—0.

Two-thirds of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered. That the Governor be informed accordingly.

NOTARY PUBLIC.

The PRESIDENT. If there be no objection the Chair will refer the nomination of E. T. McGaw, of Reynoldsville, Jefferson County, to be a Notary Public, to the Committee on Executive Nominations. The Chair hears none.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, filed with the Chief Clerk during the interim, which was read as follows, and referred to the Committee on Executive Nominations.

TRUSTEES OF THE STATE HOSPITAL FOR THE INSANE, SOUTHEASTERN DISTRICT, NORRISTOWN.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, February 19, 1917.

The Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and the consent of the Senate the following named persons to be Trustees of the State Hospital for the Insane, Southeastern District, Norristown, Montgomery County, to serve for the term of three years, to compute from February 15, 1917:

Frank L. Smith, Norristown.
Thomas W. Marshall, West Chester.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

VETO OF CONCURRENT RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING THE CHIEF CLERK OF THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC PRINTING AND BINDING TO PERFORM ALL DUTIES AND TO EXERCISE ALL POWERS BY LAW IMPOSED ON THE SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC PRINTING AND BINDING UNTIL AN APPOINTMENT TO FILL SAID OFFICE IS CONFIRMED.

He also laid before the Senate communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, filed with the Chief Clerk during the interim, which was read as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, February 15, 1917.

The Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I return herewith, without my approval, Concurrent Resolution of the Senate and the House of Representatives, providing "that the Chief Clerk of the Department of Public Printing and Binding is hereby authorized, until an appointment to the office of Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding is confirmed by the Senate, to perform all the duties and to exercise all the powers imposed and conferred by law upon the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding, with like effect as if the same had been done by the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding regularly appointed and confirmed."

The duties of the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding are defined by the Act of February 7, 1905, P. L. 3.

This Concurrent Resolution, upon its face, attempts to legislate and to confer upon another individual the duties which have regularly and legally been conferred upon the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding. The Constitution provides "that no law shall be passed except by a bill," and also that "every bill shall be read at length on three different days in each house."

It is, therefore, apparent that this Concurrent Resolution is attempting to do something which must be done by a law passed in the regular constitutional way.

I am advised that such a bill is now pending which will relieve the embarrassment, not only in the Department of Public Printing and Binding, but in every other Department of the State, which may be temporarily without a chief.

For these reasons this resolution is not approved.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

On the question,

Shall the resolution pass, the objection of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I move that the question, together with the further consideration of the resolution, be postponed for the present.

Mr. VARE. I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES.

Mr. BUCKMAN, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed Senate Bill No. 225 (House Bill No. 7), entitled

An Act transferring part of the fund appropriated to the Quarantine Physician of Philadelphia by the General Assembly of one thousand nine hundred fifteen for the payment of salaries of shore employes to the fund for payment of salaries of boat employes and the fund for maintenance of the office.
